

Hall, Beauty of Magistracy and an Apologie for the Ministry

Library of the Theological Seminary.

PRINCETON, N. J.

Collection of Puritan Literature.

Division.....

SCC

Section.....

9036

Number.....

THE Beauty of Magistracy,
IN AN

Exposition of the 82 Psalm,
Where is set forth the Necessity, Utility, Dignity, Duty, and Mortality of MAGISTRATES.

Here many other Texts of Scripture occasionally are cleared, many Quæries and Cases of Conscience about the Magistrates Power, are resolved; many Anabaptistical Cavils are Confuted; and many reasonable Observations containing many other Heads of Divinity, are raised.

Together with References to such Authors as clear any Point more fully.

By Thomas Hall, B. D. and Pastor of Kingsnorton.

With an Additional SERMON on Verse 6. by George Swinnock, M. A. and Pastor of Rickmerfworth.

Exod 22.28. Thou shalt not revile the Gods (or the Judges) nor curse the Ruler of thy people;

2 Chron. 9.8. Because thy God loved Israel to establish them for ever;
therefore made he thee King over them to do Judgement and Justice.

Qui aliis presunt, tantò privatis hominibus meliores esse oportet, quanò hono-ribus & dignitate antecellunt. Panormitan.

Impii sunt & hostes publicæ salutis, qui adversus Magistratus & Ministros pugnant; eaque (quantum in se est) rejiciunt vel extinguunt. Calv. in Isa. 3.

London, Printed by R.W. for Nevil Simmons Bookseller in Kedermister, and are to be sold by Thomas Johnson at the Key in Pauls Church-yard, 1660.

T O

All the Pious, Prudent, Zealous and Magnanimous Magistrates, Judges, Iustices, and Gentry, in England, Scotland, and Ireland: Grace and Peace; Preservation here, and Happiness for ever.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

TH E Dedication of this Treatise was intended for the Parliament; but that being Dissolved, it most properly falls to You, who are under God the Pillars of the State.

Such is the corruption of the Times we live in, that we are put to dispute every inch of Ground with the Enemies of Truth: Magistracy, Ministry, Sabbaths, Sacraments, Trinity, Scriptures, &c.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

(a) Satan planteth his strongest Batteries against the Royal Forts of Magistracy and Ministry; who ever are spared, David and Peter shall be sifted, knowing that he gains a double advantage by their miscarriage, viz. Example and scandal: by which two wings it will soar higher, and flie much further. Swinnock.

(b) V: Standard of the Fifth Monarch-men. p. 20.

all things are now questioned, nothing believed or practised by many. Formerly I have vindicated Baptism, Learning, and the Ministry; now I am come to a Vindication of the Magistracy. ^a Many are the affronts and discouragements which faithfull Magistrates meet with from an ungratefull world, as well as Ministers: you are now cryed down (by those Levelling Libertines, the fifth Monarch-men) as Antichristian and Beasts (by those brutish men, Jude 10.) as well as we. These are their words: The Beast and false Prophet are the wicked, bloody, Antichristian Magistracy, Ministry and Lawyers. We are all here shipped together in the same bottom, and must sink or swim together, when these Monsters of Munster Reign. One while we are troubled with Church-Levellers, and anon with State-Levellers; but God hath, and will levell all such as go about to level his Ordinances, and to destroy that Order which he hath set up in the World, as you may see in the Treatise it self.

The sons of Belial may as soon pull the Stars out of the Firmament, as totally root up Magistracy and Ministry. They are the two great standing Ordinances of God, which must stand so long as the world stands (Matth. 28. ult. 1 Cor. 15. 24.) They are the Pillars of Church and State, they are like the two Pillars in the Porch of Solomons Temple, called Jachin and Boaz, i.e. straitness and strength (1 Kin. 7. 21.) These are two special properties of a good Pillar, it must be strait and strong; and when Superiors are such,

Nec Hesperum nec Luciferum formosiorum esse justitiam dixit Aristoteles. Non est major thesaurus, non elemosyna opulentior, non bonum excellentius, non res hominibus utilior (post ipsum verbi Ministerium) quam Magistratus suum facientes officium. Luther.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

such, then are they supporters indeed (Psal. 75. 3. Gal. 2. 9.) The Hebrews have a saying, that the world is upheld by three things, viz. by Justice, Religion and Gratitude; and when these three fail, the world (say they) decays. But a better then they hath told us, that when the Judge and the Prophet are taken away, then comes Confusion and Ruine, Isa. 3. 2, 5. When Sampson would destroy the Philistims, he took hold on the two Pillars, and brought the house upon their heads, Judg. 16. 25, 26, 27. Take away these two Pillars of Magistracy and Ministry, and you destroy both Church and State.

The Devil bears an inveterate hatred against these; they are the two Butts that he specially shoots at; because by them God doth more especially batter his Kingdom: Where Moses and Aaron, the Word and the Sword go hand in hand together, there Satans Kingdom falls like lightning from heaven, suddenly, universally, and irresistibly. I have experimentally found a greater Visible Reformation in one year (when we had an * active, prudent, pious Justice in the Parish) then in twenty before, notwithstanding all my preaching and assisting of the Officers.

There should therefore be a sweet Harmony and mutual assistance between Magistrates and Ministers, since the one helps to uphold the other, and they are ordained by God for the mutual ayd of each other. The Minister wants the ayd of the Magistrate in Temporals; and the Magistrate wants the Ministers ayd in Spiritual and eternal blessings. The Minister hath need of the Necessarie res sunt in rep. bene munitæ arces, muri, turres & arma; at nihil sunt hæc præsidia præ uno pio Principe, publicæ pacis studioso, Luther.

Pius & magnanimus Magistratus est verè Gygas, qui covatibus improborum se audet opponere; hic enim non Hectorem, non Achillem, sed ipsum prostermit Satanam. Luther in Psalm 82.

* Col. Greavis.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

Magistrates sword to defend him against unreasonable men; and the Magistrate hath need of the Ministers ayd to maintain his authority in the consciences of men, (Titus 3. 1.) This made a Learned Magistrate to say, Were it but for our selves (viz. for the upholding of Magistracy) we had need to uphold the Ministry. Tis State-Policy and Church-Policy so to do; for without Ministers men may live commodiously, but not Piously; and without Magistrates men may live Piously, but not peaceably and commodiously; like stones in an Arch these two help to uphold each other. Hence good Jehoshaphat joyned Princes and Levites together, the better to promote and countenance Religion in the Land, (2 Chron. 17. 8.) Tis a great mercy to Magistrates when they have good Ministers to assist and instruct them, it makes them prosper as King Uzziah did when he had a good Zachariah, who had understanding in the Visions of God, to counsel him, (2 Chron. 26. 3, 4, 5, 7, 8. Hence tis that David had his Seers, Asa his Azariah, Jehoshaphat his Jehu, Hezekiah his Esay, Josiah his Huldah, and Zerobabel his Joshua. These are (or at leastwise ought to be) the Magistrates best Friends, by their praying, preaching and example they help to keep off sin and judgement from a Land: Hence tis that the Prophet Nathan is called the Friend of David (1 Kings 4. 5.) and Jehoshaphat calls the Levites his Sons, 2 Chron. 29. 11. and King Joash calls Elisha His Father, as King Joram had done before him (2 Kings 6. 22. & 13. 14.) Such reverence did the

The Epistle Dedicatory.

the great ones of the World of Old shew to Gods Embassadors. In the late troubles we see how those places that had faithfull Ministers to instruct them, were ready to venture their lives and estates for the publick good; when the ignorant Welch and Irish, and those dark corners of the earth were habitations of cruelty. An untaught people, are always an untoward people. Let there be no dissention then between us, for we are Brethren. Si collidimur, frangimur: if we dash one against another, we destroy one another. Let there be no interfering or incroaching on each others Offices; but let each keep within the bounds of that sphere and station, wherein his God hath set him. Magistracy and Ministry are two distinct Callings, as I have shewed in the Treatise it self.

And since the discouragements are many which Magistrates meet withall in the faithfull discharge of their duty: I have therefore set before you the Dignity of your Calling, and shewed how sensible God is of any indignities that are done unto you. Yet lest any should be puffed up with his Honours, the Holy Ghost presently adds the Mortalicy of Magistrates, and tells them, though they be earthly Gods; yet they must die like men; and though they have been Judges of the World, yet at last they must be judged themselves: and lest any should pretend ignorance of their duty, in this Psalm, which I may fitly call, The Magistrates Directory, is set forth, 1. Negatively, what Magistrates must not do. 2. Affirmatively, what they ought to do; with many Reasons dis-

Magistratus est ordinatio Dei Creatoris, & ad omne genus hominum spectat; sed Ministerium Ecclesiasticum est donum & ordinatio Christi Mediatoris, ideoque non proprie & jure ordinario spectat nisi ad illos qui de Ecclesia Christi, Amc. Medul. l. 2. c. 17. §. 48.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

dispersed thorow the Psalm to quicken them to their duty. So that I do not know a more lively Psalm for this purpose (all things considered) in the whole Book of Psalms; so sharp and searching it is, that the bare singing of it at Westminster, the Sabbath before the Judges were to Vote concerning Ship-money, brought the man into question that caused it to be sung: and yet the Psalm was composed (as the Learned conceive) that it might be sung either at the Creation of new Magistrates, or else before the old Ones, before they went to the Iudgement Seat.

I have the rather been induced to this work, because I have observed that such as Rulers are, such usually are the people: if they be erroneous, the people will quickly follow them, Isa. 3. 12. O my people, they which lead thee, cause thee to erre. One sinner (especially in authority) destroys much good, Eccles. 9. 18. One Rehoboam, Ahab, Jeroboam falling from God, and setting up Idolatry, will quickly draw all Israel with them, 1 Kings 12. 28, 30. 2 Chron. 12. 1. The wicked walk on every side in great numbers and swarms, when the vilest men are exalted, Psal. 12. 9. The more potent the sinner, the more mischief he doth; they have greater power and more able Instruments at hand to promote their projects and wicked designs. The great red Dragon that hath seven heads, and ten horns, and seven Crowns, i. e. that hath great Potentates to act for him, draweth the third part of the Stars down, and casteth them to the earth (Rev. 12. 4.) i. e. Teachers, and such as by Profession did shine like Quales in rep. Principes, tales reliquos solere esse cives, dixit Cicero.

Malorum principum sunt mali Principes. Emman. Thesaurus.

Though vertue be more amiable, yet vice is more imitable, especially in a Prince.

Mignorum hominum mediocria non sunt peccata. Luther.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

like Stars, yet by the Tyrannical persecution of those great Ones were drawn to Idolatry. Great mens lives are poor mens Laws; they are the Looking-glasses by which inferiors oftimes dress themselves. All their Actions are Examples, and their Examples have a kind of compulsive power: Hence Peter is said to compell them whom by his Example he drew to Judaism, Gal. 2. 24. What we see, sinks deeper into us then what we hear. On the contrary, when great men are good men, they do much good; if Asa and Hezekiah be forward in reforming, so are the people, 2 Chron. 15. 9, 10, 11, 12. & 31. 1. When certain Embassadors praised the Lacedemonian Soldiers for their good Order, who before were mutinous, one of them ingenuously answered, Nos iidem sumus ut nuper, sed alius nunc nobis est Dux. We are the same men still, but now we have another General. This is the very end why God advanceth any to honour, that so they might honour him, Hest. 4. 14.

It was Vespations Honour that his greatness became more advantageous to him in the promoting of goodness. To encourage you, know, that if you build Gods House, he will build your houses (Exod. 1. 20, 21.) if you advance his name, he'll advance your names; and if you honour him, you shall be honoured by him. We see in all Ages how Reforming Princes have prospered, as Moses, Joshua, Jehoshaphat, Hezekiah, Asa, 2 Chron. 14. 2, to 8. What made Q. El zabeth flourish? Why, she was happy in her Counsellors (by whom she was for the most part ruled) and so grew amiable

(a)

Segnius irritant animos demissa per aures, Quam que sunt oculis commissa.
Horat.

Nec quicquam in te muta-vit fortune amplitudo, nisi ut prodesse tantundem posses & velles. Plin. Epis. ad Vespas.

See Mr. Woodwards Chronicle of the Good Kings of Judah. Princeps religionem roborando, ab ea ro-boratur. Nazianz.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

Twas a foul blot upon Chilperick a King of France, that he was Titu-laris non Tutelaris Rex; desuis non presuit Reip.

Optimum munimentum est
munimento carere.

able to her Friends, and terrible to her Foes. Wisdom is better then strength, or weapons of War, Eccles. 9. 18. Romani cedendo vincunt. The welfare of a State is preserved, not so much by a multitude of Warriours, as of Wise and Pious Counsellors. Many Souldiers think it needles to Guard those who have the long-sword to Guard themselves; but let such know, that he is but sorrily Guarded who hath himself only, and a few fellow-Creatures for his Guardians. If God be against you, what good can your long Sword do you? Ezek. 3. 3. 26. Piety and Integrity are the best Guardians.

2. Encourage a Learned, Pious and Laborious Ministry. To this end improve your Interest for the buying in of Impropriations, that so every Congregation may have an able Pastor; for we see by daily experience that scandalous means breeds scandalous Ministers. Tythes are no burden to any but such as esteem the faithful dispensing of the Gospel a burden; but for men to Plow and Sow for such as are truly Impropriators, is a great grievance thorow the Land. How many steal the Goose and stick down a feather? swallow an hundred pound per annum, and allow the Minister four pound per annum? the blood of souls cries against such men: and if the blood of Abels body cryed so loud against Cain, how loud will the blood of so many souls cry against these Sacrilegious Cainites? The abolishing also of that Clause in 31. Henry 8. 13. which exemptis many great Livings from payng of Tythes, because they paid none in the times of Abbots and Friars, were a very Noble Work, and well becoming a Parliament; for by this means a great part of many Parishes pay nothing towards the maintenance of the Gospel, and the burden lyes upon a few Tenants and inferior persons, who sometimes pay fifty shillings, whilst the Lord of the Mannor pays not five pence. How many Patrons of Churches are Latrons, robbing their Ministers whom they are bound to defend?
Times

The Epistle Dedicatory.

3. If ever the Lord shall call you to Parliament again, labour to find out some expedient for an Accommodation and the reconciling of Gods people amongst themselves. Unity and Unanimity in Gods Worship (which some look upon as a misery) is indeed a great mercy, and is enjoyed by the Apostle as a special duty, 2 Cor. 13. 11. Be of one mind, q. d. Though there have been divisions and dissentions amongst you, yet now be Unanimous, and live in Peace together. 'Tis of greater consequence then many imagine. Division in the Church breeds dissension in the State, and a State divided cannot long stand. The Apostle would never so earnestly have besought, and so strongly adjured Gods people to Unanimity, had it not been a special duty, Rom. 15. 5. 1 Cor. 2. 20. Philip. 2. 1, 2. The Authors and Fautors of those sad Divisions and sub-divisions which abound amongst us, have much to answer for before the Lord. 'Tis easily seen at what door they come in upon us.

See Motives and Directions for an Accommodation in D. Bolton's Arraignment of Error, p. 340. ad finem libri.

See the danger of Divisions, in Mr Clark's Tract against Toleration, p. 35. & 40. & c.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

The best means that I know to suppress exorbitances in the State, is Parliaments; and to suppress disorders in the Church, is Synods: That Synods are Gods Ordinance, and have been blest with success from God, is confest by all sober men on all hands; and why an^a Ordinance of Christ should lie so long unpractised I know not? How long shall the Church of God lie as a Field without a Fence, and a Vineyard without a Hedge, so that every wilde Beast breaks in upon it? For want of Discipline, what corruption in manners, and Errors in Doctrine like a Flood have broken in upon us, and there is none to restrain them! for want of it young Ministers begin to degenerate both in their Life and Doctrine, since they finde the reins to lie so loose upon their own necks. The Presbyterian Government is that Government which by Covenant we are bound to promote: it being that Government which all the Reformed Churches of Christ do practice; and the onely Platform of Government which carries a Jus Divinum in the forehead of it. Let those that can, produce a better Platform; that model of our late dissenting Anonymus (I shall not say Anomalous) Brethren hath made the Breach wider then ever; yea, some that wavered in that point, are now convinced of the weakness and insufficiency of their grounds for that way of Independency. We have some Government in the State; yet Church-Government and Reformation ought to be preferred before that of the

(a) V Cottons Keys, chap. 5 p. 25. and Burroughs Irenicum, ch. 7 p. 43, 44. Boltons Arraignment of error p. 266. &c.

See my Comment. on 2 Tim. 3. 8. p. 174, 175. &c.

V. Declaration of the Faith, and Order of the Congregational Churches, 1658.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

the State, is proved to my hand by a Learned Pen. The Politicians of the World abuse Rulers when they go about to prepossess them with prejudice against the Kingdom and Discipline of Christ; as if twere destructive to the Civil Government; whereas if they would but look abroad into the world they should find that the Rulers of the world have not more free, faithfull, loyal Subjects then those that are truly Religious, and willing to submit their necks to Christs sweet and easie yoke.

4. Restrain that Spirit of Error and Delusion, which like Wild-fire hath spread over all the land. Nothing will please some men, but a boundless Toleration of all sorts and Sects; no Magistrate nor Minister must controul them; all Government to such ungoverned ones is Tyrannie and persecution. How well this Toleration agrees with our National Covenant, wherein we vowed the extirpation of Heresies, and whatsoever is contrary to sound Doctrine, let the world judge. T'was the great sin of Julian the Apostate, that he granted Liberty to Pagans and Hereticks, that by letting such weeds grow, he might the better destroy Gods Harvest. Tis charged as a sin upon the Church of Thyatira, that she tolerated Jezebel to seduce Christs people, Rev. 2. 14, 20.

5. It were to be wished that some effectual course were taken for the enjoyning of all Governours under a penalty to send in their children and servants, both publickly and privately to be Catechized. The gross Ignorance which still abounds in the body of our people is lamentable. Religion makes

Mr. Anthony Burges's his Fast Serm. on Judg 6. 27.
Preacht 1645.

That men should be tolerated to worship the Devil (as tis easie to prove the Quakers do, if we consider the men, the matter, and the manner of their speaking) is very sad.

Against Toleration, see an elaborate Treatise of Mr. Clerke, called, Apples of Gold.

The Epistle Dedicatory.

makes the best children, the best servants, and the best Subjects; as we see in Abrahams Catechized Family, how promptly doth every one there perform his duty? Tis just with God to suffer Inferiors to rebel against their Superiors, when they suffer them to Rebel against God.

6. It were to be wisht that some course might be taken for the better Regulating of Parishes; tis sad to see how unequally they are divided. In many places one Parish comes to another Parish Church-walls, and yet these people belong to another charge, it may be three or four miles off. Parochial Assemblies (if they were made more uniform and compact) are best both for Pastor and people.

7. Free-Schools are very much wanting in many parts of the Nation. Children are the Seminary of the Church; and if the seed be naught, the crop cannot be good.

Quest. But where is the means to maintain those Schools?

Answ. Since all is devoured, I know but one way that is left, and that is by the Improvement of Commons and Wast-lands; they might (if wisely managed by Commissioners from Parliament; for the Cormudgeons of the world will never consent to part with a Turff for Christ, if they can help it) be improved to ten times the value that now they are at, to the benefit of the Parishioners, and the advancement of many pious Uses.

8. It were to be wisht that all Market Towns that are very populous, and have men fit for Government

The Epistle Dedicatory.

vernment in them, were freely made Corporations; and that Inferior Market Towns had a Justice of Peace, either in them, or planted very near them, that the people might not run seven miles to have a Swearer, Drunkard, or Sabbath-Profaner punished. This would prevent abundance of sin which is committed in these places, at Markets and Fairs especially, for want of Justices.

The Lord, the Righteous Judge of all, direct you by his Spirit; preserve you from sin and error; he fasten you as a nail in a sure place, crown your endeavours with success for the settling of Truth and Peace upon firm foundations in this distracted, distressed Church and State; he make all Mountains a Plain before you, that you may be the Repairers of our Breaches, and the raisers of the Foundations for many Generations, that the children unborn (in their Generations) may Rise up, and call you blessed. This is, and shall be the Prayer of

*Your devoted Servant
in the work of the Lord,*

Kingsnorton

Septemb. 10.

1659.

Tho. Hall.

Christian Reader,

Uch might be said, and that deservedly, concerning the beauty of this Exposition of the 82 Psalm, called by the worthy Authour, The Beauty of Magistracy; it discovering that Ordinance of God, Magistracy, in its genuine Beauty and Lustre. As my many occasions would permit, I have perused several parts thereof, and can assure the Reader, that I find the Exposition solid and judicious, the method clear and perspicuous; the stile terse and clean, yet grave and Theological; the application warm, holy, and proper; the whole learned, gracious, and worthy the eye, love, and practice of a judicious Reader, who hath the encouragement to peruse it, and also that he may do it with profit, the prayers in his perusing it, of

His Servant in our Lords Work,

Febr. 3.

16⁹⁹

W. Fenkyn.

To the Right Worshipfull, and his much honoured Cousin, the Lady LUCY GRANTHAM of Ratcliffe upon Soare, in the County of Nottingham, Grace and Peace:

Madame :

Benefits (we say) are binders, and every Favour received makes the Receiver a Debtor : If this be so, I must needs acknowledge my self deeply indebted to You for those many reall Favours which from time to time You have shewed to me, and to my Sonns that have been Your Chaplains. And, that I may not wholly dye ungratefully, I have sent you a Scholars Gift, a Paper-present, as a Testimony of my best Respects unto Your Ladyship, who have been so eminent a Friend and Patroness to us of the Ministry; and that in a time when so many hate us, rob us, revile us, without a cause. You have been more like a Nursing-mother than a Friend to many of your neighbouring Ministers, especially where their means is low : Your Ladyships readines to contribute to the augmenting of the Maintenance of Ministers, and setting up of Preaching, where there is none; Your respectfull Entertainment of the Ministers of Christ weekly at Your house; Your bounty in parting with considerable Summes towards the breeding of ingenuous and hopefull Children for the work of the Ministry ; Your tender respect especially to the Orphans of Ministers ; Your late disbursing of a considerable Summ at a bare motion of mine towards the breeding of a very hopefull childe, the son of a pious and painfull Minister , whose father is now with God ; your great care for their family in Spirituals as well as Temporals ; your constant Morning and Evening Sacrifice there ; and your care to see that your Family lve Prayers, and live their Sermons ; and live up to their Duties : and if any be found to be Drunkards, Fornicatours , Lascivious , Sabbath-prophaners , &c.

 You quickly make them know, that those who will not be servants to God , shall be no servants to you ; your Religious care in a timely providing of a pious and ingenuous Instructor for the fatherless and motherless Little One, which now lies solely upon your hands ; as he is a Samuel by name , so you endeavour to make him a Samuel indeed , by instructing him betimes in the wayes of God , that so he may have a heart to improve that great Estate which providence hath cast upon him, to the glory of that God that gave it ; your carefull Observation of the Lords-day , not onely in the publick , but in the Intervalls of Divine Worship, to keep your Family from straying ; you have not onely Repetitions , but also Reading of some practical Divinity constantly on the Lords day to your Family.
These things justly praise you in the gates , and though no tongue should praise you , yet your works themselves will do it : Vertuous actions are the best Oratours, and they speak best , who do best ; And though your Ladyship had rather do good ; than hear of it ; yet that others (in these last and worst times , when the love of so many waxeth cold) may be incited to follow your

*Samuel Marrow
 Esquire.*

your Ladyships Pious and Charitable Example, I could not but publish those things to Gods glory, and your further encouragement in the work of the Lord.

'Twas the Commendation of Dorcas, that she made coates for the poor whilest she lived (Acts 9.39.) she did not as most do, put it off till death, and then make good wills, after all their evill deeds: but your Ladyship in your life-time hath expressed your bounty long since to the Town of Nottingham, in giving them Two Hundred Pounds, as a Stock to be carefully improved for the best advantage of their poor: besides the dayly occasional gifts to such as are reall Objects of pity and compassion. You have been Eyes to the Blinde, Feet to the Lame; a Father to the Fatherlesse; a Mother to the Motherlesse; These you take into your Family, and when you have hatched them up, you part with considerable Sums to set them forth Apprentises; And, which is worthy observing, your Ladyship hath been a great gainer by all this, God hath blessed your Substance, and your Store, he hath made your latter end better then your beginning, and hath cast riches on you in abundance, which you never looked for; and, above all, he hath given you a heart to improve what he hath given you to his praise; and to order your affairs with that discretion, and good Huswifery, that those who have farr greater means, yet do not the Tythe of that good which you do; and all because they spend that in riotous feasting, superfluous building, keeping a kennel of Hounds, or some other sinfull and exorbitant course, which disables them, and dispirits them from Works of Piety and Mercy. Now the good Lord remember you in mercy for all that you have done for his House, for his Ministers, and for his people, He recompence all your labour of Love seven-fold into your bosome; and when You have served your Generation here, he receive you unto himself in glory. This is, and shall be the Prayer of

Kings-Norton:

Novemb. 3. 1659.

Your much obliged Kinsman

Tho. Hall.

A

T A B L E

Of the chieft things contained in this Treatise of Psal. 82.

A Nabaptists enemies to Magistrates,	p.18,19.& 212
Antitrinitarians confuted,	p.10
Anarchy dangerous,	p.46
Arise God will for his people,	p.174
B.
Beasts, wicked men are such,	p.122
Bow to Magistrates,	p.41
Bribery, base,	p.89,118,204
C.
Clemency becomes Magistrates,	p.73,74
Children of God, their priviledges,	p.158
Conscience good, is a great blessing,	p.167
Consideration how necessary,	p.135
Consolation for Magistrates,	p.33,34,35
Courage requisite in a Magistrate,	p.115
D.
Darkness, how dismal,	p.138
Death, all liable to it. p.160,162. Great ones must oft think on it,	p.165
Devil, why called a God,	p.9.
E.
Elohim, what it signifies,	p.6,7
Enemies to Magistrates punished by God,	p.20,35,209
Erastus condemned,	p.71
Examples of great men powerfull. p.97. And Epist. Dedicat.
(6)	Mans

- Mans Extremity Gods opportunity,* P. 174, 175
- F.
- Fatherless must be pittied,* P. 109, 110
- Fifth-Monarch-men dangerous,* P. 17, 18
- Flatterers, take heed of them,* P. 68, 70, 71
- G.
- God, how many ways that Title is used,* P. 6, 7
- God is present amongst Rulers,* p. 87. He's Almighty, p. 10, 11.
- The most High,* p. 150, 151. The Judge of all, p. 286. To be feared, P. 156.
- Godly are not Rebellious,* P. 43
- Good things need pressing on us,* P. 119
- Great men seldom good,* P. 99, 110
- H.
- Hereticks must be punisht,* P. 80
- I.
- Independency dangerous in Magistracy,* P. 11
- Ignorance how vile,* P. 132
- Injustice a crying sin,* P. 100
- Inquiry must go before sentence,* P. 83, 84
- Justice how great a blessing,* P. 111, 138. A sevenfold manner of doing it aright, P. 112, &c.
- K.
- Kings must rule by Law,* 69, 84. They must see to Religion, 76, 77
- L.
- Lament the loss of good men,* P. 65
- Laws how needful,* p. 84, 85, 198. How they binde the Conscience, p. 41. Going to Law lawful, P. 91, 92.
- Liberty abused,* P. 21
- Light pleasant,* P. 138
- M.
- Magistrates, why called Gods,* p. 7, 8, 142, 192. Carile against Magistrates answered, p. 21, 22, &c. 214. 'Tis a great mercy to have them, p. 22, 35, 36, 37, 38. And that in Gospel times, p. 27. They must love their people, P. 50, 51
- Magistracy is Gods Ordinance,* p. 12, 13. Seven Reasons to prove it, 14, 15, 32. No man may assume that Office with- out a call, p. 32, 33.	'Tis an honourable calling, p. 49,

50. Proved by one and twenty Titles of honour given to it,
p. 49, 195. They must not dishonour their honourable calling,
p. 71, 72. How they must imitate God in nine particulars,
p. 73. They have their Commission from God; p. 148, 149, 193, 194, 205. They are the Sons of God, p. 157. They must dye,	p. 160
Ministers and Magistrates must assist each other, p. 55, 82.
and in the Epistle Dedicatory.
Ministers may not be Magistrates,	p. 56, 57
N.
The Nations are Gods Inheritance,	p. 187
Necessity of Magistracy,	p. 213
O.
Old Testament Gods Word.	p. 148
P.
Papists rob Magistrates of their power,	p. 16, 17.
Partiality condemned,	p. 101, 114, 200, 201
Patience required in Magistrates,	p. 75
Poor must be pitied,	p. 109, 121
Perseverance in wickedness dangerous,	p. 137
Pray for Magistrates,	p. 40
Prayer awakens God, p. 175. How it must be qualified, that it may awaken him, p. 176. Three sins to be shunned especially, which mar our Prayers, p. 177. It must be fervent, p. 178.
How excellent an Helper, p. 182, &c. It turns five Keys,
p. 184, 185. The misery of such as cannot pray,	180
Prefaces, when they may be used,	p. 9
Publique spirits become Magistrates,	p. 85
Puffblannity condemned,	p. 116
Q.
Quakers, their baseness,	p. 19, 20, 102, 149, 158
Qualifications for a Magistrate,	p. 86
R.
Religion must be promoted by the Magistrate,	p. 76, 77
Reproof belongs to great men,	p. 96, 97
Resolution requisite in a Magistrate,	p. 115
Respect of persons when lawful,	p. 101, 102
(b2)	Re-

Reverence due to Magistrates, P. 39, 40

S.

Sanctuaries for sinners unlawful, P. 17

Septuagint very corrupt, P. 129, 130

Severity when lawful, P. 74

Sleep: How God seems to sleep at his peoples troubles, P. 172

T.

Taxes to be paid, P. 42, 46

Titles of honour due to Magistrates, P. 40, 48

Trinity of Persons proved, P. 10

Trust in God, P. 152

Tyrannie better then Anarchy, P. 46, 47

Tyrants have their power from God, p. 12. They live nor long,

p. 45. How we must submit to them, P. 43

U.

Unjustice there will be always in the world, p. 99

W.

Wisdom very requisite for a Magistrate, p. 73, 74, 113, 120, 133

Wicked men are turbulent, p. 103. Merciless, 123. Wilful, p. 136. Lead miserable lives, p. 137. Are stupid, p. 140

Questions

Questions discussed in this Treatise.

1. WHether Titles of Honour be due to Magistrates? p.40
2. Whether Humane Laws do binde the Conscience? p.41, 42
3. Whether we must submit to Tyrants? p.43, 44
4. Whether Tyranny be better then Anarchy? p.46, 47
5. Whether Ministers may be Justices of the Peace? p.56
6. Whether Kings have an absolute power over their Subjects lives and estates? p.69, 70, 84
7. Whether the Erastian Tenents be sound? p.69
8. Whether Magistrates must take care of Religion, p.76, 77
9. Whether he may compel men to the outward Worship of God? p.77, 78
10. Whether he may punish Hereticks? p.78, 79
11. Whether Blasphemous Hereticks may be put to death? p.82
12. Whether wicked Rulers have their power from God, p.149
13. Whether a wicked man may pray? p.177
14. Whether Defensive war be lawful? p.179
15. Whether it be lawful to respect persons? p.202

THE TEXTS

Explained in this Treatise.

	page		page
G enesis 1. 1.	4	146. 3, 4.	161, 164
Exodus 18. 22.	85	109. 4.	180.
Exodus 20. 2.	9	Proverbs 8. 15.	14
Numbers 27. 17.	58	22. 22, 23.	121
Dent. 13. 14.	84	23. 10.	121
16. 20.	118	25. 11.	113
17. 18.	72, 84	Ecclesiast. 2. 14.	139
Joshua 1. 8.	72	8. 4.	69
Judges 9. 8.	33	Isaiab 1. 2.	131
18. 17.	80	3. 4.	72
1 Sam. 8. 6.	25, 26	3. 7.	58
8. 11.	46, 49	4. 5.	154
10. 9.	60	22. 23, 24.	60, 61
1 Kings 3. 9.	58	26. 10.	136
2 Chron. 10. 7.	74	26. 16.	184
19. 6, 7.	88	32. 2.	64, 65
Job 7. 7.	169	40. 6.	161
Psal. 2. 10.	13	40. 15.	155
11. 3, 5.	63	45. 1.	59
47. ult.	62	66. 1, 2.	155
39. 5.	155	Jeremy 5. 1.	59
75. 3.	58	22. 24.	63, 202
83. 1.	194	Hosea 4. 18.	118
121. 4, 5.	172	7. 9.	136
			8. 4

8.4.	page 15,16	Acts 9 II.	page 180
11. 6.	63	Rom. 13. 1.	149,207
10.7.	165	5. 12.	146
Amos 5.24.	119	1 Cor. 1.26.	99
Hab. 2.3.	174	6. 1,2.	93,215
Zach. 10.4.	62	7.23.	214
4.7.	153	8.4,5.	192
11.7.	62	8. 14.	8,9
Matth. 5.39.	26,92	1. II.	183
7.1.	26,27	2 Cor. 4.4.	9,192
21.13.	183	10.4.	29
Luke 15.22.	64	1 Tim. 1.9.	215
22.15.	52	1 Pet. 2. 13.	29,30
11. 8.	178	2 Pet. 2.10.	59
John 8.11.	29	Revel. 4.10,11.	30,31
10.34,35.	144,205

Errata.

01. 7
02. 10
03. 13
04. 16
05. 19
06. 22
07. 25
08. 28
09. 31
10. 34
11. 37
12. 40
13. 43
14. 46
15. 49
16. 52
17. 55
18. 58
19. 61
20. 64
21. 67
22. 70
23. 73
24. 76
25. 79
26. 82
27. 85
28. 88
29. 91
30. 94
31. 97
32. 100
33. 103
34. 106
35. 109
36. 112
37. 115
38. 118
39. 121
40. 124
41. 127
42. 130
43. 133
44. 136
45. 139
46. 142
47. 145
48. 148
49. 151
50. 154
51. 157
52. 160
53. 163
54. 166
55. 169
56. 172
57. 175
58. 178
59. 181
60. 184
61. 187
62. 190
63. 193
64. 196
65. 199
66. 202
67. 205
68. 208
69. 211
70. 214
71. 217
72. 220
73. 223
74. 226
75. 229
76. 232
77. 235
78. 238
79. 241
80. 244
81. 247
82. 250
83. 253
84. 256
85. 259
86. 262
87. 265
88. 268
89. 271
90. 274
91. 277
92. 280
93. 283
94. 286
95. 289
96. 292
97. 295
98. 298
99. 301
100. 304

Errata.

P Age 5. line 22. read Gods, not God. page 14. in Marg. for Suecan. read Snecan. page 34. line 34. for hoc agens, read he is agens.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

AN EXPOSITION

Of the 82. PSALM,

A Psalm of Asaph,

OR

A Psalm for Asaph.

V E R. I.

God standeth in the Congregation of the mighty, he judgeth among the Gods.

O speak any thing in Commendation of the Book of Psalms, were to pour water into the Sea, or to set up a Light to the Sun; tis so fully done already by others, that I shall only refer you to *them, and so pass on.

We read of divers Psalms in the Book of Psalms, which bear the Title of Asaph; as Psal. 50, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83. The Question is, whether these Psalms were written By Asaph, or For Asaph, since the Original will bear both. Some conceive that Asaph was the Author and Inditer of the Psalm, for Asaph was a Seer and a Prophet and made Psalms as well as David, as appears,

B

*V. Piscators Preface in his Comment on the Psalms. And Mr. Roberts Key to the Bible, before the Psalms.

Psalterium est quedam Coelestis sphaera, stellis densa micantibus; est Paradisus animarum, pama continens innumera, quibus mens humana suaviter saginata pinguescit. Calistodorus.

Duodecim sunt Psalmi quos Asaph inscribuntur; a Lap. 13. scilicet Weemse. Le Asaph. i. e. Asaphi vel Asapho, nam Le inscribitur Genitivo, tunc Dative.

2 Chron.

Σαλμὸς τῷ Ἀσάφ, Psalmus
ipſi Aſapho, Sept Verſio Arabica. Montan, Scultretus, Piſcator.

Tis uſual in Scripture to put the Head of a Family for the Family it ſelf, as Aaron for his Sons,
1 Chron. 12. 27. Canti-cum ipſi Aſaph, traditum ut decantaretur. Vatabl.

Who were the ſeveral Pen-men of the Pſalms, you may ſee in the Exercit. 18. pag 166.

*In re tam parvi momenti
liberum ſit cuius, judici um.*

2 Chron. 29. 30. The Levites praised God with the words of David and Aſaph the Seer; Yet the beſt and moſt Interpreters do conceive that this Pſalm was made by David, and committed to Aſaph as chief Singer, or to his Sons who were ſingers in Iſrael, (1 Chron. 25. 2.) to be ſung for the uſe of the Church of God. Hence the Geneva Tranſlation renders it, A Pſalm committed to Aſaph. That ſome of thoſe twelve or thirteen Pſalms which bear Aſaph's Title, yet were David's Pſalms, appears by the ſtile of them, and is almoſt confeſt on all hands: whether this eighty ſecond Pſalm be one of theſe, let the Reader judge. But ſince David and Aſaph were both holy Prophets of God and divinely inſpired, and ſpecially ſince our Saviour himſelf hath confirmed the Divine Authority of this Pſalm, by referring us to it (John 10 36.) 'tis needleſs to enquire which of them wrote it, ſince we are aſſured that it is Canonical Scripture.

This Pſalm may fitly be called the Magiſtrates Pſalm, or the Magiſtrates Directory; the matter of it is Didactical and Doctrinal, ſetting forth the Dignity, Duty, and Mortality of Magiſtrates and Judges; whom the Pſalmiſt exhorts to a faithfull diſcharge of their places, by an impartial adminiſtration of Juſtice, in puniſhing the wicked, and defending the good; and this he backs with many weighty Arguments.

The firſt is drawn from the Preſence of God: he is ſaid in a more eſpecial manner to be Preſent and Preſident with theſe his Vice-gerents and Deputies.
Verſe 1.

2. From the Dignity of their place and calling: They repreſent the Perſon of God, they bear his Name, and are called his Sons, and therefore they ought more eſpecially Patrizare, to reſemble their Father in doing Juſtice and Judgement.

3. In respect of their Mortality ; they must die as other men, and come to judgement , and give an account for all that they have done.

4. That his words might have the greater weight he brings in God himself expostulating and reasoning the case with those unjust Judges, for their abuse of that Power which he had given them. Verse 2.

5. He exhorts them to a Right performance of their Duty, by an impartial dispensing of justice unto all. Verse 3, 4.

6. He aggravates their sin by their sottish ignorance and wilfull negligence. They were Lucifuge, haters of the light. Verse 5. They know not, neither will they understand, yea they walk on in darkness, albeit the very foundations of the earth be moved. q. d. though all things be in confusion and disorder, and the very Pillars of the State shake under them by reason of their Oppression and Tyranny, Bribery, and Partiality, yet they would not see it to amend it, but made their Lufts their Law to their own confusion.

7. He concludes with Prayer, and by an Apostrophe turns his speech to God, Verse 8. Arise O God, judge shon the earth. q. d. O Lord, I see tis in vain to expect justice from these unjust ones ; Do thou therefore O thou just Judge of all the world, Arise, and take the matter into thine own hands, execute justice for those that are oppressed ; for all the Nations of the world are thy proper Possession.

V E R. I.

God standeth in the Congregation of the mighty, he judgeth among the Gods.

THEY are the words of the Prophet, who like an Herald proclaims the Presence of God amongst the Gods and Judges of the earth. This Preface the Prophet makes, the better to excite the Attention of those great ones, whose corruption, licentiousness and pride is such, that they think they may act and speak, they may absolve or condemn at their own bar who please themselves without controul: God doth not see (say they) nor will he take notice of our actings: stay there (saith the Prophet) for he sees you, and stands by you too, though you see not him, God standeth in the Congregation of the mighty, he judgeth among the Gods.

In these words we may observe,

1. The Person Ruling, God.
2. His Posture, He stands.
3. The Place where; In the Congregation of the mighty.

ἐν ἐνδοξω, in intimo.
Aquila.

4. An Exegesis or illustration of what he had said before, *He judgeth * amongst the Gods.*

* Eloah is the singular Number.

See this Point fully cleared in those elaborate Annotations of Mr. Ley on Gen. 1. 1.

Verbum singulare simplicissimam Dei essentiam; nomen autem plurale designat tres personas. Bucan. loc. 1. pag. 7. ubi plura. Consule a Lapide in Gen. 1. 1.

1. The Person Ruling is God, the supream Ruler of the world, * Elohim, the word is Plural, yet the word that answers it is singular, this notes (say some) a Plurality of persons in Unity of Essence. The Holy Ghost begins the Bible with this Plural name of God, joined with a Verb singular, Gen. 1. 1. Elohim Bara, Dii creavit i. e. the mighty Gods, or all the three Persons in the God-head, created. This is one of the most ancient names of God, and the first that is given him in Scripture, Gen. 1. 1. & 1. 26. & 3. 1. & 19. 24. The word is very significant and notes unto us, that as God is the Creator, Governour nour and Upholder of the world; so he is also the Judge and Punisher of such as do evil, and the rewarder of such as do well.

2. Here is his Posture, He standeth, he doth not sit; standing is a posture of Observation; he standeth to look up, in and down (as it were) that he may see and hear whar every one doth and sayes; he is alwayes present and President amongst the Rulers of the world. 1. Teaching and Directing them what they should do; 2. Observing their wayes, to see what matters pass and how they pass. 3. Keeping watch and ward for their defence whilest they rule for him and his. So much the *Participle of the Present Tense implies, it notes a continued Act, signifying that God is present at all the Assizes, Sessions, and Sittings of Magistrates. The same word is used, Isa. 3. 13. the Lord standeth up (or is standing up) to plead, yea he standeth up to Judge the people.

3. Here is the place where he stands. Tis in the Congregation of the mighty. Some read it thus, God standeth in the Assembly of God; had they said in the Assembly of God, the Original would bear it, for the word is El, not Elohim; and therefore is rendred by the Learned, In the Assembly of God. Both Translations are right for sense, but the words in the Letter run thus; God standeth in the Congregation of God. q. d. God standeth in his own Assembly; i. e. he is present in the Assembly of those Judges who are constituted and ordained by him to execute Justice and Judgement for his people. God delights not in Tumultuary routs, or seditious heaps, where there is no Law, no Rule, no Order; but he being the God of Order, delights to dwell amongst his people who delight in Order; and especially amongst the Rulers of his people, who are deputed by him to Rule in Righteousness.

He judgeth (as he will judge) amongst the Gods.

Stat in omni concessu iudicium ut ipsorum Dominus, & iudiciorum autor. Tremel.

* Nitfab, stans; i. e. commemoratur ibi. Cald. Paraph. V. Schools. Guard. Rule 56. Participia hæc extensa sunt ut loquuntur Scholastici) ideog₂ actus continuos denotant, ut Micah 7. 18, Deus est condonans iniquitatem, Christus est de peccator tollens (i. e.) ille qui semper tollit peccata mundi.

In Cætu Dei fortis. Hieron. Calvin. Tremel. i. e. in medio iudicum quibus Deus præest, ideog₂ eorum cætus cætus Dei hic appellatur. Mus.

El est nomen Dei quo significatur Deum esse suâ essentiâ fortissimum, immo ipsam fortitudinem, à quo omnis fortitudo emanat. Polanus.

Gnedah, Cætus, conventus, Congregatio; significat ordinatam Congregationem qualis est populi qui regitur iustis legibus. Moller. utcumq; resfulgeat Dei gloria in singulis mundi partibus, præcipuum tamen lumen hac in parte emittit; dum legitima gubernatio inter mortales viget. Calv.

Ishpot. judicabit. Heb. i. e. Sicut ab initio judicavit, ita & nunc judicat, & semper judicabit.

Shaphat, judicavit, punivit, animadvertit, vindicavit, bonos defendendo, & malos puniendo. Leigh.

*Kereb, medium, significat quicquid est propinquissimum & intimum. Gen. 48. 16. Psal. 5. 9. & 49. 11. Pagnin.

Elohim judicat, Elohim i. e. summus & celestis; Elohim judicat inferiores & terrestres Elohim, quibus divinam suam potestatem regendi & judicandi communicavit. à Lapide.

Regum timendorum in proprios greges; Reges in ipsos imperium est Jovis. Seneca Traged.

These words are Exegetical and help to illustrate what he had said before. God standeth in the Congregation of God. Whats that? Why he judgeth as Supream amongst the Judges of the world; he stands not as a Cypher, or a bare Spectator, but he himself makes one amongst them.

1. He judgeth Actively amongst them, we look upon men and think the judgement is theirs, but tis God that exerciseth judgement amongst them; he knows the Causes, directs the Judges, and executes the Sentence. Judges are but Deputies under God; the work of judging properly and principally belongs unto him, and therefore he is said, not only to be amongst them, but in the very * midst of them, to let them know that none of their consultations or actings are hid from him.

2. Passively, he is so in the midst of these earthly Gods, that if they do unjustly, he'l execute Justice on them, and judge the Judges of the world; for though they be great, yet there is a greater then they, to whom they must shortly give an account.

Quest. Some may demand Who are meant by Gods here?

Ans. By Gods here is meant Judges and Magistrates (as our Saviour interprets it, John 10. 34. who are Gods Lieutenants and Vice-gerents, appointed in his stead to administer Justice to his people.

This Title in Scripture is taken 3. wayes.

1. Primarily and Properly.
2. Secundarily and Metaphorically.
3. Catachrestically and Abusively.

1. This

1. This Title of God (Elohim) is given Primarily, Properly and most Truly to God, who is the Creator and Governour of the world, and in this sense there is but one God. (1 Cor. 8. 6.) and besides him there is no Lord, Isa. 44. 6. & 45, 22.

2. Metaphorically and Allusively, and so there are Gods many, 1 Cor. 8. 5. Thus the holy Angels are called Elohim, Gods. (2 Sam. 28. 13. Zach. 12. 8. Psal. 8. 5. thou hast made him little lower then Elohim, which the Apostle calls Angels, Hcb. 2. 6. & 27. So Psal. 97. 7. Worship him all ye Gods, i. e. all ye Angels of God. Now they are called Gods because of all creatures they are the most excellent, and the fairest representations of his Majesty, Wisdom, and Power, being alwayes ready to do his will in defending the Godly, and Punishing the Ungodly.

Some read the Text thus, God standeth in the Congregation of Angels: this is a truth, but not from this Text, for the Context clearly confutes it ver. 2. How long will ye judge Unjustly? So that tis plain he speaks not of Angels who are perfect, but of men who may and do err and act unjustly.

2. The Title is applied to Magistrates and Judges, Exod. 21. 6. & 22. 28. Deut. 19. 7. Psal. 82. 6. & 138. 1. And least any should think that this is an Old Testament Title only, we find Christ himself making mention of it in the new, John 10. 34, 35. Neither is the Title given only to one or two, but it is given generally to all Magistrates, be they good or bad. Ver. 6. I have said ye are Gods, i. e. ye are all Gods and Sons of the most High; not by Regeneration and Adoption; but in respect of your Profession and the Office which you bear.

Now they are called Gods, 1. Not Essentially or by Nature, for we see they die as other men, but by Participation, Representation and Office; because they do in a sort participate of Gods Dignity, Authority and Power; as Stars borrow their light from Gubernatio est diuina quedam virtus, idcoq; vocal. Deus Magistratus omnes, Deos, non propter creationem sed propter administrationem qua est solius Dei: Qui igitur est in regimine, est quasi incarnatus Deus. Luther.

Dii dicuntur Participatiue, nuncupatiue & Analogice, non essentialiter & natura.

Dii vocantur homines admiratione digni, praesertim qui aliis praesunt, ideoque Metaphoricos propter communicatam à Deo potentiam atque officium aliis opem ferendi, eosque defendendi, sustentandi, fovendi, mundum, regna Urbesque, regendi. Polanus. Humani Jovis. Plantus.

from the Sun, so do Rulers their power from God. He hath set them in his place, and therefore he gives them his Title, because they are Deputies under him to execute justice in the world. There is Θεῶν π, a sparkle of divine Majesty appearing in Magistracy, yea God hath engraven a special note of his own glory and Image on them. So that by Analogy they may well be called Gods, as resembling God, in having the Power of life and death in their hand; hence the Apostle puts an Emphasis on this, That they are the Ministers of God, and rule for him, Rom. 13. 4.

2. This Title is given them, because God is pleased to bestow many excellent and Divine Gifts of the spirit on them; hence tis that Moses is called Pharaohs God, (Exod. 7. 1.) because God had given him power to speak unto Pharaoh in his name, and to execute Vengeance on him. Though all Magistrates are not Regenerate, yet they may have many excellent, Heroick, Moral Virtues and common gifts of the Spirit, as Justice, Prudence, Patience, Temperance, Fortitude, Liberality, &c. to fit them for Government, Numb. 6. 11. 17. 1 Sam. 10. 6, 9, 10. & 16. 13, 14. Acts 14. 11.

3. By Deputation from God whose Lieutenants they are, and to whom they must give an account for the male administration of their office. They derive their power from him as his Delegates by Commission, and so bear his Title.

3. The Title is used Catechrestically and Abusively, and so is attributed 1. To Idols, Gen. 31. 32. & 35. 2. Exod. 12. 12. Judg. 17. 5. 1 Cor. 8. 5. because Idolaters give divine worship to them; though by nature they are no Gods (Gal. 4. 8.) and therefore the Apostle calls them Nothing, 1 Cor. 8. 4. an Idol is nothing, though Materially 'tis Wood and Stone, yet formally 'tis nothing, i. e. tis not that which the Idolater conceives it is, 'tis not God, and there is no holiness in it; though κατὰ δόξαν in the conceit and corrupt imagination of the Idolater 'tis a God, yet κατ' ἀλήθειαν and in truth tis nothing.

Ματαινός & nomine te-mes.

2. To the Devil; he is called the God of this world: (2 Cor. 4. 4.) because the wicked of the world obey the Devils will before Gods will, and delight to do his works, (John 8, 44.) and so make him their God, he Rules in them, and they readily obey him as their God.

3. Any thing that a man adores or esteems more then God, that is his God. Thus some men make Mammon and Riches their God, Job 32. 24. others make their Belly their God, (Phil. 3. 19. Rom. 16. 18.) they are slaves to their Epicurean pleasures and lusts, serving them in stead of God.

Diabolus non est simpliciter Deus, sed illis est Deus, qui illum anteponunt Christo. Erasmus.

Diabolus dicitur Deus respectu hominum, tum ratione perversæ opinionis, tum ratione vitiosæ & inordinatæ subjectionis. Gerhard.

Amor tuus Deus tuus; illud est cuiq; Deus quod maxime colit, cuiq; totus servit, & sese suaz; omnia impendit.

Observations.

1. Tis requisite sometimes to Preface before We speak: especially when the matter is weighty, 'tis good to quicken attention by some serious, grave, Argumetative and nervous Preface. The Psalmist doth so here, ver. 1. there are almost as many Arguments as there are words in the verse, proclaiming the Majesty, Omniscience and all seeing eye of God; the better to prepare us for that which followeth in the Psalm, wherein are matters of the greatest moment. Thus when the Lord publisht the Ten Commandments, the better to prepare us for the hearing and obeying of them, he sets a short, but pithy Preface before them. (Exod. 20. 2.) I am the Lord thy God which brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Every word hath its weight. 1. I am Jehovah by whom you live, move and have your being. 2. Thy God by Creation and by Covenant. 3. That brought Israel out of Egyptian bondage, and have delivered thee from a far viler slavery and bondage; even from the slavery of sin and Satan, from the Curse of the Law, the guilt of sin; from Death; Hell and Quot verba, tot argumenta; quot dictiones, tot stimuli.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Wrath to come. So Christ himself set a Preface before the Lords Prayer, the better to prepare our hearts for the duty, according to that of Solomon Eccles. 5. 2.

Observation 2.

That there is a Trinity of Persons in the Unity of Essence. The Persons or Subsistences are three, yet the Divine Essence is but one, being equally communicated to all; hence these three are said to be one. 1 John 5. 7. Mat. 28. 19. 1 Cor. 12. 4, 5, 6, 11. & 2. 13. 13.

Now let all the world dispute and wrangle their hearts out; yet these three or four Texts (if there were no more) are sufficient to settle any gracious soul in the truth of this point.

As for those Photinian, Arrian, Antitrinitarian, Socinian Hereticks, which are of late so rife amongst us, who list may see them fully and learnedly confuted in Dr. Owens Treatise against Blasphemous Biddle. Chap. 7. pag. 138. Dr. Cheynell in defence of the Trinity. D. Arnolds contra Socin. cap. 1. q. 32. pag. 136. D. Prideaux L. Et. 17. pag. 261. fol. Mr. Nortons Orthodox Evangelist, Chap. 2. & 21.

Observation 3.

Our God is the most mighty and powerfull God.

He is not only El, strong, but Elohim, Almightyes or All-powers. All the weight and power that is in the Creature, 'tis in him Originally, Operatively, Eminently. His Power is like himself infinite and Unspeakable, beyond the Tongues expression, or the hearts imagination. This may comfort us in adversity, God is able to raise us and deliver us, Psal. 34. 19. Though our enemies be great, yet our comfort is that there is a greater then they. Job 32. 14. Eccles. 5. 8. Ephes. 6. 9. though we be weak, yet

V. River in Gen. 1. 1. p.
5, 6.

Elohim est unum è nominibus Dei, à potentia, robore & fortitudine Dei; Deus enim omnia potest. Ravel. See more, Hieroms Ser. on Exod. 34. 6. on the word, El, Strong.

yet our Redeemer is strong, Ier. 50. 33, 34. this upheld those three Caldean Worthies, The God whom we serve is able to deliver us, Dan. 3. 16, 17. God is not only faithfull, but Almighty and powerfull to fulfill all his promises to his people. 2. It must keep us Humble in Prosperity; for as God hath power to give, so he hath power to take all from us if we abuse it to his dishonour. Hosea 2. 8. to 13. In his hand is our Life, Health, Wealth and all that we possess. Whom will we fear, if we fear not him?

Observation 4.

Magistracies must not desire to be solitary and Independent. As Affectation of Independency is an error in the Church, so also in the State; hence the Lord tells us here of a Senate and Assembly of Judges. God hath not committed this power to one Magistrate, for that would be a burden too heavy even for a Moses alone, Deut. 1. 19. But which is a great mercy, tis committed to many. One man (we say) is no man. Woe to him that is alone and hath none to counsell him. That which ruined Julius Caesar, was self-conceitedness and refusing to consult with the Senate. What a sad condition would Nations soon be in if they were subject to the Will, Lust, and Tyranny of one single man? Tis in the multitude of Counsellors that there is safety. Prov. 11. 14. Hence Moses appointed many Judges over the people, Exod. 18. 21, 22. Num. 6. 11, 16, 17. and we read of a Senate of seventy Elders and Senators which were appointed by God himself to rule the people, and he ordered Appeals from inferiour Courts, to which all cases of difficulty were referred both in Ecclesiastical and Civil affairs. Deut. 17. 8, 9, 10, 11. 2 Chron. 19. 8. to 11. Appeals are de jure nature, they are founded in nature; even Reason tells us that 'tis unfit that any man should be a Judge, witness and a cuser in his own cause; no

Julius Caesar Nec in dictatura, nec in consulari consilio Senatus usus est, unde se & Remp. perdidit. Idem fecit Nero qui Senatam capitaliter od'rat. Suetom.

Ne unus dentaxat iudex ac forum sit, qui statim de quovis negotio ferat ultimam sententiam; à qua provocare non liceat; sed in unaquaq; Rep. plures iudiciorum gradus esse oportet, ut sit locus provocatori. Placod de Legibus. lib. 6.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

wife or sober man will desire such Independency; Solitary Birds are usually Birds of prey; but Sheep, Bees, and Doves which are Congregative creatures, are most harmless and innocent.

Observation 5.

Magistracy is Gods Ordinance. Tis no humane device or Politick invention to keep men in awe; but its Original is from heaven; 'tis a Plant of Gods own Planting, which shall never be rooted up so long as the world endures, maugre the malice of all fanatick seditious Levellers whatsoever. Indeed when Christ comes to judgement at the end of the world, then and not till then he will put down all Rule and all Authority and Power; for in Heaven there will be no need of them; 1 Cor. 15. 24. God is the Author, Approver and Defender of Magistracy, from him they have their Mission and Commission; all that rule and reign, are either Missi, or Permissi: either sent by him (1 Pet. 2. 14.) or suffered by him. Usurpers by Permission and lawfull Governors by Commission from him; the one by his Providence and some kind of approbation; the other by his Ordinance and appointment; for there is no Power but 'tis of God; the Power is his, however men come by it, or however they abuse it; though many have not only acquired it by wicked means, but administr'd it in a wicked manner: yet still the Magistrates Authority not only Abstractly considered in it self, but Concretly in the person administring it is of God, Dan. 2. 21. & 4. 32. John 9. 11. Rom. 13. 1. the powers that are, they are of God; whether the persons be good or bad, yet the Office is from him, and that not only Permissivè, Ordinativè, Directivè; for so sin, sickness, are of God by way of permission, ordering and directing; but Magistracy is of God approbativè & mandativè by way of approbation and command. They bear his name, they Permissio notat aliquod indultum, ordinatio vero mandatum; 2. Permissio est eorum quæ displicent & improbantur, ordinatio vero est eorum quæ cum voluntate & approbatione sunt.

Baldwin. Or.

they wear his Livery, they are employed in his work, he takes their account and rewards them. Hence 'tis that in the Text their Assembly is called Gods Assembly; and their Throne Gods Throne. (1 Chron. 29. 23.) and their judgement Gods Judgement, (Deut. 1. 17. 2 Chron. 19. 6. The Judgement is Gods, i. e. 'tis of God and for God; 'tis of God in respect of Ordination, and for God in respect of Administration. Hence the Apostle calls the Magistrate three times together in express terms, The Minister of God, to defend the good, and punish the bad (Rom. 13. 4, 5, 6.) This he could not be, had he not his Power and Authority from God. This made the Psalmist to counsel Kings and Judges not to cast away their office, but to submit to Christ and serve him in their places of Dignity, (Psal. 2. 10.) he doth not condemn them for being Kings and Rulers, nor doth he bid them leave their places, but he minds them of their duties; and yet it appears that this Psalm. was penned for Gospel-times, when Christ should have the Heathen for his Inheritance, and the utmost parts of the earth for his possession: So that the Regulating of Magistracy being here enjoined, the establishing hereof is also plainly implied.

Magistracy is very antient. Murderers and Adulterers were to die by Law long ago, Gen. 9. 6. & 38. 24. and we read of Magistrates all along, as Joseph, Moses, Joshua, The Judges, the seventy Elders, Eli, Samuel, David, Solomon, Josiah, Jehosaphat, Hezekiah, &c. these Godly men would never have born Rule if they had ever conceived that the Office had been sinfull. And least any should Object that these are Old Testament Examples, we read also in the New Testament of a Noble man or * Viceroy that believed, (John 4. 46. 50.) and Joseph of Arimathea a Senator and honourable Conncellor, Mark

* The Cardinals, regibus quidam, Beza.

15. 43. and of a Deputy, Proconsul, or Proprator that..

V. Plura apud Suecanuna de Magistratu. Pars quinta.
P. 594.

that was converted to the faith, Acts 13. 7. 12. and Cornelius a Centurion, Acts 10. 1. 2. yet did they not leave their Office: The Emmach that was Treasurer to the Queen of Candace, when he became a Christian, yet we do not read that he left his place, Acts 8. 38. Erastus the Chamberlain of Corinth, did not, because he was a Christian, cast off his government, Rom. 16. 23. So Constantine, Theodosius and other good men, kept their Magistracy still, which they would not have done, had it been unlawfull.

2. In Scripture we find Rules for Rulers (Exod. 18. 21. Deut. 1. 16, 17. & 25. 1. Psal. 2. 10. Rom. 13. 3, 4.) Now these would be in vain if there were no Rulers to observe them.

3. God oft sends men to the Magistrate for help in their distress, Exod. 22. 9. Deut. 17. 8. This God would not do if the Office were unlawfull.

Object. These are Old Testament proofs. Answ. Christ sends us to the Magistrate in the New, Mat. 5. 25. Luke 12. 58. Paul when in danger of his life, appeals to the Magistrate, which he would not have done, had it been a sin.

4. We are commanded to Pray for Magistrates (Gen. 20. 17. & 47. 10. Jer. 29. 7. 1 Tim. 2. 2.) but if their Office were evil, we should rather pray against them; now we are to pray for nothing but what is good and pleasing unto God.

5. Christ who is the eternal Wisdom of his Father, tells us that 'tis by him that Kings reign and Princes decree justice, yea Nobles and all Judges of the earth, Prov. 8. 15, 16. Not only Superiour, but also Inferiour Rules are appointed by Christ; he sets up not only Kings, but Princes and Nobles also; from him they have their Ordination, Conservation and Qualifications; 'tis he that gifts them with wisdom to make good and just Laws for the benefit and peace of their people. 'Tis he that pulls down one and

The Beauty of Magistracy.

and sets up another in the Throne, and none may say unto him, What dost thou? Job 9. 12. & 12. 18. & 34. 24.

6. The Lord commands Subjects to obey Magistrates and give Honour; and pay Tribute to them; this certainly implies (by the Rule of Relatives) that there must be Magistrates to whom this Honour and Tribute is due: And if every soul must be subject to the Higher Powers, then there must be Higher Powers; to which men must be subject. This enjoying the duty of the Subject, doth establish the authority of the Magistrate; for they are Correlatives and Individuals.

7. That awe and dread which is in the hearts of men toward Magistracy, argues that there is much of God in it. To see so many thousands of men of contrary dispositions, and perverse tempers, yet to live peaceably together under the Government of one man, shews plainly that the hand of God is here.

Object. But some may Object, that if God be the Author of Magistracy, how is it said (Hosea 8. 4.) They set up Kings, but not by me; they made Princes, and I knew it not.

Ans. The Answer is easie, They set up Kings by Gods permission, but not by his Approbation. I knew it not (saith God) viz. so as to approve of it. 'Tis true; I let them go on in their own way, but I neither did, nor will take cognizance of what they do so as to bless them in it. Many a man Rules by Providence, not by promise. So then God doth not here disclaim the Ordinance of Magistracy, but the manner of chusing him, viz. in a mutiny, and without any respect to Gods will. Thus Jeroboam (of whom 'tis conceived the Prophet Hosea speaks) was chosen King by God, 1 Kings 11. 31. 35. 37. & 12. 15. 24. but the seditious and disorderly manner of chusing him is attributed to the people.

See 8. Arguments more to prove the lawfulness of the Civil Magistrate, in Dr. Featly against the Anabaptist. Article 6. p. 153, 154.

Multa dicuntur non esse a Deo i.e. eo jubente vel approbante, quae tamen non sunt sine Deo permittente & permittere volente. Rivet.

Use.

IS Magistracy Gods Ordinance? This then first of all shews the vileness of Papists who exalt the Pope above the Civil Magistrate, and give him power over Princes, even to Deposition if they please not him. These must hold his bason, bring in his meat, hold his stirrop, lead his Horse, yea be his Horses (I might say his Asses) to carry him on their shoulders; and yet you must think he is still Servus Servorum, or rather Diabolus Diabolorum, the Devil in his Pontificalibus. He takes upon him to transfer Kingdoms, to excommunicate Kings, to depose one, and set up another in his stead, and to loose subjects from their Oath of Allegiance and Fidelity. They look upon Princes as meer Laicks and Seculars; yea, * Bellarmino sticks not to call them Mundanos & Profanos homines, prophane men, preferring the Pope and his Shavelings before them. The Magistrate must not Reform the Church, suppress errors, call Synods, nor intermeddle with Religion. He may indeed defend it, but he must not * Judge of it, saith Bellarmino. Besides, he exempts his Clergy from the Civil yoke, when Aaron the High Priest was obedient to Moses the Magistrate, Exod. 4. 15. & 32. 21. and Christ himself paid Tribute to Cesar, and yielded obedience to him in Civil things; besides, the Injunction is universal, Rom. 13. 1. Let every soul be subject to the higher powers; i. e. every man, even all that have rational souls must obey. And 'tis worth observing, that the more holy any have been, the more respectfull they have been to Magistrates, as we see in Joseph, Nehemiah, David, Jeremy, Daniel, Christ himself, Mat. 17. 27. John 19. 11. Paul, Acts 23. 5. 1 Tim. 2. 1, 2. yea and Peter himself, 1 Pet. 2. 13. 'Tis true, the Papists do not in words deny the Office of the Civil Magistrate

Papa regibus tanquam suis vassallis suae potestati subiectis imperat, ut etiam possit eos instituere & destituere. August. de Ancona de Ecclesiast. Potest. .q46.

* V. Bell. vm. de exempt. Cler. cap. 2.

Primum locum tenent Episcopi; & praecipue Pontifex M Secundum Presbyteri, tertium Diaconi aliiq; Ministri Ecclesiastici; ultimum Laici, inter quos etiam reges & Principes numerantur. Bellarm. de Laicis lib. cap. 3. 17.

* See this confuted in Gerhard de Magistrat. Tom. 6. p. 305. Rivet. in Exod. p. 1038.

Siquis tentat excipere, conatur decipere; si omnis, quis vos excipit ab universitate? Bernard.

Magistrate (as some fanaticks do) Yet in their works they do very much abuse and abase him; by their distinctions of Spiritual and Secular, as if none were holy and had the spirit of God but the Clergy, when the Scripture calls all believers spiritual, 1 Cor. 2. 15. Gal. 6. 1. besides their setting the Clergy above them, their exempting them from Civil Tributes and Taxes, their * Sanctuaries to preserve murderers from the sword of Justice, together with their doctrine and practice of King-killing, doth abundantly prove that Popery is no friend to Magistracy; and that the Pope is Antichrist, that man of sin; who exalts himself above all that is called God, and carries himself as God, 2 Thef. 2. 3, 4.

* Against Sanctuaries, see Pet. Martyr contra Asyla, Loc. Commun. Classis 4. cap. 15. Sect. 33. & Gerhard. de Magistrat. p. 336.

[If any would see more against these, let him peruse Paræus in Rom. 13. 1. Dub. 1. Gerhard. loc. com. de Magistrat. Tom. 6. p. 458. & 475. Moulin. de Monarchia contra Bellarm. una cum Abboto & Mortono. Willets Synops. Controvers. 7. pag. 361. D. Downam de Antichrist. lib. 4. cap. 23. p. 246. Watsons Quodlibets p. 119. 283, &c. Rutherford's Due Right of Presbytery. Part. 2. Chap. 6. Sect. 5. p. 449. and 352. Mr. Reb. Baltons Assize Ser. on Prov. 29. 2. pag. 14. 1032.

2. This cuts down on the other hand the Donatists, the Marcionites, the Manichees, who denied the authority of Magistrates, together with the Anabaptists, Socinians, * Millenaries and Fifth Monarchy-Men; who look and long for the abolishing of all Magistracy, that Christ alone might reign amongst the Saints for a thousand yeers. The better an Ordinance, the more are its enemies; and though some of these in words may speak honourably of Magistracy, confessing that God ordained it in the Old Testament, and that its usefull now to keep men in order; and therefore we ought to pay Tribute to them: Yet what they build with one hand, they presently pull down with the other, affirming that Magistracy Anabaptistarum error Donatistarum hereseos rivulus fuit. Danæus.

* Novi Chiliaste expectant seculum aliquod novissimum, quod vocant Spiritus Sancti, in quo Magistratum omnem sperant abolitum iri, & sublatis impiis Christum in his terris visibilem inter pios regnaturum, per mille annorum decursum. Gerhard.

is an Office displeasing unto God, and unlawfull for any Christian to bear; they would have a parity and equality amongst Christians, they would have no Superiours, nor Inferiours, but all fellow-creatures well met; as that house is like to be well governed where all are Governours, so that State is like to be well Ruled where all are Rulers. As that body is a Monster which is all Head, so is that which hath no Head. Where all govern there is no Government, and where all are Head there is Order.

These cry down the Coercive punishing power of the Magistrate, and so make him a Mawkin or man of straw, or like a Wooden Head and Golden Nepitune fixed on the stern only for a shew, but not at all concerned in the steering of the Ship.

2. They cry down all swearing before the Magistrate.

3. They cry down all going to Law before him.

4. They cry down all going to War under him.

5. So long as Magistrates please them, they will extoll them (as the Arminians did in Germany) but let Rulers once restrain them in their wicked practices, and then they load them which reproachful Titles, as Tyrants, Persecutors, the Powers of darkness, incroachers upon peoples liberties, the Antichristian Beast, & will never be peace till it be down, yea and they rise against them as the *Anabaptists in Germany did against their Princes. These Anarchical ones are men of loose lives, and this brings them to loose opinions, 2 Pet. 2. 10. These lawless ones cannot endure that any should be Lords over them, Psal. 12. 4. They vote down Laws, Magistracy, and Ministry, that they may the more freely enjoy their lusts. These are those Dreamers that despise Government, 2 Pet. 2. 10. and speak evil of Dignities, Jude 8, 9, 10. 'Tis not the Person so much as the Office it self that displeaseth these Libertines. These overthrow foundations (Psal. 113.) and do what

V. The seditious Standard of the fifth Monarch-men.

V. Sleidans. Commentar. lib. 10.

Seductores isti non Dominos sed Dominatum & ipsum munus a Deo constitutum corvitiis incessunt. Si belius in Judam.

V. Mr. Jenkyn on Jude 8. p. 301, 302. folio.

in them lies to ruine States and Kingdoms. No Commonwealth can long subsist without Government, Prov. 11. 14. Where there is no Pilot, the Ship miscarrieth: and where there is no counsell, the people fall; even the wiser sort of Heathens have extolled Government and Order as an excellent and divine thing; So that these Bruits, sin even against natural light. There is a great necessity of Order and Government for the Preservation of humane Societies. And no man fitter to Govern (all things considered) then a Christian; he that hath the knowledge and fear of God before his eyes, is fitter to govern the people of God then he that wants it.

Woe then to those Seditious Quakers and profane Libertines of our time, the vilest generation of *Railers and Revilers of Magistracy and Ministry that ever the Sun beheld. They pretend to extraordinary sanctity, when they have not ordinary manners nor common civility. If ever there were despisers of Dignity and Dominion, these are they. In their words and gestures what Impudence, insolence and irreverence do they shew? These in Gods Dictionary are called Blasphemers, 2 Pet. 2. 10. blaspheming Dignities, i. e. they make it their work and Trade to go up and down libelling, muttering and murmuring against those in authority. If God spirit calls Rulers Gods, we may easily guess what spirit leads those that call them Devils. 'Tis dangerous to speak against any of Gods servants, and specially against his servant Moses, Numb. 12. 8. Reviling of Judges is expressly forbidden, Exod. 22. 28. and therefore Paul takes up himself with an I wist not Brethren that he was the High Priest, Acts 23. 5. And if the Angel would not revile the Devil, much less may we revile Magistrates, Jude 8, 9. Twas a good saying of Memnon (a commander under the King of Persia) when he ἄβι νόα εστ γυβερνατορ, κορruit populus. Vulg.

ἢ νευ ἀρχόντων ἀδύνατον ἐστ πόνω. Aristot. Polit. 1. 4. c. 4.

Ordo quid aliud est quam series quædam superiorum & inferiorum?

See Mr. Baxters sheet against the Quakers, p. 4.

Βλασφημῶντες, blasphemantes eos.

As Caligula was composed of Impudency, so are these of turbulency. Se nihil magis in natura sua laudare ac probare dixit Caligula, quam ἀδύνατον, i. e. impudentiam. Sueton.

Ego te posco ut pugnes contra Alexandrum, non ut illi maledicas. Plutarch in Apotheg.

See Gods Judgements on such, in the Theatre of Gods Judgements, 1. 2. c. 2. pag. 158 folio. V. Mr. Fen-hyn on Jude. 3. p. 298. folio.

*See the Large Annot. on Eccles. 10. 8.

had hired a Souldier to fight against Alexander, the man began to revile Alexander; friend (said Memnon) I hired you to fight against Alexander, and not to rail on him. These like Beasts bite the hand that feeds them, and crop the Tree that shelters them. They cannot escape the Revenging hand of God. Miriam for speaking against Moses became a Leper, Numb. 12. 10. Corab and his company that rose against Moses, the earth devoured them alive, Numb. 16. Rebellious Abso'om was hanged in an Oak, and perfidious Achitophel hangs himself. The end of Shimei and Sheba was miserable; and Zimri had no peace that slew his Master. The opposers of lawfull Magistracy shall find their calamities to arise suddenly, Prov. 24. 22. he that breaketh this hedge, a Serpent shall bite him, * Eccles. 10. 8. As God is the Author, so he is the Lover, Preserver and Vindicator of his own Ordinance, and he will not suffer the Violators of Government to escape unpunisht, as we see by the experience of so many thousand yeers; how many have still been heaving at it, and yet this Rock abides! they thought to have overthrown it, but they have overthrown themselves. The calling is Gods Ordinance, the person are designed by his providence, and the work concerns his glory, and therefore God looks upon himself as deeply concerned in their quarrel, & takes the despite that is done to them as done to himself, Ex. 16. 8. 1 Sam. 8. 7. He will resist those that resist his Ordinance, and rise against those that rise against his Vice-gerents. Never yet any hardned himself against God, and prospered. Let the Potsheards strive with the Potsheards of the earth, but wo to him that striveth with his Maker, Isa. 45. 11. Though the Sons of Zeruiab may be too strong for David, yet they are not too strong for the God of David; though they be mighty, yet God is Almighty, and will reward such evll doers according to their wickedness, 2 Sam. 3. 39.

An Answer to the Cavils of Anabaptists, Libertines, &c.

Objection 1.

IS against Christian Liberty for Christians to be under the power of any but Christ who is our only King and hath made us free, John 8. 32. Gal. 5. 1. Tis a sore slavery to have Magistrates and Laws to Rule over us, since in Christ all are equal (Gal. 3. 28.) and there is no Distinction of Superiours and Inferiours, of Rulers and Ruled.

Answer.

This is the grand Objection, the great Goliath, their darling; liberty, liberty, liberty; overthrow this, and you overthrow all.

1. Answer. Civil subjection to Superiours may well stand with spiritual liberty; for spiritual Priviledges do not abrogate but rather confirm our obedience to them. Paul that had so fully discoursed of Christian liberty, yet oft enjoyns obedience to Magistracy, Rom. 13. 1, &c. 1 Tim. 2. 1, 2. So doth Peter, (1 Pet. 2. 13, 16.) Had this subjection been opposite to our Christian liberty, Christ would never have paid Tribute to Caesar, nor have commanded us to give unto Caesar what is Caesars. Gospel-liberty is a liberty from sin. (2 Cor. 3. 17.) not to sin; a liberty to serve God and not to despise the Ministers of God; Christ never purchased a liberty for us to live as we list, and hold what we list, to be Arrians, Arminians, Socinians, &c. This is Libertinism, and not spiritual Liberty.

Sunt tumultuo si spiritus qui regnum Christi non bene extolli credunt, nisi aoleantur omnes terrene potestates; nec libertate per se data frui, nisi quodvis humane servitutis iugum excusserint. Calvin in Rom. 13. 1.

2. Though believers as they are in Christ, are all one and equal, yet considered as they are members of a Politick body and in civil respects, so there is an inequality; and though Christ hath freed us from the curse of the Law, from the Traditions of men (1 Cor 7.23) and from the Tyranny of sin and Satan: yet he hath not freed us from subjection to men according to those ranks and callings he hath set us in: and therefore even in Gospel times we read of Superiours and Inferiours, of Masters and Servants, with directions how they should walk, and promises of Reward to such as faithfully perform the duties of their places, 1 Cor. 7. 21, 22. Ephes. 6. 5. to 9. So that Magistracy is so far from hindring true Christian liberty, that it helps to suppress sin, and so makes us free indeed. Neither is a Politick inequality against a spiritual equality; Onesimus was as good a man as Philemon, yet for all that Onesimus was Philemons Servant.

3. The Scripture speaks of Magistracy as a great mercy, and not as a misery or burden to a people; it calls them nursing Fathers, Shields, Shepherds, &c. and the loss of them is reckoned as a sore judgement; Isa. 3. 1. to 5. and the restoring of them as a great mercy, Isa. 1. 26. I will restore thy Judges as at the first. 2 Chron. 9. 8. 'tis made a sign of Gods love to a people. Let wicked men and Sons of Belial call Government bonds and burdens, (Psal. 2. 3.) yet believers of all men should be the most obedient to Magistrates (whether they be good or bad) in all lawfull things, of any people in the world, that so they may stop the mouths of gain-sayers, and all the world may see that Rulers have no better friends then such as make conscience of their wayes; for none can be truly loyal, but such as are truly Religious.

See more in my Comment on a Tim. 3. 2. pag. 32 & 33.

4. Though

4. Though Christ be the sole King of his Church, yet is he not the sole King in his Church; for Christs Kingdom doth not oppose but confirm the Magistrates: they are not contrary, but may well subsist together. The Gospel doth not abolish, but establish the Civil Government of the world and makes it better. Neither is our civil subjection to earthly Kings any hinderance of our obedience to our Heavenly King, but doth rather evidence and confirm it. Christ was King of his Church in the Old Testament (he was the same yesterday, that he is to day) and yet he had Magistrates under him then, and why not now? yea he promiseth Magistracy as a blessing in Gospel-times, Isa. 49. 22, 23. Revel. 21. 24.

Subordinata non pugnant, nam in Ecclesia Reges Christo summo Regi inserviunt, proinde Christus Deum & Cæsarem non opponit sed conjungit. Mat. 22. 21. Dithmar. See more in Dr. Taylor on Tit. 3. 1. p 544.

Objection 2.

Gods people are an holy, obedient, willing people, and a Law to themselves. But the Law is made for unholy and disordered ones, 1 Tim. 1. 9.

Answ.

Be you never so holy, you must obey; God will have every soul, be they never so holy or righteous in their own eyes, to be subject to the higher Powers. In the Church of Rome there were many Saints, and yet the Apostle commands them all to submit (in civil things) to the Magistrates of those times who were profest Heathens and Tyrants.

Jus divinum quod est ex gratia, non tollit jus humanum quod est ex jure naturali. Aquinas 22æ. q. 10, art. 10.

2. The best are flesh as well as spirit; as we see in Noah, Lot, David; and if there were not a Law without to restrain, as well as a light within, we know not how far the best may fall, for though the just be a Law to themselves, yet they have justs still within themselves which many times call for coertion and correction from the Magistrate. A good man saith, as the Martyr said once at the stake, when they went to bind him to the stake, That needs needs not (said the Martyr) yet since I am flesh as well as spirit, you may bind me if you please: So a good man though he hath Gods Law within his heart, and he delights to do his will, and so need the less binding; yet since he knows the rebellion of the flesh and the deceit of his own heart, he desires as many restraints as may be, to hedge up his way and keep him from sinning against God.

3. Though Gods people be holy and obedient, yet they are mixt amongst the wicked, and so have great need of the Magistrates sword to defend them from the violence of unreasonable men, 1 Tim. 2. 2.: So that albeit good men should do no evil themselves (though we see Doves many times and sheep fight one with another, and have need of some to part them) yet they may quickly suffer evil, if the Magistrate and his Laws do not protect them.

4. Though the Law be not made for the condemnation of the Righteous, yet tis ordained for a Rule to direct and guide him. This Law he cheerfully obeys, because it confines him to live in that element where he would live, as if one should be confined to Paradise where he would be, though there were no Law to confine him to it. So then the Magistrate is not a terrour to him because he doth well, and doth spontaneously obey his Laws.

Objection 3.

God forbids the killing of men, and saith, he that takes the sword shall perish by the sword, Mat. 26. 52. and hath promised that in Gospel-times they shall not hurt or destroy in all his holy Mountain. Isa. 11. 9. & 60. 18. Hence the Socinians and gross Anabaptists gather, that offenders now must not be put to death.

Answer

Answer.

2. God forbids any Private person to kill, or to take up the sword by way of private revenge, without a call; but what is this to the Magistrate who is a publick person, and executes the judgement of God on sinners, as his Vice-gerent and commissioned from him so to do? for he is the Minister of God for wrath to them that do ill. 'Tis his glory to cut off the wicked from Gods City, and he hath many commands so to do, Gen. 9. 6. Exod. 21. 14. Numb. 35. 30. to 34. Mat. 5. 21, 22. Rom. 13. 4. Rev. 13. 10. So that those who would have guilty persons spared, they dispute not against us, but God, who hath commanded that blasphemous and notorious sinners should be cut off.

Occidere hominem non semper est criminofum, sed malitia non legibus occidere criminofum. Danzeus. Magistratus non sunt homicidae, sed malicide. Bernard.

2. That Text speaks of Gospel-converts, not of Magistrates, and shews the sweet peace and amity that in those dayes shall be amongst believers.

Objection 4.

The Lord was angry with the Israelites because they asked for a King, (1 Sam. 8. 6, 7.) Ergo Kingly Government is unlawful!

Answer.

Non sequitur; for the Lord was not angry with them simply and absolutely for asking a King (for Monarchy is not in it self displeasing to God, as we see in David, Hezekiab, Jofiab, &c. but for desiring to have a King out of an affectation of Novelty, being weary of that Government which God had established, and desirous to be in fashion like the Egyptians, Medes, Persians, Caldeans and other Heathenish Idolaters round about them, ver. 5. and 20. and out of ambition and confidence in a King as able to protect them, and diffidence in God as unable to defend them in his own way. He was also angry

Est fallacia à dicto secundum quid ad dictum simpliciter.

Peccaverunt quia petunt regem inconsulto, immo invito Deo; Deus enim instituerat Judicium Aristocratiam; hanc ergo ipsi in Monarchiam mutare non debebant, nisi Volente & mutante Deo. à Lapide.

See more in the large Annotations; and weems 3. Vol. 6. 3. P. 2. p. 12, &c.

with them for their Ingratitude toward holy and industrious Samuel who had deserved so well of them, having spent himself wholly in their service.

2. The Lord himself elected Saul to be King over his people; and qualified him for his office, and expressly commanded Samuel to anoint him King over Israel; which he would not have done, had that office in it self been displeasing to him.

3. We may Retort this place on the Anabaptists themselves; seeing the Israelites here in rejecting Samuel, are said to reject God; it hence appears that Magistracy is Gods Ordinance, which whosoever opposeth, that man opposeth not men but God.

Objection 5.

We may not Resist nor render evil for evil, Mat. 5. 39. Rom. 12. 17.

Answer.

These places condemn not Ordinate and publick revenge, which God hath committed to the Magistrate, who for good ends and without any hatred to the person of any, is to do justice on them. So that albeit I may not offend others, yet I may defend my self, and crave the Magistrates help who by office is bound to execute justice on evil doers.

2. If they stick to the letter of the Text, this will take away the power of Parents; and Masters; for they in their places do resist evils, and punish offenders.

Objection 6.

We are forbidden to Judge, Mat. 7. 1. Rom. 14. 4. 1 Cor. 4. 5.

Answer.

These places condemn rash, private, uncharitable and unseasonable Judging; they do not condemn Publick

Est fallacia à dicto secundum quid.

Publick, Political or Ecclesiastical Judging.

Objection 7.

Magistracy belonged to the Jews who were Children (Gal. 4. 1.) and not to Christians who are grown to perfection.

Answer.

1. Magistracy belonged to the Gentiles as well as to the Jews, as appears by Nebuchadnezar, Cyrus, Alexander, Augustus, &c.

2. Christ himself approved of Magistracy in Gospel-times; and the Prophesies of Gospel-times shew that Kings should be servants to Christ and his Church, Psal. 2. 10, 11. & 72. 11. Isa. 49. 22, 23. & 60. 3. 10, 11, 16. Rev. 21. 24. even the holy City that comes from heaven, yet shall have Kings to Rule in it and defend it.

3. The world is now fuller of people, and more wicked (all circumstances of Light and Priviledges considered) then in the Jewish times; and therefore if they had need of Magistrates to suppress sin, and preserve Gods people in peace, much more have we. The Devil is as busie, yea more busie now then ever, and his agents as active to seduce us as ever they were amongst the Jews.

4. If man in the state of innocency should have had a Paternal and lovely, not Lordly subordination and order; surely we have more need of it in this state of Apostacy; and those that talk so much of perfection, shew no such perfection, but that Magistrates are needfull to make them better. Men are more perfect sinners now, sinning against greater light and greater love then ever. These under pretence of perfection bring in confusion; and if the Apostolical Churches (that had such an extraordinary measure of the spirit) had yet need of Magistrates, and are oft commanded to obey them,

V. River. in Genes. i. Exercit. 10. in fine.

Dum fanatici Anabaptistæ perfectionem jactant, verum omnium confusionem inducunt, & perfectionis colore totum Christianum orbem nituntur evertere. Zepper de legib. Mos. l. 2. c. 5.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Rom. 13. Titus 3. 1, 2. then it savours strongly of Pride and self-conceitedness for any in our dayes to think themselves more perfect then those Primitive Christians.

Objection 8.

There is but one Lord, Ephes. 4. 5. and no man can serve two Masters.

Answer.

Though there be but one Primary, Principal, absolute Lord and Judge, yet there are many subordinate ones.

2. Our Saviour doth not simply say that no man can serve two Masters, but (as the context shews) he speaks of serving two contrary Masters, such as God and Mammon, which command contrary things, and have contrary wayes, ends and principles; no man can serve two such contrary Masters. But Christ and Magistracy are not contrary, but subordinate, and therefore the Magistrate is called His Minister for our good.

Objection 9.

Most Magistrates are corrupt and wicked, of all the Kings of Israel there were not past four that were good. They are most of them Tyrants and Oppressors, they are briars and brambles, not Olives and Vines that seek for Kingdoms. Judges 9. Ergo down with them all.

Answer.

This is like Anaptistical Logick, Because some abuse meat, drink, light, money, cloaths, &c. Ergo away with them all. Who knows not that the abuse of a thing must not take away the use of it? Though the person may be bad, yet the office is good. Judas was bad, yet the Apostolical Office was good.

Est fallacia Accidens.

Magistratus Essentialiter, intrinsicè, & per se bonus est; per accidens, abusive & vitio persone malus.

A persona ad rem non valet argumentum. Vitium persona non vitiat officium.

2. As for that Place, Judges 9: 1. Tis Allegorical, and so but a sorry foundation to build an Argument upon. 2. It speaks not against Magistracy in general, but against Abimelech who usurped the Kingdom, ver. 1.

Objection 10.

2 Cor. 10. 4. The weapons of our warfare are not carnal. Ergo the sword of the Magistrate is useles.

Answer.

Non sequitur; for the Apostle doth not speak there of Magistracy, but of the Ministry, q. d. the weapons of our warfare who are in the Ministry, are spiritual, not carnal; we do not look to prevail by eloquence and fine speeches, by flattery and dissimulation, or by worldly force and power; but by the mighty power of the Gospel which is able (through the help of God) to pull down the strongest hold of flesh and blood.

Objection 11.

John 8. Our Saviour would not punish the woman taken in adultery. Ergo, the Magistrate must not punish offenders.

Answer.

Non sequitur. Twas the Magistrates duty to punish such; but Christ having no Commission to meddle with the sword, let her go. But of this elsewhere.

See my Commentary on 2 Tim. 3. 3. p. 103. 104. where this Text is fully vindicated.

Objection 12.

The Magistrate is called an Humane Ordinance Ergo it may be pulled down by man, 1 Pet. 2. 13.

Ans. Spiritus Sanctus, humus na creatio.

Answer.

Klitas appellatio ad Deum primum auctorem nos revocat; etsi enim Magistratus creati i. e. ordinari etiam ab hominibus dicuntur; primus tamen eorum creator propriè est solus Deus, cui primitus omnis creatio competit. Sibelius. The substance of the Power is of God, but the specification of the circumstances in respect of Place, Person, Title, continuance, customes, &c. is of man. D. Sanderson ad Magistrat. p. 183. Regimen ipsum est juris divini; at determinatio ejus ad certam formam Monarchiæ vel Aristocratiæ pertinet ad jus Gentium.

See more, Lex Rex. p. 8. 9.

Non sequitur; for Magistracy is called the Ordinance of man, or an Human creation, not because twas invented by man, or hath its Original from him; for all power is from God; though men may chuse the man, yet tis God that confers the power, and commands us to obey him for his sake, i. e. because tis his will to govern us by such. But it is called the Ordinance of man, 1. Subjectivè, because it is seated in man, and is managed by him; and the choice of the kinds of Magistrates is (for the most part) left unto men, to chuse what form of Government is most commodious for them; that so they might more willingly yield obedience to them; hence some have Kings; some Consuls, some Protectors, some Emperors. Now second causes do not exclude but include the first; though men chuse mediately, yet God orders and disposeth all by his overruling power to his own praise; so that in respect of their Original, appointment, and Institution, they are an Ordinance of God. 2. Objectivè, because it handlet humane affairs. 3. Finaliter, in respect of its end, twas ordained for the benefit of man, and for the preservation of humane Society.

Objection 13.

Revel. 4. 10, 11. The twenty four Elders cast their Crowns before the Throne. Ergo Magistrates (when they are converted to Christianity) must cast away their Crowns.

Answer.

Anabaptistick Logick still!

1. The Text is a Vision, and Arguments grounded on Visions are very weak and seldom demonstrative.

2. The Text doth not speak of Magistrates, but of the Theologia Symbolica non est argumentativa.

the whole Church Triumphant, represented here by the twenty four Elders, (for as the twelve Patriarcks in the Old Testament were as it were the root of the Israelitish Church; so the twelve Apostles by their doctrine were as it were the foundation and Original of the Christian Church) who cast their Crowns before the Throne, acknowledging all they have to be of free grace and mercy, not merit.

3. Suppose it did speak of the Christian Magistrate, yet the sense of the place would amount but to this. That since Magistrates have received their honour and dignity from Christ, therefore they lay all at his feet again, giving all the praise of what they are and have, to him who was the donour of them.

Ad literam loquitur de primariis (immo de omnibus) Sanctis utriusq. Testamenti, qui jam beati in Cælo vident, adorant & celebrant Deum. à Lapide.

Coronas suas ante thronum mittere, est certaminum suorum Victorias non sibi tribuere, sed Deo, ut ad illum referant gloriam laudis, à quo se sciunt vires accepisse certaminis. Greg. Moral. l. 22.

He that would see all Cavils more fully answered, may peruse D. Featly, Dippers dipt. p. 161, edit. 6.

Use 2.

IS Magistracy Gods Ordinance? Then it will necessarily follow that a Christian may with a safe conscience undertake that office when called to it; that Order which is just, holy and good, must needs be pleasing unto God, and so may safely be undertaken by good men; but Magistracy being Gods Ordinance must needs be so: for all Gods works and Ordinances are honourable and glorious, and do ennoble, not debase the creature, Psal. III. 3. As the Ministry is Gods Ordinance, and Marriage is Gods Ordinance; so they are pure and good, and a man may live in those conditions with a pure conscience, pleasing to God; so à Pari, for the same Reason, since Magistracy is Gods Ordinance, a Christian may lead a life pleasing to God in that Office. And the Examples of all those good men that in the Old and New Testament have born that Office (as I have shewed before) and have been high in Gods favour, shews plainly that the

the office may be undertaken by Pious men.

2. That which God hath promised as a choice mercy to his people in Gospel-times, the Administration of that cannot be unlawfull; but such is Magistracy, as hath been fully proved before.

3. Is Magistracy Gods Ordinance? then none may usurp it, or enter upon it without a Call from him. As in the Ministry no man may take that honour to himself but he that is called; so in the Magistracy none may assume this office to himself; but he that is called of God, either mediately or immediately. ordinarily or extraordinarily. As no man can preach jure and authoritatively but he that is sent: so no man can execute Justice juridically and authoritatively but he that is sent. Tis true, it may be some private persons may have abler gifts for Magistracy then some that are in office, yet may he in no wise exercise those gifts without a call; and if he should condemn and execute a man, tis murder in him, because God never commissioned him to such a work. As God was angry with Corab, Dathan and Abiram for opposing Moses as well as Aaron; So he is the same God to the same sinners still. As two things must concur to make a Gospel Minister, viz.
 1. Gifts. 2. A Power to execute those gifts. So these two must concur to make a Magistrate.

1. Gifts and Qualifications fit for his place.

2. A Commission and Call to execute those gifts. Skill to govern, Power to mannage that skill, and will to actuate both, make a compleat Magistrate.

* Let a man be never so well gifted or graced, were he as holy as Job, as wise as Solomon, as learned as Moses and Daniel, yet without a call and solemn designation to this work, he may not act as a Magistrate; or if he do, he can look for no success or blessing from God in what he doth. These fight against God and cannot prosper; they break that ranck and order which God hath set up in the world.

Tis

Cum gubernatio sit ordo divinitus institutus, atq; adeo Deus ipse praest: gubernationi Politicae, non est cuiusvis sibi arrogare illud imperium divinum; aut se iudicem loco Dei constituere. Molerus in Psalm. 82. 1. Tis not every mans work to Rule, but only such as are appointed (2 Chron. 19. 5.) and have commission.

* Avila vocat Q, resistit (Rom. 13. 2.) est verbum emphaticum, q. d. qui Magistratibus resistit, contra ordinem divinum se quasi ordinat. Dithmar. Polit.

Tis per me and not per se that Kings reign, Prov. 8. 15. tis God that hath made them Magistrates as well as men, and not they themselves, Psal. 100. 3. Judging and Preaching are not meer acts of Gifts, but Office. Let every man therefore abide in that calling wherein he is called; for they are oftentimes most insufficient, who think themselves most sufficient for this weighty calling. Ambition is an argument of unworthiness; Ne sit qui ambit, let not him speed that sues; let not those be preferred that would have places, but such as places would have. Tis rebellious Absalom (2 Sam. 15. 4.) and Tyrannical Abimelech that sue for rule. The fat Olive, the fruitfull Vine, and pleasant Fig tree refuse preferment; but tis the scratching Bramble, the tearing Briar, an empty Keck, a worthless and fruitless shrub, that hath no shadow to refresh, but is full of prickles, good for nothing but to stop gaps, and after to be burnt, which desires to Tyrannize over people, Judges 9. 8. to 16. Good men are modest, they know Honours are Burdens, and they will not meddle with them till they be called to them. They that are worthy, must be sued to; they are sooner found in retirement than in Popularity; as Moses following Jethro's Flock, Gideon in the Barn, David at the Fold, Saul hid amongst the Stuff, 1 Sam. 10. 22. and * Lucius Quinctius Cincinnatus was called from the Plough to be Dictator.

Tu supplex ora, tu protege, tuq; labora. Let Ministers preach and pray; Magistrates defend, Husbandmen till, and others do the duties of their places. Luther.

V. Florus de Gest. Rom. l. 1. cap. 11.

4. This is matter of singular Consolation to Magistrates, that since their Office is Gods Ordinance, he will defend it against all the rage of men and Devils; he is the God of Order, and he'll preserve it in despite of all its enemies. As he calls his to Dignity, so he'll keep them in it, Psal. 132. 17, 18. Isa. 42. 6. & 45. 13. as the Judgement is not yours but Gods, so he'll assist you in it against all Opposers, be they never so great; Joshua 1. 5. 2 Chron. 19. 6. He that hath set the Crown upon your heads,

V. Mr. Woodwards Kings Chronicle of the good Kings of Judah. A Treatise worthy the serious perusal of all Magistrates.

Omnis qui regit, est tanquam signum in quod omnia ja-cula Satan & mundus dirigunt. Luther.

will keep it there; if you uphold his Kingdom, he'll uphold yours; if you be mindfull of Gods work, he will not be unmindfull of your reward; Nebem. 13. 22. Isa. 38. 3. Keep Gods way, and he'll keep you, as he did Moses, Joshua, Hezekiah, Josiah, David, Constantine, Theodosius and others. Though you meet with many troubles, run many hazards, and pass through many dangers and difficulties by reason of Atheists, Idolaters, Libertines and all the rabble of Hell, yet in six troubles the Lord will be with you, and in the seventh he will not leave you, he'll be your assistant in your labours, your comforter in tentations, your director in straits, and your Oedipus in doubts; he will subdue your people under you, and incline their hearts to obedience, Psal. 47. 3. & 144. 10. he'll give you Peace of Conscience in the faithfull discharge of your duty; and a Crown of glory hereafter.

Tis very necessary in these Tumultuous times for Magistrates to be well assured that their calling is from God, it will wonderfully uphold their spirits in a time of trial. When Luther had writ a Book in defence of the Civil Magistrate, and proved it to be Gods Ordinance, and very pleasing to him; when Frederick Duke of Saxony had read it, tis said that for Joy he lifted up his hands to Heaven and gave thanks to God that now he knew out of the Holy Scriptures that his calling was ordained of God, and that with a good conscience he might now perform the duties of it. Tis an act of Dignation and not of Indigence that God makes use of any to be Instruments of conveying his blessing to others; hoc agens liberrimum, he can do his own work without us, he needs us not. Tis a great honour that he is pleased to imploy us either in Magistracy or Ministry; when he hath once invested us in those offices, and we discharge them faithfully, he

he takes the despight that is done to us, as done to himself, 1 Thess. 4.8. When the Israelites rejected Samuel, God comforts him with this, they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, who set thee as a Judge over them, and have gifted thee with graces for the faithfull discharge of thy office, 1 Sam. 8.7. You are Gods more immediate Servants, Jer. 27.6. Rom. 13.2. the dishonour that is done to you, reflects upon your Master: and if David so sharply revenged the abuse that was done to his Embassadors by the Amonites, (1 Sam. 10.45.) let not the Levelling Ammonites of our time who vilifie both Magistracy and Ministry, think to escape unpunished. 1 Sam. 26.9. Prov. 17.11. & 24.21, 22. Rom. 13.2. Magistrates are called Fathers: and he that cursed his Father was to die for it, Lev. 20.9.

5. Bless God for Magistracy. Every day we should be praising him for this Ordinance; that we can rise in Peace, and rest in Peace; Travail in Peace, and come to Gods house in Peace, and sit every man under his own Vine and Fig-tree in Peace; all this and a thousand times more we enjoy by the means of Magistracy, 1 Kings 4. 25. Micah 4. 4. Tis these Mordecays that bring Wealth and Peace to a People, Hester. 10. 3. Magistrates are the greatest Servants in the world; they wake that we may sleep, they labour that we may rest in Peace; by them violence is suppress, Justice executed, Religion maintained, and humane Societies preserved, (Psa. 72. per totum. & 85. 10, 11, 12, 13.) These are (or should be) eyes to the blind, legs to the lame, terrors to the wicked, Towers to the Righteous, Fathers to the Fatherless, Widows and oppressed.

Take away Government, and what would Nations be but Dens of Devils, and Cages of unclean Birds? We see how wickedness abounds though we have Magistrates to restrain it; but Oh the abominations that would be in the world if there were Omnium somnos illius Vigilantia defendit, omnium otium illius labor, omnium delictas illius industria, omnium vacationem illius occupatio. Seneca.

Remota justitia quid sunt regna nisi magna Latrocinia? August. de Civitat. Dei. l. 4. c. 4.

Discretiores civitatum esse, seniores feris vivere vitam, non mordentes tantum, sed & vorantes alios alii. Grotius de jure belli l. 1. cap. 4 § 1.
See more Mr. Jentyn on Jude 8. Obser. 1. p. 299. folio.

Sine imperio nec domus ulla, nec civitas, nec gens, nec hominum universum genus stare, nec ipse mundus durare potest. Cicero lib. 3. de Legib.

Perfis lex erat, ut à morte regis, legum & juris intermissio per quinque dies fieret, ut intelligerent subditi in quanto pretio regem ac legem haberi deceat. Stobæus Sermon. 42. p. 294.

no Government! What Idolatry, Witchcraft, Blasphemy, Heresie, Murder, Theft, Atheism, Barbarism, Routs and Riots, Cruelty and Villany would overflow in all places? When there was no King in Israel, then every mans lust was a Law, and they fell to Idolatry, uncleanness and much wickedness, as appears, Judges 17. 6. and 18. ult. and 19. 1. hence the taking away of the Judge and the Prophet is reckoned as a sore judgement, and the very inlet to Oppression and Confusion, Isa. 3. 1, 2, 5. & 24. 1, 2. Amos 2. 3. Hosea 10. 3. & 13. 11. Amongst all those heavy curses which David calls for against his malicious enemies, this is the first, Let a wicked man Rule over him, Psal. 109. 6. What's an Army without a General, a School without a Master, a Family without a Governour, or a Nation without Rulers? they need no forreign force to destroy them, they would soon destroy themselves, Hab. 1. 13. 14.

Stobæus tells us of a Persian Law, that after the death of their King every man had five dayes liberty to do what he pleased, that by beholding the wickedness and disorder of those few dayes, they might prize Government the better all their dayes after. When Moses was absent but forty dayes in the Mount; the Israelites presently worship a Calf. In the Book of Judges we read of the death of Ehud, Gideon and their Governours, and presently the people change their Gods; and did evil in the sight of the Lord to their own destruction, Judges 2. 19, 20. & 4. 2. & 8. 33. Take Government out of the world, and then take the Sun out of the Firmament, and leave it no more a κόσμος; a beautifull structure, but a χαῶς, a confused heap; without this men would be like Ismael, wild men; every mans hand would be against his Brother, Gen. 26. 12.

'Tis reported of Maximilian the Emperor that as oft oft as he passed by the Gallows he would put off his Hat and salute it, with a Salve Sancta iustitia! All hail Holy Justice. Of all people Christians have most cause to bless God for it; for they are exposed more to the malice of wicked men by reason of their profession and principles which are so opposite to the wayes of the world; so that they are as Lambs amongst Lions, as Sheep amongst Wolves, as a Lilly amongst Thorns, which would soon be devoured, did not the great Shepherd of the flock raise up Shepherds, under him to defend it. These are the Ministers of God for our good; 1. For our natural good, for our lives. 2. Civil good, for our Estate. 3. Moral, for defence of us in goodness. 4. Spiritual, to protect the Gospel; and this good is reduced by the Apostle to three heads, (1 Tim. 2. 2.) Peace, Piety and Honesty. They are a means under God to preserve the lives of us and ours, our Goods, Sabbaths, Ordinances, and all that is neer and dear to us: So that when Government fails, 1. Order fails, 2. Religion fails, 3. Justice fails, 4. Strength fails, 5. Wealth fails, 6. Honour fails, 7. Peace fails: all this is abundantly proved by a learned Pen. As where there is no Ministry, the people perish; so where there is no Magistracy, the people come to ruine, Prov. 11. 14. These are Shields to defend us, Fathers to tender us, yea nursing Fathers to carry us in their bosoms, Pillars that under God uphold the world that it fall not into confusion, and the very life of the State, Lam. 4. 20.

How great then is the sin of those ungratefull men who vilifie Magistracy; and by consequence do contemn the goodness and providence of God to the Sons of men! yea they contemn that which is the greatest glory and choice priviledge of a Nation. When David would set forth the glory of Jerusalem, he tells us, there sit the Thrones of Judgement, &c. there sit the Judges who administer justice to

Mr. Nath. Ward in his Fast Sermon on Ezek. 19. 14. p. 9, 10, 11, &c.

Magistratus est illud vinculum per quod resp. cohereret, est spiritus ille vitalis quem haec tot millia trahunt, nihil ipsa per se futura nisi onus & praeda, si mens illa imperii subtrahatur. Seneca de clement. l. 1. c. 4.

Quis cogitando, nemum dicendo consequi potest, quam beata sit res sub bono & salutari principe vivere, qui & gloriam Dei & salutem reipublice querat, augeat & conservet? Dona sunt haec, & ut Scriptura loquitur, benedictiones Dei opulentissima. Luther in Praef. ad Principes.

all, and keep all in Peace, ^{Psal.} 122. 5. hence tis promised as a great blessing to an obedient people, that they shall have Governours to rule them; and their eyes shall see the King in his glory, Isa. 33. 17. Jer. 17. 24, 25. as tis reckoned for a choice mercy to have our own Sons for Prophets (Amos 2. 11.) To be taught by strangers who are called to the work, is a mercy; but to be taught by our own sons raised and fitted for the work of the Ministry, that heightens the mercy; I raised up your Sons for Prophets, of your young men for Nazarites; and as good Ministers are promised as a special blessing (Isa. 30. 20. Jer. 3. 15. Rom. 15. 29.) so tis promised as a special blessing that our Nobles shall be of our selves, and our Governours shall proceed from the midst of us, Jer. 30. 21. Strangers shall not rule over them, nor keep them in slavery, but they should have Governours of their own, that would be tender over them. Tis a sign of Gods love to a people when he gives them Rulers that will execute justice amongst them. 1 Kings 10. 9. 2 Chron. 2. 11. & 9. 8. when a people is but willing to obey, Violence shall no more be heard in the land, nor wasting and destruction in their borders, but he'll restore their Judges as at the first, and their Counsellors as at the beginning, (Isa. 1. 25. & 60. 18.) and under them, shall all humane abilities be improved to the highest apex and utmost excellency; all callings, Laws, Learning, Valour, Religion, Arts and Faculties thrive and flourish with much happiness and success under the wings and warmth of a Godly Government. Oh then let us bless the God of Heaven who is pleased to Govern man by men; as tis a mercy in the Church that he teacheth us by men like our selves, so tis a mercy in the State that he rules us by men who are (or at least wise ought to be) sensible of our Infirmities, and to whom we may have familiar recourse in our necessities, if the

Lord

See more Caryl on Job 29.
7. p. 476. 477.

Lord himself, or an Angel should appear, we could not endure the sight; tis a great mercy and argues his tender love unto mankind that he hath set his own name upon our Governours, and adorned them with the gifts of his Spirit, fitting them for such noble employment.

6. Since Magistrates are set up by God, tis our duty to Reverence them as his Vicars and Deputies, and that not only for fear of his wrath (which yet must not be slighted, Prov. 16. 14. & 19, 20.) but out of Obedience to Gods command, who bids us honour them, Rom. 13. 5. and joins them with himself, Prov. 24. 21. * 1 Pet. 2. 17. This Reverence must be { Corde,

 Ore, Opere.

1. It must not be complemental but Cordial; we must not once harbour an evil thought against them; for God will find out a way to reveal and revenge it; Eccles. 10. 8. 20. But we must pray for them. What if they be Heathens and Persecutors, and neglect their duty? yet we must not neglect ours, Numb. 27. 16. Dan. 6. 21. Nero, Decius, Dioclesian, were Heathenish Tyrants, yet he bids us pray for them, 1 Tim. 2. 2. and the † Primitive Christians prayed for such. Magistrates are encompassed with many cares, fears, dangers and difficulties; we should therefore by Prayer hold up Moses his hands that he faint not, and beseech the Lord to enrich them with all graces fit for their places, as Knowledge, Zeal, Sincerity, &c. As every one receives benefit by the Magistrate, so every one should pray for him, and bear his part in this service; as those busie Idolaters did in their blind way, Jer. 7. 18. the Children gather wood, the Fathers kindle a fire, and the women knead the dough, every one doth something. Magistrates and Ministers of all men have most need Fear is of a Preservative nature, and makes men keep within compass. φρόνησις ἐπιφυλακὴ καὶ π. Aristot.

* Sub honorandi verbo sinceram ac candidam existimationem complectitur, & regem cum Deo coniungens, sanctæ cuiusdam Venerationis ac dignitatis plenum esse ostendit. Calvin Instit. l. 4. c. 20. §. 22.

† V. Tertul. in Apolog. c. 30. Miremur charitatem Pauli, qui pro tali rege vel potius tam impio Tyranno tamen Christianos omnes Deum vult orare, nec pro solo Nerone, sed pro omnibus illi similibus. Soto.

Quid magis est abies procera, evertitur: Euris.

Culmina non valles fulmimina torta petunt. Verinus.

*Si tam prompti essemus ad preces pro Magistratibus fundendas, quam parati sumus ad detrahendum ac

malodicendum ipsis; n.e res nostre melius haberent.

Bugenhad. See more
Caryl Sermon on Psal. 72.

2. p. 30. Downamis Wa-
far. 2. P. l. 2. c. 12. §. 5,

6, 7, 8. p. 500, &c.

of our Prayers; they are the common Buts against which Satan and his agents shoot all their arrows; he overlooks small and great, and dischargeth principally at the Kings of Israel. Many can * rail, but few pray for them; which makes things go so ill with us. Besides, in Praying for them we Pray for our selves; in their Peace lies our Peace and the Peace of the Churches; hence Gods people when they were Captives in Babylon, yet must pray for its Peace on this very account, Jer. 29. 7. Besides, Kings hearts are in the hand of God, and at the Prayers of his People he turns them, Nehemiah 2.4. Hest. 4. 16. & 5. 2. Job. 12. 24. Prov. 21. 1. Yea we must not only Pray but Preach for them too. Titus 3. 1. men must often be put in mind of their duty to Superiours; many look upon themselves as fellow-creatures with Magistrates, but God will have men know their places, and learn subjection.

2. We must give them Reverent and respectful Titles. Aaron calls Moses, my Lord, Exod. 23. 22. The woman of Tekoa calls David an Angel, 2 Sam. 14. 17. and so doth Mephiboseth, 2 Sam. 19. 27. They are the Fathers of our Country; and he that curseth Father or Mother, must die for it, Exod. 20. 12. & 21. 15. 17. Reviling speeches do rather exasperate then mend men. Tis our duty to make the best construction of their actions, interpreting nothing Sinisterly, but concealing their infirmities, and with Shem and Japhet go backward and cover them; we must not suffer them in their persons or actions to be traduced or dishonoured; but if we must (as occasion requires) lay down our lives for our Brethren, then much more for the Fathers and defenders of the Nation, 1 John 3. 16. Tis therefore made the brand of Libertines and profane persons to despise Government and to speak evil of dignities, 2 Pet. 2. 10. Jude 8.

3. By Reverent Gestures, uncovering the Head, bowing bowing the knee and making obeysance to them, as Nathan and Araunah did to David, 1 Kings 1. 23. 2 Sam. 24. 20. So when Joseph was made Viceroy and Governour of Agypt, they cry before him Abresh, bow the Knee, Gen. 41. 43. Our deportment before them must favour of Humility and not of Insolency, Levit. 19. 32. Job. 29. 7, 8. Eccles. 8. 3. Next to the honour which we owe to God himself, we owe respect and ought to honour Magistrates, by a prompt obeying their just and lawfull commands, in * Civil and Political affairs, (1 Sam. 22. 14.) As our obedience to God, so our obedience to the Ministers of God should be made known to all men, Rom. 16. 19. Tis reported of the Kings of Peru that they were wont to use a Tassel, or Fringe made of red Wool which they wore upon their heads, and when they sent any Governour to Rule as Viceroy in any part of the Realm, they delivered him one of the threads of their Tassel, and for one of those simple threads he was as much obeyed as if he had been the King himself. Yet the Laws of men do not simply and per se bind the conscience, but only derivative so far as they are grounded on Gods Law, and are agreeable thereto. We must so give to Cesar his dues that we rob not God of his *, Luke 20. 25. for the Subject is not bound to obey in all things, but only so far as Gods glory is untoucht. Hence the Lord punisht Ephraim for obeying the sinfull commands of wicked men, Hosea 5. 11. and the Israelites smarted for obeying Feroboams wicked command in worshipping the Golden Calves, 1 Kings 12. 29, 30. In this sense we may not be the servants of men, 1 Cor. 7. 23. Tis true we may and must obey their hard commands, but never their * sinfull. We must so honour the King, that withal we fear God, (Prov. 24. 21. 1 Pet. 2:17.) and obey them in, but not against the Lord, Ephes. 6. 1. Such flatterers as obey their Imaginem Dei rex gestat, idcirco colendus & amandus est, si non propter se, saltem Vocationis & functionis sue causa. Aug. de Vet & N. Test.

* The Laws of men properly bind the outward man, the Conscience God reserves for himself. Byfield on 1 Pet. 2. 13. p. 430, 431.

Leges regum tum demum obligant conscientiam, cum promulgant ea quae Deus praecipit.

* See Mr. Hieron on that Text, after Psal. 52. p. 446.

V. Woodward's Kings Chronicle of the bad Kings of Judah. p. 87.

Malo in malo non est obediendum.

* Et si parendum in omnibus patri, in eo non parendum quo efficitur ne pater sit. Seneca l. 2. contro. 9.

*Contemne potestatem timen-do majorem potestatem; ille corpus, hic animam perdere potest; ille gladium, hic minatur Gehennam. Aug.
Hom. 6. de verbis Domini.*

wicked commands, are great enemies to them, and help to bring Gods Judgements on them. In such cases we should answer as they did. (Acts 5. 29.) whether it be better to obey God or man, judge ye. 'Tis no dishonour to an earthly King to see the King of Kings served before him; the Midwives are commended and rewarded by God for disobeying the wicked command of Pharaoh, Exod. 1. Heb. 11. 23. We must yield Passive obedience where we cannot yield Active, as the three Chaldean worthies submitted to the fire when they could not actively obey the Kings command, Dan. 3. 18. We desire to give as much to the Magistrate as the word of God gives him; and if any give him more, the more shame for them; there is more of flattery then honesty in it.

[See this Question (An leges humanae obligent conscientiam) more fully debated in D. Davenant de Jure ac norma fidei. cap. 26. D. Andrews on the fifth Commandment. chap. 4. p. 336. Ames CC. 1. 1. cap. 11, 12. Rutherford of Church Government, p. 201. Sharpins Loc. com. P. 2. p. g. 240. Alsteds CC. p. 340, 342. & Gerhard. de Magistrat. Polit. p. 355. Musculus loc. com. 645. p. folio. Ames. CC. 1. 5. c. 25. q. 4.

4. By a cheerfull Paying all Tributes, Customs, Taxes to them. The godly render it as willingly, and pay it as cheerfully as if twere a free gift, Luke 20. 25. Rom. 13. 7. So did Christ, Mat. 17. 25. Tiberius Caesar was a notorious wicked man, yet Christs commands that Tribute be paid to him. Mat. 22. 21. The state cannot subsist, nor Peace be maintained without great cost and charges.

Yet Magistrates must take heed of increasing the Taxes and burdens of their people, when no necessity compells, but only to please their own Lusts and Luxury; God threatens such, Ezek. 45. 9. Micab 3. 2, 3. Nothing raiseth Sedition and Rebellion sooner in a Nation then such over-

See this more fully cleared in my Comment on over-reaching practices; this cruelty lost Rehoboam ten Tribes at a clap, 1 Kings 12. 14, 16, 19.
2 Tim. 3. 2. p. 313, 323, 333.

Tis a scandal which wicked men in all ages have fastned on the Godly, that they are Rebellious, Seditious, troublers of the State, enemies to Cæsar, &c. whereas there are not Nobler and better Subjects in the world then such as truly fear the God of heaven. These Pray for Rulers (when others curse, swear, drink Healths, and break their Laws) These obey for conscience, others for fear of punishment only. These are ready to venture their lives and estates for their honour, when the wicked at a pinch will leave him and forsake him. They are Sons of Belial that despise Sovereignty, 1 Sam. 10. 27. and seditious Sheba's that rise in rebellion against it, 2 Sam. 20. 1. As for Gods people, they are of those that are faithfull and peaceable in the land, and so far from sedition, that they quietly bear even the cruellest Tortures of the Vilest Tyrants. Twere easie to shew that none can be truly Loyal but such as are truly Religious. Those that are unfaithfull to God, how can they be true to their Sovereign? He that fears not God, will never honour the King. Religion takes away that ferity and brutishness of spirit which is in men, and makes them obey out of conscience to Gods command.

Objection.

Were they good men, I could willingly obey them: but our Rulers are wicked men and cruel Tyrants; they care not what burdens and Taxes they lay upon us; they do not only strece but flay us, they rear our flesh and suck our blood, and must we obey such?

Answe.

As Servants must obey not only good and gentle Masters, but also the froward and perverse Heathenish ones, 1 Pet. 2. 18. so far as their commands cross not Gods commands, so subjects must obey

V. D. Taylor on Titus 3. 1. p: 546, 547.

See this Cavil confuted in my Beauty of Holines, Chap. 7 Obj. 11. p. 143.

Solenne est ut Christianis crimina seditiosis & læsæ Majestatis à persecutoribus assignantur, quibus tamen non sint obnoxii. Cent. Magdeb. Col. 420. V. plura apud Laurentium in 1 Pet. 2. 12. p. 147.

See more in Mr. Jenkyne on Jude 8. Obj. 5. & 6. p. 300, 301. folio.

Vir bonus est optimus civis, servus, subditus.

Tertullianus laudi Christianorum accenset; quod nunquam inter seditiosos inventi fuerint, licet Ethnicis Magistratus subjecti.

Tertulli. lib. ad Scapulam. Quomodo fidem Imperatori præstabant inviolatam, qui Deo sunt perjuri? dixit Constantius. Euseb. l. 1. cap. 11.

Potestas est à Deo, sed non abusus potestatis.

Res ipsa sæpè est à Deo, licet modus quo quis eam assequitur non sit à Deo; sic divitiæ sunt donum Dei, licet modus quo avari eas sibi comparant non sit à Deo.
Gerhard.

Qui dedit regnum Mario, ipse & Caio Cesari; qui Augusto, ipse & Neroni; qui Vespasiano suavissimo, ipse & Domitiano crudelissimo; qui Constantino, ipse Apostatæ Juliano. Aug. de Civit. Dei 1.5.c 21.

Dominium temporale habet fundamentum in natura, non in gratia. Ergo cum natura maneat in impiis, dominia exercere possunt.
Davenant. Determ. Q. 30. p. 136. See more in my Comment. on 1 Tim. 3. 2. p. 67.

not only pious and mild Governours, but also harsh and cruel ones, in external and civil things, usq; ad aras; so far as may consist with a good conscience.

The Power is his, whatever the persons be; the office is his, however they came by it, and so calls for our respect and observance. Even Tyrants are ordained of God for the punishment of an ungratefull and rebellious people; when men grow weary of Christs easie yoke, tis just with God to put the Iron yoke of Tyrants on them. (Deut. 28. 47, 48.) Hence he's said not only to give Kings in mercy to be nursing Fathers, but also Kings in wrath to be scourges to a wicked people, Hose. 13. 11. He sent wicked Saul as well as religious David and he is called the Lords anointed (1 Sam. 24. 7) and so is Cyrus a Heathen, Esa. 45. 15. Nebucadnezzar is called Gods servant, Jer. 27. 6. Dan. 2. 37. and the King of Assyria is called Gods rod to chastise his people for their sins, Isa. 10. 5. As the wickedness of a Minister doth not destroy the Ministry; so the wickedness of a Magistrate doth not destroy Magistracy. Cruel Parents, are Parents still; hence it is that in the New Testament we are so oft commanded to be subject to Heathen Magistrates, to pray for them, to pay to them, and to yield them either active or passive obedience, Mat. 22. 21. Rom. 13. 1. 1 Tim. 2. 2. Titus 3. 1. 1 Pet. 2. 13, 17. and if Tyrants were not ordained by God, we must exclude his providence from the greatest part of the world. But the Psalmist tells us that the Kingdom of his providence and power reacheth over all, Psal. 33. 19. the Lord hath prepared his throne, and his Kingdom ruleth over all. All creatures are his servants; even the Devils in Hell do Gods will, though against their own; and so do Tyrants and wicked men; they oft break the will of Gods command, and yet they fulfill the will of his Decree. They serve his purpose and providence Materially, when formally and intentionally intentionally

sionally they seek and serve their own, Acts 4. 27, 28.

We are apt to complain of Governours, but who complains of his sins which provoke the Lord to set up such Governours over us? Judges 3. 8. & 4. 2. Job 34. 30. Psal. 107. 40. Prov. 28. 2. Eccles 3. 16. Esa. 10. 5, 6. Ezek. 7. 11. Hosea 5. 7. & 13. 11. Let us therefore repent of them, and Judge our selves; then will God make Medicines of these Poysons, and either turn or overturn such as molest his people. As in nature, so in Government, nothing is permanent that is violent; so that it is hard to see an Old Tyrant; although for a time they may uphold their state by force and fraud; yet in the end divine justice confounds their practises, and infatuates their counsels to their own ruine. Though they be great, yet there is a greater then they, who will break them with a rod of Iron, and dash them in pieces like a Potters Vessel, (Psal. 2. 9.) easily, suddenly, irrecoverably. Though men cannot or dare not punish them, yet God will; if King Zachariah be wicked and draw Israel to sin, God will soon cut him off, so that he shall Reign but six moneths, (2 Kings 15. 6.) and Shallum that killed him (following his Idolatry) reigned but one moneth after him, verse 13. and Pekahiah his Son, continuing that Idolatry, reigned but two years, ver. 23. The persecuting * Roman Emperours were sixty three, yet only six of them died a natural death. Usually God cuts off Tyrants suddenly, and raiseth up Pious and Peaceable Rulers in their stead; after a wicked Ahaz comes a good Hezekiah, after Idolatrous Amon a zealous Josiah. After harsh King Henry comes mild King Edward; and after furious Queen Mary, peaceable Queen Elizabeth. Thus after a storm usually comes a calm, and after a sharp Winter a pleasant Summer.

2. As for Taxes, though they be great and grievous, yet the best remedy is Prayer and Patience.

Peccatum populi Tyrannorum vincet.

Tollenda est culpa, ut cesset Tyrannorum plaga. Aug.

V. Mr. Woodwards Kings Chronicle of the wicked Kings of Judah, per totum.

Ad generum Ceteris sine sine caede & vulnere pauci Descendant reges, & sicca morte Tyranni. Juven. Satyr. 10.

* V. August. de Civit. Dei. l. 3. c. 15.

Illud usu venit ut sceleratissimum sequatur optimus Princeps; quorum enim exitus perborrescunt, eorum vitam imitari turpe & periculosum ducunt. Sic Neronem Galba sequutus est; Nerva, Domitianum; Alexander Severus Princeps eruditus & temperatissimus, Heliogabulum non solum bivendum, sed & quadrupedum spurcissimum. V. H. Rodian. c. 1. & Bodin. Method. Histor. p. 301.

See more to this Point in my Comment on 2 Tim.
3. 2. pag. 31.

Things that cannot be remedied with Patience, must be endured. In 1 Sam. 8. 11. the Lord tells them what will be the practice of their King, not as approving or allowing of what he should do; for tis the threatning of a judgement, not the Imposition of a duty. q. d. This people shall dearly rue the casting off that form of Government, which I had given them. Yet under all their pressures there must be no rising, but only in prayer; They shall cry unto the Lord, and acknowledge their sin, which is the meritorious cause of all their sufferings; yet tis the wisdom of Governours to fleece and not to slay the flock for fear of Insurrection. Twas good counsel which King Henry the fourth upon his death-bed gave to his Son, He admonish him to be moderate in his Taxes; for so long as English men (saith he) have money and riches, so long shall you have obeysance from them; but when they be poor and in want, they be alwayes ready to make Insurrections at every turn.

Imperantis felicitas in felicitate subditorum consistit.

Objection.

Magistrates are not only cruel, but careles; they neglect their duty, and therefore I may well omit my pay.

Answer.

Yet this cannot excuse thee from doing thy duty; another mans sin will not excuse mine; Recrimination is no Purgation.

2. If they are bad, yet better have a bad one then none at all; tis better living under a Nero then a Nerva; where nothing is lawfull then where all things are lawfull; Tyranny is better then Anarchy; the one keeps things in some order, when Anarchy puts all into confusion, and makes every mans lust his Law, and set up as many Tyrants as there are slaves to sin. Government is de jure natura; no Nation so barbarous, no time so dark but some footsteps of Government might have been seen.

ubi avaritia, sibi avaritia.

Ea quæ vera sunt secundum res gradus, et la navis, et al' d'v's, et a b'ol' n'g' w-tor, nullam admittunt disputationem.

seen. The very Bees by the instinct of nature have their King whom they acknowledge and follow, and the Cranes have a Leader. Though the Nature of man being proud, loves not the Superiority of others; and being licentious, loves not to be straitned by others; yet it teacheth subordination, and chuseth Tyranny rather than Anarchy. The most unruly know not how to subsist without a Ruler: even Theeves have a Leader amongst them; yea and those Monsters of Munster that at first decryed Magistracy, yet when they were once got into the Saddle, they quickly set up (such a one as he was) a Taylor King of their own. Yea in Hell amongst the Devils there is a Government, there is a Belzebub, a Prince of Devils, (Mat. 12. 24.) the Devils who are the Authors of all disorder amongst others, yet have an order amongst themselves. Tis ill with that state where men are left like the Fishes of the Sea which have no Ruler, but the greater devour the less, Hab. 1. 14. Where all will rule, there is no rule; and where there is none to rule, there is all manner of misrule, as Idolatry, Murder, Plunder, Thefts, Rapes, Riots and all uncleanness, Judges 17. 4, 5. 6. & 18. 30. & 19. 1, 2. So that tis a very bad Government that is worse then none at all; where there is Magistracy, some may be oppressed and wronged; but none can be righted where there is none at all. Better poor people should sit under a scratching bramble, then have no hedge at all to shelter them from the storms of popular fury. Nebuchadnezar was none of the best Governours, yet he was a Cedar under which the beasts of the field found shadow; and the fowls of the Heaven dwelt in the bows thereof, (Dan. 4. 9, 10, 11, 12.) And if a Heathen Magistrate be so usefull, what is a Christian one?

A sixth Observation.

We may lawfully give Titles of Honour to Magistrates.

Strates. If God himself calls them Gods, Shields, Saviours, &c. and lay upon them Majesty, Glory and Honour, (Psal. 21. 5.) why should any man scruple the giving of them such Titles? Away then with those foolish Quakers who are afraid of being too respectful (such is their breeding) to Gods Deputies; and therefore they call them Thou Richard, Thou Thomass, Thou John, as if they were talking to some Bearwards rather than Magistrates. But the Holy Ghost hath taught them better manners, and give Titles of Honour to men in Authority; as King Agrippa, Most Noble Festus, Acts 26. 25. Most excellent Theophilus, Luke 1. 3. But of this at large in another place.

Caution, yet Rulers must take heed of suffering Flatterers to give them Titles which belong not to them, as Most Holy, Most Unconquerable, Omnipotent, Omniscient, our Lord God, as Domitian and the * Popes of Rome are called by their Parasites. Thus James Naylor had blasphemous Titles given him by his Adherents, an Everlasting Son of Righteousness, and Prince of Peace; they sung before him Holy, Holy, Holy Lord God of Sabbath; no more James but Jesus, the Lamb of God, a perfect man, &c. Death is the Lot of such blasphemers, Lev. 24. 16. Dan. 3. 29. 'Twas the sin of the Persians that they honoured their Kings with Divine Honour, as Gods. Let such remember Herod, who for his Pride in suffering Divine Honour to be given to him, was eaten up of worms or lice, Acts 12. 22, 23. God is very tender of his own glory; what ever he parts withall he will not part with that, Isa. 42. 8. when Satan began to call for divine honour, Christ would bear no longer, but bids him Be gone Satan.

Observation 7.

The calling of the Magistrate is an honourable calling.

See my Commentary on
2 Tim. 3. 17. Obj. 2. p. 296.

Præstat in uoluptatibus quam uoluptatibus incidere, q. corvi non seruiunt nisi in mortuos, adulatores uero uidentes deuorant, dixit Dio genes.

* V. Plura apud Laurentium in 1 Pet. 2. 17. Obj. 4.

Against Flatterers, see Plutarchs Morals. p. 69. Engl. & Aretius Problem. Chap. 2. p. 50. Greenhill on Ezek. 22. 28. p. 296. Clerks Mirror. cap. 53. Fenkin on Jude 8. Obj. 6.

V. Naylor's Examination.

V. Q. Curtius lib. 8.

calling. God puts his own name on them, they are earthly Gods, they judge for him, they bear his Image in their Office, they sit on his Throne, and he sits with them there. Though they be subject to Infirmities, sickness and death as other men are, yet their calling is Honourable; for the Dignitie of Magistracy lies not so much in the persons who are mortal, but in their Office, in that they are Gods Lieutenants on earth, they sit in his place and exercise his power by Deputation; by him they are appointed to execute Justice and preserve the Nations in Peace and Purity. Now the Dignity of Magistracy will the better appear if we consider those Titles of Honour which the Scripture graceth them withall; for whereas Libertines call them Pests and Plagues, Persecutors, Burdens, and Abusers of the world by tyranny & oppression, &c.

*Εικων βασιλευς εστιν
 εμψυχου Θεου. Imago Dei rex est animata. Menander.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| Yet the word of God calls
them | 1. Gods. |
| | 2. Sons of the Most High. |
| | 3. Saviours. |
| | 4. Fathers. |
| | 5. Nursing Fathers. |
| | 6. Heads of the Body. |
| | 7. Eyes of a State. |
| | 8. Servants of God. |
| | 9. Shepherds of the people. |
| | 10. Healers. |
| | 11. Pillars. |
| | 12. The Lords anointed. |
| | 13. Dignities. |
| | 14. Nails in the building. |
| | 15. Corner-stones. |
| | 16. Shields of the earth. |
| | 17. Angels. |
| | 18. Foundations. |
| | 19. Signets. |
| | 20. Captains. |
| | 21. Rocks and Hiding places. |

The Beauty of Magistracy.

1. The Holy Ghost calls them Gods, as we have seen at large before.

2. Sons of God, not by Nature or Adoption, but by Office, of which see more on ver. 6.

3. The Saviours of the people; Judges 2: 16. & 3: 9. Neh. 9. 27: The Lord saved Israel by the hand of Jeroboam, 2 Kings 14: 27. and of David, 2 Sam. 8. 3. Such a one was Jehosaphat, 2 Chron. 20. These God hath ordained for Saviours and shelters to his people against the rage and Violence of a wicked world: hence tis that in their straits and exigencies they Appeal to Cesar for succour (Aets 25. 11, 12.) though many times the Remedy is worse then the disease; and those that should be Saviours become Divouers and destroyers of Gods people; but this is the abuse of their power. God erected them to defend and save his people, that under them they might lead Quiet, Honest and Godly lives, 1 Tim. 2. 2.

4. Fathers of the people. So Joseph who was a Prince in Egypt, is called a Father, Gen. 45. 8. and Deborah is called a Mother in Israel, Judges 5. 7. The Philistines called their Kings Abimelech, i. e. the King my Father, Gen. 20. 2. & 26. 1. Psal. 34. Title. Saul was a wicked King, yet David calls him my Father, 1 Sam. 24. 11. and Job who was a Magistrate, (a Judge at least) as appears, Job 29. 7, 8. and as some conceive a King, (though his dominions might not be so large as ours now are) yet possibly such as in those ancient times, and in those Eastern parts of the world were called Kings, being a Supream Governour within his own Territories, though perhaps but of one single City and its Suburbs with some few neighbouring Villages; hence he's called the greatest man of all the East, Job. 1. 3. and when he came in presence, the Princes and Nobles held their Tongues; he sat as chief, and dwelt as a King in the Army, Job. 29. 9, 25. yet though he were thus great, he styles himself a Father to the poor,

Job.

See D. Gouge his Arrows on Exod. 17. 9. S. 40.
p. 203.

Abimelech i. e. Pater-rex,
est nomen Pietatis, Potesta-tis & Charitatis.

Bonus Princeps non differt è bono patre. Xenoph. Cy- ropæd lib. 8.

Job 29. 16. and twas an high commendation of Valentinian the Emperour, that his people knew not whether they had of him Dominum an Patrem, a Father or a Lord. In Rome of old the Senators were called Fathers, and twas afterwards counted among the Romans the greatest title of honour that could be bestowed upon their Consuls, Generals, Emperors or who ever had deserved best of the Commonwealth, to have this addition to the rest of his stile, Pater Patrie, the Father of his Countrey. This Title implies not only Power and Authority, but also tendernefs, care and pittie; they should carry fatherly affections towards their people: as a good Father loves, defends and cherisheth his children, so will a good Prince his Subjects; he will not *grind them by cruel exactions, nor drink their blood to satisfie his own lust, nor suffer them to be poysoned with Heresie; when they cry for bread, he'l not give them a Scorpion; but he is more tender of his people then of himself, and more sensible of their miseries then his own. In all their sufferings he suffers with them, he condoles their miseries, redresseth their wrongs, relieves their wants, reforms their errors, prevents their dangers, procures their welfare and happinefs by all good means: Thus men of Publick Places should be men of Paternal and Publick Spirits: such men need no Guard; when King Agasticles demanded how he might be safe without a Guard? twas answered, by behaving himself towards his Subjects as a Father to his children. Hence Rulers are called the Arms of a people to bear them up and tenderly to lead them, Job 22. 8. Psal. 77. 10. Jer. 48. 25. Ezek. 31. 17.

5. Nursing Fathers, and Nursing Mothers, Isa. 49. 23. Kings shall be thy Nursing Fathers, and Queens thy Nursing Mothers. A most sweet description of the lovelinefs of Magistracy, shewing what tender care should be in them, towards the Church of

— Sed Roma parentem, Roma patrem Patrie Ciceronem libera dixit. Juven. Sat. 8. Homerus nihil aliud in rege desiderabit nisi ut esset foris in hostes, bonus in ciues.

— Cum Patriæ rector dicere Patre;q; utere more Dei nomen habentis idem. Ovid:

* Nefaria fuit ista Neronis vox, Me mortuo terra igne miscetur. Et illud Caligulae, utinam Pop. Rom. unam haberet cervicem quam semel truncare possent.

Tardè sibi pater membra sua abscindit, & cum absciderit reponere cupit, & in abscindendo gemit, cunctatus multum diuq;: Propè enim est ut libenter damnet, qui citò; propè est ut iniquè punit, qui nimis. Ser. de Clement. cap. 14.

Præsit ut præsit.

Varium & multiplex studium denotat, quod liberali manu ab omni iustitium hominum genere impenditur in Ecclesiam Dei. Classius.

God; no Father or Mother shall be more tender over their children, to provide for them, and to guard them and secure them from annoyance, then Governours in Gospel-times shall be over Gods poor, helpless, Fatherless people. q. d. *Whereas Kings and Rulers of the world are now opposite to the Church; yet in Gospel times Kings and Queens shall gladly take upon them thy Patronage and Protection both in Temporals and Spiritualls; no Nurse shall be so tender over their little ones, as they shall be over thee. Thy Queens shall be Saraes (so tis in the fountain,) i. e. they shall be as tender over thee as Sarah was over Isaac, who gave him suck; and as the Nurse out of love spares no cost nor pains, but gives even her own blood to her babe; so the Churches Rulers shall spare no cost nor care, but will venture their lives for the Churches good. As God made several of the Persian Kings Nursing Fathers and defenders of his ancient people the Jews at the time of their return from Babylonish Captivity, as we read in Ezra and Nehemiab; so we read of the Roman Emperors, as Constantine, Theodosius, &c. that were Guardians to the Christians in their dominions. God would have Governours to carry his people in their bosoms lovingly, carefully, mildly and gently, Num. 11. 12. Hence it is that they are called Benefactors or gracious Lords, (Luke 22. 15.) because of that bounty and beneficence which they do, or at leastwise ought to shew to their people, and are compared to a lefy tree which yields shade for beasts, nests and habitations for birds, and meat for all, Dan.*

4. 20, 21, 22.

6. The Heads of the body Polick, and the Principalities of a Nation, Numb. 1. 16. & 14. 4. & 17. 2. Judges 11. 8. Titus 3. 1. and that 1. In respect of sublimity, as the Head is the highest and most Honourable member in mans body, so in the State the Magistrate excels others in dignity and sublimity; hence

Though they be not Fathers to beget thee, yet they shall be Fathers to nurse thee; they shall carry thy Sons and Daughters in their arms, i. e. they shall contribute their aid and assistance for the upholding and encreasing of the Church, Leyford.

Patet hinc, omnem potestatem Ecclesie esse cumulativam, non privativam in libertatibus quas Christus tradidit Ecclesie, &c. Apollon. Jus Mag. circa sacra. p. 30.

Principes vocantur Neditim, i. e. benefici, (Job. 12. 21. Prov. 8. 15.) quia eos decet clementia & beneficentia.

hence he's also compared to a Mountain which stands above and overlooks the rest of the earth, Mica 6. 2.

2. In respect of power and profit. As the Head commands the rest of the members and directs their actions for the good of the whole; so the Magistrate is set over his people to direct and rule them for the benefit of the whole body; hence tis that Jeremy laments the loss of Zedekiah (the last King of Dauids line, but none of the best) with that Parthetical expression, The breath of our nostrils is gone, Lam. 4. 20. As a man cannot live without breath, so a Common-wealth cannot long subsist without Government.

Magistratus est velut totius populi communis anima, quæ corpus ipsum reipublicæ sustentatur & defenditur.
Danzæus.

3. As all the members of the body will hazard themselves for the good of the Head, so should subjects for the good of their Rulers.

7. The Eyes of a State. As the eye of the wicked watcheth his opportunities to do mischief; so should the Magistrates eye watch to catch them in their wickedness; to this end God hath set up Magistrates to oversee the manners of the people, and calls them eyes, Job 29. 15. Isa. 29. 10. The Lord hath poured on them the spirit of deep sleep, and hath closed their eyes; but who are those? the next words tell you. The Prophets and Rulers hath he covered. The Hebrew word which we render Rulers, is Heads, because Rulers are the Heads of a people; and what is a Head without eyes, or having its eyes covered? Rulers especially when good, are the light of Israel, and the beauty thereof, 2 Sam. 1. 19. & 21. 17. & 23. 4. 1 Kings 3. 28. As Ministers are called Seers, and the eyes of the Church, 1 Sam. 9. 9. 1 Cor. 12. 16, 17. so Magistrates are appointed by God to be the Eyes of the Common-wealth, to foresee dangers and prevent them, and to oversee the manners of people to amend them. Now as they should not wear the sword in vain; so they should not bear these Titles in vain; they should not be glass-eyes or wooden-legs; as those artificial limbs stand the Body Natural in little stead, so do these the body Politick — Stat magni nominis umbra.

Oculus in scepro was the Egyptian Hieroglyphick of a Princes Vigilancy.

8. The Servants of God, Jer. 27. 6. Ezek. 29. 19, 20. Hag. 2. ult. yea though they be Heathens, yet their power is Gods, and therefore he calls them his Servants and Ministers, Rom. 13. 4. 6. Neither is this Title any diminution to them, but tis the honour of their Honours that they are Servants to so great a Master, who is King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. The Angels those glorious Spirits count it their honour to be Ministring Spirits to such a Lord, Heb. 1. 14. and Christ by way of Honour is called Gods Servant, Isa. 42. 1. & 53. 11. These are the great Servants of the Common-wealth, endowed with gifts of prudence, fortitude, clemency, &c. for the good of others. Neither are they only his Servants by right of Creation, for so all creatures are his Servants, Psal. 119. 91. Nor Secondly by Right of Redemption; for so the elect only are his. But by special Delegation and Commission from God, by way of Eminency they are called his Servants, because they are set to serve him in a more excellent place. Now the more Eminent the Master, the more Noble is the service. No Master like God, his work is wages, and such employment is high preferment. Yet this Dignity calls for Duty; for a Servant how great so ever he be, is but a living Organ (as the Philosopher calls him) to serve his Master with all his might; he works for him; he gets for him; he lives to him and dies to him, he's wholly at his beck and service; so must Magistrates who have received their power from God, spend themselves and all they have for his honour: for albeit they are Gods amongst men, yet they are but men with God; the greatest Emperor is but his Minister,
They

Quò sublimior est gloria, et major cura. Cyprian.

They are Rulers over the persons, yet are but servants for the good of their people. People must serve them, and yet they are the greatest servants. As tis the duty of all to serve them, so tis their Office to serve all.

Qui imperat, servus servorum est. Luther.

2. As Magistrates and Ministers are both Διακονοι, Servants, and have the same Title given them; so it should mind us of that Harmony which ought to be between us: we both have one name, drive at one design, and serve one Master, though in different Spheres, and therefore we should assist each other in the promoting of Gods glory in our places. Its a comely thing when the word and the sword go together.

9. Shepherds of the people, Numb. 27. 17. Isa. 44. 23. Psal. 77. 20. Jer. 6. 3. & 12. 10. & 49. 19. Ezek. 34. 23. Micah. 5. 4. Zach. 10. 2.

They must resemble good Shepherds, 1. In Industry and fortitude, as they are exposed to wind and weather, enduring Summers heat and Winters Frost for the good of their flocks, and venture their lives in their defence (Gen. 31. 38, 39, 40. Isa. 31. 4.) against Dogs, Wolves, Lions, and Bears that would worry the flock: so must Rulers be industrious in watching over the flock, defending it from the Violence of Wild beasts; he must not Tolerate seducers who are called Dogs, Wolves, Foxes: to destroy the flock of Christ, but he must drive them from the Fold, and keep his sheep from the Poysonous Pastures of Hereticks. The weak Lambs of Christ he must carry in his bosom, and the strong he must preserve from going astray; this is the meaning of that in Numb. 27. 17. where Moses prays that the Lords people be not as sheep without a Shepherd, but may have a Ruler to go in and out before them, i. e. one that may guide and govern them both at home and abroad, in time of War and Peace. Thus did Moses himself, what indefatigable pains did Ὁυ χεῖν πανύχλιον εὐδῖν βυληφόρον ἀνδρα.

Homer-Iliad. b.

he take for the good of Gods people! he even consumed himself till he had assistants provided for him, Exod. 18. 18. Tis said of Agefilaus, that so great was his care of the publick good that he could scarce get time to be sick. God hath set up Rulers for this very end, by good Laws to guard his people, and by arms valiantly to defend them in their bodies, souls, goods and good name from the Violence of unreasonable men. They are principally ordained for the good of the Church; All is theirs finaliter (i. e.) the end why God created all things was specially for the good of his Church; as Ministers, so Cæsars are set up by God for the benefit of his people, who are exposed to more dangers then other men. Shepherds are set for the safety of the Sheep and not of the Wolves; and as for the punishment of wicked men, tis principally reserved for the judgement of the great day, 2 Pet. 2. 9: the defence of the godly is the Magistrates great work; This office will take up the whole man. Twas the sin of the Bishops, that they would be Bishops in the Church, and Lord-Keepers, Lord Treasurers, Privy Counsellors and Justices of the Peace too: and so between both, they were neither good Magistrates, nor good Ministers, but deceived the Church, misled the King, and wronged the State; of such Latimer complains, Since Lording and lording hath come up, Preaching hath gone down, contrary to the Apostles times; for they Preacht and Lordered not; but now they Lord and Preach not. They that be Lords, will ill go to plough; tis no meet office for them, it befeems not their State, and thus came up Lording Lorderers: and if the Plow-man in the Countrey were as negligent in his Office as Prelates be in theirs, we should not live long for want of food. Let such consider, 1. That Magistracy and Ministry are two distinct offices, to be executed by distinct persons, (2 Chron. 19. 11.) in different Latimers Sermon on the Plough. p. 19, 20.

V. Titulum in Syntag. p. 2.

Disp. 32. Thef. 33. & Ame-

sii Medul. l. 2. c. 17. §. 48.

different administrations, having different objects and ends; and therefore ought not to be confounded by us; hence the domination of the Priests is reckoned as a horrid thing, Jeremiah 5. 30, 31. Ezek. 34. 4.

2. Christ himself tells us that his Kingdom is spiritual, tis not of this world; and when they sought to make him a King he fled from them, John 6. 15. and refused to divide inheritances (Luke 12. 14.) or to sentence the woman taken in adultery which belonged to the Magistrates office, John 8. 11. yea he forbid his Disciples and their Successors the exercising of any Lordly or Political domination, Mat. 20. 25. & Luke 22. 25. And if they might not serve Tables and see to the Poor, because it hindred their studies, (Acts 6. 2.) much less may they attend Seats of Judicature which are greater impediments; besides they are expressly commanded not to intangle themselves in the things of this world, 2 Tim. 2. 4. and this drowning themselves in secular offices is condemned by many Councils.

Stetisse lego Apostolos iudicandos, non sedisse iudicantes. Bern. l. 1. de consid.

Concil. Eliber. Can. 19. Carthag. 1. Can. 6. 9. Calcedon. Can. 3. Constant. 6. Can. 9. Moguntin. Can. 10. 12. Rhemens. Can. 29, &c.

2. In Tenderness over the flock. A good Shepherd doth fleece but not slay his Sheep; so a good Magistrate is moderate in his Taxes and Impositions on his people. Many Rulers are Tyrannical Beasts, not Shepherds; hence those four persecuting Monarchs are compared to Beasts for their cruelty, (Dan. 7. 3. 7.) when they should be Angels and Guardians to defend, they are devouring beasts that have Teeth, great Teeth, great Iron Teeth (so is that Beast in Daniel described) to shew what spoil and havock he would make amongst the people. Of such unnatural Shepherds the Lord complains, Micah 3. 3. Zach. 11. 5. such must know that the flock is the Lords, not theirs; the people are the Sheep of his Pasture, and therefore they are called His, by a special propriety, John 21. 15, 16.

Reipublicæ salus suprema lex esto, & præcipuus scopus quem sibi quilibet Magistratus proponat. Plato de Rep. l. 1.

Magistratu dignum non esse quenquam qui non sit melior subditis, dixit Cyrus.

Chobesh, ligator vulne-rum, from Chobash to tie fast, because tis the part of a good Prince to bind up the wounds of his subjects, the light of his countenance should be as life to his people, and his favour as the latter rain, Prov. 16. 35.

my Lambs, my Sheep; not Thy Lambs or thy Sheep.
When Solomon prayed for an understanding heart, twas that he might Judge Thy people (1 Kings
3. 9.) Not my people to slay, slay and destroy; but Thy people to be loved, fed, and defended by me.
Princes are not set up to seek themselves, but their peoples good.

3. In Excellency. As the Shepherd excells his Sheep, so should Rulers excell their people. As Saul was taller by the head and shoulders then other men, so ought these to excell in Wisdom, Temperance, Righteousness and Religion, that by their good Example they might lead their people after them. Agefilans said well, A Prince must out-goe his Subjects, not in Lust and Pleasure, but in Temperance and Magnanimity. So said Cyrus, He is not worthy to govern, that is no better nor more vertuous then they over whom he is to command.

10. Healers and Binders and Chirurgicalians, which bind up the wounds of their people, and labour to heal the divisions which are amongst them; hence tis that 7. b. 34. 17. Isa. 3. 7. Rulers are called Healers or binders up; a Metaphor taken from Chirurgery, and the binding up of wounds and fores for the cure of them. And Oh that the Rulers of our Nation would labour to make good this blessed Title by using all good means for the healing of all these sad Divisions both in Doctrine and Discipline, both in Principles and Practice. Parliaments for the State, and Synods for the Church, are excellent Remedies against exhorbitances both in the one and the other.

11. Pillars of a State, it cannot stand long without them. The world would soon fall into confusion and shatter all to pieces (as to its civil capacity) if the Lord had not founded it on the Pillars of Government, Psal. 75. 3. I bear up the Pillars of the earth, David a King was a Pillar that by his wisdom.

wisdom and faithfulness did bear up the inferiour Magistrates, whom he calls the Pillars of the earth in a Political sense. These are the stakes in the hedge of the State, which keep up the fence that the wild beast enter not; yea the Lord looks at any one of them as able to make up a breach against him, Exod. 32. 10. Ezek. 22. 30 31. Jer. 5. 1. If the Lord could have found but a man that executed judgement i. e. but one faithfull Magistrate in Jerusalem, he had spared it for his sake. One Phineas executing judgement staid the Plague, Psal. 106. 30.

12. Christs or the Lords annointed, So Saul was called, 1 Sam. 12. 3. 5 & 24. 6. and David 2 Sam. 19. 21. Psal. 84. 9. & 132. 10. and Cyrus though a Heathen and one that had not received the external unction of Oyl which the Kings of Israel received at their Inauguration, yet being appointed of God to do him service, this call of God was beyond all the external unction in the world. Isa. 45. 1. 'Tis true the Kings whose choice had somewhat extraordinary in it, were installed into their office by pouring of Oyl upon them, 1 Sam. 10. 1. & 16. 12, 13. 1 Kinge 19. 15, 16. & 2. 9. 3. Now this Ceremony of Anointing signified that they were called by God to their office, and should receive from him all gifts and graces needfull for their places. Yet this Title is given to all believers, Psal. 105. 15. 1 Cor. 1. 22. 1 John 2. 20. 27.

See more fully our Large Annot. on 1 Sam. 10. 1.

ungere aliquem est eum tum muneri alicui præficere, et muneris ad illum obeundum necessarius instrere; ita ut unctio is 20^o duo complectatur. 1. Destinatio illud exequendum necessanem seu Vocationem ad aliquod munus. 2. Donorum ad munus riorum collationem. Ravanellus.

13. Dignities, Glories and Majesties, Dominions, Principalities and Powers, Rom. 8. 38. 2 * Pet. 2. 10. * Δόξαι, gloria. Jude 8. all in the Abstract, put for men that are set in Power and Dignity, and because of that glory and excellency wherewith God is pleased eminently to adorn them. Though Libertines reproach them as Inglorious and fools in Israel, yet the Holy Ghost for-seeing what spirits would arise in Gospel-times, calls them Dignities and Higher Powers in respect of their Superiority and preheminance above others, and in respect of those glorious gifts and endowments which God adorns them withall, whereby they are fitted for an honourable, fruitfull and faithfull discharge of their office, as wisdom to discern between good and evil, clear apprehension, Magnanimity and Zeal. Thus even Saul when he was made a King, was said to be another man i. e. he was adorned with Prudence, Clemency, Magnanimity and other Princely vertues fit for his place, 1 Sam. 10. 9. and so was David, 1 Sam. 16. 13. These are the light and glory of a land, of whom we may say as the people did of David; that he was worth ten thousand of them. 2 Sam. 18. 3. & 21. 17:

14. Nails and Pins upon which all the burden hangs, and therefore they have need to be fastned in a sure place, keeping close to the Rule of the word; never till then will they be a glorious Throne to their Fathers house, I/a. 22. 23. Now the Magistrate is compared to a Nail fastned in a Wall.

1. For Stability and firmness; as a Nail driven into a Wall sticks fast, so God will establish and confirm the power of Magistracy, that it shall be no more removed then a Nail that is driven up to the head, which may be matter of singular comfort to all faithfull Magistrates, who must look to encounter with many difficulties and indignities from an ungratefull world. But he that hath called them to their honour, will keep them there, and fix them with his own hand, whilest they walk in his fear, doing justice and judgement, Prov. 29. 14.

2. In respect of Utility; as a Nail that is fastned in a Wall is fit for many uses; so a faithfull Magistrate gistrate is many ways beneficial to the people where God hath fixt him; and as Pins do fasten Tents, so these help to fix us in our places in peace, in despite of Oppressors, Zach. 10. 4. and as the beams of a building are fastned and united by nails one to another; So Magistracy is a means to unite people together in Society and Amity.

3. In respect of the weighty labours that lie upon him. We know every one is apt to clap somewhat upon a Nail or Pin. Arms, Utenfils, Vessels, great and small we use to hang upon the wall. So the Magistrate is usually loaded with imployment; every one comes to him for support, defence and succour. They lay and leave their loads with him, all the necessary Utenfils of the house hang on this Nail. Upon it hang Vessels small as well as great; their Justice is or ought to be as large as Solomons wisdom which extended to the Hyssop, as well as to the Cedar; Isa. 22. 24. They shall hang upon him all the glory of his Fathers house, and all the Vessels of such quantity, even little Cups as well as great Flaggons: all affairs, great and small, and all the weight of the Common-wealth shall hang on him from the highest to the lowest. The glory of a Nation hangs on the Nail of Government.

15. Corner stones, which laid in the foundation do uphold the building. The main stress lies on the Corner-stones, Zach. 10. 4. out of him shall come the Corner; Whats that? why the word is a Metaphor commonly used for Governours and Magistrates, 1 Sam. 14. 38. Judg. 20. 2. where the chief of the people (in the fountain) are called the Corner-stones of the people. As Christ is the Corner-stone on which the Church stands, (Isa. 28. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 6.) So the Magistrate under God helps to uphold the Common-wealth.

Phinah, angulus exterior
edificii, & per Metaph.
Princeps qui est robur populi.
 Leigh.

2. These help to Unite the building and keep it together that it fall not asunder. As stones laid in the corner of a building where two Walls meet, are thereby united, strengthened and supported; so Magistrates are the stay and strength of a place, (Esa 19. 13.) they are the strong Towers and Bulwarks of a State. Tis true, all the stones in the building do conduce to the upholding of it; but the main weight of all lies on the Corner-stones; draw out these and the building cannot stand. As Sampsons strength lay in his locks, so doth the strength of a State in these.

Angulus Metaphoricè vocatur Princeps qui Republicam continet, stringit-prospicit & roborat, ut angulus utrum parietem in domo. Hierom.

3. As tis an Uniting, so tis also an Adorning stone, tis an Ornament to the building, because there is more labour spent in Polishing the Corner-stone, then in the ordinary stones of the building, Psal. 144. 12. Magistrates are usually endowed with more choice parts and gifts then others, as I have shewed before.

16. Shields of the earth, Psal. 47. ult. Isa. 21. 5. Jer. 51. 11. those which we call Rulers, the Original calls Shields and Bucklers, Hos. 4. 18. Magistrates like Shields should protect Gods Sabboths, Ordinances and people in their lives and estates from the violence of those Sons of Belial which labour to bring all into confusion that they may the better enjoy their own lusts. A Shield is for Preservation, tis a kind of Partition-wall between a man and danger, it bears all the darts that are thrown at us. When judgements are abroad, they should with Moses, Joshua and David by prayer wrestle with God, and lie in the breach to turn away Gods anger from them: then God will be scutorum scutum, a Shield of defence to such Shields of the earth.

Government is that Staff of Beauty with which God protects his people, Zach. 11. 7. tis called a Beautifull Staff for the profit and comfort which comes to us by it. As the Shepherds staff is for direction, correction, defence and support, even so is Government. 1. It directs a man that is willing to Sic Princeps Clypeus, non malleus.

See more in Dr. Reynolds Affize Sermon on Psal.
47. ult.

to live in Order, what to do, and what to shun.
2. It corrects him that will not be ruled. 3. It defends the poor and oppressed, and is a support to him who is wearied out with hard dealing from men.

17. Angels, for Wisdom, Purity, Righteousness and Majesty. As the Angels are Gods Messengers, always ready to execute his will; So Magistrates must be prompt and ready to defend the good, and punish the wicked according to Gods Commandment, 2 Sam. 4. 17. 20. & 19. 27.

18. The Foundations of the earth, Psal. 11. 3. & 82. 5. Micah 6. 2. If the foundations be destroyed what can the righteous do? When there is no Law for lewd and loose men, what can the Righteous do but glorifie God by mourning for the things which they cannot mend, and yet comforting themselves with this, verse 5. that the Lord is still in his holy Temple and hath his Throne in Heaven, q. d. though all be in confusion and we can see no help on earth, yet we will look unto God for aid, who sees and considers the sorrows of his people, and who can and will help them, when men will not. Magistrates under God are a special means to uphold the world and keep it from running into confusion; hence they are called Adonai, from Eten basis (Gen. 45. 8. Isa. 22. 18.) because like a foundation they uphold the building; hence Rulers and Valiant men are called Barrs (Hosea 11. 6. we read it Branches, the Original will bear both) which help to fasten our gates, and as the Ark was carried with Bars, so the weight of the Common-wealth lieth on these.

Basilides quasi Basilis τῆ λαῖ, fulcrum & fundamentum populi.

Badim proprie rami sunt arborum densiores & crassiores, parandis vestibus idonei, unde quidam vertunt Vectes ejus. Rivet.

19. Signets or Sealing Rings which are neer and dear to us, being continually worn by us; Jer. 22. 24. Hag. 2. ult. With these we seal our choicest secrets and ratifie what we would keep safe, wearing them as an ornament on our right hand, and giving them as Monuments to our intimate friends. Thus Pharao gives Joseph his Ring, Gen. 41. 42. and Ahas-

erua

erus gives Haman his darling a Ring, Hest. 3. 10. So the Prodigal when he was restored to honour and freedom from his swinish kind of life, had a Ring given him by his Father as a Testimony of his intimate love to him, Luke 15. 22. In these also the Jews did inscribe some name or character of that which they held most precious: hence the Spouse desires of Christ, that he would set her as a Seal on his heart, i. e. that he would further assure her of his love and confirm it to her, that she might be kept safe from her enemies, and never be forgotten by him, Cant. 8. 6. By all this we see Gods tender care over Magistrates, and how he accounts himself honoured by them, they are as a Signet on his right hand to him when they build his House, promote his Worship and defend his people. Though they may be contemptible in the eyes of the Sons of Be-lial, yet they are pretious and lovely in Gods eye.

20. Captains, Guides, Overseers and Watchmen, 1 Sam. 9. 17. Psal. 127. 1. Prov. 6. 7. Mat. 10. 18. Acts 7. 10. 1 Pet. 2. 14. As Ministers are guides and Bishops in an Ecclesiastical sense, because they must see to the flock that is committed to their charge, (Acts 20. 28; Heb. 13. 7. 17.) and lead them both by their light and lives: So Magistrates are Bishops and Overseers of the people in a Political sense, and must use all means that their people under them may live in Peace and Piety.

21. A Rock, a Covert and hiding place from storms and Tempests, Isa. 32. 2. Ezek. 28. 16. Nahum 2. 5. A man, i. e. a King, shall reign in righteousness, and Princes shall rule in judgement, ver. 1. viz. Hezekiah and his Princes, yea all employed under any of these, for the meanest in places of authority participate (according to their measure) of that which is here said of the highest; every one that is set above others, may and must some way be a shelter and refreshing to the afflicted. This the four ensuing Metaphors do

*Ponere aliquem ut sigillum brachio vel cordi suo, est eum summo in pretio habere, vehementissime amare,
artitissime sibi adjungere,
studioissime curare, fovere, custodire ac tueri. Ravanellus.*

Hæc vobis, duces et præfides.

Vos estis Episcopi in Ecclesia; ego extra Ecclesiam sum constitutus, dixit Constantinus Imper.

Hezekias erit ut latebrarius, umbra.

do excellently imply setting forth the Beauty and benefit of Government. 1. Rulers shall be a Hiding place and covert; these are words of Latitude, implying any kind of shelter; by the first we may understand a Wall, a high bank, a thick hedge or great Tree, to any of which we creep in a windy day. By the latter may be meant a house or haven to save us from storms either upon Land or Sea. Wind imports lesser evil, annoying us; Tempests, greater mischiefs quite overwhelming us: Both these Metaphors shew that protection is part of good Government. In the other two there is a further thing.

1. Refreshment in inward drought, by Rivers of Waters which are very precious in deserts. 2. In outward scorching heat, by the shadow of a great Rock, both most comfortable and reviving to the languishing and tired traveller, almost ready to die for thirst, or melted with the burning heat of the Sun, in those spacious plains and uninhabitable deserts. This Text alludes to Gospel-times, and is fitly applied to Christ, but in the Letter it relates to Rulers and Magistrates, as Hezekiah and his Under-Officers.

Rex pius est murus à vento, Portus in tempestate, Rivus in siti, Umbraculum in aestu; hæc multò abundantius præstitit Christus, cujus Typus erat Hezekias populo suo graviter afflicto atque siccato à vento vehementiori, a graviore siti, ab ardentiori aestu Sarcotius in locum.

Hæc Historicè de Hezekia, Allegoricè de Christo dicuntur. Aquinas.

NOW all these Titles of honour God hath given to Magistrates to encourage them against those discouragements which they are sure to meet withall in the faithfull discharge of their duty.

2. It should teach us to lament the loss of good Magistrates. If he that hath lost a good Father, Friend, Guardian, &c. cannot but mourn; how great then should our mourning be for the loss of a gracious Prince in whom all those Titles of love and respect do concenter and meet! When good Josiah was dead, what bitter lamentation did the people make, (2 Chron. 35.24, 25.) First All Judah and

K

Jernsalem

Jerusalem mourn for him. 2. 'Tis with a great mourning; the lamentation for him is put as the the highest President of mourning, Zach. 12. 11. Great losses call for great lamentation. The loss of godly Magistrates and godly Ministers, are great losses, and therefore the Saints lay them deeply to heart. When Moses was dead, the people mourned for him thirty dayes, Deut. 34. 8. when Samuel died, all Israel mourned for him, 1 Sam. 25. 1. yea when Saul a wicked King and David's enemy too, was dead, yet see how he laments his fall, and makes a Panegyrick or Funeral Oration in his praise, 2 Sam. 1. 17, &c. So good Ministers are spiritual Fathers, the Chariots and Horsemen of Israel, and therefore we should lay to heart their deaths, Num. 20. 19. 2 Kings 13. 14. Acts 8. 2. and the rather because tis the sins of a people that provoke the Lord in wrath many times to remove godly Magistrates and Ministers from amongst us.

*ut inveniatur in opere,
quod signatur in nomine.
Non sunt hic inanium figmentorum, sed rerum verissimarum tituli. Musculus.*

3. Those Titles of Dignity do shew Magistrates their duty. Let no man glory in Empty Titles, but labour to answer them in obedience. Let your lives and your names answer each other. Remember that God hath given you Magistratical gifts not for your selves, but for the good of others, and to him you must shortly give an account of all the Talents which he hath intrusted you withall. Harken not then to flatterers who would puff you up by telling you that you are Gods, and Sons of the most High, and therefore you may do what you please, you are to account to none but God; Where the word of a King is there is Power, and none may say unto him What dost thou? Ecclef. 8. 4. and Samuel tells the people (say these Court-Parasites) that Kings have absolute power over the lives and estates of their Subjects, 1 Sam. 8. 11. to 18. Thus they make Kings glad with their lyes, Hos. 7. 3. and are the worst sort of Beasts; for whereas other beasts prey pray upon dead carcaffes, those devour men alive.

As for that Text, Ecclē. 8. 4. the meaning is, that where the word of a King is, there is power, viz. to punish such as do evil, and none can call him to an account for so doing; and in this sense none may say unto him What dost thou? else the wicked actions of Kings may be, yea and have been reprov'd. Nathan reprov'd David, saying, What hast thou done? Elijah reprov'd Ahab for his murder, saying, What hast thou done? Tis only Gods Prerogative Royall to do whatsoever pleaseth him and to be accountable to none; none may say unto him What dost thou? Dan. 4. 35. The greatest men in the world are, or should be under Law. Tis not for any man to say, (Sic volo, sic jubeo, stat pro ratione voluntas.) My will's my Law; no, Kings themselves must read and rule by Law, Deut. 17.

Nulla potentia fida est, si sit nimia. Sen.
Tyrannus dicitur ἀνευνομύβυτος, i.e. liber & immu-nis à reddendis rationibus.
Arist. Polit. l. 4.

2. As for that Text in Samuel, Tis the threatning of a Judgement, and not the Imposition of a Duty.

q. d. This people shall dearly rue the casting off that Form of Government which I have given them; for I will give them a King in my wrath that shall deal like a Tyrant with them, taking away their goods and Cattle from them by violence, and making slaves of them and theirs, as the Kings of the Nations whom they desire to be like, have done to their subjects, ver. 9, 11. Samuel tells them, this will be the manner of your King. The Court-Bishops render it Jus Regis, the Right of the King, and thereupon inferred that all the Subject had was in the Power of the King and lay at his mercy. But Misphat Hammelech doth not here signifie Right; or what Kings de jure ought to do, but what de facto they would do to satisfie their Lusts of ambition and covetousness. This will be (their custom for so the word is rendred, Gen. 40. 23. Exod. 21. 9. 1 Sam.

2. 13. yet that did not justifie the wickedness of the

Deus hoc jus nec sancit, nec approbat, sed tantum prædicit, et usq; acerbiteram graphicè depingit, ut eos à Pe-titione Regis avellat. à Lapide.

Jus Regis dicitur quod à rege non pro suo officio, sed per suo arbitrio; non pro æquitate, sed pro Voluntate institutum est. Mendoza in locum.

Non his depingitur quod Reges jure possint, sed quid audeant, & pro suprema potestate quam habere se putant, contra nature leges & omnem humanitatem Tyrannicè decernant. Sanctius.

Cum leges præscripsisti aliis, præscripsisti & tibi; siquidem naturalis æquitas postulat ut idem ius omnibus ex æquo reddatur; ut Ambrosius ad Valentin. Epist. 32.

Princeps dependet à lege nature, divinâ & fundamentali; quatenus homo est, dicitur observare legem nature; quatenus Christianus, legem divinam; quatenus princeps, legem fundamentalem. Maccovius.

Distinguendum est inter temerariam regis cupiditatem & Reipublicæ utilitatem ac necessitatem. Si Rex privata libidine & habendi cupiditate impulsus talia sibi vendiderit, injustè ac

Tyrannicè agit; sed si Reipublicæ salute & utilitate id exigente, talia postulat, regiâ suâ potestate merito utitur. 2. Distinguendum inter rem & rei modum. Si Rex in hisce exigendis modum justum ac legitimum servet, & absq; violentia operas, decimas & tributa pro regni sui statu ac necessitate exigat, non potest dici Tyrannus; si verò modum necessarium & legitimum fuerit excessus, & ex subditorum incommodo suum duratætaxat querat commodum, potestate suâ abutitur. Gerhard de Magistr.

Dum vitant stulti vitia, in contraria currunt. Horat.

Domitianus juberet de se scribi, Dominus & Deus. noster sic fieri jubet. Suetonius.

Priests) not Right; for if Kings might lawfully do all that is here set down, then Abab had not sinned in taking away Naboths Vineyard by violence from him: but this is expressly forbidden, Ezekiel 46. 18. and God punisht Abab for it, 2 Kings 21. 18. but the Lord commands the King to study his Law, and to rule according to it, (Deut. 17. 16, 17, 18. & 22. 37.) which is directly contrary to this Jus Regi; for there the Lord commands the King not to multiply Horses. Ver. 16. but here tis said he will do it, Ver. 11. The Lord commands that he should not covet riches, Deut. 17. 17. but here tis said ver. 14. that he'l get their Fields and Vineyards from them, and take their Cattle and Children from them, ver. 14, 15, 16, 17.

Caution. Yet this doth not debar Rulers from a Legal right over the persons and estates of men both in times of War and Peace; provided they exercise it in a lawfull manner, viz. for the promoting of the publick good, and the defence of the Laws, Religion and Peace of the Land.

Now as the Magistrates must take heed of Anabaptists on the one hand who offend in Defect, and give him too little; so he must take heed of Court-Clawbacks who offend in Excess and give him too much; they make a God and an Idol of him for their own ends, obeying his commands against Gods commands, and preferring great mens wills before Gods holy word. Those cry up Kings as Gods; calling them Omnipotent, Unlimited, Independent, not not to be questioned by any Authority, &c. Thus the Arminians (to curry favour with great ones, and the better to supress Synods) superlatively extolled the Power of the Magistrate in Ecclesiastical affairs; and this is the policy of many Sectaries in our dayes to cry up Magistracy, that they may the better cry down Presbyterie, which they know would curb their errors and prophaness. Thus Erastus a Physitian, but a rotten Divine, puts all Church-censures into the hand of the Magistrate, and so confounds Magistracy and Ministry together, which are too distinct offices, having distinct bounds and duties belonging to them, which they may not transgress upon pain of Gods displeasure: If Uzziah the King will be so bold as to offer Sacrifice which belonged to the Priest, let him expect a Leprosie for his pains, 2 Chron. 26. 18. to 22.

Errores Arminii qui coram supremâ curiâ detecti es-sent, ne Ecclesiis patificerent, omnibus modis allabora-vit. Pezel. Melif. Hist.
pag. 119⁶. 1203. Walæus
Loc. Com. Tom. 2. p. 17.

[See the Erastian Tenents fully confuted by the Learned Rutherford his Divine Right of Church-government. Chap. 6. 2. p. 257. to 647. and in his Due Right of Presbyterie in fine, chap. 6. p. 387, &c. Gelaspy Aaron Rod blossoming per totum. The Vindication of the Presbyterian Government by the Province of London, p. 8, 9, &c. Walæus Loc. com. P. 2. p. 3. ad pag. 73. Apollonius, Jus Magistratus circa Sacra.]

4. Magistrates must take heed of dishonouring their Honourable calling by profane practices. Their lives should be an Epitome of their Laws. They are apt to call for Duty and Reverence, but let them do their duty to God and honour him, and then he hath promised to honour them; but if they suffer Gods name to be blasphemed, and his Worship, Day, & Servants to be despised, he will cause them to be despised, he will pour contempt on such Princes; Job 12. 21. Psal. 76. ult. if El es Sons be vile, it is because they made themselves so by their wickedness, 1 Sam. 3. 13. The loose lives of Rulers doth detract from far. l. 2. c. 11. p. 486, 487.

How men abuse their authority, See Downams Var-

their authority. As a wicked Minister cannot with comfort and confidence reprove another for those crimes of which himself is notoriously guilty; So a wicked, swearing, drunken Magistrate cannot with comfort punish another for those sins, which riagn in himself. We Princes (said Queen Elizabeth) are set as turrets upon Stages in the sight and view of all the world; the least spot is soon spied in our garments, a blemish quickly noted in our doings; it behoves us therefore to be carefull that our proceedings be just and honourable. As Ministers in their calling, so Magistrates in theirs are Gods Embassadors, and represent his person; and therefore they must do nothing unbecoming their great Lord and Master. Since God condescends so far as to Gift them, and grace them with his own name, they must walk like Gods on earth. As Alexander said to one of his name, Aut fortiter pugna, aut nomen deponere. Either fight like Alexander or never bear his name. So say I, either act like God or never bear his name. Rule as God would rule, Judge as God would judge, Punish as God would punish, and reward as he would reward. As he hath given you more Power and Opportunities of honouring him - then he hath done to others, so he expects more from you then he hath done from others; for men to be called Gods and yet fight against God, to make Laws against his Laws, to use or rather to abuse their Power against that God that gave it, this is to be Gods in name, but Devils indeed. What? Gods and be Drunken? Gods and take bribes? Gods and be cruel and covetous, &c. Hell is full of such gods. To such we may say as Naomi said sometimes in another case, (Ruth 1. 20.) call me no more Naomi, i. e. beautiful, but call me Marah, bitter: so say I, call those no more Gods and Governours; but call them Beasts and Devils.

V. Cambdens Qu. Elizab.
English. p. 325.

Nomen inane crimen im-manus. An empty name is a great shame.

Loco ignominie est dignitas in indigno, tanquam simia in lecto. Seneca.

Qua fiducia iniquitatem in tribunal sui admittent quid Dei viventis thronum esse audiunt? qua audacia injustam sententiam eo ore pro-nuntiant quod divine ve-ritati designatum esse orga-num intelligunt? Quam conscientiam in impia decreta subscribent eam manu quam ad perscribenda Dei acta sciunt ordinatam? Calvin.
Instit. 1. 4. c. 20. §. 6.

Quest.

Quest. But what must Magistrates do that they may resemble God whose name they bear?

Answer. They must labour to resemble him

- In nine Particulars,
1. In Wisdom.
 2. Simplicity.
 3. Impartiality.
 4. Clemency.
 5. Patience.
 6. Tenderness to the }	Poor.

}	Gods name & Worship.
}	Gods Ministers.
 7. In searching into causes.
 8. Judging justly.
 9. Doing good to all.

1. They must get Wisdom and dexterity in their calling. As Ministers, Mal. 2. 7. so Magistrates should be men of Knowledge, Deut. 1. 13. Psal. 78. ult. able to discern between good and evil, that they may rightly time and circumstantiate their actions, (Eccles. 8. 5.) and thereby uphold the State, Prov. 29. 2. David was wise as an Angel of the Lord, 2 Sam.

Superiores sint qui superiores esse sciunt. Bern.

See Dr. Seamans Ser on 1 King, 3. 9. Preacht 1644. pag. 22.

14. 17. Ezra must appoint none for Judges but such as know the Law, Ezra 7. 25. Tis an art of arts, and a science of sciences, even one of the hardest works in the worlds rightly to rule men. He had need be an Argus, or like the Ring in Ezekiels wheels, full of eyes, Ezek. 1. 18. another Janus to look forward and backward that he be not surprized. Men are witty in wickedness, and subtle to smooth over bad causes with fair pretences; So that if the Magistrate be not a very wise, judicious, experimental man, they will easily escape the sword of Justice; hence Solomon is commended for asking Wisdom, 1 Kings 3. 9. Tis well observed that Rome saw her best dayes under her most learned Kings and Emperors, as Numa, Augustus, Ti-

Ars est difficillima rectè gubernare rempublicam nullum enim animal homine morosius.

Quantum prudentie, integritatis, mansuetudinis, continentie & innocentie studium debet esse in iis, qui divinae justitiae ministros se esse norunt? Calv.

Psal. 58. 2. & 94. 20. Job 13. 4. Jer. 5. 26. Sinners are Impudent, and Innocency is modest and oft-times uneloquent.

Quò honestior conscientia, iis plerumq; frons imbecillior. Hieron.

tus,

Plato could say, Felices fore respublicas, si vel studia sapientie consecrentur reges, vel sapientes imperent. Illas resp. beatas fore in qua juvenum haest. senum concilia pollent, dixit Putarch.

Iustitia sit caeca in exequendo, oculata in dijudicando.

Debet Magistratus summus religionem quam defendendam suscipit, etiam cognoscere, in eam inquirere, de ea judicare, eamque prius iudicio suo non tantum apprehensivo, sed etiam discretivo comprobare, &c. Hominus Disput. 30. 156. Ubi plura.

* See Mr. Strong. 31. Ser. pag. 617. ☞

tus, Constantine, Theodosius, &c. An ignorant Ruler is like a blind Pilot that lets the Vessel be ruined on Rocks and Sands. Hence tis set down as a fore judgement when Princes are children, and Babes rule over men (Isa. 3. 4, 5.) not children in years, but children in discretion; then men fall to oppressing and wronging one another. As bodily Physicians, so State Physicians should have an Eagles eye, a Lyons heart, and a Ladies hand. Such as Rule others, had need to be well instructed themselves, that so they may see with their own eyes. Tis dangerous for Church and State when the Governours of it are ignorantly led by others, and cannot Judge of the things which are propounded to them. Hence tis that the Lord would have them to Write, Read and Study his Word, that they might be able to Rule according to it, Deut. 17. 18. which made Jehoiada the High Priest at the inauguration of King Joash to deliver the Testimony or Book of the Law unto him, (2 Kings 11. 12.) that by observing the Precepts and Presidents there recorded he might Rule accordingly. He must know Gods Law, and he had need to know the Laws of the Land too; else how will he be able to determine according to Law, if he do not know the Law? The Scripture is the best Counselor for the greatest Statesman in the world. This is the way to make him * prosper, Josb. 1. 8. To this end they should get Godly and Learned Counsellors about them, that they may be able to resolve their doubts, and direct them in Gods paths. Tis of great Consequence for Princes to have a Joseph, a Nehemiah, a Nathan, a Daniel about them. Whilst Jehoiada the Priest lived who was a pious and a learned man, it went well with King Joash and all his Kingdom, 2 Kings 12. 2. but when that good man was dead, all went to ruine. As a Minister must not be a Novice lest he fall into Temptations; so a Magistrate had need to be an experimental, perimental, well-seasoned piece that he fall not into snares : and as a Minister should have somewhat in him more then an ordinary man (ex quo vis ligno non fit Mercurius)* ignorant logs become not Thrones and Pulpits; so a Magistrate should have something in him that is eminent and exemplary, and something of an* Orator, whereby he may persuade to goodness, recall men from wickedness, commend the Vertuous, disgrace the Vitious, comfort the comfortless, and exhort men to Vertue. Julius Caesar got the Empire and held it by Arms and Letters; hence he is painted standing upon the Globe of the world, holding in his left hand a Book, and in his right a Sword, with this Motto, Ex utroq; Caesar, Emperor by both.

*See more on Vcr. 5.

V. Langii Polyanth. de Magistratu. Q. 10 Q. 11. mibi p. 1666, 1667.
 V. D. Halls Solomons Politicks Vol. 1. p. 211. folio.
 V. Moll. Histor. Observat. chap. 2.

2. In Simplicity. God mingles with nothing; he's free from the mixture of a private or passionate spirit. So should Rulers be pure gold without any dross (as much as in them lies) of sinfull anger, malice, fear, or hatred, Isa. 1. 25, 26. he that cannot rule himself, is unfit to rule others.

Nec timidi, nec tumidi. Male irato ferrum committitur; debet omni perturbatione liber accedere ad rem summam diligentiam tractandam, potestatem vitæ necessar. Seneca l. de. Ira cap. 16.

3. Impartially. As God is no respecter of persons, but punisheth sin where ever he finds it, be it in rich or poor, (2 Chron. 19. 7. Job 34. 19. Acts 10. 34. Rom. 2. 11. Gal. 2. 6.) so Rulers must imitate and follow him in their measure and degree. Thus Amaziah did justice on those that killed his Father; he did not protect them by his Prerogative, 2 Kings 14. 5. and Asa deposed his own Mother for her Idolatry.

Of this see more in utr. 2.

4. In Clemency, Pitty and Mercy. God is pittifull even to the Rebellious, and loth (if by any means it might be prevented) to destroy them, Psal. 68. 18. Hosea 11. 8. He is not extream to mark what we do amiss, but is slow to anger, though he be great in power.

St. piger ad pietas prin-ceps, ad premia velox; Nam virtus magnos hæc facit una Deos.

Ideo; Scipio laudatur, qui mille se unum servare civem, quam mille occidere dixit.

*Benevolentia populi erga Principem est tutissimum il-lius munimentum. Gerhard. V. Taffyn of Amendment, l. 3. S. 51. p. 378.
Diligi Princeps nisi ipse diligat, non potest. Pliny.
Joshua 7. 19.*

*V. Aug. de Civit. Dei l. 5.
c. 26. & Orosius l. 7 c. 34.
Duo sunt nomina, Homo & Peccator. Aug. As a male-factor, punish him; as a man, pity him.*

 V. Pezeliu Melesic Hist.
p. 336. folio. Plura clementiæ exempla invenies apud Valer. Max. l. 5. c. 1.
p. 417. edit. ult. & opt.
Multos timere debet, quem multi timeant. Sen.*

Prima principis dos clementia. Calvin.

*Rex apud aculeum non ha-bet, vel certe eo non utitur;
exemplar hoc magnis regibus ingens. Plin. Nat. Hist. c. 17.
Caveat Magistratus ne aut nimia severitate vulneret magis quam medeatur, aut superstitiosâ clementiæ affectat: one in crudelissimam ruidat humanitatem. Calv.
Maxima peccandi est illicebra impunitatis spes. Cicero.*

In this the Gods on earth must imitate the God of Heaven; they must not oppress their brethren, Ezekiel 45. 8. nor rule over them with rigor, Lev. 25. 43. they must not be like roaring Lions and evening Wolves which leave not the bones till the morning, Zeph. 3. 3. but they must consider that they rule over men and not beasts, and therefore they must deal tenderly and mercifully with them, that they may get the affections of their people which is the best upholder of the throne, Prov. 20. 28. David by loving compellations wins the peoples hearts, 2 Chron. 10. 7. Hear my Brethren and my people. So Theodosius by his loveliness and clemency gained many Kingdoms: The Goths (after the death of their own King) beholding his Temperance, Patience and Vertue, gave themselves up to his Government. When Cicero would claw Cæsar, he tells him that his Valor and Victories were common with the rest of his Souldiers, but his Clemency and goodness were wholly his own. * Nero in the beginning of his reign, when he was to set his hand to the sentence of condemnation, would say Utinam nescirem literas! I wish my hand could not now write!

Rigor breeds rebellion. Rehoboam by his cruelty lost ten Tribes in one day, 1 Kings 12. 16. Chuse then rather to offend on the mercifull hand, since tis much safer to account for mercy then for cruelty. Let the sword of Justice be furbisht with the oyl of mercy, though there be cases wherein severity must be used; for we must beware of foolish Pitty which oft-times is meer cruelty both to thy self (it may cost thee thy life to spare the lives of those whom God hath sentenced unto death; ve must not be more merciful! then the Rule which God sets us, 1 Sam. 15. 9. & 1 Kings 21. 19.)

And Secondly to the party offending; impunity breeds

breeds Impenitency, it hardens men in their sin, and oft-times brings them to a second murder, which the indulgent Magistrate becomes accessary too. When one told the King of France that such a one had committed a third murder; No, said one; he hath committed but one Murder, the other two are the Kings; for if he had not pardoned him, he had killed but one.

Thirdly, tis injurious to the State to spare Murderers, Witches, and Blasphemers; the guilt of those crimes lies on the whole land, and cannot be set off but by doing justice on the offenders, Numb. 35. 33.

5. In Patience. God bears long with the Vessels of wrath fitted for destruction. Rom. 9. 22. he doth not presently cut off rebellious sinners, but waits long for their amendment.

So Magistrates had need to be men of much Patience, to undego those burdens, affronts and injuries which they must expect (if they be faithfull) from an ungratefull world; as we see in Moses, though a holy, meek, wise man, and one that had brought the people through many straits, yet when any new trouble came they were ready to murmur and fly upon him. Twas a good saying of Theodosius, If any man speak evil of the Emperor, if it be of lightness, it is to be contemned; if of madness, to be pitied; if of injury, to be remitted. As he must in * some cases use the sword, so in some cases, (especially in his own) tis his glory to bear and forbear, Prov. 19. 11.

Magni est animi in summa potentia injurias pati, nec quicquam est gloriosius principe impunè læso. Seneca de Clement. l. 1.

* Aut fer aut ferire; ne feriare feri.

6. In Tenderness, 1. To the Poor. As God takes care of the Poor, the Fatherless and the Widow, who have none to take care for them. Psal. 68. 5. So the Magistrate who hath power, must be a defence to those who have no power to defend themselves. But of this more. Ver. 3, 4.

2. God is very tender over his people; they are the Apple of his eye, which is oculus oculi, tender, and the glory of the eye: the Signet on his right hand, his Jewels, his Portion, his pleasant Portion, &c. So Magistrates must be very tender over them; the world is apt to wrong them, and trample upon them by reason of the Churches weakness; and therefore she is compared to a Vine, a Dove, a Widow, as Sheep, which cannot subsist long without a defence and support; and if Magistrates neglect their duty, yet God will never fail his people, but will reprove Kings for their sakes; and though his Church be weak, yet her enemies shall know that her Redeemer is strong. Jer. 50. 34.

3. God is very tender over his own Name, Day, Worship, Ordinances and Ministers, &c.

So Magistrates as they are Gods Deputies, must especially look to the things of God. As God hath exalted them, so he expects they should exalt his Name and Worship; Twill be the honour of their honours so to do. This was the glory of those godly Kings of Israel, that they made it their chief care to promote Gods worship, and to abolish all the monuments of Idolatry. D. vid saw to the ordering of Gods worship, that it might be kept from confusion, 1 Chron. 23, 24, 25, 29. Jehosaphat sent his Princes with the Priests to see Idolatry abolished; and the Truth settled, 2 Chron. 17. 7, 8, 9. Hezekiah purgeth the Temple, 2 Kings 18. Josiah and Asa cast down Idols, and restored the worship of God, 2 Kings 34.

Many would have the Magistrate to defend men in their Temporals, and see to the backs and bellies of people, as if he were some Butcher, or Oxherd, some Turk, and Tartar that never heard of God; but as for Religion (saith the revived Donatist of these times) that concerns not the Magistrate, he must not once meddle with that, whereas this should be his cheifest care. That which we must chiefly pray

Prima Magistratus cura debet esse religionem veram promovere, & impietatem prohibere. Amel. C. Conf. l. 5. cap. 25. Q. 2.

Nec Princeps corpora tantum hominum curabit, & negliget animos; non enim armentarium aut subulcum

Principem fingimus, cui tantummodo Venter, caro & cutis subditorum cura fiat, Apollon. Jus Mag. circa Sacra. p. 106.

Quid Imperatori cum Ecclesia? dixit Donatus.

for, that should be his chiefest care; but the great request of Gods people is, that they may lead godly as well as peaceable lives under Magistrates, 1 Tim. 2. 2. hence tis that they are commanded to kiss the Son, obey his Commands, advance his Kingdom and promote his Worship. Even Aristotle could say that among other things the Magistrate ought to see to the worship of the Gods, and that their holy things be kept from Violation. Mr. Perkins speaks well to this point. The Magistrates (saith he) look to Peace and civil order; tis well done; and tis their duty; yet not the Principal; and they do commonly fail in this, that they use not the sword for this end, to urge men to the keeping of the commandments of the first Table, to a practice of pure religion, and to the keeping of the Sabbath day. This is the main duty of the Magistrate, who bears the sword especially for the good of mens souls. Thus that worthy and eminent light of England.

[That Magistrates ought to have a special care of Religion, See Davenant de Jndice fidei, pag. 91, &c. Musculus Loc. Com. de Mag. mibi p. 630. folio. D. Gonge his Arrows on Exod. 17. 15. §. 74. p. 323. Mr. Marshals Sermon on 1 Tim. 2. 2. Taffin on Amendmment of life, l. 3. c. 6. p. g. 327. Gerhard de Magistrat. p. 298, &c. 312, &c. Συστάσις pag. 24, 25. Burroughs Irenicum chap. 7. Cottons Keyes. pag. 25. 53. D. Boltons Arraignment of Error. pag. 312. to 348.]

2. If men be obstinate, the Magistrate may and must compell them to keep the Sabbath, and to frequent the Worship of God; though he cannot make them believe, yet he may make them hear. Parents may and ought to do thus much, and why not Magistrates then? (Exod. 2. 0. 10.) though they cannot compell them to grace yet they may to the means of grace. The Magistrate is Ensser Dei, Gods Sword-bearer, he must not bear or wear it for a

See seven Reasons why Magistrates should more especially promote Religion, in Mr. Aut. Burges his Ser. on Judg. 6. 27. 28. p. 5. &c. preacht 1645.

See five Reasons for this in Mr. Jenlyns Ser. on Psal. 2. 12 p. 6, 7 preacht 1656. and on Jude 8. Obs. 4. p. 300. folio. V. Arist. Polit. l. 6. c. 8.

Perkins Treatise of Callings. Vol. I. p. 764.

See Mr. Rutherfords Due Rights of Presbyr. p. 352. in fine libri.

Formido pœnæ licet non reddat justos, utilis tamen est & servit tranquillitati publicæ; dnm coactus reproborum per illum coercet. Musculus.

a shew, (Rom. 13. 4.) but draw it out and use it according as God directs him in his word, bringing the wheel of justice over the heads of the Wicked; Prov. 20. 8, 26. He must not be like a Cypher, of no use but to fill a place; like St. George on Horse-back who sits with a drawn Sword, but never stirs nor strikes; nor like that Log of Wood which Jupiter threw amongst the Frogs to be their King, which they soon trampled on with contempt. A Magistrate couchant makes offenders rampant; sin and error loose nothing by Indulgence; such ill weeds (if tolerated) grow apace.

3. If they be Seducing Hereticks, he must punish them according to their demerits. Evil doers are to be punished (that is confessed on all hands) but seducing Hereticks are evil doers (Phil. 3. 2. & 2 Pet. 2. 14.) 2. Murder, Adultery, Theft, and such like works of the flesh must be punished; but Heresie is spiritual murder, adultery, theft, and expressly called a work of the flesh, Gal 5. 19, 20, 21. & least any should think that this was Legal, tis plain that such ought to be punished even in Gospel-times. Zach. 13. 3. The Prophet there speaking of Gospel-times, tells us that he who speaks lies in the name of the Lord, shall die for it. 2. If they be Idolaters or blasphemers, then tis de jure natura, agreeable even to natural light, and founded on Reasons of immutable equity, as the glory of God, the good of his people, &c. that they should be punished, and so binds for ever. Job tells us that Idolatry is a sin to be punished by the Judges, Job 31. 27, 28. The * Arminians and Socinians would have no Hereticks punished or once molested by the Magistrate (that so themselves might escape in that crowd.) But what mischief and confusion this would bring to Church and State, I have * elsewhere shewed at large. Indulgence breeds Insolence and Impudence (as we have seen by sad experience) When Judgment

*V. Pezeli Harmon. Re-
monstr. & Socinian. art.
21. p. 252.

* See my Commentary on
2 Tim. 3. 8. p. 168, 169.

ment is not speedily executed on evil doers, they are hardened and heightened in sin, Eccles. 8. 11. Execution is the life of the Law: it is the same in Policy, which Elocution is in Oratory, the first, second, third thing, tis all in all. When the woman came to Philip King of Macedon for justice, he answered Nolo, I will not; but she well replied, Noli ergo regnare, Lay aside your King-ship then. So say I, will you not punish Blasphemers and Soul-murderers? then never bear the sword of justice. Either act like Magistrates, or never bear the office; either discharge the duties of your place, or leave it to such as will; for shame let not blasphemy escape better then Felony, let not a Cut-purse die and a blasphemer live. Do not punish him that speaks a word against you, and let him scape scot-free that speaks two against Christ. Tis a Sin to be calm and cold when God is blasphemed. When Servetus that blasphemous Heretick charged Melancthon with harshness in a dispute against him, he answered, In aliis mitis sum; cum blasphematur nomen Christi, non ita. I can be calm (said Melancthon) in other cases, but not in blasphemy. And whereas many plead conscience for what they hold, tis against their conscience to renounce such errors, and such Heresies; Mr. Burroughs shall answer them;

1. An erroneous conscience doth not bind; you sin notwithstanding your conscience bids you do it.

2. Whatsoever you hold, though conscience be never so much taken with it, if it destroy the power of godliness, if this man be in Christian Society, after all means used to reduce him, if he still persevere in it, he is (notwithstanding his conscience) to be cast out; if poyson be got into a glass, and you cannot wash it out, the poyson and glass too is to be thrown into the sink.

3. If the error with the profession of it be destructive to the State, and he cannot be reclaimed;

V. Burroughs Irenicum Chap. 6. p. 34.

V. D. Bolton Arraignment of error, p. 337, &c.

Impunitas iniquitatis soboles, insolentiae mater, radix impudentiae, transgressionum nutritrix. Bern. de confid. lib. 4.

he may likewise be cut off from it, or at least be deprived of the privileges of it, and benefits by it, notwithstanding his plea of conscience. Thus he, who yet allows too much liberty in some cases.

Objection, This is persecution.

Answer. Not at all; 'Tis justice, not persecution to punish Theeves and Murderers. These spiritual Theeves and Murderers are the worst of sinners; others destroy but the estate or body, these kill souls.

2 Its Christian wisdom to kill Serpents, Wolves, Foxes, Bears, Cant. 2. 15.

3. 'Tis love and compassion to the souls of the wicked, and may be a means to convert, or at least to restrain them, and so they may be the Ministers of God for their good, not only civil but spiritual; hence the Magistrate is called an heir of restraint; (Judges 18. 7.) there was no Magistrate (or as tis in the fountain, Jorish gnetzer) there was no heir of restraint to repress sin, and restrain men from wickedness. Thus Sauls reigning was called restraining (1 Sam. 9. 17.) because by his authority he restrained men from their licentious practises. When these Curbs are gone, horses run wild, and people are like Sons of Belial without a yoke.

4. 'Tis an act of mercy to others to keep them from infection; tis cruelty to the good to spare the bad.

5. Had these Seducers and their followers power, they would be the greatest Tyrants and Persecutors in the world; witness John a Leyden and his fraternity.

6. I would have all mild and gentle means used before men proceed to Judgement. Care should be taken to inform their judgements and convince them of their evil ways. The Apostle is for two admonitions before Church censure. (Tims 3. 10.) and the censure of the Magistrate should not precede that of the Church. And if they be Heathens and Nemo perat, nisi quem perire etiam perentis interest.

Seneca. Hæreticis obstinatis beneficium est morte multari; nam quod diutius vivunt, eò plures errores excogitant, plures pervertunt, & majorem sibi damnationem acquirunt. Musculus.

Hæres interdicti vel prohibitionis. Piscar.

He must restrain 1. Idolaters. 2. Seducing Sect-makers. 3. Vicious livers.

V. Mr. Lyfords Sermon D. in.

3. 14. p 7, 8, &c.

cuicquid prius tentanda, &c.
V. Dr. Bolton's Arraignment of error, p. 334, &c.

and Infidels, the gentler we must deal with them to win them to the Faith, Titus 3. 2, 3. Abominable then is that cruelty of the Papists, who by inhumane tortures would force the poor Indians to baptize their Infants, and say as they say, and hold what they hold. All this is but a nullity, for as a forced marriage is no marriage, a forced profession is no profession.

7. We must distinguish of Persons and their errors: 1. Some are Seducers and offend through wilfulness; though they be convinced, yet they will not be convinced, but walk turbulently and disorderly, disquieting both Church and State; these must be most sharply dealt withal.

2. Others are seduced and misled through weakness; these would be pitied.

Next we must distinguish of errors. 1. Some are about *Circumstantial*s and lesser matters, making no rent in Church or State, and here the strong must bear with the weak, Rom. 15. 1. Ephes. 4. 2. Galat. 6. 1. That friends might differ about the same things without breach of friendship, a very Heathers affirms.

2. Some errors are fundamental and overthrow the very substantials and foundation of religion, directly or indirectly, mediately or immediately; Thus Arrians, Socinians, Antinomians, Papists publishing blasphemy to the disturbance of Church and State, such* turbulent Idolaters, & gross Hereticks (as well as other gross offenders) may be punished with death as appears, Exod. 22. 20. Lev. 24. 16. Numb. 15. 30, 31. Deut. 13. 1. to 10. 1 Kings 18. 40. 2 Kings 23. 20. Ezra 6. 11. & 7. 26. Dan 3. 29. So saith Mr. Perkins, The Magistrate who is the Vice-gerent of the Lord, is the Keeper of both Tables, and therefore is to maintain Religion with the sword; and so may put to death Atheists, which hold there is no God, of which sort there are many in these dayes: and Hereticks which
M. maliciously

Ad fidem nullus infidelis cogendus est; nam ea suadenda, non imperanda; detestores non tortores adhibendi: monendo plus proficitur quam minando, docendo quam cadendo. Tilenus Syntag. p. 634.

Quod cor non facit, non fit.

See this question largely debated by Gerhard de Magist. p. 385, &c. Mr. Cobbet of Magistracy. Mr. Leigh in his Prolegomena to his Body of Divinity, in fine. The Author of the Bloody Tenent would have none punishr. See him confuted by Mr. Bedford against Antinom. p. 78. and Mr. Cotton against Williams. Davenant de Judice, p. 72. & Tactica Sacra lib. 2. cap. 2. §. 11. p. 123, &c.

Non eadem sentire duos de rebus iisdem, Incolumi licuit semper amicitia.

Magistratus propter solum hereticos crimen non quenquam occidat, nisi forte horrende atq; intolerande in Deum blasphemie, vel manifeste seditiosis crimen accedat. Honnius Disp 31. §. 4. p. 163.

Peccata capitali puniri potest non quia erro, sed quia Turbo.* Prideaux.

Hereticos, blasphemos & seductores capite multandos esse, multis argumentis probat doctiss. Altingius, Problem 19. 20. & Zepper. de Lege Moisaicalib. 4. cap. 3. p. 244.

Perkins on the Creed. p. 194. Vol. 1. V. Synopsi Purior. Theolog. Disp. 50. Sect. 56. Willets Synopsi controvers. 7. Q. 2. p. 373. edit. ult. & Mr. Prins Treatise of the Power of Magistracy; an excellent piece to this purpose; where all the Anabaptistick cavils are answered. *Neq; tactu oris, neq; tactu cordis.

maliciously maintain and hold any thing that overthrowes the foundation of religion in the Churches whereof they are members. Had this good man lived in our days, he would have been censured by some for Perkins the Persecutor; but wisdom is justified of her own children.

4. God is very tender over his Ministers. None must * touch his Prophets to hurt them; he takes the injuries done to them as done to himself, as they are subject to greater tentations, so they are under more special protection; he holds these Stars in his right hand, Rev. 2. 1.

So Magistrates should be very tender over the Messengers of Christ, who are the best friends (if they be faithfull) that Princes have in the world. Magistracy and Ministry, the Word and the Sword should go together. The Pulpit guards the throne; hence Nathan is called the friend of David, 1 Kings 4, 5. King Jeram calls Elijah his Father, 2 Kings 6. 21. and Jehosaphat calls the Levites his Sons, 2 Chron. 29. 11. and Hezekiab spake comfortable, delightfull, pleasing words to the hearts of the Levites, 2 Chron. 30. 22. The Magistrate must protect their persons from Violence, and their maintenance from the incroachment of cruel cormorants; least by famishing them he bring a famine of the word upon the people. He must plant the word where tis wanting, and continue it where tis planted. Twas well observed by Queen Elizabeth when the Justices of Peace in the County of Suffolk met her Majesty in progress, every one of them having a Minister by him; I see the Reason (now faith the Queen) why the County of Suffolk is better governed then other Counties; it is because the word and the sword go together. Then Church and State are like to flourish, when Moses and Aaron, Zerubbabel and Joshua, Zach. 4. 14. go hand in hand together. When the Minister reproves sin, and the Magistrate

O beatum populum in quo
nro pre & uno animo utraq; administratio ad Sanctam communione cum civili societate continendam &
augendam conspiraverit!
Non minuit illam hac admi-nistratio, sed altera alteram stantem confirmat, labantem sustinet, collapsam erigit. Junius Eccles. 1. 3. c. 5.

Magistrate punisheth it ; When the Magistrate makes use of the Ministers direction , and the Minister enjoys the Magistrates protection ; when Joshua joyns with Eleazer, and David consults with Nathan and Gad the Prophets of the Lord ; and Josiah with Huldah, and Uzziah with Zachariah the Priest, then and never till then can we look to prosper, 2 Chron. 26 5. Tis Aarons office to speak, but tis Moses his Rod that works the wonders. Ministers must Preach, and Magistrates must punish offenders.

7. As God searcheth and inquireth in'o mens causes before he punish ; and though he be the supream and absolute Judge of all the world, yet we find that he first cited Adam, and gave him a fair Trial before ever he turned him out of Paradise, Gen. 3. 9. to 20. He never proceeds to judgement till the fact be clear, though he had a cry come up to him concerning the blood of Abel, and the wickedness of Sodom, yet he searcheth and examines the matter to see if it be according to the report, Gen. 4. 9, 10, 11. & 18. 21. So the Magistrate must be well advised what he doth, and ponder all circumstances before he pass sentence. So did Job (Chap. 29. 16.) The cause that I knew not, I searched out. Oyer must go before Terminer. First Hear, and then Determine. Nothing must be done rashly and unadvisedly, but upon serious and mature deliberation must they proceed to judgement ; else the Judges temerity will prove the innocent persons calamity. As the Physician before he prescribes a receipt or diet to his Patient, will first feel the pulse, veiw the Urine, observe the temper and changes in the body, and inquire into the causes of the disease, that so he may apply a fit remedy suitable to the malady : so ought every Magistrate in causes of justice to hear both parties with equal patience, fully and fairly ; to examine witnesses thoroughly, and to lay together all allegations, and give judgement accordingly. Reports and probabilities are no sufficient ground, there must be a proof, and that by men approved; else a Jezebel may get false witnesses to accuse an innocent Naborh.

Licet Deo omnia sint aperta, non tamen punitur audita sed visa.

Qui statuit aliquid parte inaudita altera, æquum licet statueris, baud æquum erit. Seneca in Medea.

Judges must not first hang a man and try him after; the Law condemns no man till it have first heard what he can say for himself, John 7. 5. Acts 25. 16. 'Tis worth observing what a heap of words the Holy Ghost useth to make Magistrates cautious in this kind. 1. They must search, 2. Inquire, 3. diligently. 4. they must see that it be true and certain that such an abomination is wrought. 5. then and not till then must they proceed to Judgement, Deut. 13. 14. & 17. 2, 4. & 19. 18. Judges 19. 30. many cases are dark and difficult, and so cunningly contrived that tis the Kings honour to search it out, Prov. 25. 2. as we see in Solomon in that difficult case of the two Mothers, 1 Kings 3. 16. 28. And if in lesser matters it be folly to answer a matter before it be heard; how much more in such weighty cases? Prov. 18. 13. Judges especially must take heed what they do. (2 Chr. 19. 6.) and therefore twas a great oversight in David to give away good Miphibosheths land before he had heard him speak for himself, 2 Sam. 19. 29.

8. As God judgeth by Law, though he be Lord Paramount of all the world, and being absolute in himself might make his will his Law, and none may say unto him What dost thou? yet he judgeth according to the Law of nature. 2. By the Moral Law, 3. By the Gospel. So Rulers must rule by Law, and not by Lust. (Deut. 17. 11.) then their words have power with them, (Eccles. 8. 4.) then they are the higher powers indeed whom none may resist but at his own peril, (Rom. 13. 2.) whereas a Ruler and his will or lust is the Higher Weakness rather than the Higher Power. The strength of Princes lyeth in the Law; as Sampsons strength lay in his locks, and these are the peoples security. * Laws are the best walls of a City; without them, even walled Cities want defence; they are as Physick to the body, both for preventing and removing
of

Jubetur Rex legum compendium propria manu describere, quo magis ea precepta inhereant animo; nam legentibus elabuntur sententia, quod lectio moras non patitur; qui autem scribit per acium imprimit & infigit menti singula fideliter. Philo de creat. Princip. Non aliud potest Rex quam quod de jure potest. See Lex Rex, p. 179. to 255. an excellent peice to this purpose, by Mr. Rutherford.

Rex est Lex animata. Philo. * V. Plura apud Gerhard. de Magistrat. p. 325, &c. Tom. 6.

of diseases: yea they are as the soul to the body, without them the Common-wealth would neither have beauty nor being. Where the Magistrate obeys the Laws, and the people obey the Magistrate, there is both beauty, strength and safety. Such Magistrates as Practice their own Laws, may the more boldly punish the Transgressors of them. David that went before his people in an holy Example, threatens judgement against the workers of iniquity, Psal. 101. Twas Lycurgus his honour that he never made a Law which himself did not practice.

9. God doth communicate his Goodness to all; he causeth his Sun to shine upon the just and unjust. So publick persons should have publick Spirits; their gifts and goodness should diffuse themselves for the good of the whole. *Their great care should be to promote the publick Interest more then their own. So did Moses, Exod. 32. 10, 11, 32. Nehemiah, (Chap. 5. 6. to 19.) and David (Psal. 137. 5, 6. † Acts 13. 36.) who served God and not himself in his generation. *Twas Cesars high Commendation, that he never had himself, after the world had him for a Governour; his mind was so set on the publick that he forgot his own private affairs. The Stars have their brightness not for themselves but for the use of others. † Tis for Tyrants to seek themselves; it becomes good Governours to seek the good of their people. Tis therefore made one special Qualification & Property of a Magistrate that he be not covetous nor self-seeking. Exod. 18. 22.* he must not only be an Able, Wise, Religious, Just man, but he must be one especially that hates covetousness, that bitter Root of Bribery, Partiality, Symony, Perjury, Sacriledge and Pusillanimity. A Magistrate should be a Magnanimous, Valiant man, but this sin dispirits a man, and makes him cold and cowardly in the cause of God.

Now all these Governours that are thus Qualified and do resemble God in the Particulars menti-

Justum est Principem legibus obtemperare suis; tunc enim iura ab omnibus custodienda existimet, quando & ipse illis reverentiam præbet. Isidor.

Lycurgus nihil lege ullâ sanxit in alios, cuius non ipse primus in se documenta daret. Justin. Hist. 1. 3. §. 2.

* V. Mr. Ant. Burges Ser. on Numb. 11, 12. p. 34. Preacht 1645.

† See Mr. Jacobs Ser. on Acts 13. 36.

* Ipse se non habuit, postquam mundus cum principem habere cepit.

Non præes ut de subditis crescas, sed ut ipsi de te. Bern.

† Tyranus suum spectat commodum, Rex vero subditorum. Arist. Polit. 1. 8. c. 10. & Philo li. 2. Allegor. p. 108, 109.

Tu civem Patremque gratæ consulere cunctis,

Non tibi; nec tua te moveant, sed publica damna.

Claudian.

V. Plura in Polyanthea, de liberalitate pag. 1567.

* See that Text fully opened in my Comment on 2 Tim. 3. 2. p. 26, 27. & Gerhard. de Magistr. p. 270. & Mr. Rob. Bolton Assize Ser. p. 59. &c.

Nihil est tam angusti animi, tam parvi quam amare divitias. Cicero lib. 1. Offic.

oned, shall have Gods protection, the blessing of their people, the comfort of a good conscience when they come to die (as Moses, Samuel, Hezekiah, Nebemiah,) and at the day of Judgement (when the wicked shall cry to be hid) they shall appear with comfort and confidence before Christs Tribunal.

[See nine Properties of a good Magistrate in Mr. Frosts Ser. folio. p. 288, 289. Dr. Halls Solomons Politicks. Vol. 1. folio. p. 209. See eight Qualifications in Mr. Gurnals Ser. on Isa. 3 26. p. 29, &c. Mr. Livesy, Jehosaphats charge. p. 135 &c. Mr. Baxters Sheet of Directions to Justices of the Peace.]

[Yong Gentlemen that are towards the Law, may do well (in their minority) throughly to peruse Plutarchs lives; and specially his Morals, Seneca, Xenephons Cyropadia, and Mr. Peachams compleat Gentleman; they are full of excellent Notions both for Speculation and Practice; and are all Translated into English for common use.]

Quest. Will not this discourage inferior people when they hear great ones called Gods, and see them exalted; when they are made to serve in inferior callings?

Ans. Not at all; for there is much of God may be seen even in their callings. The Husbandmans calling is lookt upon as a mean employment, yet the Lord tells us that tis he who teacheth him to Plow, Sow, and Harrow, (Isa. 28. 24, 25, 26.) As he teacheth the Warriour to fight, Psal. 18. 34. and the Ruler how to sway the Scepter, and Bezaliel his curious works, Exodus 35. 22. so he giveth Wisdom to the Husbandman how to order his affairs with discretion. Tis reported of Heraclius that when his Schollars had found him in a Tradesmans shop, whither they were ashamed to enter, he encouraged them saying, Quod neq; tali loco dii desunt immortales, That the Gods were as well present in such places as in others; intimating that a divine power and wisdom might be discerned even in those common Arts which which are so much despised. Hence Tarentinus persuaded his friends to go with him to a Forge, and he would shew them Gods handy work there (In troite, inquit, sunt hic etiam Di) so may we say of other Artificers, Come in and see Gods handy work here. There's no calling so mean but some foot-steps of a Deity may be seen there, and though thou be not the Head (thou hast the lels to account for) yet the hands, feet and toes are usefull in their places: and if thou walk humbly with thy God in them, thou maist come to heaven before Princes who oft-times are Gods in name, but Devils indeed. Tis the glory of a land when Ministers preach, Magistrates protect, People obey, and each in their places help to preserve humane Society.

Nil in natura rerum tam minutum, tam vile & abjectum, quod non aliquid admirationis hominibus adferat. Aristot. de anima. l. I. c. 5.

Observation 8.

God is not only present, but President and chief Ruler amongst the Rulers of the world; he's King of Kings and Lord of Lords, (1 Tim. 6. 15. Rev. 17. 14.) his eye is with them on the throne (Job 36. 7.) he sits on the bench amongst them and is in their Assemblies; hence their Seat is called The holy place, (Eccles. 8. 10.) God is Lord-chief-Justice on the Bench with them. He doth not only look on them, but he stands in the midst of them, and erects his Throne in their Thrones; he eyes their Affections, takes notice of their actions, attends their charges, and passeth a censure upon their censures. As he hath a more especial interest in them, so he hath a more especial eye upon them. Seneca would have men to do all Tanquam spectet Cato: but Judges should do all Tanquam spectet Deus, remembering Gods All-seeing eye is still upon them. Jehosaphat could not ride Circuit with his Judges, but God doth. He is with them not only by way of assistance and protection, but also by way of Observation; he takes notice of every sentence that passeth and will bring it again to Judgment: for one special end of that great day, day, is, Judicare non judicata, & male judicata. To punish those sinners wh ch have escaped unpunisht here, and to rectifie the unrighteous judgements of the world. This made a wicked Judge on his death-bed to weep, and being asked why? To think (said he) that I who have Judged others am going now to be judged my self. As Masters on earth must remember that they have a Master in Heaven (Colos. 4.1.) so Judges on earth must remember that they also have a Judge in Heaven to whom they must shortly give an account. Let Judges then remember that excellent counsel of J. hosoph 1 to his Judges, *2 Chr. 19.6,7 Take heed what ye do, for ye judge not for men but for the Lord who is with you in the judgement.

1. Here is a duty enjoyed, and that is † Circumspection and accurate walking, take heed what you do, which is again repeated; here is caution upon caution, (ver. 7.) to make the deeper impression in them. g. d. the execution of Justice is curious work, you had need therefore of open eyes, steady hands and upright hearts.

2. Here is the Means to attain this, let the fear of God be upon you, ver. 7. He that fears not God, will little regard the distresses of men, (Luke 18.4.) and will make but a sorry defender of such as do fear him; whereas he that truly fears God, dares not wrong man, (Gen. 42. 18. Nebem. 5. 15.) Piety advanceth Magistracy, tis the * Honour of their Honours; as we see in † Constantine the Great; and therefore tis made a chief Qualification of a Magistrate, that he be one that fears God, (* Exod. 18.21. 2 Sam. 23.3.) and keeps his Commandments, Joshua 1. 8. Psal. 2. 10, 11, 12. The lives of Rulers are the Looking-glass by which Inferiors dress themselves, and the Rule by which they walk; they had need therefore to see how they walk; for, such Magistrates, usually such people. This fear of the Lord is the foundation of all other Graces; and where this is wanting,

all

Nuper eram iudex, jam iudicis ante Tribunal Substitens pavelo, iudicor ipse modo.

* See this Text more fully opened in Sibelinus 3 Tom. Concio 10 p 382. & Mr. Blackwells Ser. on the same Text, Preacht 1644. and also Mr. Cafe. Preacht 1644.

† See ten Reasons for this, in Mr. Levisy his Ser. on this Text. p. 93. Officium geritis magni momenti; multum potestis prodesse & esse; considerate igitur diligenter, &c. Lavater in locum.

* V. Beauty of Holiness, p. 152.

† V. Aug. de Civit. Dei l. 5. cap. 25.

* V. Frosts Ser. on Magistr. p. 288. folio. Decorum est ut qui dignitate, probitate emineat. Decet id quod optimum est, ab optimo coli. Stobæus.

Qualis Rex, talis grex. Ubi Præses Philosophus (Pius) ibi felix civitas. Aristot. V. Plura apud Langium in Polyanth. de Magistrat. Q. 12. p. 1670. edit. ult.

all is wanting, all vertues without this are but empty shels, shews, shadows.

2. They must not respect persons in judgement, (Prov. 18. 5.) be they old or young, Rich or Poor, Citizens or Strangers, Christians or Heathens, friends or foes, he must not look at the Greatness of their persons, but the Goodness of their cause. As God respects not any outward thing in man to move him to do so and so; so Rulers must resemble him. Partiality staineth Justice, and cuts in pieces the very Nerves of a State.

3. Take no Gifts. * Bribes blind the eyes of the wise, and make them to pervert judgement. Judges anciently were pictured without hands, and without eyes. 1. Without hands, to note that Judges must not take gifts. 2. Without eyes, because they were to administer justice according to every mans cause, without respect to any mans Relation, whether friend or foe; as Christ, so those that rule under him must not judge by outward appearance, but they must judge righteous judgement, Isa. 11. 3. There are four great perverters of judgement, viz. fear, favour, hatred, Bribery; this last is not the least of the four, and therefore is so frequently condemned in Scripture, Exod. 23. 8. Dent. 16. 17. & 16. 19. & 27. 26. Job 15. 34. Prov. 15. 27. & 17. 23. & 28. 21. & 29. 4. Psal 26. 10. Isa. 5. 23. Amos 5. 12. Micah 3. 10. Alts 24. 26. They must imitate Moses and Samuel who cleared themselves from this sin, (Numb. 16. 15. 1 Sam. 12. 3.) For he that taketh a gift selleth himself, and is bound to do somewhat for the bribe he hath received. 'Tis therefore made one note of a Citizen of Heaven that he despiseth bribes, and takes no rewards to condemn the innocent, Psal. 15. 5. Isa. 33. 15. There is no difference in Gods Dictionary between Bribery and Thevery, Isa. 1. 23. There is little difference between Give ye, and Deliver

* See my Comment. on 2 Tim 3. 2. p. 27. Judges are called Gods, and God is known by giving, not by receiving.

Quatuor ista, timor, odium, dilectio, census, Sapè solent hominum rectos pervertere sensus.

liver ye; unless it be this, that the one goes in chain of Gold, when others lie in Fetters of Iron. If any would see the Question stated how and when a man may take a gift, let him peruse Rivet on Hosea 4. 19. p. 617. folio. Brochmand. C. Consc. 2. Vol. p. 5061.

4. Since we are backward to the best things, Jehosaphat useth Motives to encourage and excite Judges to a careful and conscientious discharge of their duty. 1. They Judge not for man, i. e. not simply in the name and authority of men, but for the Lord, who is the Supream Ruler, to whom they must account: and therefore it greatly concerns them to take heed what they do. Kings causes call for great care and consideration: he that will manage them well, must take heed what he doth.

2. They must consider that God is with them, which serves first for Caution; if they do ill, he is with them to punish them: for though they be mighty, yet God is Almighty, and there is a greater then they, (Job 33. 12.) who stands in their Assemblies, not as a bare Spectator, but as a Witness, Judge and Avenger of such as act unrighteously, Job 12. 18, 19, 21. 2. It serves for comfort; he is with them to defend them if they do well. The Devil throws his darts principally at them: they destroy his Kingdom; and therefore he useth all means to destroy them; he saith to his Agents as Aram the King of Syria said to his followers (1 Kings 22. 32.) Fight neither with small nor great, but against the King of Israel; for when the Commander is conquered, the Souldiers fly.

3. There is no iniquity in the Lord; there is no injustice in him, and therefore let there be none in you. But of this see more Verse 2, 3. of this Psalm.

How great then is the sin of those who are not afraid in the very eye of the All-seeing God to favour wickedness wickedness and act unrighteously. Tis true they will formally and in words confess that they reign Dei gratiâ, & providentiâ Dei; yet they are so blinded with their Pomp; and infatuated with their Greatness, that God is not in all their thoughts, nor must He, his Laws, or People have any room amongst them. These the Psalmist tacitely reproves, by telling them that God stands in their Assemblies, and takes notice of all their ways.

See four good Lessons from Gods al-seeing eye in my Commentary on 2 Tim 4. 1. Obs. 3. p. 306.

Observation 9.

The judgement of Judges is the Lords judgement, Deut. 1. 17. 2 Chron. 19. 6. they have their power from him, John 19. 11. and therefore such as stand before Judges, are said to stand before the Lord, because the judgement is his, Deut. 19. 17. yea though they be wicked men, yet he judgeth amongst them; though not always by consenting and approving of what they do (for they oft err and do unjustly) yet alwayes by observing and over-ruling their Counsels to his own praise; and though they have Self-ends and Plots, yet God hath a Plot above their Plots, which they effect when they mind nothing less, as we see in Pilate, Judas, Satan in putting Christ to death, Acts 2. 23. & 4. 28.

Judicium est ipsius Dei Originaliter, autoritative & principaliter; at Magistratus Ministerialiter & instrumentaliter. Judicium Dei est; proinde Judex in tribus Deo debet conformari, in Potestate, Bonitate & Veritate.

Be patient therefore and silent under the unrighteous censures and judgements of men: for God can and will turn them to his peoples good, as we see in Josephs selling and imprisonment, in the three young men that were cast into the fiery Furnace, and Daniel into the Lyons Den, yet all advanced to honour by their sufferings.

Observation 10.

Going to Law (when just occasion requires) is lawful: To what end hath God ordained Judges (Deut. 16. 18.) and commanded men to bring their causes and controversies before them (Deut. 19. 17.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

∅ 25. 1.) if they might not hear them? Would God (think we) stand in their Assemblies and judge amongst them, if such judgements were unlawful? or would Christ have approved (or not rather re-proved men) for going before the Magistrate? Luke 12. 58. ∅ 18. 3.

Tis true indeed, 1. A man should not go to Law for every trifle: for every vain, hasty word, or petty trespass to disquiet a mans self, and molest his neighbour, argues a turbulent unmortified spirit. Tis the glory of a man to pass by such petty offences. Men should not for a six penny damage spend six pound; Tis a shame that our Law is not rectified in this particular.

2. He must not go to Law in malice, or with a revengeful mind to destroy his neighbour, but he must do all in a spirit of love and meekness, defending himself from wrong by Law, and seeking Peace, Truth and Righteousness.

3. A man must make Law (as men do war) their last Refuge. He must use all wise means to prevent it, by offering Peace and Reconciliation, referring it, and putting it off as long as may be: and when nothing will do, we may safely fly to the Law.

The Anabaptists hold it unlawfull (what ever the injury or abuse be) to go to Law, or seek to the Magistrate for aid. But their folly will easily appear, if we consider, 1. That God hath ordained Magistracy for this very end, to succour us in our distress. 2. We have Examples of those who have pleaded their cause, and that before Heathen Judges) as Christ before Pilate, John 18. 23. and Paul (when he was in danger) did plead the Law, and appeal to Cesar, Acts 23. 3. ∅ 25. 10, 12.

Objection. Mat. 5. 39. 40. Christ forbids us any resisting of evil, &c.

Answer.

Sic certent cause, ut non certent pectora.

Sapientem omnia prius ex-periri, quam armis decer-terent.

Ans.

Christ speaks there against private and inordinate revenge, proceeding from Wrath and Passion; and not against lawfull, ordinate publick defence before a Magistrate.

See this Text more fully vindicated from all Socinian Cavils, by Gerhard de Magistrat. p. 360.

2. The words are not Positive, but comparative. q. d. rather then thou shouldst be provokt to reward evil for evil, suffer a double injury; and if by thy bearing and forbearing Peace may be preserved, the Gospel honoured, thy profession adorned, and thy Brother bettered, then thou must suffer two injuries rather then revenge one.

Objection 2.

I Corin. 6. 1. to 8. Here (say the Anabaptists) the Apostle speaks against mens going to Law.

Ans.

There is no such thing in the Text, as will easily appear to such as read it at large.

1. The Apostle doth not simply condemn mens going to Law, but he condemns their bitterness and cruelty in Lawing, not bearing one with another, but vexing one another for trifles, when Christians should be patient, ready to forgive injuries, according to that of our Saviour, Forgive, and it shall be forgiven you, Luke 6. 37.

2. He blames them, for that they being Christians yet went to Law before Heathenish Judges, to the reproach of Christianity; for they being Christians should have had Christians to have heard and ended their controversies. So that he doth not condemn their going to Law, but tells them how they should do it.

See what Anabaptistick Logick here is, because Christ forbids Lawing before Heathens; therefore we may not go to Law before Christians. The Argument is Cogent thus; The Apostle condemns Christians for going to Law before Heathen Judges, therefore he allows of it before Christian Judges.

Est fallacia à dicto secundum quid ad dictum simpliciter: nam simpliciter non reprehendit iudicia, sed temeritatem in litigando, quod nihil privatim transigere voluerunt, sed in re sæpè levicula alter alterum ad tribunal Ethnicum iudicis protrahibat, non sine injuria & contemptu Christianitatis. Baldwin in locum.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

3. If the Apostle should absolutely condemn all suing to the Magistrate in case of wrong, then he should contradict his own Practice; for he being in distress, did more then once Appeal to Caesar.

See this Case fully cleared by Mr. John Downam on the Sacrament, chap. 12. Perkins Cases of Conscience, l. 3. c. 3. Q. 1. p. 118. folio. and Treatise of Christian equity. p. 446, 447. Vol. 2. & Zepper de Legibus Mosaic. l. 5. c. 6. p. 693.

V E R S E 2.

How long will ye judge unjustly, and accept the persons of the wicked? Selah.

THESE words are a Prosopopœical speech, where the Lord is brought in Reasoning, Reproving and Expostulating the case with the unrighteous Judges of those times. Such is the Pride of great ones, that they cannot bear a reproof from men: and therefore the Prophet to procure the more Authority to what should be spoken, brings in God himself reproving them: hence some Interpreters conceive that for explanation sake the word [saying] may fitly be added to the end of this first Verse: God standeth in the Congregation of the mighty, he judgeth amongst the Gods, Saying, How long will ye judge unjustly? q. d. Since I am present and President amongst you, how long will ye favour the wicked, and plead their cause against the innocent?

In this Verse we have 1. The sin reproved in general, and that is Unjust judgement; a sin most proper and peculiar to Judges. To be covetous, envious, ut majorem efficaciam habeat objuratio, inducitur Deus summus Judex increpans judices minores.

Bellarm.

envious, passionate and proud, is evil; but to judge Unjustly, to justify the wicked; and condemn the just, is not only abominable, but an abomination in the * Abstract, Prov. 17. 15. This is † iniquity and perverseness with a witness.

* How Abstracts increase the Sense, See my Schools-Guard. Rule 36.

† Gravel (the word in Gravel, to deal perversly the Text) which signifieth iniquity or perverseness, comes from and wickedly.

2. Here is the Duration of their sin, implied in the Word Usque quo, how long? it implies that they had for a long time persevered in this Practice; and therefore he doth not simply say, ye do Unjustly, But how long will ye do Unjustly? How long will ye favour the wicked in his wickedness, and condemn the just? The * Interrogation is a vehement Negation. q. d. ye ought in no wise to continue so long in your injustice as you have done.

Usque quò judicabitis iniquitatem? Heb. i. e. quamdiu perseverabitis in hoc peccato iniquè judicandi? Piscar.

* See my Schools-Guard. Rule 30.

3. Here is the Generality of the sinners implied in the word, Ye; how long will ye, i. e. all of ye judge unjustly? There might be some few, some gleanings, as the Prophet speaks (Mica. 7. 1, 2.) of just Judges, but the generality was very corrupt.

4. Here is an Exegefsis, an Illustration, or (if you will) an Aggravation of what went before. Ye judge unjustly, what's that? why, ye accept the persons of the wicked. q. d. ye admire their persons, ye favour their faces, ye plead their causes; but the cause of the Poor and the Righteous man cannot be heard. In the Original tis, ye accept the face of the wicked. Now to accept the face of a man, is an Hebrew phrase, and signifies a shewing favour and respect to a man. Gen. 19. 22. The Angel tells Lot, that he had respected his face. q. d. I have shewed favour to thee, and have given thee thy request. The words seem to be an Aggravation of their sin; they did not sin through weakness, but through wilfulness; not through simple ignorance, but presumptuously; they sought the faces

See this phrase more fully explained in r. Caryl on Job 13. 8. p. 377.

Natha, est personam respicere, honorare, admirari, & in gratiam alicujus aliquid facere. Leigh.

Non dicit impios suscipitis, sed facies impiorum suscipitis; ut intelligas eum non de quibusvis impiis, sed de iis loqui qui spectabiles sunt vel propter generis prerogativam, vel propter opum splendorem, Musculus.

*Reshaginim, Improbi, inquieti, turbulenti.

faces and favour, not of poor men, or of friends; that might favour of some humanity (though it may not be practised in judgement) yea they sought the faces not simply of sinners, but of wicked, potent,* turbulent, notorious sinners. To get the favour of these who could bribe them, or some way gratifie them, they perverted judgement, and instead of punishing the wicked they acquitted them; and instead of defending the poor, they contemned them, and trampled on them.

Selah.

Selah hic adscriptum monet malum hoc quo nihil magis execrandum, passim & apud eos quoque, qui admodum justi videntur, plane regnare. Ut Scultetus & Bucero.

Cantor ubi ad hanc vocem pervenerat, attollit vocem suam; & hoc signum erat gravem ibi sententiam contineri, in quam animus intendendus erat; redditur à doctis per plane, summe, vehementer. Ravinellus. See more in such as Comment on Psal. 3. 2. & Rivet. in Psal. 24. 6. p. 170. folio

Where we find this word (sometimes) there is in that Verse some remarkable thing; as in this Verse it signifies as much in English, as if David had said, O how great and greivous an offence is it before God, for favour and affection, for gifts and greatness, to pervert Justice and Judgement! It comes from Salal, which signifies to raise or elevate; and so it may signifie the elevation of the mind in marking, or of the voice in singing. It sometimes signifies an Asseveration of a thing so to be, and an admiration at it. It is used seventy four times in Scripture.

Observation I.

Even great men when they go astray, must be sharply reprov'd. God doth not here barely say, Do not unjustly, do not respect persons, &c. but as one that is angry with them, he sharply and severely expostulates the case with them, saying, How long will ye judge unjustly, and respect the persons of the mighty? And as God, so his Embassadors according to their places must not fear the face of man: but as occasion requires, they must tell the greatest of their their sins: yet with a * Prudential consideration of all Circumstances; for if we must respect Elders for their age (1 Tim. 5. 1.) then much more Rulers who are set in publick place of dignity: and therefore as in the reproofing of all men, so especially of great men, great Wisdom and Prudence is required; as we see in Nathan who wisely catcheth David in a Parable, (2 Sam. 12. 1, &c.) and that Prophet which caught Ahab in his own words, and made him pass sentence upon himself, 1 Kings 20. 39, 40. Tis not for every one to say unto Kings, Ye are wicked, Job 34. 18. Tis Ministers and such as are called to the work, that may with Elijah tell Ahab of his wickedness. Tis a Samuel that must reprove a Saul, (1 Sam. 15. 19.) Isaiah reproves Hezekiah, (Isa. 39. 6.) Jeremy King Zedekiah (Jer. 32. 4.) and John Baptist Herod: If great men do amiss we must not stick to say to Kings and Queens, Humble your selves, Jer. 13. 19. We are set to watch not only for poor mens souls, but also for the souls of Rulers; yea rather for them then for others, because by their Example they do much hurt or good. Many think it no sin to do, what they see great one do. As like Priest, like people, (Jer. 50. 6. Hof. 4. 9.) so usually like Magistrate, like people; if they be good, the people will be the better, Judges 2. 7. Josh. 24. 24. Dauids bounty in building the Temple encouraged the people to follow him, 1 Chron. 29. 6, 7. If the King of Nineveh humble himself, so will the people, Jonah 3. 6. Rulers are like Looking-glasses, by which most men dress themselves; if they be bad, like great Cedars when they fall they bring many branches down with them, and crush the shrubs that are under them. If Jeroboam sin, he'll quickly draw all Israel to sin with him, 1 Kings 14. 16. If a Ruler hearken to lyes, his servants will be like him, Prov. 29. 12. This made the Pharisees to reject Christ because none of the Rulers believed in him, John 7. 48. which made Luther

* See Mr. Reyners Government of the Tongue. p. 178.

Great men should be good men. V Burroughs Gracious Spirit. p. 204.

Mobile in: atq; semper cum Principe Vulgus. Claudiam.

A capite primum computrescunt Pisces. Prov.

ther to say, Principum delicta sunt plane Diabolica. Great mens sins are the greatest sins, because they sin against great means of grace, and by their example do much mischief. When the Head is unsound, the body must needs miscarry: no error so dangerous as that which proceeds from the Ruler, Eccles. 10. 5. Jerusalem was full of abominations, whats the cause? why the Prophets were prophane, and the Princes were as roaring Lyons, and the Judges Wolves, Zeph. 3. 3. Subjects study the lives of their Princes more then their Laws, they should therefore be great Reformers (as Asa, Josiah, and Hezekiah were, who drew the people with them.) 2 Chron. 15. & 31. 1. &c. Greatness accompanied with goodness is like a Ring with a rich Diamond which inhaunceth the price. Now the Prophets seeing that the publick enormities of Rulers have such an influence on people, have inveighed sharply against their sins, (Isa. 1. 23. & 10. 1, 2, 3. Hosea 5. 1. Micah 3. 1, 2.) and the command is general without any limitation to high or low. (1 Tim. 5. 20.) such as sin before all, rebuke before all that others may fear; Indeed if their sins be Private and meer Infirmities, we must with the mantle of love cover them, least we exasperate instead of healing them.

Objection.

Such plain Preachers are counted the Troublers of Israel, Jer. 37. 13, 15. Amos 7. 12.

Answer.

'Tis true, they have been so accounted, but it hath been by wicked men who have themselves been the Troublers of Israel, as Elijah told Ahab, 1 Kings 18. 18.

2. If great men would but hearken to the pious counsel of Gods faithfull Messengers, it would prevent Seditious, Tumults and Troublers in their Territories.

Observation

Observation 2.

That continuance in evil is a great evil. How long (saith God) will ye judge unjustly? and when will you make an end of your unrighteous practises? To do an unjust act is ill, but to persevere for many years in acting Unrighteousness is the height of evil. As perseverance in goodness is the Crown of goodness, Job 2. 3. so perseverance in sin is sin in grain, tis of a deep dye, tis hardly if ever fet out again.

Humanum est errare, et Diabolicum perseverare in errore. Gerson.

Observation 3.

Tis no wonder to see Judges judge Unjustly. They did so here, and God complains of such else-where, Isa. 1. 23. Jer. 5. 1. Mic. 3. 9. there are some such now, and there will be such to the end of the world, even till he who is Judge of Judges shall come to Judgement, and shall abolish all Rule and Dominion. Wicked men in all ages have the same corrupt Natures and Principles within them, and when Temptations come they discover themselves. Besides, the world ever did and ever will love her own; wicked Magistrates will favour wicked men; yea if there were no Bribery nor flattery in the world, yet wicked great ones would favour such as are like themselves.

Observation 4.

Few great men are good men. Some there are but they are thin sown. Not many wise men, not many mighty, not many Noble; i. e. some few are called; * 1 Cor. 1. 26. They are subject to great Temptations, and so to great Corruptions. Such rank ground is fertile in weeds; hence wicked men are put in the Text for Rich men. How long will ye accept the persons of the wicked? That is; the persons of rich and potent men; that is the meaning; for Judges would never accept the persons of the wicked men if they were Poor and equal in respect of outward things. This the opposition implies, Defend the poor and fatherless, implying that the rich were defended by them, but the Poor had no Helper.

* See Mr Rob. Bolton on that Text, and Mr. Fraz. Taylor.

Observation 5.

That perverting of judgement is a great sin. Tis a crying sin, it cries for Vengeance on such as practice it. This was one of those sins which caused the day of Jerusalems misery to draw nearer, Ezek. 22. 6, 7. and for which the Lord threatens to visit, Isa. 5. 6, 7. Jer. 5. 28, 29. Amos 2. 6. & 5, 6, 7, 11. Mal. 3. 5. If he be cursed that shall remove the Land-mark, what shall be done to him who takes away house, land and all? Dent. 27. 17. Solomon tells us, he that justifieth the wicked, him shall the people curse, Prov. 24. 24. for Judges to turn aside in Judgement to the right hand or the left, is to abuse their Deputation, and as much as in them lies to Un-God themselves and God too. An Unjust Judge (as one well observes) is a cold fire, a dark Sun, a dry Sea, a mare mortuum, an Un-good God, contradictio in adjecto, Monsters not men, much less Gods. A false Teacher that poysons souls, and a corrupt Judge that pervers justice, are two pestilent evils: the one destroys the fountain of Piety, and the other the fountain of Righteousness. If a man be oppressed, he flies to the Law for refuge; but if the Law be wrested and abused where shall we find a remedy? Tis sad with the flock when the Shepherd is a Wolf. Quis custodiet ipsos custodes?

Observation 6.

Magistrates must Judge impartially. They must not respect persons but causes. They must look more on the face of the cause, then the face of the man. This respecting of persons is not good, (saith Solomon) that is, tis very bad, Prov. 24. 23. Tis a sin

Quenam potest praeicioſior esse perversitas quam si apud medicum invenias mortem, apud doctorem mendacium, apud Judicem injustitiam? Musculus

V. Comforts against Oppression. Mr. Ash his Ser. on Psal. 9. 9. preach't 1642. and Mr. Caryl Ser. on Psal. 119. 134. preach't 1651.

Metaph. V. Schools-Guard, on that figure.

fin off forbidden, Deut. 1. 17. & 16. 19. Job 13. 8. 10. 2 Chron 19. 6, 7. Prov. 18. 5. & 28. 21. James 2. 9. Jude 16. Men must not judge according to any outward appearance or quality of the person that appears before them, but according to the equity of the cause, (John 7, 24.) As God respects not persons (Deut. 10. 17. Job 34. 19. Acts 10. 34. Gal. 2. 6. Ephes. 6. 9. Colos. 3. ult. 1 Pet. 1. 17.) So Judges who are earthly Gods must imitate their Lord and Master whose person they represent, in whose seat they sit, and by whose command they act. So that if they will do any thing in favour of the mighty, let them do it in favour of the mighty God; and this they do, when they execute Justice and Judgement in the gate. As they must not respect the rich for his riches, so neither the poor for his poverty, so as in pitty to him to wrong the rich, nor out of fear or honour to the rich comply with them to oppress the poor, Exod. 23. 3. Lev. 19. 15. In charity we must have respect to a poor mans necessity; but in point of Justice neither the power of the rich, nor the Penury of the poor, but Right only must be regarded (Psal. 72. 7.) if a man might strain the Law for any, tis for the poor; and yet the Lord himself who is most tender over the poor, will not have their persons but their causes lookt upon. A respector of person is a kind of Idolater, the respect which he owes to God and Right, he gives to Riches. Petty Theeves shall wear chains of Iron, when grand Robbers and Murderers sit on the Bench with chains of Gold. As God knows no Honour, Royalty or Greatness in the matter of sin, so neither must his Deputies. I see no Reason (said the woman) why I should be punished for breaking one commandment, when King Richard breaks all Ten and yet goes Unpunisht. The Judges in Egypt were painted without hands and blind; and the Areopagites who were Judges in Athens passed their sentence in the night, and had their Judicatories in dark rooms that they might not be byassed by prejudice or affection to pass wrong Judgement upon the person. Out of Judgement to shew favour to our friends is not Unlawfull; but in point of Judgement they must be blind not knowing friend or foe, but look soberly on the cause which is before them. When publick right is in Question, the Poor person must be laid aside, and we must eye his cause; for though it be seldom seen that a poor man is preferred before a Rich man in his cause, yet sometimes it may so fall out that at the tears and cries of the Poor, and to get a Name for a merciful man amongst men, there may be offending on that hand. 'Tis true, we must shew mercy, but yet with Judgement and discretion. In other cases we may shew respect to men for their age, gifts, graces, affinity, dignity, calling, &c. but not in Judgement. The Court must know no Kinsmen. Judges must with David do justice to All the people without distinction of rich or poor (2 Sam. 8. 15.) they must dispense Justice with an equal hand and an even ballance. As the Law it self is equal to all, so should the Judge who is a living Law, be the same to all that fly unto him for succour. So that this makes nothing for the Sottish, Uncivil Quakers who cry down all outward respect and reverence to men in authority under pretence of respect to no man person: Whereas the Scripture doth not condemn civil but sinful respect of persons, The Servant must reverence his Master, and the Child his Father, and the Subject his Sovereign. Besides there is a sacred respect of persons used both by God and man. Thus God had respect to Abel and his offering, but not to Cain. He had respect to Lot and saved him out of Sodom, Gen. 19. 21. Thus the Saints may and must love the Saints with a spiritual and more intimate love, Psal. 16. 3.

Pressa est paupertas, opulencia splendida regnat; Dives ubiq; valet, pauper ubiq; jacet.

Protopolatria est idololatria.

See more on this Point in my Comment. on 2 Tim. 4. 19. p. 468.

Observation 7.

Wicked men are Turbulent men. They are the great Reshagnims of the world. They disquiet and trouble themselves, like the troubled Sea they are alwayes casting up the dirt and filth of sin, (Prov. 11. 17. Isa. 57. 20, 21.) They trouble their own houses, Prov. 15. 27. yeathese Achans and Ababs trouble all Israel; they are the Pests and Plagues, the Ulcers and Botches of the places where they live. As good men are a publick good, and make the places where they live the better for them, (Gen. 12. 2.) so wicked men are publick evils and make the places where they dwell the worse for them. As grace meekens men and makes them quiet, (Isa. 11. 6.) so sin where it raigns and is not subdued, disquiets men and makes them turbulent.

V E R S E 3.

Defend the Poor and Fatherless, do Justice to the afflicted and needy.

V E R S E 4.

Deliver the Poor and needy, rid them out of the hand of the wicked.

HAVING finisht the Reprehension, and shewed Negatively what Judges must not do, viz. they must not Judge unjustly, nor respect persons: Now we come to the Direction, where the Lord teacheth them and tells them Affirmatively what they must do, viz. they must defend the poor and fatherless; and succour such as are in distress: so that having dehorted them from the Vices which are more especially incident

The Beauty of Magistracy.

cident to Rulers, he now exhorts them to the contrary Vertues. So that here we have a clear description of the Magistrates duty which consists principally of two parts. 1. To defend the good. 2. To punish the bad; both which are also mentioned by the Apostle, Rom 13. 3.

This counsel of God (saith Luther) is worthy to be written in Letters of gold on the walls of all Judicatories. It may fitly be termed Gods Charge to Magistrates. They give charges to men, and here God gives four things in charge to them.

- viz. {
1. To defend.
 2. To do Justice.
 3. To Deliver.
 4. To Rescue.

2. The Object or the Persons whom they must thus Protect {
1. The Poor.
 2. The Fatherless.
 3. The afflicted.
 4. The needy.

As if the Lord had said, This is your main business, and therefore let it be your great care, to defend the poor, succour the afflicted, and support the fatherless, and to help him who hath no Helper. As the proper work of the Physitian is to cure the sick, and of a Minister to comfort the weak, so of a Magistrate to defend the Poor, and vindicate the Oppressed from the violence of the Oppressor.

Question.

Must not the Magistrate defend the rich man in a righteous cause as well as the Poor? must he not execute Justice for him as well as for the needy? Why then doth the Lord here only mention the poor?

Answer.

Answer.

'Tis true, Magistrates must execute Justice for rich men as well as for the poor: yet since the poor are most subject to injury, therefore the Magistrate must be more careful to defend them. The poor are low in condition, and are often laid lower by Oppression: now God hath raised up Magistrates for this very end, to protect them in their low condition, and to lift them up when they are laid lower by oppression.

2. As for Rich men, the world loves her own, especially her White Sons, her Great and Prosperous Children, so that their causes are sure to be heard, and their right improved to the utmost who have so many * Angels to appear for them. Rich men have many friends, Prov. 14. 20. Where money is stirring, let the cause be never so unjust, yet oft-times might overcomes right, so great an influence hath riches upon the Rulers of this world. So that tis needless to bid Rulers plead for Rich and Mighty men. Besides, men are afraid of wronging great ones, because they have great power and many friends to vindicate them against the wrongs of any.

* Auro loquente quis tacebit?

3. There's an averfness and backwardness in our Natures to help the Poor, who have no gifts nor friends to side with them, who have nothing to plead but only the justness of their cause. Men that are in Poverty and Adversity find few friends; Hence tis that the poor is oft hated even of his own neighbours, (Prov. 14. 20. & 19. 7.) but the lovers of the rich are many. The poor Prodigal is called This thy Son, not this my Brother, Luke 15. 30.

4. Where the hedge is low, men are apt to get over. When men are poor, then great men especially are apt to trample on them, 1 Sam. 18. 23. hence tis that God layes such special Injunctions on the Magistrate to see to them. The Birds of prey can shift for them-selfes, but tis the poor Dove that is made a prey. Hence the Fatherless, the Widow, the Poor, the Stranger and the Oppressed are yoked together in Scripture, because in respect of their weakness they they are more lyable to wrong, (Deut. 14. 29. Psal. 10. 18. Mal 3. 5. James 1. 27.) Tis not the Ass of the rich, or the Ox of the mighty, but tis the Ass of the Fatherless, and the Ox of the Widow that is taken away, Job 6. 27. & 24. 3.

Dentes timentur apri, defendunt cornua cervos; Imbelles dæmæ, quid nisi præda sumus? Martial Epigr. l. 13. ep. 95.

5. The Lord speaks here to unrighteous Judges, who sided with the rich and turbulent oppressors of the poor; and to make his Exhortation take the deeper impressiō, he multiplies words, and doth as twere bid them Defend, Defend, Defend. Whom? The Poor, the Poor, the Poor. As the Lord said of Jerusalem, I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; i. e. I will speedily and certainly overturn it; Ezek. 21. 27. So the * doubling and trebling of the duty and persons here is very Emphatical, and notes Gods earnest affection and desire to have the poor and fatherless speedily and certainly defended against the oppressions of the mighty.

Defend the poor; i. e. defend the cause of the poor, since he cannot defend himself. Or, Judge for the poor and fatherless (as tis in the fountain) i. e. in your judgement vindicate them and their just causes from the Sons of violence. They are Gods Clyents, and therefore they should be the Judges care: for this end God hath set them in his stead, that they might defend those who cannot defend themselves, and use their Power for the good of those who have no power, Job 26. 2. The Hebrew word Dal which we render Poor, comes from Datal to spend or consume; and is applyed to the weak and sickly, whose health is spent (Gen. 41. 19. 2 Sam. 13. 4.) and to the poor whose wealth is wasted, (Psal. 41. 1. & 72. 12; 13. & 113. 7.) and they fallen into decay, Lev. 25. 35. The word is opposed to rich men, who in

* V. School's-Guard, Rule
43.

Shiptu dal. *judicate pro
tenui.* Morr.

The word Poor, is a comprehensive word, including in it all sorts of Poor.

in Scripture are called great men, full and fat, Psal. 78. 31. and only men of wealth; Ruth 2. 1. Jer. 49. 32. Now tis not these full and fat ones who have many friends, but tis the lean and weak man, that is poor in purse, sickly in person, and many other wayes brought low; tis these poor hopeles, helpeles ones that Rulers must have a care of. Tis not only their duty, but their Glory so to do, Job 29. 11. 10 18.

And Fatherless.] or the Orphan, that hath no father or friend to help him, but is forsaken of all. The word signifies one that hath lost his sight, because he that hath lost his parents is deprived of the light of counsel and direction how to carry himself in the world; as God delights to help those who cannot help themselves, (Prov 23. 10, 11.) so must earthly Gods. The word is rendred by the Septuagint, Poor; indeed the poor and fatherless are oft joyned in Scripture, and are Synonyma's, being put for one and the same person.; as Psal. 10. 14. The poor committeth himself to thee; thou art a Father to the fatherless. He that is called poor in the beginning of the Verse, is called fatherless in the end. The word is taken sometimes properly, for one that hath lost his Father. 2. Metaphorically, for such as are in deep distress and have no helper. Now we are not to restrain the sense here only to Orphans; for he that is a Father, may be called fatherless, and the child that hath a Father, yet may be called fatherless, when he extremely needs the help either of God, or man, Hof. 14. 3.

Do justice to the afflicted and the needy.] or as the Original runs, Justifie the afflicted. q. d. if his cause be just, fear not to Justifie him, and pronounce him Judicially just and innocent. Many unjust Judges will hear the causes of the poor; but when they have heard them and found them to be right, yet they Fatom, Pupillus Orphanus.

Lana. 5 3.

ὄρφανος ab ὀφθαλμοῖς tenebrosus, quod liberi quodammodo amittunt lucem & pupillas oculorum, amissis parentibus. Minshew.

Hierdiky, justificate, absolute, & justum pronunciate.

Humilem & pauperem iustificare. Vulg Lat.

Rash pauper, from Rushi, depauperari, to be impoverished or made poor.

Ebion, egenus, a poor, indigent, needy creature, from Abah desideravi, because the poor that have nothing, desire food, rayment, money and such things as they want.

1. Judicate, 2. Justificare.
3. Eripite.

Eripere pauperem de manu potentis est sententiam adversus potentem pro paupere justè pronuntiatam executioni mandare, & re ipsa efficere ut pauper nihil detrimenti à potentiore inimico patiatur. Bellarm.

do not justifie them, but the wicked. The Afflicted and the poor are joynd in Scripture, (Zeph. 3. 12.) because poverty is usually accompanied with many afflictions. The word Gnani which we render afflicted, signifies also, to be Humble and Meek (Zach. 9. 9.) for as Riches make men cruel and proud; so affliction makes men humble and lowly.

And needy.] Properly the word signifies a poor man that hath lost his goods, and so is brought to poverty and misery, whether by oppression or otherwise. These are called the Poor of this world. James 2. 5. and the poor of the earth, Job 24. 4. Amos 8. 4.

Verse 4.

Deliver the poor and needy, from the violence of the mighty; the same is again repeated to make the deeper impression, and to shew how earnest God is to have Judges put it in execution. God drives this nail to the Head with one exhortation upon the neck of another, to fasten it the better in our hearts and memories.

Rid them out of the hand of the wicked. i. e. free and rescue him from the paws and power of turbulent men, who like their father the Devill; delight in vexing others. The words seem to be a Gradation, and not a bare repetition. 1. Judges must hear the cause of the poor. 2. Having found them innocent, they must justifie them and declare their innocency. 3. They must not rest there, but they must rescue and deliver them as Lambs out of the Paws and Jaws of the Lion. By this variety of words and multiplication of expressions the Holy Ghost denotes unto us all kind of misery which we are exposed to in this world by reason of potent and politick enemies. What ever the misery be, whether in body, goods, or name, (such is Gods goodness) that he would have Magistrates who are his Vice-gerents to take notice of it, and deliver his people out of it.

Observation.

Observation 1.

Magistrates must be a Defence to the poor and fatherless, to the afflicted and the needy. They are that great Tree which must shelter such as are under them from storms. Dan. 4. 20, 21, 22. They are called Gods, and in this they must act like him whose name they bear. Now 1. Sometimes the poor lie in deep distress, and then the Lord is a Refuge to them, Isa. 25. 4. He hears their cry, (Psal. 34. 6. & 69. 33.) whether it be vocal or virtual; for sometimes the poor mans afflicted condition cries though he say nothing, and God hears this cry, Psal. 12. 5. for the oppression of the poor will I arise: though the oppressed should not Vocally cry, yet their very oppression Virtually cries for help, James 5. 4.

2. Sometimes they lie in the dust, and then he raiseth them (Psal. 113. 7.) they lie amongst the pots and are sullied with affliction, yet then he makes them beautifull like a Dove, Psal. 68. 13.

3. Sometimes they are environed with mighty enemies, and then he rescues them, (Job 5. 15, 16.) by cutting off their oppressors, and comforting the oppressed, Job 36. 6, 15.

4. But specially the godly poor, God is very tender over these: he that toucheth them to hurt them, toucheth the apple of his eye. These are his Jewels, his Glory, his Portion, his Pleasant Portion, his Inheritance, his Dove, his Spouse, his annointed ones: and if Kings wrong them, he will rebuke even Kings for their sakes, saying, Touch not mine anointed, Psal. 105. 15. Amos 2. 6. God visits for such sins.

5. As for the fatherless who are exposed to much sorrow (and therefore Christ promiseth his Disciples that he will not leave them Orphans or fatherless, John 14. 18.) God hath stiled himself a Father to them, Psal. 68. 5. Hos. 14. 3. 2. He hath made many Laws for them, Exod. 22. 22. Dent. 16. 11, 14.

☉ 24. 17. ☉ 26. 12, 13. and curse them those that wrong them, Deut. 27. 19. 3. He chargeth Magistrates in the Text to be tender over them. So Isa. 1. 17. Job 29. 12. ☉ 31. 17, 18, 21. 4. When Magistrates are negligent in defending them, he hears their cry, and threatens to visit for that sin, Isa. 1. 23, 24. Jer. 5. 28, 29. ☉ 21. 12. Mal. 3. 5. 5. If Magistrates will not plead their cause, yet God will, Deut. 10. 18. Psal. 10. ult. ☉ 146. 9. Prov. 23. 11.

6. S. James fums up all religion (as twere) into this one duty. Tis not enough that we Hear, Pray, and Worship God, but we must also love our Neighbours, and shew pity to the poor and fatherless, without which all our profession is vain, James 1. 27. Now Magistrates in their capacity and calling must resemble God, they must be a Refuge to the poor, a Father to the fatherless, and a comfort to the comfortless. Job who was an eminent Magistrate in his time, how tender was he over the poor and fatherless she was eyes to the blind, feet to the lame, a father to the poor, and the blessing of him who was ready to perish came upon him, and he made the widows heart to sing for joy. Job 29. 12. ☉ c. 30. 15. ☉ 31. 17, 21. especially he must defend the Godly Poor, who are oft contemned by the high and haughty of the world for their poverty, and hated for their piety. These commit themselves and their cause to God (Psal. 10. 14.) and therefore they are called His poor, by a special propriety, (Psal. 72. 2.) He, speaking of Solomon, shall judge thy people with equity. Gods Deputies must be tender over those whom God so tenders, that he prizeth them above all the world besides.

Do Justice.

Observation 2.

As Magistrates must administer Justice unto all, so especially

Mens necessities are many, but most of them spring from Ignorance and want of Skill, or Impotency and want of power, both noted here by blindness and lameness. Job was a guide to the blind, and a staff to the lame, leading the one, and supporting the other. D. Sanderson 1. Ser. ad Magistr. p. 162.

especially to the afflicted and distressed. These are most liable to injury; and therefore if Justice incline to any side with favour, it should be towards the poor.
 This is the very end why Rulers are set up, viz. to execute judgement, and do Justice amongst the people, Isa. 56. 1. Hos. 12. 6. Amos 5. 24. Zach. 7. 9. Therefore tis that David prayed for his Son Solomon, that God would give him a clear understanding and right judgement to discern between good and evil; and an upright heart to walk answerable to light received, that so he might judge the people with righteousness, and the poor with judgement, Psal. 72. 1, 2. and Solomon himself makes the like prayer, 1 Kings 3. 9.
 and the Queen of Sheba tells him that God had raised him for this end, 1 Kings 10. 9. It was the honour of the Kings of Egypt, that they bound their Judges by Oath, not to act unjustly, no though they themselves should command them so to do. Cloathing is an Ornament, and a Diadem is a glory; all Magistrates like Job should put on righteousness as a robe, and judgement as a Diadem. Job 29. 14. So did Christ, Isa. 11. 5. This was Davids honour, that he executed Justice and Judgement to all his people, 2 Chron.
18. 14. This is so lovely a thing, that Absalom when he would entice the people from David, tells them, that if he were made Judge in the Land (though David did not) yet he would do them justice, 2 Sam.
15. 4. As Injustice is all Vice, so Justice compre-hends all Vertue, so excellent a thing is Justice.
 This is our duty, Micah 6. 8. as every man in his place must do justly, so specially the Magistrate.

2. Tis our Security, Isa. 33. 15, 16. it establisheth Thrones, Prov. 16. 12. & 29. 14. Jer. 22. 3, 4.
 and preserves a people from ruine, Amos 5. 15.
 There is no one thing (religion excepted) that doth more secure and adorn a Nation then Justice doth.
 Tis both Columna & Corona Reipublice, it is a Prop to make it subsist firm in it self, and as a Crown to render

The first thing we do in a morning, is to put on our cloaths; before we eat or drink, & do this: So should every good Magistrate, refer publike Justice before his own private affairs, much more before his Jades, his Kites, his Curs and pleasures.
 D. Sanderson 1. Ser. ad
 Magistratum. p. 155.

* ἡ μέγ' ἀρετὴ, ἀλλ'
 ὄλλ' ἀρετὴ. Arist. Ethic. l. 5.

V. Mr. Ant. Burges his Ser. on Psal. 106. 30. p. 2.
 Preacht 1644. and Dr.
 Sandersons Ser. on the same Text, p. 238. Mr.
 Greenhil on Exek. 11. 4.
 p. 74.

Ex resp ad interitum incli-nant in quibus boni à malis nihil differunt. Antist-henes.

* Pinguior victima macta- ri Deo non potest quam homo sceleratus.

See six Motives to quicken Magistrates to do Justice, in Mr. Taffy's on Amendment, p. 122. 354.
and ten more in Mr. Levi-fy, Jehosaphats charge, p.
75: 80, &c. Clerks Murror. chap. 74. 75.

Plato de Repub. lib. 4.

der it glorious in the eyes of others: Tis as the Cement in the building, which holds all together. Take this away, and Nations will quickly run to ruine, Jer.
5. 1. & 21. 12. Gall is bitter, and Hemlock is poisonous; now when Judgement is turned into Gall, and righteousness into Hemlock, judgement is not far from that people, Hof. 10. 4. Amos 6. 12. The Law thunders out curses against such as pervert judgement, specially the judgement of the fatherless and the widow, Deut 27. 19. Prov. 24. 24.

3. Tis our Glory. Righteousness exalts a Nation, Prov. 14. 34. and brings a blessing on it. The Lord bles thee O habitation of justice, Jer. 31. 33. So that what Solomon saith of Wisdom is most true of Justice, Exalt her and she shall exalt thee to honour, she shall be to thee an Ornament of grace, and a Crown of glory shall she deliver to thee, Prov. 4. 8, 9. Justice and Judgement is more acceptable to God then * Sacrifice, Prov 21. 3. without it all duties are an abomination, Isa. 1. 15. Amos 5. 21, 24. and our prayers in vain, Josh. 7. 20.

A Heathen could say, that the choicest gift that ever God gave to man (considering what miseries he is subject to) was government by justice, which bridleth and restraineth the presumption of the furious, preserveth the innocent in his honesty, and yieldeth equally to every man his due.

Now that Justice may be rightly dispensed to all, seven rules must be observed.

- | | | |
|------------|---|---------------------------------|
| Do Justice | { | 1. Discreetly. |
| | | 2. Speedily. |
| | | 3. Impartially and Universally. |
| | | 4. Resolutely and Courageously. |
| | | 5. Righteously and Exactly. |
| | | 6. Soberly. |
| | | 7. Diligently. |

1. A good Magistrate will execute justice Dis- creetly;

creetly; he is not rash nor heady, but he ponders all Circumstances of person, time, and place, and judgeth accordingly. Now as a word spoken in season, (or as tis in the fountain) a word set upon its wheels, having a due concurrence of all Circumstances, is like Apples of Gold in pictures of Silver, not only ly delightfull to the eye, but profitable to the Possessor; (Prov. 25. 11.) So an act of Justice rightly circumstantiated is both pleasant and profitable. He must not regard bare accusations, for who then should be innocent? Christ himself was accused for a Blasphemer and an Enemy to Cesar, and the Apostles were called Deceivers, and yet they were true men, (2 Cor. 6. 8.) Besides wicked men are very subtle in concealing, forging and wrapping up their sinfull practises, (Micah 7. 3.) but a Prudent Magistrate will sift and search out the truth of a matter. (Deut. 17. 4. Job 29. 16.) For want of this, wise David was overseen, and gave away good Mephibosheths estate unheard, upon the bare accusation of a self-seeking Ziba, (2 Sam. 19. 29.) and it was hard to censure Queen Vashti before she was heard speak for her self, Hester 1. 19. Twas good counsel (and he did practice it himself) which Alexander gave to his Judges, that when they had heard one party speak, they should stop one ear to hear what the other party could say for himself. Tis folly to speak before we know the depth of the matter before us, Prov. 18. 13. God will have both parties heard, Exod 22. 9.

2. Speedily. He must expedite causes, and not make a long harvest of a little crop. Delay oft makes the remedy worse then the disease. To tire out the poor, the fatherless and the widow with tedious suits and dilatory courses till they have no means left to prosecute their righteous cause, is an act of great unrighteousness. Christ is described (and a Magistrate cannot follow a better copy) to be one that seeketh judgement, and executeth justice

Q

speedily,

Beophilius, super rotas suis.

In capital causes especially deliberation must be used. V. Godwin Jewish Antiq. lib. 5. cap. 6. p. 195.

See more Directions in Mr. Lawson his Body of Divinity, on the ninth Commandment. p. 221, speedily, Isa. 16. 5. So did David, Psalms 101. ult. As tis ill to do right rashly, so tis a wrong to do it delayingly; and as they do a double courtesie who do it speedily, so they do double right who do it (though discreetly and deliberately) yet quickly. When the poor woman petitioned Philip King of Macedon to hear her cause; he answered, that he was not at leisure; then (said she) Be not King: The King laying to heart her speech, gave speedy audience, not only to her, but to all men from that day forward: and the Emperour Trojan on horseback ready to go to battle, alighted to hear the complaint of a poor woman.

&c.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Exiit personam iudicis, quisquis amici induit. Cicero.

3. Impartially and Universally to All, without fear of foes, or favour to friends. As Gods justice knows no Relations, (Isa. 27. 11. Jer. 22. 4, 24.) So Magistrates in point of Justice must know none. Levi (in this case) did know neither Father nor Mother, Brethren nor Children, (Deut. 33. 9.) David punished his Absalom with a three years banishment for his fratricide, 1 Kings 13. 38. King Asa deposed his own Mother for her Idolatry, 1 Kings 15. 13. and that resolution of Saul was Heroick (if it had been well grounded) Though the fault be found in Jonathan my Son, he shall surely dye, (1 Sam. 14. 39.) Tis excellent, but hard, to censure those we love. Tis the causes Equity, and not the persons Intimacy that must sway us; if the person be wicked, though he be never so neerly related to thee, Punish him; as that Noble Roman did his Son for siding with Cataline, Te Patria genni, non Cataline; and as that man who pleaded kindred, My Lord I am your Kinsman (said the Prisoner) Are you so? said the Judge; why then you shall have a higher Gibbet erected, that all the world may see that I will do Justice to a Kinsman. When Zaleucus had made a Law against Adulterers, that whosoever should be found guilty thereof, Exocnaretur, he should should have his eyes put out : It so fell out, that his Son was the first offender: whereupon sentence was pronounced, and execution ready to be done; The people intreating the Judge his Father to pardon the fault, upon deliberation he put out one of his own eyes, and one of his Sons, and so shewed himself Pium Patrem, & justum Judicem; a good Father, and a just Judge. As Aristotle said sometimes, Amicus Socrates, &c. Socrates I love, and Plato I love, but I love the truth above them all: So say you, My friends I love, my kindred I love, my children I love, but Justice and Judgement I love above them all. Justice is pictured blind with a Sword in one hand, and a ballance in the other; it cannot see a Rich man from a Poor, nor a friend from a foe. It makes not the Law like a Spiders Web, which catcheth little Flies, whilest the great ones break thorow. It knows that one finner (one Achan, one Saul, one Ahab) unpunisht destroyes much good, Eccles. 9. ult.

Altiorum erigite crucem.

4. Resolutely and Couragiously. Judges must not fear the faces or the frowns of any: for the Judgement is the Lords which they execute, who will defend them in it, * Exod. 18. 21. Deut. 1. 17. Nehemiah (Chap. 6. 11.) will not fear nor fly, but stands it out against all the Plots and Power of Sanballat and his confederates. Gods Joshua's and Zerubbabels must be strong and of good courage, Joshua 1. 9. Hag. 2. 4. Hence Constantine is stiled a man-child for his courage, in venturing for the Churches Weal. The Lord himself is a Shield and Sanctuary to the Shields of the earth: he is on their side, and therefore they should not fear what man can do unto them (Psal. 56. 5. & 118. 61.) Inferiour creatures when backt by a Superiour, are full of spirit. A little Dog will venture on a creature far stronger then himself, when his Master stands by to back him. Do Justice faithfully, and then let the world fall on thee; it shall never hurt thee; if any dare to do injustice; do

V. Plutarch de Iside.

* Magistrates must be Anshei Chajil, Viri vir-tutis, Valiant men.

Judex neminem timeat nisi seipsum.

See many Reasons why Magistrates should be couragious in Dr. Sandersons
1. ser. ad Magistratum. p. 176, &c.

Fiat justitia, & ruat cælum diu.

* See how Magistrates must be like Lions in seven particulars, in M. John Carters Ser. at Northwich on Revel. 5. 5. p. 120. Stiled the Lion.

Bene facere, & malè audire, regium est. Seneca.

not thou fear to do Justice on him. Solomons Throne was upheld by * Lions, not by fearfull Harts and Hares (2 Kings 10.20. 2 Chron. 9. 18, 19.) intimating that Magistrates should be such for magnanimity and courage. The Pillars of an house had need to be heart of Oak; Magistrates are the Pillars of a land, and therefore had need to be solid, seasoned, resolute, undaunted men, that will not warp for fear or favour, for Threats or Gifts. These Shields of the earth must look for Darts sometimes from Superiours, anon from Inferiours, and if they be not well steel'd, to flatter the one, or please the other, they will fail in duty. None but noble raised spirits can hold out in doing well, though they hear ill for their pains. There are three dogs which Luther would not have Ministers to bring into the Pulpit with them.

Viz. { Envy.
Pride.
Covetousness.

And there are three sins which no Magistrate should bring to the Seat of Justice with him.

Viz. { Pusillanimity.
Malice and Anger.
Covetousness.

It is a good clause which I have read in Minsbew, that in the Oaths of the Kings Justices, They shall swear to do right, notwithstanding the Kings Letters. An. 18. Edw. 3. 4.

1. A Pusillanimous man dares not say nay to an unrighteous motion for fear of the displeasure of the people, or of some great man. It was their sin that condemned Naboth for fear of displeasing Jezebel; and Pilate for fear of Cesar condemned Christ, though he found him innocent, and knew that he was delivered to him of envy. Pauls cause was good, yet Felix will not free him, because of the people. Darius to please his Princes, sends Daniel to the Lions Den, though with some regret. So King Zedekiah over-awed by his Princes, delivers Jeremy into their hands, Jer. 38. 5. Inordinate fears are very prejudicial to men in Publike places: such fear slaies a man whilest he lives, and buries him before he is dead, Isa. 22. 2. it enfeebles and dispirits a man, so that he cannot act so freely as becomes him. The fear of man is a snare, (Prov. 29. 25.) and every coward (saith Aristotle) is a murderer. As all Christians, so Magistrates then especially had need to be men of good courage; and the rather, because they must oppose the Torrent and current of the sins of the times they live in.

πῶς δειλὸν φονικόν. Aristot.

See Mr. Ash his Ser. on Psal. 31. 24 preached 1642.

2. Malice and Anger become not a Judge. Spite will never do right. Malice puts men upon revenge. Micaiah must to prison though he prophesie nothing but truth: and why so? for I hate him, said Ahab. Aristides (though a Heathen) said well; when sitting as Judge between two persons, the one charged his adversary with great wrongs done to Aristides; he answered, Friend, tell me only what he hath done to thee, for I sit here to do right to thee, and not to my self.

Affectus ubi judicat, ibi ratio claudicat; et ubi est fervida vindicta, ibi non temperata justitia.

3. Covetousness. A Magistrate must not only be free from it, but he must hate it, Exod. 18. 21. a man that is greedy of gain, will Transgress for a morsel of bread. (Prov. 28. 21.) a poor reward will put him out of his way. This sin is the root of all evil, Bribery, Symonie, Sacrilege, Partiality, Tyranny, Time-serving and turning of Judgement backward; (Isa. 59 14.) these are some of those fruits of this bitter root. Such will sell their Wit, Parts, Power, Conscience, Religion and all for money. I have read of many Sales, as Sale-winds by * Witches, Sale-churches by Patrons or rather Latrons, Sale-hands by Mercenary Soldiers; but Sale-Justice and a Sale-sentence is one of the worst Sales, for it makes the just man a sinner, and takes away the righteousness

* V. Heylings Geogr. in Lapland.

*Non in homines debent impium habere, sed in belluas qui publico um Officiorum Functionibus, non quid ex usi sit publico, sed quid rei private servial, querunt. Luther.

They love Sweg, dona.

Siquis honorem verum amet, ab omni suspicione captandorum munerum sedulo cavebit, presertim in eo constitutus loco, in quo maxime cavendum ne iniquitas vendalis fiat. Rivet.

of the righteous from him. This Solomon lookt upon as a great evil, Eccles. 3. 16. he saw the place of Judgement, and lo wickedness was there. To find wickedness in Taverns, Theaters, or Mountains of prey, is no wonder; but for Seats of Justice to be full of Injustice, this is gall and hemlock indeed, Amos 6. 12. These love Dialectum Doricam, the Dorick Dialect (as one phraseth it) they are all for gifts, like those in Hosea's time, (Hos. 4. 18.) her Rulers with shame love Give ye, i.e. in a shamefull fordid manner they call for Gifts and Presents, crying, Give, Give; Bring, Bring; like the insatiable horleleech they cry, Hab, Hab; Give, Give, Prov. 30. 15. but will you see the end of such bribers? why fire shall consume their Tabernacles, Job 15. 34.

5. Righteously and exactly. A Magistrate must not only be justus, but he must do justa, yea and he must do them juste. He must hear both parties speak, and then judge righteously between them. They must not wrest nor wrack the Law, to make it speak what it never meant, but with just judgement must they judge the people, Lev. 19. 15. Zach. 8. 16. He must dispense justice carefully, constantly, and conscientiously. Justice, Justice he must do, i.e. pure justice (* Deut. 16. 20.) not seeming, but real justice; not Justice in part, but entire Justice in measure and degree, without passion, corruption or delay. He must not do an act or two of justice, but it must be his constant work; tis his cloathing which he must put on every day. His head, and heart and hands must be covered with it, Job 28. 14. Rulers must not free Ravens, and censure Doves; nor loose Barrabas, and bind Christ. This is not execution of justice, but persecuting of the just. They must proportion the punishment according to the offence, and not barely shave the Head, which for its enormities ought be cut off. There must be an Accurate, Arithmetical, and Geometrical proportion observed,

* Justitiam, Justitiam i.e. justissimam & puram justitiam. Piscator. See Schools-Guard, Rule 43
Judex nihil aliud est quam Alia 100 & 100, i.e. Jus quoddam animatum. Arist.

Distinguendum est inter poenam scelerum. jure divino definitam, & arbitrio Magistratus relictam. Quoad illam servanda est equalitas Arithmetica, quoad hanc Geometrica. Gerhard.

ed, i. e. the fact with all its circumstances must be considered, and there must be a Retaliation rendred accordingly. Great sins must have great punishment, and lesser sins lesser punishment. Life must for Life, and Eye for Eye, Gen. 9. 6. Exod. 21. 24.

6. Soberly. He must be a Temperate man, else how will he govern others, that cannot govern himself, or reform others, who is unreformed himself? What the Apostle saith of Ministers, is true of Magistrates; if a man cannot rule himself and his own house, how shall he govern the house of God? 1 Tim. 3. 5. He is not like to help another who hath lost himself. Wine and Strong drink make men forget the Law, and pervert judgement. Tis not for Princes to be eating in the morning when they should be judging the people, Eccles. 10. 16, 17. Jer. 21. 12. Judges must be wise and prudent: but when Temperance is gone, where is the Prudence? He that is luxurious and riotous, is not wise, saith the wisest of men, Prov. 20. 1. and therefore Solon made a Law, that whatever Ruler was found drunk, should be put to death.

7. Diligently. Tis Gods work, and he is cursed that doth it negligently. Justice must diffuse it self: it must run down as a mighty stream fully, freely, commonly and universally, (Amos 5. 24.) Rivers run by the Poor mans door as well as the rich. It must be their delight to do judgement, Prov. 21. 15. Rulers were not made for pleasure but for labour. They were not born for themselves, but for the peoples good; hence those Titles of Nursing Fathers, Shepherds, Stewards, &c. all which imply a great deal of care and pains.

In sicco habitat sapientia, non in humido; fundamentum ejus est temperantia. Socrates.

Sudandum est iis qui Magistratum gerunt; adeundæ inimicitie, subundæ sæpè pro Republica tempestates, cum multis audacibus, improbis, nonnunquam etiam potentibus dimicandum est. Cicero pro Sestert.

Observation 3.

Good duties need much pressing. Such is the dulness and indisposition of our natures to the best things, that without much pressing they take little or no Impression upon us: hence tis that the Lord here calls on.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

on Judges again and again to defend the poor and fatherless, and to deliver the needy out of trouble. So Rev. 2. & 3. Christ calls again and again to those that have ears to hear what the Spirit saith to the Churches. We must have line upon line, and precept upon precept, and all little enough to make the word effectual. 'Tis not sufficient to say, I know this and that, but you must love to hear it prest upon you again and again, for your more spiritual improvement of it. He that loves the truth in truth, the more he hears it, the more he loves it still. 'Tis but an Adulterous love to Virgin truth, to be weary of her when you are best acquainted with her, and to cast her off with contempt (as Amnon did Tamar) when you have had your fill of her.

Veritas quò notior, eò charior.

Observation 4.

Magistrates must administer justice orderly. They must not go prepotterously to work, and condemn a man before he is heard. But 1. They must fully, freely, patiently, with a sedate, quiet, composed spirit, free from Passion, prejudice and precipitancy, hear both parties speak for themselves: for the Law doth not use to condemn men till their cause be heard, John 7. 51. Acts 25. 15, 16. 2. When upon hearing he hath found out the depth and truth of the cause, then he must justify and absolve the innocent, and rescue him out of the jaws of the wicked, by executing Justice on him according to his demerits.

Observation 5.

God is very tender over his poor afflicted people. This makes him here once and again to charge his Vicegerents to have a special care over them. None must touch them to hurt them: or if they do, the Magistrate must rescue them; and if they will not, yet God himself will, Psal. 12. 5. he takes the wrongs that that are done to them as done to himself. Prov. 14. 31. & 17. 5. he that oppresseth the poor, reproacheth his maker, and contemns the wise dispensation of God who will have poor intermingled with the rich, as the Vallies are amongst the Hills, for his own praise. God would have no man oppress, be he never so rich: but specially he hates the oppressing of the poor, because low and weak, and cannot help themselves as rich men can. The more unable they are to help themselves, the sooner will God arise to help them: though they be weak, yet their Redeemer is strong, Prov. 23. 10, 11. Though they be little, yet their Protector is mighty: you may be able to contend with the Poor, but can you contend with the Almighty who is their Guardian? No wise man will contend with a mightier then himself, nor oppress the Servants and Sons of a Prince that can easily suppress and crush him. The poor and fatherless (when believers) are the Sons and Servants of God, and they cannot escape that wrong them: he hath more then once proclaimed himself their Patron and Protector, Psal. 10. 14. & 68. 5. Hosea 14. 3. Deut. 10. 17, 18. and hath denounced woes against those that hurt them, Isa. 10. 1, 2, 3. Mal. 3. 5. and punish Jerusalem amongst other sins for this, Ezek. 22. 7. Many think they may abuse the poor, because they are impotent and cannot help themselves: but see how Solomon counsels these men most excellently, Prov. 22. 22, 23. Rob not the poor because he is poor, neither oppress the afflicted in the gate: for the Lord will plead their cause, and spoil the soul of those that spoiled them; q. d. let not his poverty and inability to with-stand thee, encourage thee to abuse him; yea though thou be one of the Magistrates, a man of power that fittest in the gate, yet know, that there is a greater then thou, who will help the helpless, will plead their cause, and spoil the soul of those that spoiled them, i. e. he will take away the life of those that take away the estate of the afflicted.

Gobel, i. e. assertor, Vindex, propinquus, consanguineus, Redemptor. A Lapide in locum.

See more on this point in Mr. Gatakers Ser. on Psal. 82. 7. p. 103, 104. 2 Part. folio.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Observation 6.

Oppressors of the poor are cruel Beasts. They get the poor in their clutches, and as the Wolf feeds on his prey, so do they on them, (Psal. 17. 12.) till the Magistrate by his power do rescue them. Hence for their ferity they are compared to Lions, Job 4. 10. Wolves, Hab. 7. 8. Bears, Prov. 17. 12. Dogs, Math. 7. 6. Wild Boars, Psal. 80. 13. To Milners, that grind the poor by their cruelty, Isa. 3. 15. To Threshers, which bruise and oppress the people. Amos 1. 3. To Butchers, that do not fleece but slay the Sheep, Micah. 3. 2, 2. hence their teeth are called Swords, and their jaw-teeth knives, that they may at once devour the poor from off the earth, Prov. 30. 14. Psal. 57. 4. The fourth Beast in Daniels Vision had great Iron teeth, (Dan. 7. 7.) he had teeth, great teeth, Iron teeth, and all to note what spoil that Beast should make amongst the Nations.

Observation 7.

Magistrates must improve their power in rescuing the poor out of the Paws of the Oppressor. To this end they have their power given them, not to oppress the oppressed, or to add affliction to the afflictions of the afflicted; but that they might resemble God, who is a Father to the Fatherless, and the poor Mans Refuge. Hence they are called Shepherds, As the Shepherd defends the flock, and rescues his Lambs from Lions and Wolves; so must the Magistrate by his power defend the Lambs of Christ from the Sons of Violence. So did Job, Chap. 29. 17. he brake the Jaws of the wicked, and pulled the spoil out of his teeth.

Observation

Observation 8.

Merciless men are wicked men. Those that opprefs the poor have this brand fet upon them, that they are Reshagnanim, wicked men. As Tenderness, Pity and Mercifulness are signs of Election, (Col. 3. 12.) so ferity, cruelty and harshness are signs of Reprobation, as we see in Nabal, and Dives. See how Job describes the wicked, by enumerating their unmercifull practises, Job 24. 2. to 12.

Observation 9.

Rich men (oft-times) are oppressive men. These wicked men that the Prophet speaks of, were not poor men, for they have not the power that rich men have to opprefs their Brethren ; neither do Judges use to respect the persons of the poor, as they did these, Verse 2. Riches accidentally make men cruel and insolent. The Rich (saith Solomon) rules over the poor, viz. with Insolence and Violence, Prov. 22. 7. It were rich men that opprest the poor, and drew them (violently) before Judgment Seats, James 2. 6. so as when these wicked ones arise, (especially to be Rulers) the poor, especially the Godly poor, hide themselves, Proverbs 28. 28.

V E R S E 5.

They know not, neither will they understand; they walk on in the darkness; All the foundations of the earth are out of course.

THIS Verse is a kind of Parenthesis, and contains the Lords Pathetical complaint of that ignorance, stupidity and obstinacy which he found in the Judges of those times; together with the sad effects of it in the Common-wealth; The foundations of the earth were out of course.

In this Verse the person is changed; God speaks not here to the Magistrates themselves, as he did Verse 2. He says not, Ye do not know, ye do not understand; but as one troubled in mind, and mourning within himself to see their desperate malice, and the confusions that attended it, he cries out, They have not known, they have no understanding, i. e. they do not know nor understand. It is frequent in that language to put the Præterperfect Tense for the Present Tense; as Psalm 1. 1. Blessed is the man who hath not walked, i. e. who doth not walk in the counsel of the ungodly. It notes a continued act, and implies their perseverance in ignorance; q. d. But what do I mean? Why go I about to make a blackmore white? 'Tis in vain to reprove this kind of men, or to exhort them to the study of righteousness; for they grow worse and worse; they are so blinded, stupified and hardned in their sin, that they will go on in their dark and sinfull courses, though they ruine themselves, and the Common-wealth to boot.

In the words we have all the Degrees of Comparison, and in them the character of evil Judges: 1. These corrupt Judges were blind: They know not, that's Lo Jadegnu, Non cognoverunt. Præterit in Kal.

Præterita ponuntur pro presentibus et notant actum continuatum. Piscator.

that's bad. 2. They will not understand, that's worse. 3. They will walk on in their own dark courses, that's worst of all. 4. Though the whole world be in confusion, and the very foundations of the earth shake under them, partly through their own mis-government, and partly by the just judgement of God, yet they were stupid and senseless, they took no notice of it, so as to amend what was amiss, but went on still in their perverse Practices, till all came to confusion. And this is Super-superlative wickedness.

1. Their first Degree of evil is Ignorance, they know not. They were wise enough to do evil, but to do good they had no knowledge.

Question.

But here a Question may arise; Since these men were Judges in Israel, and had Parts, with answerable breeding (no doubt) to fit them for such weighty employment, how then is it said, They know not, neither do they understand?

Answer.

The Answer is easie. Knowledge is twofold, Speculative, or Practical. These Judges were not fools and ignorant of their duty, they had a Theoretical, Notional, Speculative knowledge of it; they knew that they were Gods Vice-gerents and Deputies appointed by him to execute Justice and Judgement amongst his people impartially, and that they ought to have a tender respect to the poor and the afflicted; and if they did not thus, they knew that God would punish them. All this no doubt and much more they had in the Theory, having so many Prophets as the people of Israel had to instruct them.

2. But if we look upon their Practice, so it may be said they have no knowledge, viz. so as to love, Verba notitia apud Hebraeos, affectus comprehendunt. See Schools Guard. Rule 11.

The word Jadang (in the Text) implies both knowledge with the mind, and acknowledging and regarding with the Affections.

affect and practice what they know. In Scripture, Knowledge without Practice is counted no Knowledge, and Hypocritical false things are esteemed as no things. Thus graceless men are accounted as no men, Jer. 5. 1. Run to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem, and see if ye can find a man. Why, the streets were full of men: yea but because they were not good men, God accounts them as no men. Thus the wicked are said to have no Heart, Hof. 7. 11. i. e. no heart to goodness, and then as good have no heart at all. Thus the wicked are said not to hear the Law, because they do not hear it rightly, and obedientially. Thus Saul is said to reign but two years over Israel, when he reigned many years: but because in his two first years he reigned well, and after did degenerate, therefore his last reigning was accounted as no reigning. So these Judges, though they knew they should judge righteously, without respect of persons; yet they did judge unrighteously, with respect to persons; and therefore God accounted their Knowledge as no Knowledge: They Know not.

Neither do they Understand.

Jabinu, from Binah intel-textit, consideravit, Pagnin.

They were stupid and incapable of good counsel: They did not Understand or consider (so much the word imports in the Original) the duties of their places, so as to practice them for the good of Gods poor, afflicted, oppressed people. The word is frequently used for consideration, as 1 King. 3. 21. when I had considered it in the morning. So Isa. 14. 16. & 43. 18. Consider the things of old, Jer. 2. 10. 23. 20. In the latter dayes ye shall consider it perfectly. So Job 23. 15. & 37. 14. Consider the wondrous works of God, so as to be affected with them.

They

They walk on in darkness.

The words in the Fountain are very Emphatical. They will walk on continually in darkness. They take not a turn or two in this dark Alley, but indefinenter ambulat, they are alwayes at it, it is their work, their way, their Trade, and no man nor means can put them out of it. They will walk on and continue in their wilful ignorance and sinfull perverting of Judgement in despite of God and man. Now to walk in darkness, in Scripture phrase notes, 1. A living in Ignorance, (Eccles. 2. 14.) when men care not to know the will of God, but say as those wicked in Job 21. 14. Depart from us, for we desire not the knowledge of thy wayes. These corrupt Judges walkt in wayes of darkness, and therefore they loved darkness more then light. This made them err in judgement, as blind men stumble at every thing that lies in their way; and hence came that sedition, tumult and confusion in the State. 2. To walk in darkness, is to lie in a natural condition, and live in a state of sin and ignorance, without any saving knowledge of God, John 8. 12. & 12. 46. 1 John 1. 6. & 2. 11. Prov. 2. 13. 1 John 1. 6. & 2. 11. By nature these men were blind, but being drunken with pleasures, and besotted with the lusts of covetousness, bribery, private affection, and puffed up with the greatness of their power, they had contracted an habituall blindedness, so that they could not discern right from wrong, darkness from light, nor truth from error. Their lusts had blinded them, and put out their eyes, so that they could not see the duties of their places, nor remember the great account which they must one day give unto God of their Stewardship: but as Sampson when he had lost his eyes was abused and put to grind in a Mill, so these Tis not ballacu, ambulant, but inballacu, ambulant indefinenter. Nam verba in conjugatione Hithpael significationem intendunt, immo habitum, vehementiam & frequentiam denotant. Pagnin.

Ossendit ignorantiam istorum judicum fuisse voluntariam, ut qui noluerint ex lege Dei discere quid sui esset officii: Piscator.

these being blinded by Satan, were made to grind in the Mill of every sin and error.

All the Foundations of the earth are out of course.

These words have almost as many Interpretations as there be Interpreters. 1. Some add the word (albeit or although) to the Text, They walk on in darkness, albeit the foundations of the earth be moved: and so they make these words an Aggravation of that prodigious stupidity which had possessed those great ones of the world. q. d. Such is their sottishness and senselesness, that though all the world be in confusion, and heaven and earth be ready to come together, yet do they snort in their security, and will by no means be quickned to the execution of justice, that they might prevent destruction.

This sense is good, but with submission to better judgements, I conceive the words may be taken as they are in themselves, without any Addition, for the sad effect and consequent of that ignorance, unrighteousness, cruelty and stupidity which reigned in their Rulers, viz. that by reason of it all the foundations of the earth were out of course, i. e. all Laws were broken, all Orders violated, the wicked were encouraged, the godly discountenanced, the publick Peace disturbed, and the state of all things turned upside down: nothing but murder, rapes, rapine, violence and all out-rage to be found: no man knows where to have right, or by whom to be protected from wrong. Yet they know not, neither will they understand, they will walk on in darkness; and what is the issue of all this? why, the very foundations of the earth will move. (So tis in the Original) i. e. all things will run into confusion and disorder by reason of the stupidity and wilfull disobedience of the Rulers of this people; (Psal. 60. 2. Isa. 24. 19, 20.) Others make the words a Commination of some Fimmotu (à Mot.) nutabunt, declinabunt omnia fundamenta terre, Mercer. apud Pagnin.

Fundamenta terre videtur nominare ea quibus salus publica nititur; ea vero sunt recta administratio juris, conservatio disciplinæ & pacis, defensio innocentium, & pœne scelerum. Moller.

some destruction at hand, the foundations of the earth shall be moved, (they read the word Passively) q. d. God will destroy that Nation where such ill Magistrates bear sway : as a house whose foundation is taken away cannot stand, so since the Rulers of my people who should be the Upholders of the Land by executing justice, are become the destroyers of it, I will destroy them altogether. But the former sense is most genuine : for although the Septuagint do frequently render the Verb Passively, yet why we should forsake the Original (as the Vulgar Latin frequently doth, to follow the Septuagint) I see no Reason, especially if we consider the corruptness of the Septuagint which now we have. Take but one place for instance, Isa. 9. 6. speaking of Christ, the Septuagint put αγγελος, for Deus, and leave out many of Christs Titles there, which prove his Deity. I speak not in the least to disparage that Pincely work of that Reverend and Learned man whose labours praise him in the gates, and for which I desire to bless the God of heaven, and have long since received it with a χαριτε εως. But I speak it to this end to caution young men not to lay too much stress upon the Septuagint, considering what the Learned have said of it. Isa Græca Versio quam nunc habemus, in plurimis locis dissentit ab Hebræo ; multa habet quæ non sunt in Hebræo, ut omnes noverunt qui in ea versati sunt. Philo.

Licet non ignorem nonnullos in ea sententia esse, ut existiment interpretationem 70. Seniorum penitus interiisse ; multò probabiliùs censeo illam adhuc superesse : sed adèò corruptam & vitiatam, ut omninò alia esse videatur. Bellarmin. l. 2. de Verbo Dei. c. 6. Nos summo studio, curâ & diligentia 70. Interpretationem cum Hebræo contulimus, & tot invenimus addita, dempta, depravata, immutata, & ab Hebraico prorsus aliena, ut mihi persuadere nequeam illam esse 70. Interpretum. Pagnin.

Manifesta dicitur de Principibus à justitia & pietate declinantibus, qui moveri, i. e. non consistere in vera via, & statione dicuntur ; ideo illis graves minatur pœnas. Illyricus.

Dr. wal

Periodos integras omifere, nec non capita integra.
Capellus.

See Mr. Leigh his Body of Divinity. l. 1. c. 7. p. 72.

But this point is fo excellently cleared by the Learned Dr. Walton in his Apparatus, Prolegom. 9. that I fhall only refer you thither for better fatisfaction.

Met. Subjecti.

IN the words is fet forth to us, 1. What it is that is out of courfe? The Earth, i. e. The Inhabitants of the earth.

Tis an Hyperbolical Proverbial Metaphor.

2. What part of the earth? not the Superficies or Surface, but the very foundation of the earth, by which Metaphorically is meant the due adminiftration of Juftice in punifhing the wicked and defending the good. Thefe be the Pillars that uphold the world, and upon thefe Common-wealths are chiefly founded.

3. Here is the extent of this confufion; not some-but all the foundations of the earth are out of courfe.
Thofe that fhould be the Pillars of the earth, they are rotten Pofts that deceive the building and let all run to ruine.

Observation 1.

See Mr. Lyfords Ser on 2 Cor. 2. 15.
Laterem lavare. Proverb.

All reprehenfions and admonitions that are beftow-ed on wilfully blind and obftinate finners, are loft, and in vain (as to the parties reprov'd, though our labour be not vain in the Lord; Ifa. 49. 4. 2 Cor. 2. 15.) we do but wash a Black-more, or wash a Tile; the more rain is poured on it, the blacker it grows. When men are fet, given up and wedded to their fins, it is time to let them alone, Hof. 4. 14, 17. This made the Lord here leave off complaining to thefe Judges, and to turn his complaint to himfelf and to his people. They know not, they will not underftand. God will not honour them now fo far as to reprove them.
Thus did the Prophets when men were obftinate, paff Counsel and Inftitution, they turned to the earth

earth and called upon the inanimate creatures to hear, Isa. 1. 2. Hear O Heavens, and give ear O earth! So Micah 6.2. Hear O Mountains the Lords controversie, So Deut. 4. 26. & 32. 1. Jer. 6. 19, & 22. 29. That Preacher thinks his people very bad indeed, who directs his speech to the seats they sit on, and the Pillars they lean too; q. d. Hear O ye Seats, and hearken O ye Pillars what the Lord hath done for an Ungratefull and Rebellious people. These are scorners that do but jeer at such as call on them to live Soberly, Righteously and Religiously. Solomon bids not reprove such lest they hate us, Prov. 9.8. These are Dogs that fly in the face of such as go about to stop them in their sinful practices, Mat. 7.6.

Question.

But is not this a sufficient excuse to make us cease from reprovng sinners?

Answer.

No; for the Holy Ghost before in this Psalm though he knew those he spake to were incorrigible and incurable, yet reproveth them first and admonisheth them to do their duty, verse 2. 3. 4. for though such wicked men be not amended, yet we have discharged our duty, and they will be left without excuse in the day of the Lord, when they shall see and say they had a Prophet amongst them to warn them, Ezek. 2. 9.

2. We must be very cautious that we do not presently cast off every wicked man as a Dog, that frets at reproof; (for a good Afa may do so, 2 Chron. 16. 9, 10.) The Lord himself is patient and bears long, and loth he is to cast off his people, Hof. 6.4. Now when the Lord bears, we may well bear; but he bears with much long-suffering the vessels of wrath who are fitted to destruction, Rom. 9. 22.

See this Point fully stated by Mr. Reyner in his Government of the Tongue, p. 170, &c. And Mr. Chudworth on Galat. 6. 1. p. 351, &c.

Observation 2.

Ignorance is the Mother of mischief. These Judges judge Unjustly, respect persons; neglect their duties, oppress the poor, &c. but what was the cause of all this? he tells you, They know not, neither will they understand. This in Scripture is oft set forth as the Root of all sin, Hosea 4. 1, 2. there is no mercy, no truth; nothing but killing, lying, stealing, and outrage; and why so? why there is no knowledge of God in the Land. So Isa. 1. 3, 4. 1 Pet. 1. 14. Revel. 3. 17. one great cause of the Church of Laodiceas misery was this, that she knew not her misery. Ignorance and working uncleanness with greediness, are joined together, Ephes. 4. 18, 19. This made the Jews to crucifie Christ, Acts 3. 17. I wot Brethren that through Ignorance ye did it: and Paul to blaspheme, and persecute Gods people, 1 Tim. 1. 13. I did it ignorantly. When the Gentiles knew not God, then they served Idols, Gal. 4. 8. Why is not God loved, feared, obeyed? why because he is not known; for as incognitum non amatur, so non timetur. Children that know not the strength and terror of a Lyon, fear him not. This made the Saduces to err, Mat. 22. 29. Ye err not knowing the Scriptures. All sins and errors are Radically, Seminally, and Fundamentally in Ignorance. When the Apostle had said, There's none that understands, see what a black Guard of sins do follow, Rom. 1. 28. to 32. & 3. 11. to 19. when the eyes of the Jews were blinded, then all wickedness like a flood broke in upon them, and there abides even to this day, Rom. 11. 8.

Ignorance is evil in any, but specially in such as are designed for publike service. A Magistrate that is ignorant of the Law, and a Minister of the Gospel, are two fore judgements: the one destroys many a soul, and the other mars many a good cause.

Omnia malus cecus & ignorans. Aristot.

See more in Mr. Pembles Ser. on Hos. 4. 6. The mischief of Ignorance, and Mr. Clerks Mirror. Chap. 54.

A Prince that wanteth understanding is a great Oppressor (saith Solomon,) Prov. 28. 16. Its a great misery to a Nation when the Rulers are children in understanding, Eccles. 10. 16. Isa. 3. 4. Magistrates had need of abundance of Wisdom and Prudence; Sinners are subtile to contrive wickedness, and Magistrates had need of Serpentine Wisdom to search it out: For as Truth, so wickedness lyeth in profundity; its buried deep, Isa. 29. 15.

Tis not for Kings (say flatterers) to Read, Pray, Study; they must Hawk and Hunt, and Game and take their pleasure; as if God had made them for no other end in the world, but as he hath done the Leviathan in the Sea, to take his pleasure therein, Psal. 104. 26. No, God commands Kings to Write, Read and Study his Law, Dent. 17. 18, 19. It must be their Vade mecum, their constant companion, which they must study as well as the Laws of the Land. Tis necessary that Rulers should see with their own eyes, that they be not seduced by flatterers and Parasites: We read how Moses the chief Magistrate was instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians before he was called to Government. Tongues, Arts, Sciences, Philosophy, History, Law, Divinity, are all requisite to make a compleat Magistrate. They must not only be Honest men, but Able men, (Exod. 18. 21;) men of Parts, Gifts and Understanding, (Dent. 1. 13.) Men (as we say) cut out for the work; for as every one that is Godly is not fit to teach others; so every one that hath Grace is not fit to Rule others. They must be men dextrous in the Law, else how shall they direct others according to Law? When Rulers are children in gifts, though men in years, and babes for Understanding, being weak as women, then follows oppression and confusion, Isa. 3. 4, 5, 12. As no wise man will go to an unskillfull Physitian for Physick; nor venture himself in that Ship that hath an unskillfull Pilot; So no man that is well in his wits will venture his cause in the hands of an ignorant Judge. As unfavoury salt is good for nothing; so raw and rude Rulers are the Pests of their places.

How necessary all kind of knowledge is, See à Lapide, Encomium Sapiencie Ethices, Naturalis, & Divinae. In Prefat. ad Ecclesiasticum. p. 1, 2. &c.

Observation 3.

Knowledge without Practise is no Knowledge in Gods esteem. In Divinity we know no more then we practice. To the Jews were committed the Oracles of God, and they had great skill in the Letter of the Law; but because they did not practice it, God complains of them as ignorant, Isa. 5. 13. Hos. 4. 6. Yea the Priests are said not to know the Law, 1 Sam. 2. 12. Jer. 2. 8. & 4. 22. they were Priests and so could not be totally ignorant; but because their knowledge was meerly notional and speculative without obedience and practice, therefore God accounted it as no knowledge. Thus cruel, oppressing Rulers though they had some speculative knowledge, yet because they hated the good, and loved the evil, they are said not to know judgement, viz. so as to practice it, Jer. 10. 21. Micah 3. 1, 2. Prov. 29. 7.

Rest not then content with shews and shadows; let not Satan cozen thee with the leaves of speculation and external profession; but let thy knowledge be an Affective, Practical, Obediential knowledge; else knowledge without practice will but double your stripes, and increase your condemnation, Luke 12. 47. John 9. ult. James 4. ult. Where the Spirit of Regeneration comes, it brings a Light with it, (Ephes. 1. 17, 18. & 5. 14.) not a natural, but a divine, supernatural Light; not a cold light, like that of the Moon: but a burning light, like that of the Sun, John 5. 35. tis not a fading, vanishing light, but it is an abiding, enduring light, which all the Devils in Hell shall never extinguish. As the Joy, so the Light of Gods elect (though it may be for a time

Tantum scimus, quantum operamur.

Multi habent cognitionem saluis, sed non cognitionem salutarem.

Cognitio veritatis est duplex; Pure Speculativa, vel Affectiva. Aquinas.

V. Dyke on the Sacrament, chap. 4. ushers Meditations, p. 1.

See the Difference between common and saving knowledge. Dr. Preston, Saints Infirmities, mibi. p. 159, 160.

time eclipsed, yet) shall never be totally taken from them. A natural man may have a little glimmering twilight; but this is a Soul-awaking, Sin-conquering, Soul-convincing, Soul-commanding light; it is effectual in the hearts of believers, and makes them grow in grace, 2 Pet. 3. 18. There may be knowledge without grace, but there can be no grace without knowledge. Knowledge is the oyl in which the flame of the Spirit lives. 1. 'Tis the saving knowledge of the truth that sanctifies us, and delivers from the bondage of sin in which by nature we are intangled, John 8. 31, 32. & 17. 17. 2. It increaseth faith, Psal. 9. 10. they that know thee will trust in thee. 3. 'Twill make us love him more intensively; the more experimentally we know God the more we shall love him. Cant. 1. 4. 4. 'Twill make us patient under all afflictions, when we know and see that the Lord corrects us for our profit, Heb. 12. 10. 5. 'Twill make us slight these transitory things, when we are truly convinced of the Vanity of them, Eccles. 1. 2. Heb. 11. 24, 25, 26.

Quantum cognoscimus, tantum diligimus; quia dilectio sequitur cognitionem, cum ignoti nulla sit cupido.

Observation 4.

Want of consideration makes men neglect the Duties of their callings. These Judges did not consider that God sat amongst them, and considered their sentences, ends and aims; this made them pass such unrighteous sentences. Inconsiderateness makes sin abound, Lam. 1. 9. They are sinners and fools that consider not what they do, Eccles. 5. 1. This ruins Kings and Kingdoms, Isa. 1. 3, 4. & 5. 12. Jer. 12. 11. Hos. 7. 2. This ruined Eve; she no sooner saw the fruit, but she presently eats of it without any consideration of the misery that attend it, Gen. 3. 6. Did the Drunkard but consider the many woes that attend that sin, he would not rush into sin as the Horse into the Battle with such de-

See more in my Comment. on 2 Tim. 3. 4. p. 117, 118, perate.

perate violence. So we may say of all other sinners, Jer. 8. 6.

Observation 5.

Wicked men are wilfull men. They are obstinate in sin, and will walk on what ever come on it. Had these Rulers sinned of meer simple Ignorance, it might have excused them à tanto, though not à toto; it might have extenuated their sin: but their Ignorance being a gross, wilfull, affected and contracted ignorance, rejecting instruction, that they might sin more freely, could neither excuse them à tanto, nec à toto, not in the least, but it did highly aggravate their wickedness. This is made a frequent Character of wicked men, that they are wilfull sinners; they have necks of Iron, and brows of Brass; though they are perswaded, yet they are unperswadable. They will not hearken to the voice of the Charmer, charm he never so wisely. They say to God as those wicked in Job 21. 14. Depart from us, for we desire not the knowledge of thy wayes; their ignorance is a spontaneous willing ignorance, (2 Pet. 3. 5.) they might know, but they will not. Like those rebellious Jews, when God commanded them to walk in his paths, they peremptorily answer, we will not walk in them, Jer. 6. 16. & 44. 16, 17. let favour be shewed to the wicked, yet he will not learn righteousness: in a land of uprightnes they will do unjustly, and will not behold the Majesty of the Lord: yea though his hand be lifted up (in judgement) yet they will not see. Here are four will-nots that aggravate their sin, Isa. 26. 10, 11. Let strangers devour their strength, and gray hairs (the symptoms of feebleness, old age and death approaching) be upon them, yet so stupid are they, that they perceive it not. Hes. 7. 9. let God be a tender Nurse to lead and love them, yet so sottish are they that they Ignorantia crassa & affectata jus scire spernit, ut liberius peccet; hæc aggravat peccatum, 1. Quia fit ex socordia, ut in otiosis. 2. Quia fit ex philantia, ut in superbis. 3. Quia fit ex malitia ut in desperatis, quorum vox est, Scientiam tuarum viarum nolumus.

Breerwood, Ethic. 1. 3.
p. 121.

See Fenners Wilfull Impenitency.

they neither know nor acknowledgeit, Hof. 11. 1. 3, 4. Zeph. 3. 7. These are wedded to their lusts and there's no parting of them, Hof. 4. 14, 17.

See the danger of Obstinacy in Atterfell on Numb. p. 622. &c. folio.

Observation 6.

To persevere in wickedness is the height of wickedness. None so wicked as the resolutely wicked. They will walk on in darkness and that continually, tis their Trade and they will not leave it. The best may fall through weakness, but these are wilfull. As resolution and perseverance in goodness is the height of goodness, as we see in Job, (Chap. 2. 3.) who kept his integrity in despite of all that Devil could do; and Noah (though he lived in a corrupt age, yet) in despite of them all he sets his heart on God, and resolutely walkt with him all his dayes, Gen. 6. 9. and Hezekiah when he came to die, comforts himself with this, Remember O Lord, how I walkt before thee (continually or without ceasing, so tis in the fountain) with an upright heart, Isa. 38. 3. so perseverance in wickedness is the height of wickedness, 2 Chron. 28. 22.

Observation 7.

Wicked men lead miserable lives. They walk in darkness: we pittie such Prisoners as lie and live in deep, dark dungeons all their dayes: why this is the state of every wicked man, though they think themselves the only wise men, and that none see but themselves, (as the Pharisees did, John 7. 49. & 9. ult.) yet there's no Prisoner, that lies in the darkest dungeon especially (if he be godly) but is in a better condition, then the greatest wicked man that is spiritually blind, though he live in pompous Palaces. These Rulers in the Text, no doubt but they thought themselves very wise men (and probably they were so in respect of natural and worldly accomplishments) yet because they abused their parts, and did not improve them for Gods glory, he tells us here, They walk in darknes. The Princes of Zoan are called fools, i. e. Pharoshs Counsellors, (which were worldly wise men) yet for want of saving knowledge are called fools in Gods Dictionary, Isa. 19. 11.

This will yet better appear if we consider the allusions between inward and outward darknes.

1. Darknes hinders us from seeing our way. A man that walks in darknes knows not whether he goes, (John 12. 35.) he may go into Ditches, Boggs, Rivers, and miscarry many wayes. So he that walks in spiritual darknes, knows not which way to go, nor what to do: he is in perpetual danger of falling into this ditch of error, and that bogg of Heresie, and to plung himself into a world of sin and sorrow. Blind men cannot judge of colours, nor can these distinguish between truth and falshood.

2. Such catch many falls, and stumble at every thing: so when mens wayes are dark and slippery they are apt to fall every way into Satans snares, (Job 5. 14. & 12. 17. 25.) and to stumble and take offence even at Christ himself.

3. Darknes is a dismal thing, it fills men with fear and horror, (Gen. 15. 12.) So that a man hath no Joy of himself, nor of the creature: So a man that lies in spiritual darknes being destitute of saving knowledge, when conscience is awaked, he is filled horror and Desperation, which imbitters all creature comforts to him. Let us therefore labour for saving knowledge, and above all getting, get true Understanding. Solomon prefers it before Silver, Gold and Pearls, (Prov. 2. 2, 3, 4.) because it brings grace, life and salvation with it. Multiplicity of this knowledge will multiply grace, 2 Pet. 1. 2. This will be a light unto our feet, and a Lamp to our paths. This Light is a pleasant thing, by it we see whence we came, whither we go, how to order

See the Excellency of Light. Culverwell Light of Nature. Chap. 17. p.
173, 175, &c.

our

our steps, what dangers to shun, what enemies lie in our way that we may resist them. Such are wise whose eyes are in their heads, but tis the fool that walks on in darkness; (Eccles. 2. 14.) q. d. a wise man is well advised and goeth prudently to work; but a foolish man is imprudent and unadvised in all his ways.

Observation 8.

Justice and Judgement are the foundations of a land, Psal. 11. 6. A house may as soon stand without a foundation as a Common-wealth without Government. When the righteous are encouraged, and the wicked punished, this upholds a Throne, and establisheth a Land, Prov. 16. 12. & 29. 4. Good Laws are the foundation of a Nation; but the iniquity of Judges moves these foundations out of place, and makes the state like a bowing wall that belcheth out, or a tottering fence, Psal. 62. 3. Isa. 30. 13. Twas therefore a notable piece of policy in Absalom when he would steal away the hearts of the people from David, he went about to persuade them that the King his Father had no Justice for them: but Oh that he were made judge in the Land that every one that had any cause might come to him and he would do them justice, 2 Sam. 15. 3, 4.

Let us therefore pray for those in authority that God would give them wise and understanding hearts to know their duty, and knowing it to practice it, that under them we may lead Pious, Peacable and honest lives: for if these foundations once fail, and we have either no Magistrate, or corrupt ones, all will run into confusion. When once wickedness comes to be establishd by a Law, the sin becomes National, and National sins bring National Judgements: and therefore you may observe in Scripture, and in all Histories, that when the Rulers of a people have been wicked, ruine suddenly followed, Isa. 1. 23 24.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Jer. 5. 28, 29. Micah 3. 11, 12. What potent and flourishing Nations have been laid in the dust by Popish, Tyrannical, cruel Governours!

Observation 9.

Wicked men are stupid men. Let foundations be moved, and all things run into confusion by their means, yet they are senseless, sit still and take their ease, never regarding the afflictions of Gods people. Hester. 3. ult. Let all move, yet they will not move. Let the Lord bind them and beat them, yet they cry not, Job 36. 13. though they lie amidst a Sea of troubles, and themselves be as one that is on the top of a Mast, yet there can they sleep fearlessly in the midst of the greatest dangers: though they be stricken yet they stir not, so great is their Lethargy, Prov. 23. 35, 36. Pharaoh had plague upon plague, yet nothing mended him, but he was Pharaoh still. Hence wicked men are called brutish; Jer. 10. 21. and Dead; lay all the world on a dead man and he feels it not. Rob them, ransack them, and let the fire of Gods displeasure seize on them; yet they lay it not to heart, Isa. 42. 24, 25. Tis only good men that are tender, sensible men and mourn for the afflictions of Joseph.

VERSE.

V E R S E 6, 7.

I have said ye are Gods, and all of you are Children of the Most High.

But ye shall die like men, and fall like one of the Princes.

These words are a kind of Prolepsis, where the Lord meets with the Pride of Rulers who are puffed up with a high conceit of themselves, because these are by place exalted above others. We (say they) are stiled Gods, yea God himself hath stiled us so, and hath made us Deputies immediately under himself. To this the Spirit of God answers,

1. By way of a reprehensory Concession: It is true, I have said ye are Gods, and I have appointed you for my Vicars and Deputies on earth to judge for me amongst men, and to keep my people in Peace; but you have abused your power, and ungratefully sinned against the God of your mercies; who hath exalted you from amongst your Brethren to Rule for him. 2. By way of Correction: yet I must tell you, you shall die like other men and come to judgement, and therefore you have little reason to be proud of that power which is delegated to you; Or, here is, 1. Their Dignity and Majesty by reason of the eminency of their Office, ye are Gods. 2. Their Frailty and Mortality, common to them with other Sons of Adam in respect of their humane condition, ye shall die like men; Or, if you please, Here is 1. The Root of their unrighteous and exorbitant Practices, viz. the pride that reigned in them by reason of that Dignity which God had honoured them withal; in communicating his own name unto them, and calling them his Sons. 2. Here

His Verbis usus est, non ἐισπικνωσ, aut tantum συχαριστικῶς & concessifivè, sed magis ἐπιτιμη-τικῶς & reprehensivè; ut potentiorum autoritate sua abuti iniquitatem am-plius ostenderet, evinceretq;
Dei ipsius verbis. Junius Parallel. 17.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

is the Remedy, drawn from the consideration of their dying and fading condition. 1. They must die like other ordinary men. 2. They must fall from their dignity to the dust, as other great ones had done before them. So that in the words we have the Excellency of Magistracy set forth by two Titles,

- } 1. They are Gods.
} 2. Sons of the Most High.

Non Participacione divine essentia, sed similitudine divinae potentie. Non natura, sed conditione & dignitate maneris. Muis in locum.

*Genclion, filii excelsi, viz.
Dei, quia Deus est excelsus super omnem terram, & valde exaltatus super om-nes Deos.*

1. They are Gods, not by Nature (for we see they Die) but by similitude and in respect of their Office, because they represent Gods Majesty in Governing of men, and have a special character of his glory stamp upon them. But of this see more at large on Verse 1.

2. Children of the Most High, or Sons of the most high God. This Title is homonymous and hath many significations in Scripture. 1. It is sometimes taken for the Natural Son of God, and in this sense Christ is the only natural and proper Son of God, John 1. 14. & 5. 18. Mat. 3. 17. Rom. 8. 32.

2. For the Sons of God by Creation. So God is called the Father of Angels, Job 1. 6. & 38. 7. Cant. 2. 3. and of wicked men, Mal. 2. 10.

3. Others are called his Sons by Adoption: thus all true believers are the Sons of God. John 1. 12. Rom. 8. 14. 16. Gal. 4. 5. 1 John 3. 2.

4. Others are called the Sons of God in respect of that Power, Majesty, Authority, and Eminency which God hath conferred upon them above the ordinary sort of men: and in this respect it is that Magistrates are called the Sons of God, for as Parents give some part of their Inheritance to their children: so the Almighty hath invested Magistrates with part of his power and Sovereignty, and intrusted them with the administration of his Earthly Kingdoms, by

by the exercise of Vindictive and Remunerative Justice.

Now some conceive that Magistrates are called the Sons of God, because they are more dear to God, and more acceptable to him than other men, but that will not hold; for in this very Psalm where he calls them Gods, yet he sharply reproveth them for their unrighteous practices; and if Rulers be wicked, they bring more dishonour to God, and do more mischief than inferior persons can do, and so their persons are more displeasing to God than inferior persons are; and God looks upon them as Beasts rather than men, Prov. 28. 15. But if Magistrates be truly Godly, then they are the Sons of God in a double sense. 1. As Believers. 2. As Magistrates; and so they are nearer and dearer to God than ordinary men: they are as the Signet on his right hand, ever in his eye; he looks upon them as his ornaments; as the Devil useth all means to get men of Power and Parts on his side, that he may the better advance his Kingdom; so God delights in gracious Magistrates as the Pillars and Upholders of his Kingdom in the world. The more of God dwells in any, the more he loves them; If Magistrates who are Gods in name, do resemble God indeed, in Wisdom, Justice, Purity, Clemency, &c. then are they the children of the most High in a Spiritual sense, and God hath a Paternal care over such, even as Parents have over their obedient children.

Quærit abs te ornari Diabolus, as Austin said of a learned man.

2. This implies Participation, and tells us that Magistrates derive all their power from God, as a son hath his from his father; and therefore it is but Equity that they should employ that power which they have received from His goodness, to the praise of him that gave it.

3. Here is the Extent of this Dignity, it is not given given only to Superiour Magistrates, but to Inferiour ones also; Ye are All the children of the most High; yea wicked ones when placed in authority, are called Gods and Sons of the most High: Those in the Psalm were none of the best, yea they were almost as bad as bad could be. Verse 2. 5. And yet it is said here, I have said ye (in respect of your office) are Gods, and children of God.

*Ego dixi, est vox potestatis
constituentis.*

4. Here is their Commission; I have said, It is not you that can make your selves Magistrates, but it is I that say ye are Gods; all the power that ye have, it is from me; and therefore our Saviour expounding this of the Psalmist (John 10. 34, 35, 36.) tells us, that to Magistrates the Word of the Lord came, or was made. q. d. they have their Command, Commission and Power from God to discharge the duties of their places. When the Prophets were sent to preach, The Word of the Lord was said to come to them. Luke 3. 2. The Word of God came to John, and then Verse 3. he preacheth and puts his Commission in execution: So when God hath given Magistrates a word of command, then, and not till then they may act with comfort and with confidence. Our Saviour in John 10. 34. refers us hither, when the Pharisees reproacht him for blasphemy, because he made himself equall to God, by saying, My Father and I are one, he clears himself from that asperision, by an Argument from the less to the greater, Thus; If the Title of God may be given to Princes, who are but men, and many times the worst of men; then much more may that Title be given to me, in whom the Majesty of God doth more especially appear, and the fullness of his God-head dwell. The Antecedent I have proved to you (saith Christ) out of your Law which you cannot deny, and therefore you must grant the consequent.

Verse 7.

Verse 7. In this verse we have the Mortality of Magistrates asserted

In two words { 1. Ye shall die.
2. Ye shall fall.

2. The Manner How ; as other ordinary men, and as all other Princes have done before you.

3. The certainty of this is confirmed by an Affeverative Partide, Verily or certainly as ye live like Gods, so certainly ye shall die like men.

The words have some difficulty and Various Readings ; I shall briefly explain them, and then proceed to the Observations.

But ye shall die like men.

Some read Surely or truly ye shall die ; and this comes neereſt the Original, for ſo the word (achen) is uſed in Scripture ; as Gen. 28. 16. Surely (achen) the Lord is in the place ; ſo Iſai. 40. 7. Surely the people is graſs. And Iſai. 53. 4. Surely he hath born our griefs. It is true, the Vulgar Latin that ſo oft leaves the Fountain to follow the Septuagint, do with them render it, But. But the moſt genuine ſignification of the word is, Surely. The ſenſe is good either way. But, i. e. for all your pomp and power you muſt at laſt lie in the duſt, and ſay to corruption, Thou art my father, and to the worm, Thou art my Brother and Siſter, Job 17. 14. or, Surely, i. e. though you regard it not, nor make any proviſion for it, but flatter your ſelves becauſe you are Gods, and ſo dream that ye ſhall live on earth for ever ; yet know aſſuredly that ye are but men, and muſt die as well as others. All Gods words are true and ſure ; but on ſome there is Affixed a ſpecial note of certainty, becauſe of mans (eſpecially great mens) extraordinary foſſiſhneſs and infidelity.

Achen, certè, verè, proſecto, ſanè, eſt adverbium affirmandi. Pagnin, Montanus, Calvin.

The Adam temutum, sicut
 Adam i. e. homo terrenus, vilis, abjectus, Moriimini.
 Adam i. e. homo plebrius, opponitur τῶ Ιη, i. e. vero nobili, ut videre est, Psal.
 4.3. & 49.2. & 62.9.

Ye shall die like men.] That is, like other ordinary men; as ye came from the earth, so to earth you must return. Death fears not you more then other men. Isb and Adam, the Noble and Ignoble are alike to that grim Serjeant Death. Though men have lived like Gods, yet they must die like Adam, or any other base, contemptible man; yea (if wicked) ye shall die like beasts, for all your honour; (Psal. 49. ult.) though in respect of your Dignity you have been like Saul, taller by the head and shoulders then the rest of the people, yet in your death there shall be no difference; you must to the grave as other men, and then to judgement, for that is included in the word Death: Heb. 9. 27. It is appointed for all men once to die, and after death comes judgement.

And fall like one of the Princes.

Aliorum funera sunt vobis specula, in quibus vestra, cuius fortasse quam putatis, affutura spectetis. Men-Coza.

These words have many Glosses put upon them.
 1. Some understand them of a fall by a Natural death. q. d. Ye Rulers of the people for all your state and pomp, shall fall by death like others of your rank, that have been before you, that were as high in honour and great in power as your selves, and yet they dyed, and so must you. Their graves amongst you, read a Lecture of Mortality to you; they are gone off the stage of the world, and you are come on; it is not long but you also must die and make room for your successors; and thus the word fall is put for dying in Scripture, Gen. 14. 10. Psal. 91. 7.

2. Others take this fall to be by a Violent Death. He had before said they should die as other men; but now he riseth higher, and tells them of a more especial Judgement which should befall them rather then others, and that is, ye shall fall; how is that? Why for your Tyranny and abuse of your power against against God and his people, ye shall be cast out of your Seats; your pride shall have a fall, and that by a Violent Death; for so I find the word fall taken very frequently in Scripture, for Perishing by a Violent death; as falling by the sword, Exod. 32.

28. Hos. 5. 5. & 7. 7. or by the Pestilence, 1 Chron. 21. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 8. Tyrants seldom go to their graves in Peace. Most of the Cæsars fell by the hands of the people; q. d. If you be like *Tyrants in sin, expect to be like them in Punishment; as I cast them out of their Thrones for their Insolence and Violence; so will I cast you out, and you shall fall like one of these Tyrannical Princes.

3. Others take it for the falling as the Princes of other Nations; q. d. though you are the Princes of Gods people, yet are you not thereby Priviledged from the Arrest of death: for the most gracious Saint dyeth as well as the most notorious sinner. Grace is an Antidote against the poyson of death, but not a Preservative against undergoing death.

4. Others take it for a falling from an high and flourishing condition, so as they shall be had in contempt of all. This is a truth, and the word fall is oft so used in Scripture. Isai. 3. 8. Psal. 118. 13. Jer. 51. 8. But this sense is too trait for this place. The Exegesis implies a greater falling then from their estates.

5. Other learned men render the words thus, And ye shall fall like others, or ye shall fall like one of the Vulgar. But this Version will not hold, and that for two Reasons. 1. It hath no foundation in the Original, nor in the Septuagint, nor in any of the Oriental Versions. 2. It is a pure Tautology; ye shall die like Adam, i. e. like ordinary men, and shall fall like one of the Vulgar, i. e. like ordinary men. The three first senses are most genuine, as agreeing best with the Original, the sense

Non tantum minatur Deus ipsos morituros, sed ita morituros, ut etiam casuri sint de sedibus suis. Scultetus.

* Notanter dicit Hassarim, illorum Principum. Muscul. Sar est Princeps, & Sarim Principes, Jer. 4. 9. & 17. 25.

Sicut unus Principum i. e. profanarum gentium. Synecch. Gen. Piscat.

Ye shall fall like one of the Tyrants, Tyndal.

De summo gradu ad inimum, de magna gloria ad extremam miseriam precipitabimini. Bellarmin; unus quemlibet è vulgo significat. Calvin. Some there are that follow him against the Letter of the Text, which runs thus, Sicut unus Principum cadetis: It is not sicut unus Vulgi, vel è Vulgo. I honour that eminent Instrument of God, but the Text and Truth I must honour above all.

The Metaphrase.

of the Text, and the like Scripture phrase. The sum and substance of all is this, q. d. It is true, I have said, and I say so still, that ye are by office, Gods; and by Commission ye are all the sons of the most high God, whom he hath intrusted with some part of his Judiciary power; but yet this doth not exempt you from Mortality; for though in Dignity you are above others, yet Death will level you, and you must to the grave as well as others who are ordinary men, and as others of your own rank have done before you: and then you who have judged others, shall be judged with others; for after death comes judgement.

Observation 1.

The Scriptures of the Old Testament are the Word of God. Christ cites this very Text in the New Testament, (John 10. 34, 35.) against the calumniating Pharisees; yea Christ and his Apostles (to shew the divine authority of the Old Testament even in Gospel times) did fetch Arguments oft-times out of the Old Testament to confirm their Doctrine and Practice. About 400 places are cited out of the Old Testament in the New. But of this I have spoken elsewhere at large.

See my Commentary on
2 Tim. 3. 15. p. 262.

Observation 2.

Magistrates have their power and commission from God. It is he that said, and it is his Word that comes to them which makes them Gods on earth. Magistracy is no fancy of mans inventing, nor plant of his planting, for then it had long since been rooted up by those sons of Belial that have so oft opposed it, yet could never prevail against it. If God had not been in this Bush (so oft set on fire) it had been consumed long ere this; it could never have stood so many thousand years against the rage and fury of men and Devils. We may use the same Argument to prove the Divinity of Magistracy, which some-sometimes we do to prove the Divinity of the Scriptures, viz. the strange preservation of it in all revolutions and changes, amidst those wars and confusions which have been in the world. Some indeed have thrown off their Governours, but never yet could throw off a Government. As soon as one is off, another is in the saddle; yea so connatural it is to the Principles and notions of mans mind, that a Government is found even amongst Heathens, where no Scripture is found to teach it. But of this see more on Verse 1.

Observation 3.

It is lawful to give Titles of Honour even to wicked Magistrates. Those in this Psalm were none of the best, yea (all things considered) they were as vile as the vilest; yet you see the Holy Ghost gives them their Titles of honour still, I have said ye are Gods: and as if that were not sufficient, he presently adds, and ye are All, mark that, not good Magistrates only, but also the bad, even All (in respect of their place and office) are the children of the most High; which may for ever silence those sots, which say, we may give Titles of honour to Godly Magistrates, but not to the Ungodly. But of this see more Verse 1.

Observation 4.

Even wicked Magistrates have their power from God. Rom. 13. 1. All power is of God; and yet the Rulers at that time were Heathenish Persecutors. It is true, the abuse of the power is not from God, but the Power it self is; as the abuse of the Ministry and marriage are not of God, though the Ministry and marriage it self be. Be the Magistrates superiour or inferiour, wise men or fools, good or bad, there is no power but it is of God. The Apostle speaks not Indefinitely, The higher powers are of God, but he speaks Universally and Exclusively, there is no power, be it what it will, but is of God. Though the manner of getting into power by fraud and force may be unlawful, and of man; yet the power and office it self is of God; and that not only by permission (for so is sin and the Devils power) but by special ordination; The Powers that be are ordained of God, for the greater manifestation of his Wisdom, Power, Justice and Goodness. We must therefore shew all due respect and reverence to Magistrates as Magistrates, be they never so Vile; for though in respect of their wickedness their persons may deserve contempt, yet their calling is Honourable. There is a ray and sparkle of Gods Sovereignty and Image in Authority; and in that respect (whatever the persons are) they must be Honoured. We should not be too scrupulous in enquiring how men come to their power, but rather study how we may walk wisely, winningly, and Religiously towards such as are in power.

All power is from God quâ efficiens, and Unjust Power qua non impediens. Distinguendum est inter potestatem in se, & Potestatem in subiecto. Potestas in se est à Deo instituta, sed non semper in subiecto est iusta & legitima propter usurpationem & abusum. River.

Observation 5.

God is the most High. He is King of Kings, and Lord of Lords, the most High over all the earth, and to be exalted above all Gods. (Psal. 86. 8. & 96. 4. & 113. 4. This Title of most High is often given to God (Gen. 14. 18, 22. Psal. 7. 17. & 46. 4. Luk. 1. 32, 35. & 6. 35. & 8. 28. Acts 16. 17. Heb. 7. 1.) and is one of those * ten Names which are attributed to God, to set forth his transcendent and surpassing Excellency, Majesty, Power and Authority over and above all. Though others be High, yet there is an Higher then they (Eccles. 5. 8.) even the High and lofty one, who dwelleth in the high and holy place, and judgeth those that are high, Job 21. 22. Psal. 113. 5. Isa. 33. 5. No Towers, Pillars, Places, or Persons so high, but he can bring them down. It is this most High that ruleth the Kingdoms of men, and giveth them

Emphasi non caret cum non dicit, Omnis potestas est à Deo, sed Non est potestas nisi à Deo. q. d. nulla usquam possit inter homines esse potestas quæ sit aliunde quam à Deo. 2. Non simpliciter dicit A Deo sunt, sed Ordinate sunt à Deo; alia est eorum conditio quæ permittuntur, alia eorum quæ ordinantur ac disponuntur. Musculus in Rom. 13. 1, 2.

Solent pleriq; nimis scrupulose inquirere quo quisq; jure adeptus sit imperium; sed hoc solo contentos esse decet, quod videmus esse præsidere. Calvin, in 1 Pet. 2. 13.

V. D. Gouge his Arrows,
p. 317.

Ad denotandam summam Dei gloriam, potentiam & Majestatem, Deus dicitur altissimus.

See more in Mr. Gatakers Ser. on Psal. 82. 7. p 98, 99, 100.

them to whom he pleaseth. Dan. 4. 32. & 5. 18. He is the great Jehovah, the Lord Paramount of Heaven and Earth, there's none to be compared to him, Psal. 135. 15. I know that the Lord is great, and our Lord is above all Gods; whether they be so Deputed as Magistrates; or Reputed as Idols. He is not only great, but Greatness it self; not only high, but the most High, beyond the Tongues expression, or the hearts imagination. It is infinite and so unspeakable; we may as soon measure the Sea with a spoon, or put it in a bushel, as comprehend with our shallow understandings his excellent Greatness; it is therefore called Unsearchable, Psal. 145. 3. Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised, his Greatness is Unsearchable. All the power, perfection, beauty and excellency that is dispersed through the whole world, that and ten thousand times more is in the Lord by way of Eminency and Transcendency. All the glory that is in Angels, men, and all creatures, compared to his, is but as a drop to the Sea, a shadow to the Substance, or one little sand to a great Mountain; Heaven, Earth and Sea compared to him are perum nihil, meer Nothing. In Isa. 40. 12, 15, 16, 17. we have a most lively expression of the power of God, Who hath measured the water in the hollow of of his hand, and meted out the Heavens with a span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the Mountains in scales, and the Hills in a ballance, &c. He doth these great things with ease, as if it were but Spanning, Measuring, Weighing, &c. Hence it is that Greatness is truly and properly ascribed to God alone. He only is great, Deut. 32. 3. 2 Sam. 7. 22. Psal. 96. 4. & 99. 2, 3, & 145. 3. Titus 2. 13. Excellent is that Doxology of David, 1 Chron. 29. 11, 12. Thine O Lord is the Greatness, and the Power, and the Glory, and the Victory, and the Majesty; for all that is in Heaven and Earth, is thine; thine is the Kingdom O Lord, and thou art exalted.

Nihil magnum nisi Deus magnus.

exalted above all; both riches and honour come of thee, &c. He is mighty in power; there is no opposing him, Psal. 147. 5. mighty in counsel; there is no out-witting him, Jer. 32. 13. mighty in working; there is no out-doing him, Deut. 32. 4. and great in judgement; there is no withstanding him, Exod. 7. 4.

Exod. 7. 4.

1. Then Trust in this Great God; what though thou have great enemies, great Tentations within & without? yet remember thou hast the great God to assist thee. A weak creature when backt by a stronger, will venture on a stronger then it self. When the Prophet Micajah saw two Kings sitting on their Thrones, he was not afraid, because he saw a greater then they, 1 Kings 22. 10, 19. Moses by an eye of faith beheld him who was invisible, and therefore did not fear the wrath of the King, Heb. 11. 27. Did we stand by our own strength, we might well fear; but our help standeth in the Name of the Lord, Psal. 124. ult. This upheld Abraham in his straits; he doubted not, because God who had promised was able to perform, Rom. 4. 18. and this upheld Paul; I know whom I have believed, and that he is faithful and able to keep what I have committed to him, 2 Tim. 1. 12. Get an holy Magnanimity of Spirit; God loves to do great things for those that greatly trust in him, as we see in those three Worthies, who were Gyants rather then children, Dan. 3. Oppose this mighty God to all the might that comes against thee. Whilst others boast of their friends, Navies, Confederates, Strong-holds; &c. do thou make thy boast of God, and say, The Lord is my Light, and my salvation; whom should I fear? there is none amongst the Gods to be compared to him, Psal. 27. 1, 2, 3. & 86. 8. When Charles the fifth in a challenge to the King of France, commanded his Herald to proclaim all his Titles, Charles Emperour of such a place, King of such a place; Duke of such a place, &c. bids defiance

In te spes & non spes. Aug.

Animo magno nihil est magnum.

to the King of France. The King of France on the other side bids his Herald proclaim no more but this, The King of France, the King of France, the King of France, bids defiance to Charles the Emperour of Germany: Intimating that one Kingdom of France was of more worth then all those empty Titles of the Emperour. So when men cry Riches, Pleasures, Friends, Promotion, &c. Do thou cry, The Lord most High is my Portion, The Lord is my Portion; he that hath him hath all, he hath the Fountain, the Mine, the Ocean, and he cannot want, Psal. 23. 1. Get therefore propriety and interest in him; for what comfort is it to hear of so high and great a God, if he be not ours? That word My is a little word, but there is abundance of Divinity and sweetness in it, when with Thomas we can truly say, My Lord, and my God. Let us by faith hide our selves under the wings of this most High Protector, and abide under the shadow of this Almighty Shaddai, and there sing care and fear away, Psal. 91. 1. In all our distresses let us cry unto God most High, and he will hear and help us, Psal. 57. 2.

*Habet omnia, quia habet hanc
bezem omnia.*

2. In the Churches distresses let us comfort our selves in the most High God. The Church whilst it is in this world meets with Mountains of opposition; but the comfort is, they shall all become a plain before Gods Zerubabels, Zach. 4. 7. The Churches enemies in their own conceits are as great Mountains Unpassable, Unaccessible, they proudly overlook the people of God. But God contemns these contemners of his people, (Psal. 2. 1. to 6. Isai. 8. 9, 10.) and though they think themselves Mountains, and their flatterers call them so, and Gods own people looking upon them through the Spectacles of Fear and Unbelief, think them such; yet God here by way of contempt, asketh them, Who art thou? q.d. Thou lookest high and haughty like a Mountain, but thou shalt become a Molehill, a nothing before me and my people; I will overthrow those Mountains in my wrath, (Job 9. 5.) I will but touch them and they shall vanish, Psal. 144. 5. Isai. 2. 11, 12, 14. and though my people be but as so many despicable worms, yet I will make them to thresh Mountains, Isai. 41. 44. Let us not then fear, nor be despondent; that God which hath brought us over the Mountains of Popery, and the Mountains of Prelacy, that God will in his due time bring us over the Mountains of Heresie, Libertinism, and Independency, &c.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Objection.

But how can this be? we see no Visible means to effect this.

Answer.

God is a free agent; and though he hath tyed us to means, yet himself is tyed to none; he hath promised to create deliverance for his people, (Isai. 4. 5. & 65. 18.) now

Creatio fit {
 1. Ex nihilo.
 2. In instanti.
 3. Irresistibiliter.

1. When the Lord created the world, he made it out of no præ-existing matter; So though we see no means how he should deliver his people, yet he being Almighty, can without means, by weak means, yea, by contrary means deliver them. 2. He can do it instantly, when the hearts of his people are prepared, for Reformation and deliverance, the work shall be done suddenly, 2 Chron. 29. ult. 3. It shall be done Irresistibly. The work of Reformation it is the Lords, and it shall prosper in despite of all its enemies, Hag. 2. 4. It is of God, and it shall stand, Acts 5. 38, 39. Let us therefore encourage our selves in the Lord our God. What though Gyants, Sons of Anak, the

the great Zanuzimims, the High and mighty of the earth rise against the Church! yet there is a Higher than they, who will break them with a Rod of Iron; yea if the Nations, All Nations should come against it, yet all their power compared with Gods Power is parum nihil, an empty nothing, as the Prophet excellently, Isai. 40. 15. Behold the Nations are counted of him as a drop that hangeth on the side of a full bucket, or that stayeth behind when the water is poured out, yet doth not diminish the measure: or like the small dust of the ballance, which remains in the ballance when powder or beaten spice hath been weighed in it, which is easily blown away with a little puff of wind. All the men in the world compared with this High and Holy One, are Vanity, lighter than Vanity, Nothing, yea less than nothing, Psal. 62. 20. Many are afraid of displeasing Great men; let the Great ones of the world take heed of offending this Great God, or of injuring his people; for God is not only Absolutely and Essentially great in himself, but he is also Relatively and Declaratively so to his people. The great God loves to shew his greatness on their behalf. As his greatness, is superlative to all other greatness, whether they be humane powers, or Imaginary Deities; So of his Goodness he will extend it to the protection and preservation of his people, and for the confusion of their enemies.

3. Admire the great condescension of this great God towards man. Though he be the most High, yet he dwells in the lowest hearts, Isai. 57. 15. he hath but two Thrones, the highest Heavens, and the lowest heart. He over-looks the frame of heaven and earth to look on such, (Isai. 66. 1, 2.) nor doth he look upon them with a bare look of Intuition, but with a look of approbation and delight. Barely to look on man is a condescension, Psal. 113. 6. He humbleth himself to behold the things on earth: But to take up his dwelling with man, that is no less an act of mercy then of wonder.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

4. Serve this Great God with fear and Reverence. The greater the person, the greater must our fear be, Mal. 1. ult. We cannot worship him rightly, unless we worship him Reverently, Psal. 2. 12. Heb. 12. 29. he looks to be greatly feared in the Assembly of his Saints. We should alwayes come with self-abhorrancy into his presence, out of a sense of Gods exceeding greatness, and our own exceeding baseness, Job 42. 5, 6. Eccles. 5. 1, 2. And if the Angels stand before him with Reverence covering their faces; and Moses quaked and feared exceedingly when he was with God in the Mount, (Heb. 12. 21) yea and the very inanimate creatures tremble before him, the Mountains melt, the Hills quake, and the Rocks rend, (Nahum 1. 3. to 7.) with what soul-abasement ought we to come into his presence who have so many ways provok't him?

5. Turn servants to him; you cannot serve a better Master; The Greater the Prince, the more Noble the service. Prefer His service before all the Crowns and Kingdoms of the world. Spend thy self and all thou hast for his honour. There is none gives better wages then he.

6. Admire and Adore him for his Excellent greatness. The Holy Ghost oft calls on us to this duty, Psal. 95. 2, 3 & 96. 4. Praise must wait for him in Sion, (Psal. 65. 1) or Praise is silent for thee. A silent admiration of his greatness, and an humble confessing of our inability to express his praise, is the greatest praise we can give him.

7. Beware of offending this High and Holy One. Better have all the world against thee, then God against thee. He is the best friend, and the saddest foe. As he is great, and greatly to be praised, so he is great, and greatly to be feared. He is a consuming fire; There is no abiding when he is angry.

The

Tibi Domine silentium est laus.

The Lord most High is Terrible, and it is dangerous provoking him, Psal. 47. 2. & 78. 56.

Observation 6.

Magistrates are the Sons of the most High. If they are true believers, then they are his Adopted Sons; but if wicked, yet in respect of their office they are Nuncupative and Nominal Sons. Thus God is pleased to stile them.

- 1. To mind them of their Duty to him.
- 2. To mind us of our Duty to them.

1. He calls them Sons, to the end they might walk worthy of such a Father, by loving, fearing, serving, and obeying him, (M. l. 1. 6.) A son honours his Father, and a servant his Master; but God is not only a Father and a Master, but he is a King, a Creator, a Counsellour, a Protector and Assister of Magistrates; and if one of these Relations call for respect and love; what Reverence and respect is due to that God in whom all these Relations coucenter and meet? Let such then improve the Power which they have received from God, unto his praise. Uphold his Worship, advance his Scepter, promote his Interest, defend his people, pity his poor, do justice to all; if you thus Honour God, who hath honoured and exalted you; he will be a Father and a Friend to you; he will be a Sun for Consolation, and a Shield for Protection; he will be your God and Guide unto death.

Exemplata oportet conformari exemplari secundum rationem formae. Things exemplified ought to resemble their Samplar according to the reality of the form. Aquinas P. 1. Q. 18. art. 4.

See Reasons why Magistrates should honour God more then others, in Mr. Galaters Ser. on Psal. 82. 6 P. 76, 77.

2. Doth God call you Sons? then wo them that call you Satans, and Revile the Rulers of Gods people. It becomes us to honour those whom God honours. This shews what spirit leads the fifth Monarchy men, and their adherents; who have so grossly, and that in Print, reviled the Rulers of Gods people.

Objection.

But they are wicked men.

Answer.

Be it so ; yet if a wicked man be set in Power by God for the sins of a people, even that wicked man must be honoured for his place ; but if a godly man rule, he is to be honoured for his person. Some kind of honour is due to a Magistrate as a Magistrate and Gods Vicegerent ; but all kind of honour and subjection is due from all sorts of men to good Rulers.

3. As Magistrates are Sons by Office ; so all believers are Sons by Adoption, which is a choycer Priviledge, John 1. 12. Gal. 3. 26. & 4. 5, 6. So that now every true believer may say with David, The Lord is my Shepherd, yea the Lord is my Father, and I shall not want, Psal. 23. 2.

Thou art now sure of

- 1. Dilection.
- 2. Direction.
- 3. Correction.
- 4. Protection.
- 5. Provision.

1. All the children of God are sure of Dilection and love. Fathers have a natural affection to their children, and love them with a Paternal love. How tender was David over Abfalom, Touch not the young man Abfalom ; and when dead, how doth he take on ? Oh Abfalom my son, my son, that I had dyed for thee O Abfalom my son ! If David were thus tender over a rebellious Abfalom, how tender is God over his obedient children ? and though thou hast many Infirmities, yet God will pity thee, and spare thee as a man that spareth his son that serveth him, Psal. 103. 13. Mal. 3. 16, 17.

2. Direction.

2. Direction. Fathers will teach their children the way which they should go; so will the Lord do his, Psal. 25. 9. It is a part of the New-Covenant, That all believers shall be taught of God. In all their doubts his Spirit shall be as a Voice behind them, saying, This is the way.

3. Correction. Fathers that love their children will correct them. God loves his, and therefore he chastiseth them for their profit, Heb. 12. 10. Revel. 3. 19.

4. Protection. Fathers will defend their children, and God will defend his; He is their shield and buckler, Psal. 84. 11. Prov. 2. 7. In six troubles he will be with them, and in the seventh he will not leave them, Job 5. 19, 20, 21, 22.

5. Provision. Fathers will provide for their children; and if earthly parents who have but a drop of goodness, will give good things to their children; how much more will God give his Spirit to them that ask it? the Lions natural, the Lions Metaphorical may lack and suffer hunger; but such as fear the Lord shall lack nothing that may be for their good. God hath prepared an Inheritance for them, Luke 12. 32. he hath given them his Son, and with him he hath given them all things, Rom. 8. 32.

Verse 7.

Observation I.

Men in high places are apt to have high conceits of themselves. It is an hard thing to be in Honour without Tumor and swelling thoughts. The Lord who knows our frame better then we our selves, foresaw this; and therefore in the precedent Verse having told them of their Dignity, in this Verse he tells them of their misery and mortality; that they might not have the least time to be puffed up with Pride and high conceits of their high places, he presently adds
an

The Beauty of Magistracy.

an Humbling and abasing But, But ye shall die, what is that? Why, Synecdochically it includes all those miseries with are Antecedent to Death, as Sickness, Weakness, Pains, Aches, Old age, and Death; and also Subsequent miseries after death; then must great ones as well as others be brought to Judgement, stand at Gods bar, and give an account as well as the poorest Son of Adam. Those that now judge others, must shortly be judged themselves.

Observation 2.

Magistrates are mortal as well as others; or, those who live like Gods, yet must die like men. The most Potent Emperour must take his leave of this life as well as the poorest beggar. No Titles of honour, nor Places of honour can Priviledge men from the grave. Their divine constitution cannot free them from their native condition; Princes and great men must fall, and that in Israel, 2 Sam. 3. 38. The truth of this is seen by daily experience. It is so decreed in the High Court of Heaven; the Statute is Universal, and admits of no exception; It is appointed for men, for all men (the indefinite is equivalent to an Universal) once to die, Heb. 9. 27. Death is the great Level of all the world, it makel all equal. Irus and Crcesus, Dives and Lazarus, Princes and Peasants cannot be known asunder in the grave. As at a game at Chers, when it is ended, not only Pawns, but Kings, Queens, Knights, are tumbled into the bag together; so when the race of this life is finish, Noble as well as Ignoble are tumbled into their graves together: hence death is called the way of all the earth, because all flesh on earth must go that way, Josh. 23. 14. It is the greatest road in all the world, it is never without many Travellers of all forts, ranks and Degrees. The grave is the house appointed for all the living, (Job 30. 23. Eccles. 8. 8.) both the small and the great are there, even Kings and See Mr. Levisy his Ser.

on that Text, p. 207, & c.

Mors sceptrā ligonibus equat. Horat.

Aequales omnes nascimur; & Imperatores & Pauperes, equaliter morimur.
Hieron.

and Counsellors, Job. 3. 13, 14, 19. Death is Pambasileus, a truly Catholick Universal King; it is not only Rex terrorum, the King of fears, but Rex terrarum, an Oecumenical King, that spares no age, Sex, Nation or condition. In Golgotha are skulls of all sorts and sizes: hence it is that the Prophet Isaiab must not only say, but Cry, so as all may hear (for most men are deaf on this ear) that not only some, but all flesh is grafs (Isa. 40. 6, 7.) i. e. it is a feeble, empty, fading thing; it withers while we touch it, yea and the glory of it, i. e. such as have more glory bestowed on them then others, are but as fading flowers; The sythe of death knows no difference, but mowes down both alike, Psal. 102. 11. & 103. 15, 16. Job 14. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 24. James 1. 10. 11. It passeth upon all men, (Rom. 5. 12.) he doth not say, Death may pass, or shall pass, but it hath passed over all men; for though it hath not ipso facto as yet slain all, yet death is as certain as if it were already executed upon all.

2. All are sinners, even great men as well as Poor, and therefore all must die, for sin brought death into the world, Rom. 5. 12. & 6. 22, 23.

3. We are all made of fading Materials. Great men dwell in houses of clay and their foundation is dust as well as others, Job 4. 19. Gen. 3. 19 & 18. 27. We are Dust Originally and Finally, even Kings that are Gods on earth, are but Gods of earth, or rather clods of earth: hence the earth is called His by a special propriety, Psal. 146. 4. man, i. e. Princely men, (for of such he there speaks) returns unto his dust; he doth not say, they go to their Cities, Castles, Kingdoms, these are now anothers; but he goes to his Tomb, to his Dust and Ashes, that is the proper possession of Kings.

4. They are subject to the like or greater diseases, calamities and judgements of poisoning, stabbing, stifeling, sursetting, &c. then other men.

As there is terra quam terimus, terra quam querimus, & terra quam gerimus; So there is terra que erimus.

Nulla aconita bibuntur Fittilibus. Juven.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

5. As inferiour persons must die and so make way for the arising of others, so also must Superiours. God hath others to arise and succeed them in their places, that his power and glory may be seen in them also. Hence Saul dies that David may succeed him. Moses dies that Joshua may appear. Daniel dies, and then Haggai and Zechariah arise; and when John Baptist, died then Christ appeared.

6. None of those Prerogatives and Priviledges which great men enjoy can Priviledge them from the Arrest of Death.

Tis not	}	1. Riches.
		2. Strength.
		3. Parts, Policy.
		4. Dignity.
		5. Friends.
	}	6. Piety.

1. Their Riches cannot save them from the grave: they avail not in the day of wrath, Prov. 11: 4. Ezek. 7. 19. Zeph. 1. ult. the rich man died as well. Lazarus; Luke 12. 20. & 16. 22.) those that spend their dayes in wealth, yet in a moment go down to the grave, Job 21. 13. 32. Rich men are apt to sing a Requiem to their souls; and dream of living here many years: this is called folly, Luke 12. 19, 20. and is notably confuted, Psal. 49. 6. to 20. Princes that had gold, and filled their houses with silver, yet must to their graves; as well as the poor, Job 3. 15. Death will not be bribed, we gave a notable instance for this in the King of Tyrus who abounded with all Riches, Jewels, Merchandise, and lived in Eden, the garden of God; he lived as twere in Paradise, infomuch that in his own conceit he was a God for Power, Wisdom and Majesty; but God made him quickly to know, that he was a weak man, man, and therefore he cut him off by a violent death in his own City, Ezek. 28. 2. to 14.

2. Not Strength. Sampson was strong, yet death was too strong for him. Alexander and Caesar which conquered Kingdoms, yet could not conquer death. Nero, Caligula, Domitian, Titus, &c. the Terrors of their Time, yet were all conquered by the King of Terrors. Men of power have no power over death, (Eccles. 8 8.) the Captain, the mighty man, and the man of War, are all in the grave, Isa. 3. 2, 3.

3. Parts, Policy, Learning, Wisdom cannot preserve any from the grave. Solomon the wisest of men die as well as fools, Psal 49. 10. Eccles. 2. 16. the Judge, the Prudent, the Prophet, the Confessor and the eloquent Orator, are all swept away by death, Isa. 3. 2, 3. Death is Nomen indeclinabile, the greatest Clerks have not been able to decline it.

4. No Dignity nor honour can stave off death. Herod in the midst of his Pomp was smitten dead, and devoured by Vermin. Let a man be never so high in honor, yet he must die and perish, Psal. 49. ult. Job 21. 28. 32. such as are the staff and stay of a State, even the Antient and the Honourable, yet are taken away by death, Isa. 3. 2, 3.

5. Friends cannot save or shelter you, from this Arrest, be they never so great or good, in them is no help; they cannot help themselves, much less others, Psal. 146. 3.

6. Not Piety. If any thing in the world could save a man from the grave, it is this: and yet we see Moses a Pious, Meek, Learned, Self-denying Servant of God, dies, Dent. 34. 5. Moses the Servant of the Lord died. David a wise man and excellent Musitian, a valiant Souldier, a man after Gods own heart, and one that fulfilled all his will, and yet after he had served the will of God in his ge-

See Instances for this in that elaborate Tract of Holy Love by Fonseca, chap. 37.

Tollitur mors, non ne sit, sed ne obfit.

neration he fell asleep, Acts 13.22.36. the holy Prophets do not live for ever, Zach. 1.5. but even the Righteous themselves do perish, Isa. 57.1. Christ doth not free his from death, but from the sting of death; that which is Pœnal is taken away; he hath made that which in it felt is a curse, to become a blessing, of a Poyson he hath made a Medicine; and of a Punishment an advantage. So that what Agag spake vauntingly, we may speak truly, The bitterness of death is past, Hof. 13. 14.

Use.

1. Fear not great men when they are great Oppressors; for there is a greater then they who will bring them to judgement; how oft doth the Lord blame his people for fearing such as must die, and then all their fury ceaseth! Isa. 51. 12, 13.

2. Trust not in them. Though they be never so great, yet they must die, and then all thy projects perish. If a man might trust in any man, it is in Princes, for they can do more for us then ordinary men; and yet weare expressly forbidden trusting in them, Psal. 146. 3, 4. Trust not in Princes, nor in the Son of man in whom there is no help; his breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish. Where you may see, 1. They cannot help you. 2. If they could, yet they must die, and then all their projects and purposes for themselves or for thee, perish and come to nought; and therefore trust not in them, nor in any of the Sons of men; for they are Vain, yea Vanity, yea lighter then Vanity: Nothing, yea if it be possible, less then Nothing, Psal. 62. 9. If you will trust in any, trust in the Almighty, for he never dies, (Psal. 18. 16.) The Prophets they die, and our Fathers, do not live for ever. I, but the God of the Prophets, and the God of our Fathers lives for ever, Psal. 90. 1. When Father

Father and Mother forsake thee; he will take thee up; when all thy friends are dead, yet he is an ever-living and an ever-loving friend; who will guide thee with his Counsel till he bring thee to glory.

3. This must teach great men who are in high places, oft to think on death and judgement. God no sooner tells us of their Majesty, but he presently adds their Mortality, to keep them humble in the midst of all their creature comforts. The sight of this death's head will damp all carnal delights; and this Verse well thought on would make us look with a mortified eye on all earthly enjoyments. Mortality is a very fit Meditation for Magistrates.

Francis Borgia a Spanish Courtier having been at the Funeral of the Empress, and considering how little a grave had devoured all earthly greatness, Totus mutatus est in melius; He began to reform his life, and became another man: whereupon he told his friends, Augusta mors mihi vitam attulit, The death of the Empress hath brought me to life.

V. Ribaden. de Vit. Borgiae.

A serious consideration of Death will take off the scales from our eyes, and make us see the vanity of all earthly glory, how short and transitory it is; and therefore when you find your hearts begin to be lifted up with the gay feathers of Honour, Wit, Wealth, Beauty or any other fading excellency; then cast your eyes upon the black feet of your mortality, and it will humble you. It is said of Hoshea the King of Samaria, that he should vanish like a bubble, the foam and froth of water, (Hos. 10. 7.) we know bubbles do soon arise, and as soon vanish; and as one bubble ariseth after another till all are gone, so it is here. How many Popes enjoyed not their Pomp a year! Some were cut off at eleven moneths. Some are at ten, others at nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two, one moneth. Yea some enjoyed the Chair not moneths but dayes.

Leo the eleventh sate Pope but twenty seven dayes.

V. Mendoza in 1. Reg. 4. numb 22. sect. 3. & 1 Reg. 10. num. 27. Annot. 6. mihi. p. 135. ubi plura.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Pius the third twenty six dayes; another twenty three, another twenty, yea Pope Urbana the seventh was Pope but seven dayes, and Pope Steven the second but four dayes. Oh the madnes of these Popes, many of which gave their souls to the Devil for fading, flying, lying Vanities! As Philip King of Macedon commanded his Page every morning when he arose to cry, Philippe, momento te esse mortalem. Remember O King thou art but a mortal man. So say I, Memento te esse bullam. Remember O ye great ones of the world; that you are but bubbles, which soon vanish. I have read of Saint Austin that when he was at Rome, and saw the rotten Carcasses of Cæsar in his Sepulchre, he brake forth into this Pathetical exclamation, Where, O where is the famous body of Cæsar? where are his riches and delights? where are his Troops of Lords and Barons? where are his numerous Armies, his Horses and his Hounds, his Ivory Bed, his Arras Hangings, his Imperial Throne, his change of Raiments, his curious Hair, his comely Face? Where, Oh where is He with all his Pomp, that was once the Terror of the world? The Answer was, All these left him, when his Breath left him; they left him Captive in the Grave, &c. Commendable therefore was the practice of Maximilian the Emperor, who some years before his death, commanded his Coffin to be carried about with him; that by the sight of it he might be put in mind of his mortality, and of the account he must shortly give of the Empire, and might be quickned in the mean time to a more diligent discharge of his duty. This will be a corrosive to sin, and a curb to keep you from exorbitant courses. Great men many times are great Tyrants; they make their lusts their Law, and as the Donatists conceited that they could not erre (though few erred more.) So there are State-Donatists that cry, Quod statuimus justum est, stat per ratione Voluntas.

Aug. Serm. 48 ad fratres in exilio.

Tu mortem ut nunquam timeas, semper cogita.

Quod volumus sanctum est.

luntas. What ever they decree must pass for just, though it be never so unjust. These forget their last ends, as Jerusalem did before her ruine, Lam. 1. 9. They remember not that they who sit on the Bench now; must shortly come to the Bar.

Nihil sic revocat homines à peccato sicut imminentis mortis cogitatio. Aug.

2. Let it be a Spur to duty; our time is short, our work is great, our Reward unspeakable, Be active for God, do much in a short time: serve not; nor seek your selves, but serve God in your generation, as Dauid did, Acts 13. 36. as you have your Places, your Power, your Gifts, your Time and Talents from God, so improve them all unto his praise: Live the life of the righteous, and you shall die their deaths: Walk in their way, and you shall attain their end. Be Israelites indeed in whom there is no reigning guile, and then when you come to die, you may comfortably say with Nehemiah and Hezekiah; Remember me O my God for good, and remember how I have walkt before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that, which was good in thy sight. Isa. 38. 3. Make it your daily exercise, to keep a Conscience void of offence towards God and man, and then when you come to die, this will be your rejoicing, even the testimony of your consciences, that in simplicity and godly sincerity you have had your conversation in the world.

Non potest male mori qui bene vixit. Aug.

See the singular comfort of a good conscience at Death and Judgement in Dyke on Conscience, cap. 11. p. 190, &c.

Observation 3.

Great men must certainly die as well as other ordinary men. But doth any one question this? it would seem so; and therefore the Lord who knows our hearts better then we know our selves, hath set a Verily on it. The Pomp, Prosperity, Peace and Pleasures of great men do so blind and harden them, that they cannot awhile to think on death, or if they do, it is only sleightly and notionally; they do not realize death and look on it as ready to arrest them; if they did, they would lead other lives lives then now they do. They are apt to put the evil day far from their soul, and therefore it is that they draw neer to the fear of iniquity, Amos 6. 3. They have made a Covenant with death and a bargain with hell; hence the Lord to awaken them out of their vain dreams speaks so Affertively of death, Psal. 39. 5. Verily, every man in his best estate is altogether Vanity, Selah. The words are very emphatical; man, every man, not only some of Inferiour rank, but Superiours also; Col Adam, every Son of Adam, and that not only in his low condition, but in the best and most prosperous condition; when in the heighth of his beauty and bravery, having all creature comforts about him; yet even then he is but vain, yea Vanity, and not only in some measure Vain, but altogether Vanity. Man at his best is the very Universe of Vanity; and to put this further out of doubt, the Holy Ghost puts a double seal to it, one at the beginning of the sentence, and another at the End. Verily lets it in, and Selah shuts it up. Implying that it is no doubtfull or probable thing, but a most certain truth.

Observation 4.

Death is a fall. It is so to all, they fall from the society of men to the company of worms; at death we fall from every thing save God and godliness; our good works will follow us to Heaven; the comfort of them will endure for ever, Rev. 14. 13. 1 John 2. 17.

2. Yet some shall fall more stairs and stories then others, as Princes, Rulers and the Grandees of the world. The higher your standing is whilest you live, the lower ye fall when ye die; and therefore when Abner was slain, it is said, a Prince and a great man was fallen in Israel, 2 Sam. 3. 38. 39. Such fall from their richest Treasures, delightfulest Pleasures, stately Mansions, dear Relations, yea from whatsoever is called Hec omnia Emphaticè dicta & observanda esse inveniunt, ut ostendat nihil esse in studiis mortalium; in vita ipsa mortalium, quorumcunq; , qualescunq; , quantumcunq; , quod non sit vanum. Musculus.

Col Adam, col hebel. Universa Vanitas omnis homo.

called the good of this world; Job 7.7. Your eyes shall no more see good; you must now bid farwell to all your creature delights: as you brought nothing into the world, so you shall carry nothing out.

3. Some yet fall lower then others, as Tyrants and wicked men who fall from earth to hell, Psal. 9. 17. The wicked shall be turned into Hell, and all the people that forget God: he casts down the mighty from their Seats in fury. Few Tyrants but come to violent deaths, and miserable ends, as we see in Zachariah, Shallum, Pekahiah, and Pekah, who in a short time were cut off by violent deaths, Hos. 7.7. & 10. If the Rulers of God people will be like the Rulers of the world in Pride and Oppression, they must expect to be like them in punishment, and to fall as those Tyrannical Heathen Princes have done before them; for God is no respecter of persons or priviledges, but is the same in all ages to the same sinners.

See more before on Verse
1. Observation 5.

V E R S E 8.

Arise O God, judge thou the earth, for thou shalt inherit all Nations.

IN the first Verse we had the Psalmists Preface; in this last Verse we have his Petitory Conclusion. The Psalmist seeing the gross stupidity of the Judges of those times, how no warnings would work upon them, no complaints stir them, no sense of their morality affect them: by a sudden Apostrophe he turns himself to God, and betakes himself to his prayers. Arise O God, judgethou the earth. Before he spake in the person of God to those Rulers, he leaves them now as desperate and past cure, and betakes himself to God. Arise O God. Where we have, 1. The Sub-

Addit rationem à proprio Dei jure. Moller.

Dicitur sedere Deus quan-do dissimulat suam potentiam, neq. exercet munus Judicis. Varablus.

Kumali, surge i. e. ad agendum te accinge, & contra hostes insurge.

Aeton. Subjecti.

Vindica probos hujus terre à scolas ab oppressione judi-cum. Piscator.

Hereditare est dominium in gentes jure obtinere.

Tinchal, possidebis hereditatis.

stance of his Suit or matter of his Prayer. viz. that God would arise and judge the earth. 2. A Reason drawn from the Dominion and Universal Sovereignty of God over all the world. For thou inheritest all Nations.

Arise, q. d. hitherto O Lord, thou hast sat still and concealed thy power, though Justice hath been turned into Wormwood, and Righteousness into Hemlock; now therefore arise O Lord, and take the Throne, relieve the oppressed, right the wronged, and set all things in order which have been so long in confusion. This word arise, by an Anthropopathy is given to God, when he exerts and puts forth his power (which seemed to sleep and lie dormant for a time, suffering his people to be afflicted, whilest the wicked flourish) in punishing the wicked, and delivering his people out of trouble. So the word is used, Numb. 10. 35. Job 31. 14. Psal. 44. 23, 24, & 59. 5. & 68. 1. & 76. 8, 9. Zach. 2. ult.

O God, Elohim, i. e. O thou Creator, Governour, Prince and Judge of all the world (so much the word implies) O thou Absolute, Universal, Supreme and Righteous Judge, do thou now arise and Judge these unrighteous Judges of the world.

Judge thou the earth, i. e. the men of the earth. q. d. since Justice is perisht from the earth, and men are so corrupt and careless that they will not do Justice, but abuse their power; do thou therefore O Lord take the power into thine own hand, and execute Justice for the oppressed and the needy: For thou dost inherit or, thou dost possess all Nations, q. d. All Nations of the world, and amongst the rest these oppressed ones, are thine by a true Right and Inheritance; it concerns thee therefore to take notice of them, and to right them in their wrongs, and not to suffer unrighteous Judges to oppress and slay them at their pleasure, Psal. 74. 21. Or, Thou shalt inherit, or thou shalt possess all Nations. q. d. Thou whether whether they will or no, shalt have power over Jews and Gentiles; for thou art Lord Paramount, and the true Possessor of all Nations; they are all within thy Jurisdiction add Dominion; and therefore seeing that office belongs to thee, take it into thine own hand, and do Justice for thy people: Let no Tyrant take thy right and authority from thee; for thou dost, and for ever shalt possess as thy proper peculiar, all Nations whatsoever.

Goim sæpe dicitur de gentibus infidelibus & incredulis.

Question.

But how comes the world to be called Gods Inheritance, when the Church of God is frequently called his Portion and his Inheritance? Deut. 32. 9. Psal. 135. 4. Isai. 19. ult. Mal. 3. 17.

Answer.

The answer is easie. 1. All the world is Gods Inheritance by right of Creation and perpetual preservation. But his Church is his by right of Redemption and peculiar appropriation to himself. It is his portion and peculiar Treasure above all people: he looks upon all the world but as lumber, dross and refuse in comparison of his people, Psal. 119. 119. They are his Jewels, his * Segullah, his select portion, and rich treasure which he values at the highest rate.

Ecclesia vocatur hereditas Dei & possessio ejus, quia Deo dulcis & grata est, sicut unicuique solet esse dulcis & jucunda hereditas quam possidet. Ravanella. See more of the word Segullah in Mr. Bill on the Covenant. p. 103.

Some would make this Verse a Prophecie of the Kingdom of Christ, when all Nations shall be subdued to him, and be given him for his Inheritance, according to that Psal. 2. 8. Heb. 1. 2. Rev. 11. 15. But the Prophet speaks not here of Christ, or of the last Judgement; but of the General providence of God, whereby he governs the Kingdoms of the world with the Scepter of righteousness (Gen. 18. 25. Eccles. 3. 17.) defending the good, punishing the bad; preserving Laws, publick Peace, Justice and Order: and though he hath committed the custody of these to Magistrates who are his Deputies, yet he himself is the chief Judge; and when they neglect their duty, then he appears. The sum of all is this: O Lord, since the iniquity of ungodly Magistrates is so exceeding great, not only amongst thy own people, but even through the whole world; righteousness is fled, and justice cannot be found, the righteous are debased, the Unrighteous exalted, the nocent are countenanced, and the innocent condemned, the rich are favoured, and the afflicted trod under foot: therefore do thou Lord arise, bring down the proud, punish the nocent, set free the innocent, rescue the poor and fatherless from the jaws of Tyrannical ones; that all the earth may know that thou only art Lord and Supreme Judge of all the world.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Observation 1.

God sometimes seems to sleep when his people are in trouble. He seems to be careless, and let all run into confusion, as we have seen in this Psalm. Not that God doth indeed sleep or disregard the afflictions of his people, for he that keepeth his Israel, doth not so much as slumber, much less sleep, Psal. 121. 4, 5. He hath a special eye upon his people for good, he protects them so, that the Sun shall not hurt them by day, nor the Moon by night, i. e. no time, no thing shall hurt them, neither Sun nor Moon, neither heat nor cold. 2. No part of them shall be hurt, thy soul shall be preserved; thy going out and coming in shall be guided and guarded: these include the whole person of man with all his just undertakings and affairs. Thus are they kept who have the Lord for their keeper; and as if this were not sufficient, he adds Verse 3. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved, i. e. he will not suffer thee or thine to be moved or violently cast down; the power of oppressours shall not prevail over thee; for the power of God sustains thee. Lest any should hurt his Vineyard, he keeps

it

it night and day; i.e. at all times, Isai. 27. 3. So that to speak properly, there is no passion in God, there is neither rest nor motion in him, but the Scripture speaks of him by an Anthropopathy, according to our apprehension. Thus the Lord is said sometimes to be slack, slow, and delay his coming; and then by our Prayers we must quicken him, Psal. 40. 17. Make no long tarrying O my God, Psal. 74. 1. How long Lord, how long wilt thou forget thy people! Sometimes he seems to forget his Church, and then his people must put him in remembrance, Isai. 62. 7. Ye that are the Lords remembrancers give him no rest. Sometimes he seems to sleep; and then he expects that his people by their prayers should awaken him, as in the Text, Arise Lord. The Lord is a God of great patience, and long suffering; he bears long with the vessels of wrath fitted for destruction, Rom. 9. 22. He bears so long with the wicked till they rage again, and insult, thinking that God approves of their wickedness, Psal. 50. 21. He seemed to sleep at Israels troubles 430 years; but at last Pharaoh and his followers paid for all together in the Sea. The Amorites one would think had been wicked enough to have been destroyed, for they were gross Idolaters, grand oppressors, and notorious for lust; yet God bare some hundred of years with them, till they were ripe for ruine, Gen. 15. 16. Wo then to all the insulting, blasphemous enemies of Gods people, though God seem for a time to sit still and sleep, letting the wicked oppress the righteous who is better then he, (Hab. 1. 13.) Yet as a man after sleep is refreshed; so God will arise like a Gyant refreshed with wine, and then his enemies shall be scattered, and those that hate him shall flee before him. As smoke is driven away by a mighty wind, though it seem black and formidable at first; yet it soon vanisheth; and the higher it ascends, the sooner it is scattered; and as wax melteth before the fire, so shall shall the wicked perish at the presence of God, (Psal. 68. 1, 2.) If the Lord do once arise, though his enemies be never so many or mighty, yet they are soon scattered. Let the Lord but look upon the Host of the Egyptians through the Pillar of fire, and it troubles and torments them, Exod. 14. 24. Let not then Gods people be despondent, though the Lord make them wait, yea and wait long; though the Vision be yet for an appointed time, yet at the end it shall speak comfort to those that Patiently wait Gods appointed time; and to assure you of this, the promise is doubled and trebled; It shall speak, it will come, it will surely come, it shall not lie, it will not tarry, Hab. 2. 3.

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Question.

But when will the Lord Arise for his people? the harvest is past, and the Summer is ended, and yet we are not saved?

Answer.

See Ten seasons wherein God will arise for to help his people. Mr. Cafe his Faith Sermon on Psal. 68. 1, 2. p. 21. Prcacht 1644.

Though God seldom comes at our time; yet he never fails of his own time; in his due time he will arise and save his people; only do not limit the Holy One of Israel to your time: for when he sees it is most for his own glory, and his peoples good, he will certainly Arise. He only waits for a fit time to be gracious, Isa. 30. 18. Yet for your better satisfaction, know, That there are two seasons more especially wherein the Lord loves appear to for his people. 1. When the enemy is most high, begins to insult and blaspheme, crying, Where is now their God? he is asleep and cannot save; then their fall is near, Job. 20. 5. Psal. 94. 2, 6. to 23. Violent things last not long. 2. When Gods people are most low, and all seems to make against them; when the enemy seems to carry all before him, and his peoples strength is gone. Now, Now, Now will I arise saith God, Isai. 33. 9, 10. Deut.

See more in my Comment. on 2 Tim. 3. 9. p. 182.

32. 36. Cum duplicantur lateres, venit Moses. God lets things come to the Mount, and then he appears, Gen. 22. 14. When his people lie as dry, dead bones, in an hopeless, helpless, fatherless, forlorn condition; then God loves to appear for their help and succour, Ezek. 37. 11. Exod. 3. 9. Psal. 12. 5. & 10. 12. & 102. 13. Hof. 14. 3.

Observation 2.

When Gods people are in distress, they must awaken God by their Prayers. So doth the Psalmist here, Arise Lord and Judge the Earth. When they can have no help on Earth, they must go to Heaven. When the Godson earth will not right us, we must appeal to the God of heaven. It is matter of singular comfort, that when Tyrants cruelly oppress us, and we can have no relief below, yet we have a God to go to who will Vindicate our wrongs; and plead our cause against our enemies: But then we must Awaken the Lord by fervent and importunate Prayer. He seems to rest till he be disquieted by our Prayers. Though he will help us, yet he will be sought of us to do it for us; hence his people so oft cry, Arise Lord and save thy people; and Awake, why sleepest thou? Psal. 3. 7. & 7. 6. & 9. 19. & 17. 13. & 68. 1. Hab. 1. 2, 3. per totum. [Restat iter calo.]

Only remember it is not every kind of Prayer that will awaken God; but it must be, 1. The Prayer of a righteous man; such as Moses, Job, Samuel, Daniel; who have both imputed and imparted righteousness. He must come in the rayment of Christ his elder Brother; there is no seeing Gods face unless we bring him with us. Christ only is the way; there is no coming to the Father but by him. It was death under the Law for any man to offer a Sacrifice himself, though it were never so good; it must be put into the Priests hand, and he must offer it: Every Sacrifice must be seasoned with salt (Lev. 2. 13.)

2. 13.) Christ is that true salt which seasons both our persons and performances, and makes them acceptable to his Father. What ever we ask it must be in Christs Name, and not in our own, John 14. 13, 14. The person must please, before the Prayer can please. God had first respect to Abel, and then to his offering. The man must be good, or his Prayer will never be heard. God hears not sinners, i. e. Impenitent sinners which make a Trade of sin, (Psal. 66. 18. John 9. 31.) there is no standing before God in our sins, Ezra 9. ult. An earthly Prince will not traffick with rebels to his Crown and Dignity; to such God saith, What hast thou to do to take my Name into thy mouth? Psal. 50. 16, 17. the Prayers of a Proud, profane Libertine are an abomination to God, Prov. 15. 8. & 28. 9. he esteems them as Swines blood, or the offering a Dogs neck in sacrifice, Isai. 66. 3. as the howling of a Dog, Hof. 7. 14. or as lying and dissembling, Hof. 11. 12. The wicked compass me with lyes when they cry, My Father, my Father. And therefore when ever we draw nigh to God in Prayer, we must wash our hearts and our hands in innocency, lifting up pure hearts and pure hands. All that call on the Name of the Lord must depart from iniquity, 2 Tim. 2. 19. If we be such as do his Commandements, then whatsoever we ask we shall receive, 1 John 3. 22. Hence the promises run to the righteous, Prov. 10. 24. The desire of the righteous shall be granted. Psal. 145. 19. He will fulfill the desires of them that fear him, 1 Pet. 3. 12. Prayer is not a work of the wit, voyce, memory, but of the heart, Psal. 25. 1. Let the words be never so excellent, if they come not from the heart, it is but lip-labour and lost labour, Isa. 29. 30. To pray against Pride, Covetousness, Passion, Hypocrisy, &c. when the heart doth not hate those sins, nor will they part with them at any rate, but are angry with such as would separate between them and

and their lusts, what is this but to mock God to his face, and to give him occasion out of our own mouths to condemn us? If ever we desire that God should hear our Prayers, we must first put iniquity far from our Tabernacles, Job 22. 23, 27. Our Prayers must not come from feigned lips, Psal. 17. 1. God is nigh to all that call upon him; but then they must call upon him in truth, Psal. 145. 18. It is the Prayers of the Upright that are Gods delights, Prov. 15. 8. And as all sin, so three especially there are that marre mens Prayers. The first is Ignorance, when men have no sense of their own misery, nor of the Majesty of that God they pray to: such cannot pray, Rom. 10. 14. How shall they call on him of whom they have not heard? or if they do, yet there prayers are abominable, Prov. 28. 9.

2. Pride, when men are full of self-confidence, and think to be heard for their own merits and righteousnes. God resists such proud Pharisees; but it is the prayer of the destitute and the humble which he regards, Psal. 10. 17. & 102. 16, 17.

3. Oppression and cruelty, the cry of these sins out-cries their prayers so as they cannot be heard. Though such should pray, yea and make many Prayers, yet God will not hear, Isai. 1. 15. how can he expect mercy from God, who shews none to his Brother? Prov. 22. 13. He that stops his ears at the cry of the poor, shall cry himself, and shall not be heard.

The Question then will be. Whether a wicked man may pray?

Ans. Prayer considered as a Duty, binds all men; for though wicked men cannot pay to God as to a Father, yet they may as to a Creator. Prayer is good in it self, though by accident the wicked turn it into sin; now though for want of faith such prayers cannot please God; yet being good for matter, giving glory to God in sundry of his Attributes, they may procure temporal blessings, or divert (for a time at least) some temporal judgements. The cry and moan of the creature oft moveth compassion in the Creator; he hears the cry of Ravens and feeds them: and when the Israelites cryed, (though but hypocritically and in their trouble) yet he delivered them out of their distress, Psal 78. So Abab and the Ninivites.

The first Commandment of the Moral Law requiring Prayer, it obligeth universally; besides, all men have need to pray always; in all things, even for the continuance of being, because they depend on this Supreme being. Lamson.

2. The Prayer must be fervent; both these Qualifications we have in one-verse, James 5. 16 The effectual fervent Prayer of a righteous man availeth much. We must awaken our selves and cry aloud, if ever we would awaken God. So did the Prophets, Isa. 51. 9. Awake O arm of the Lord, awake, awake and put on strength. There is no getting the blessing without striving; hence we are commanded to strive in Prayer, Rom. 15. 30. Luke 18. 4, 7. Rom. 8. 26. Colos. 4. 2. It is only weeping, wrastling Jacobs. that become prevailing Israels, (Hos. 12. 4.) It is this seed of Jacob that never seek Gods face in vain, Isai. 65. 9. We must stir up our selves that we may lay hold on God, and use Argumentative Prayer as Moses did; Exod. 32. 11, 12, 13. and get an holy * Impudence as that widow did, * Luke 11. 8. God loves to see us fervent when it is for his own glory and his Churches good. Tell him the cause is his; had it been our own cause we had been silent, but the cause is his; and the people that are oppressed are his, and the enemies are his; they blaspheme his Name daily; it is their daily practice to vent blasphemies against him and his Truth; and therefore beseech him to Arise. When things be out of order in Church and State, Prayers and Tears are our best weapons. It is not for private persons in such cases to rise tumultuously and revile their Rulers, (this will but exasperate, and not heal our distresses) God doth not say here; O ye afflicted and wronged, Arise and slay your unrighteous Rulers; No, but rather rather slay your sins, which provoke God to let them over you; and by Prayer cry to him that he would Arise and help you. Thus did the Primitive Christians in Tertullians time; So the people in Sauls time, when the Lord told them how cruelly he would deal with them, he tells them what they must do, (2 Sam. 8: 18.) ye shall cry in that day, because of your King. They must not rise in rebellion against him, but they must cry unto God for aid. We must spread our case and our cause before him who is the Judge of all the world, and who hath promised that the rod of the wicked shall not for ever lie on the lot of the righteous, Psa. 125. 3.

* Avaldeia, impudentia, impertunitas.

* See Mr. Love on that Text.

Hæc vis grata Deo est. Terul, lib. de orat.

Canr. This is spoken against Private persons taking up arms, and not against the inferiour Magistrates defending Religion and the godly, when the Superiour is an enemy to both; of this Judgement was the learned B. Bilson, (a man free enough from Sediti- on or Faction) I will not rashly pronounce (saith he) all that resist to be Rebels, casts may fall out even in Christian Kingdoms; where the people may plead their right against the Prince, and yet not be charged with rebellion. E. G. If a Prince go about to Subject his Kingdom to a forraign Realm; or change the form of the Govern- ment from Impery to Tyranny, or neglect the Laws established by common consent of Prince and People to execute his own pleasure. In these, and other cases which might be named, If the Nobles and the Commons joyn together to defend their ancient and accustomed Liberty, Regiment and Laws: they may not be accounted Rebels. This and more you may see in the place quoted, which excellently clears the justness of the late Parliament Wars. If any desire further satisfaction, he may see 44 Questions learnedly debated by Mr. Rutherford in his Lex Rex where he strongly asserts the Lawfulness of Defen- sive Wars, and takes off all Cavils that are brought to the contrary. But what ever means be used,

V. Bilson his Philander, Part. 3 pag. 279. &c.

V. Sharpus Cursus Theolog. Loc. de Magist. Q. 2 p. 246. P. 2.

yet Prayer may in no wise be neglected. It is it that blesteth all means, obtains all Grace, and brings comfort to us in all our distress. So that

A Prayerless man is a } Graceless man.
 } Useless man.
 } Cursed man.
 } Comfortless man.

1. A Prayerless man is a Graceless man. Grace is obtained by Prayer; Ask and have, Ezek 36.37. A man of much Prayer is usually a man of much Grace, as we see in Daniel, and David who was a man composed as it were of Prayer, Psal. 109.4. But I Prayer, or I give my self to prayer, as being much in that work, and making it his only fence and refuge. When Paul was converted, then he Prayes, (Acts 9.11.) No doubt but he being a strict Pharisee prayed before; I but sayes the Lord, go to him now; for behold he prays, i.e. feelingly, fervently and effectually, and not coldly, cursorily, and formally as the Pharisees did, which was no praying in Gods esteem. Hence the Spirit of Grace, and the Spirit of Supplication are joyned together, Zach. 12.10. and they are branded for Irreligious Atheists, that call not upon God, Psal. 14.4. Let thy outside be never so civil, or smooth, yet if thou be a Prayerless man, certainly thou art a Graceless man.

2. An Useless man. Unfit for any service of God, a burden to the place he lives in; like Jeremahs girdle good for nothing, Jer. 13.17. As a Praying Saint is a publick good, even the Chariots and the Horsemen of Israel, so a Prayerless for is a wench, a blemish and burden to the Church and State he lives in.

3. A Cursed man. As food, rest, riches, labour, and all other things are sanctified to us by Prayer;

Vaani tephilla, Ego autem oratio. i.e. Vix orationis, & orationis deditus.

Filii pro infectis sunt.

so on the contrary without prayer all is cursed; you may rise early, and yet labour in vain, (Psal. 127. 1, 2.) and get riches, but they will prove snares unto you.

4. A. comfortless man. He hath no God to make his moan to in his troubles, and thence it is that wicked men though in prosperity they be very high, yet in adversity none so despondent and amort as they.

But a man of Prayer is still the same; in all his distresses he hath a God to go to, he hath hidden Manah which the world knows not off. By this he gets strength from God either to overcome the Tentaton, or to undergo it patiently; it either removes the affliction, or elle gets it sanctified. Prayer hath Virtutem pacativam, a settling and composing power; it stills the distempers of the soul, as sleep composeth the distempers of the body. Christ by Prayer overcame his agony, and cheerfully goes forth to meet even those that sought to crucifie him, Mat. 26. 44. 46.

Hannah that before was in bitterness of spirit, yet after she had been at prayer, her countenance was no more sad, 1 Sam. 1. 18. This made Luther call Prayer the Leeches of his cares, and Christ bids his Pray that their joy may be full, John 16. 24. As Moses when he came from the Mount, the people discerned that he had been with God; so a gracious soul never comes from God but he carries away somewhat of God with him. Prayer is a Catholicon, it is a Panacea, an universal remedy for every malady; if any be afflicted internally or externally, let him pray, James 5. 13. It is a special and eminent part of Gods Worship, in which we draw nigh to God, and he to us. By it we glorifie him in all his Attributes, in his Truth, Wisdom, Mercy, Omnipotence, Omniscience, Omnipresence, &c. Hence it is oft put for the whole

Worship of God Synecdochically, or Virtually containing much of Gods

Egressa fuit à Tabernaculo spes plena, & animo ad omnia perferenda alacri ac prompto; qui orationis fructus fuit præcipuus. Sanctus in 1 Sam.

Nunquam abs te absq; te recedo. Bern.

Domus orationis i. e. divini cultus, cuius precipua pars est oratio; à precibus enim omnis cultus incipiens. & concludendus. PARÆVS.

Worship in it. So Mat. 21. 13. My House shall be called the House of Prayer. Not that Prayer should juttle out other Ordinances (as some would have had it) but it is spoken by way of Eminency, because Prayer must accompany every Ordinance. So oft in Scripture calling on Gods name, is put for the whole Worship of God, Gen. 4. 26. Psal. 50. 15. Rom. 10. 12. This sets all our Graces on work, as Knowledge, Faith, Love, Patience. This sets the Crown on Gods head; as Joab when he had taken Rabbah sent for David to take the glory of it: so Prayer gives all the glory of what it hath or doth to God, and therefore it is that God loves to do such great things for his praying people; hence their Prayers are called Incense: there is no incense so pleasing to our smell, as the Prayers of the faithful are to God, Psal. 141. 2. and sweet odours, Rev. 5. 8. Infomuch that God even begs their Prayers, Cant. 2. 14. Let me hear thy voice, for it is sweet. This is a special preservative, 1. Against sin: we live in an infectious world, and we had need to Antidote our selves against sin by Prayer before we go forth of our doors. Watching and Prayer is a special preservative against the power of temptations, Mat. 26. 41. 2. It is a special help against the concomitants of sin. Many are the miseries that attend on sin as Sword, Plague, Famine: Prayer helps against them all, 1 Kings 8. 33. to 38. The Psalmist tells us of Travellers, Seamen, Sick men and Captives that cried to the Lord in their trouble, and he delivered them, Psal. 107.

This is } 1. A Sure Helper.
2. A Secret Helper.
3. A Speedy Helper.
4. A Strong Helper.

1. Prayer is a sure helper; a right qualified Prayer for for Man, Matter, Manner, never misseth; but ever obtains either the blessing prayed for, or some better thing. God alwayes answers his, ad Utilitatem, si non ad Voluntatem. e.g. David prays for the life of his child; God denies him in that thing, but gives him a Solomon, which was legitimate, and every way better for him. So Paul, he prays for deliverance from the messenger of Satan; God suffers the trial to abide, but gives him grace to improve it for good, which was better for him then if it had been removed. Though God be the principal Actor, yet Prayer is causa adjwans, (2 Cor. 1. 11.) you also helping me with your prayers, q. d. if you will but help me with your prayers; I doubt not of deliverance.

2. Its a secret helper. It secretly undetermines the plots, and reveals the projects of wicked men, and they know not who doth it. One while they curse such a man, and anon they curse such counsell, and such instruments, when it is the Prayers of Gods people that do them all the mischief. Dauids prayers turn Achitophels policy into folly, 1 Sam. 15. 31.

3. A speedy helper. It brings sudden deliverance. Hester doth but pray, and suddenly Haman comes down. This pierceth the Clouds and brings us present aid. Nehemiah, (chap. 2. 4.) he darts a prayer to heaven; and hath present help; God gave him favour in the sight of the King.

4. Tis a strong helper. Nothing like prayer for strength. As David said of Goliaths sword, there is none like that. Luther was wont to say, Est quaedam precum omnipotentia. Prayer hath a kind of omnipotent power. Like the Sword of Saul and the Bow of Jonathan which never returned empty from the battle, (2 Sam. 1. 22.) It binds God and holds his hands that he cannot destroy a people, hence the Lord intreats Moses to let him alone, Exod. 32. 10.

See how Prayer is an eightfold helper. In Mr. Green his Fast Sermon on Nehemiah 1. 3. p. 26, & 6. Preacht 1644.

Ferendi licentiam petit à Mose qui fecit Mosen.

and Labash, precationem, proprie significat mustitationem, & passim accipitur p o incantatione, Piscator.

and when the Lord would destroy a people, he forbids his servants praying for them, Jer. 7. 16. This commands the Commander of all things, (Isa. 45. 11.)
it is stronger then any charm, (Isa. 26. 16.) in their trouble they poured out a prayer, or made a soft muttering to thee; you need not go to charms in your troubles; prayer can do that which they cannot do. It is stronger then Iron: at the Prayers of the Church the Iron gates fly open, and Peters fetters fall off, Acts 12. 5, 6. The prayer of one Jacob is too strong for four hundred men that come against him, Gen. 32. 6. 9. & 33. 4. One Moses in the Mount praying is too strong for all the Armies in the Valley fighting. Jehosophat when surrounded with enemies, by prayer overcomes them. By this Hezekiah overthrew the great Army of Senacherib. By Prayer Asa with a few in comparison of those that came against him, overcame an army of a thousand thousand men, and three hundred Charets, 2 Chron.
14. 9, 10, 11. By this Theodosius overcame the potent Armies of his adversaries, and turned their darts upon their own heads.

Theodosius robustissimum*
exercitum magis orando quam feriendo vicit. Milites qui nobis aderant, re-tulerunt, extorta sibi esse de manibus quacunq; ja-culabantur, cum a Theodosii partibus in adversarios vehemens ventus irret, & non solum quacunq; in eos jaculabantur concitatissime raperet, verum etiam ipsorum tela in eorum corpora retorqueret. Unde Claudianus, quamvis a Christi nomine alienus, in ejus tamen laudibus dixit;

O nimium dilecte Deo, cui militat ether,
Et conjurati veniunt ad classica veni;
Aug. de Civit. Dei. lib. 5. cap. 26.

Prayers are Christianorum
bombardæ The Christians best Artillery. Luther.
Oratio justi clavus cali.
Aug.

The Queen of Scotland affirmed that she did more fear the prayers of Mr. Knox and his Assistants then an Army of ten thousand men. There are five Keys in the hand of God, and Prayer turns them all.

There is }
1. The Key of the Heart.
2. The Key of the Womb.
3. The Key of the Grave.
4. The Key of Heaven.
5. The Key of Hell.

i. There

1. There is the Key of the Heart, and Prayer turns this Key. Eſau came againſt Jacob with an intent to kill him, but God ſo changed his heart at the prayer of Jacob, that he fell upon his neck and kiſſed him.

2. The Key of the Womb. Hannah that was barren, prayed, and the Lord gave her a Samuel; and Manoah prayed, and had a Sampſon.

3. The Key of the Grave. Hezekiah prays and hath his life prolonged. The Prophet by Prayer raiſed the dead child, 2 Kings 4. 32. Jonah by prayer is raiſed out of the Whales belly, and Chriſt by prayer raiſeth Lazarus.

4. The Key of Heaven. Elias prayed and it rained; and again he prayed that it might not rain, and it did not rain; he could turn this Key which way he pleaſed by his prayers, James 5. 17, 18. So it is ſaid of Luther, the Elias of his time, Vir iſte po- teſt quod voluit. He could but aſk and have.

5. The Key of Hell. By prayer and faſting the Devil is caſt out, Mat. 17. 21. By Luthers prayers one was recovered who had given his ſoul to the Devil.

Nihil eſt homine probo oran- te potentius. Chryſoſtom.

Thus we have ſeen what great encouragement we have to Pray, and in all our ſtraits to cry, Arife O Lord and help us.

[If any would ſee more concerning the power of Prayer, let him peruſe Mr. Rob. Bolton his comfort- ing afflicted Conſciences, p. 6, 7. Dr. Harris Peters Enlargement. Dyke Righteous mans Tower, p. 77, &c. Mr. Ferd on Saints 5. 13, at the end of his Spirit of Bondage. p. 590. and for Prayer in General, Biſhops Andrews his Catechiſm, chap. 11. mibi p. 142. Perkins C. Conſc. 1. 2. c. 6. p. 63. ſolio. Dr. Preſtons ſaints daily exerciſe on 1 Theſ. 5. 17. Mr. Cobbet on Prayer. Taſtica Sacra 1. 3. c. 1. p. 241, &c. Ambroſe his Media. p. 305. D. Pet. Smith Faſt Sermon on Pſal. 107. 6. Preacht 1644. Dyke on Conſcience, chap. 4. p. 53. Capel on

The Beauty of Magistracy.

Tentation. l. 1. cap. 6. sect. 5. p. 92. Boltons Comfort to afflicted Consciences. P. 1. c. 4. p. 375. Fenners Practical Carechism. Barlow on Timothy, p. 47. Clerks Mirror. chap. 100.

Judge the earth.

Observation.

God is Judge of all the earth. All other Judges are but Substitutes and Surrogates to this Judge of Judges. They are confined to their Circuits, but all the world is his Circuit. Hence he is called the Judge of all the earth, Gen. 18. 25. Psal. 94. 2. Heb. 12. 23. A man may appeal from other Judges; Paul appealed from Felix to Cesar: but God is the Supream Judge, there is none higher then he, and so no appeals can be made from him, but all must end in him; and therefore the Saints when they could have no Justice on earth, have made their final Appeals to him who judgeth righteously. So did David, 1 Sam. 24. 13, 14. and Jeremiah (Chap. 18. 19. & 20. 12.) and Christ, 1 Pet. 2. 23. Take heed then of displeasing him who is King of Kings, and Judge of Judges. Men are carefull to get the favour of great men, (Prov. 29. 26.) but what will it avail us to have all the great ones of the world for us, if the great God be against us? chuse rather to displease all the world, then to displease him; and this concerns great ones; they must remember still that there is a greater then they to whom they must shortly give an account of their Stewardship, and at whose Bar they must stand to be judged themselves, who here have judged others, Rev. 6. 15. & 20. 12.

See more in my Comment. on 2 Tim. 4. 1. p. 313. & 321.

Thou shalt inherit all Nations.

Observation.

All Nations are the Lrd Inheritance, or, The Lord is the sole possessor of all the world, Deut. 10. 14. Job 41. 11. P^s. l. 24. 1, 2. the earth is the Lords and the fulness thereof, he alone is the true Proprietary of it. This is his universal Kingdom by right of Creation and Preservation. God hath a special interest in all people. The rich and the poor meet together, and the Lord is the maker and great Protector of both, Job 34. 19. Prov. 22. 2.

1. Let us then adore and reverence the Transcendent Majesty of the great God; if a man be King of one Kingdom, we stand in awe of him and reverence him as some great man, and shall not we reverence the great God who is the King of the Kingdoms of the world? whom will we fear if we do not fear him?

2. Let great ones remember from whom they have their power, riches, Kingdoms & greatness; even from this great Possessor of heaven and earth. Let them improve their power to his praise; else he that raised them can ruine them, and he that gives them Kingdoms can take them away, Job 12. 17, 18. & 34. 24. Dan. 2. 21. Let them not abuse their power in oppressing the poor, since as good hands have made the one as the other. All Nations are Gods Inheritance and the poor are a part of it as well as the rich. Let them assure themselves that God will not suffer wrongs that are done to them to pass unpunisht, because such as wrong them, wrong a part of his Inheritance.

3. It may comfort such as are banisht from their habitations for the Testimony of Christ and the profession of his truth: you cannot want though you have lost a.l: for the earth is the Lords and the fulness thereof. He is the possessor of all the world, he

Men are Gods, OR THE DIGNITY OF MAGISTRACY, and the DUTY of the
MAGISTRATE:

As it was presented in a Sermon
At the Assize holden at Hertford for that County, on August 2. 1653.

By George Swinnocke M. A. and Preacher of the Gospel at Rickmersworth in Hertfordshire.

Exod. 22. 28.

Thou shalt not revile the Gods; nor curse the Ruler of thy people.

Rom. 13. 1.

Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers: for there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordained of God.

LONDON,

Printed by R. W. for Nevil Simmons, Bookseller in Kedermister; 1660.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

LABORATORY OF ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

RECORD BOOK

NO. 1000

DATE

NAME

ADDRESS

CITY

STATE

COUNTRY

TELEPHONE

POSTAL CODE

STREET

CITY

STATE

COUNTRY

Ornatissimis nec non pietissimis Viris,

EDVARDO IRONSIDE

ET

JOHANNI HUMPHRYS

ARMIGERIS:

Hanc suam qualem qualem concionem, Apud judices olim habitam, & jam (paulo correctiorem, multo auctiorem) in lucem editam,

In perpetuum grati animi monumentum,

D. D. D.

Georgius Swinnocke.

THE HISTORY OF THE

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

of the

To his Reverend Friend Mr. Thomas Hall, B. D. Pastor of Kings-Norton in Worcestershire.

Esteemed Sir,

L Have now at last, in answer to your desires, and in pursuance of my promise, sent you my Meditations on the 6th verse of the 82. Psalme. Indeed soon after the Sermon was preached, I was sought to, that it might be printed; But I was then scarce fled (not having in years equald the dayes of the shortest month) and so unwilling to venture a flight into the world, lest I should fall. And truly my Apology still must be with-

Hiero. in proæ. ad Obad.

the good Father (when the fruits of his youth were stoln to the Press) Infans eram, nec dum scribere norveram; Nunc, ut nihil aliud profecerim, saltem Socraticum illud habeo, Scio quod nescio. Such as it is, I commend it to you; and the more chearfully, because its younger brother, which two or three years since, supplanted it, and got away the birthright, did meet with a blessing. The good Lord make it instrumental (in these unhappy and unholy dayes, wherein Moses and Aaron, Magistracy and Ministry are trampled under foot) for the glory of his Name, and the good of his people. So prayeth he who never saw you, yet loveth and honoureth you, and desireth to be frequently and fervently remembered by you at the throne of grace,

George Swinnocke.

To

TO THE
R E A D E R.

TN my Exposition of the 82. Psalm, when I came to the 7th Verse, I perused a Sermon of my Brother Swinnocks (which he preached before the Judges) on that Verse. I found it so full and satisfactory, that I must freely confess I received more Light from that single Sermon, then from all the Commentators which I had by me. Whereupon (perceiving by his Epistle Dedicatory that he had preacht an Assise Sermon on Verse the sixth, which lay by him Unprinted) I requested him to publish it with my Commentary on this Psalm; and thou hast it here annexed to it. The Author and his Labours are above my praise; If thou please to accept of these our fraternal first-fruits (if the Lord bless us with life and health together) thou mayest expect ere long from us a Commentary on Psalm 73. a Psalm very seasonable for us in these times, who are exercised with such variety of Providences. It were to be wisht that the Ministers of the Gospel would joyn their strength in the promoting the truth: Jesuites can do so to destroy it, why should not we in defending it? That it may be so, is the desire, and shall be the endeavour of Thine in the Lord,

Thomas Hall.

Errata.

PAge 232. line 19. for to render evil for good is God-like. read, to render good for evil is God-like. p. 238. l. 9. for are the sons of God by nature and office, r. are the sons of God by name and office.

This sheet must be placed by the Book-binder after page 188.

THE Dignity of MAGISTRACY,
AND THE Duty of the MAGISTRATE.

PSALM. 82. 6, 7.

I have said ye are Gods, and all of you are Children of the Most High.

But ye shall die like men, and fall like one of the Princes.

THE Book of Psalms may not unfitly be called The Analogy of Faith, the Directory for Practice, the Epitome of Scripture, the Plat-form for Prayer: It is abbreviated in two words, * Hosanna, † All-lujah. Prayer and Praise being the sum and Subtance of the whole Book.

* Hosanna signifieth Save I pray thee, or preserve I beseech thee.

† All-lujah, Praise ye the Lord.

It is a throng of holy affections (saith one) each passion acting a part, wound up to the highest strain by the Spirit of God, breathing Poetical eloquence into the heavenly Prophet.

This 82. Psalme containeth a reprehension of Princes, for their oppression of the people, and it is propounded partly by way of Objurgation, partly by way of Affirmation.

The Text presenteth us with a Concession of the Magistrates Allegation for their illegal proceedings. They argued that because they were Gods, they might tyrannize over men; That the stamp of a Deity on them would make them currant coin, though they were never so light. The Holy Ghost granteth them to be Gods, but denyeth the consequence, that therefore they may live as they list, and rule according to their lusts, or do the work of the Devil: For though they are Gods in respect of their Places, and Power, yet they are Men in respect of their frailty, and nature. They must die like men, and fall like one of the Princes.

The 6. verse cloatheth men with Majesty; I have said ye are Gods, &c.

The 7. verse cloatheth Gods with Mortality: But ye shall die like men; They are Gods, $\chi\rho\iota\ \tau\eta\nu\ \delta\epsilon\alpha\kappa\omicron\nu\iota\alpha\nu$; that is, in their Politick capacity in regard of their power and rule; but they are not so $\kappa\alpha\tau\grave{\alpha}\ \tau\eta\nu\ \epsilon\sigma\tau\alpha\varsigma$, in their Physical capacity, and in regard of their nature and essence.

Though ye are now above others, yet shortly ye shall be laid as low as others; and then ye shall both answer, and suffer for wronging of others: The height of your places will not excuse the wickedness of your practices: for though ye are high, yet there is one higher then the highest of you, to whom you must give an account of all your injustice and oppression.

We see then that the sixth verse containeth a Concession of the Magistrates power, how it is by divine appointment and institution.

In it we may take notice; First, of the Magistrates Honour; Ye are Gods, and children of the most High. Secondly, The Author of it. I have said it.

Or the Text presenteth us, 1. With the Magistrates

Com-

E
go Dixi Concessio est, qua tamen ostendit Prophetam, ni-hil perverfis Judicibus praesidii fore in facta personarum quam illis Deus imposuit.
 Calv. in loc.

Commission; Ye are Gods, and children of the most High. 2. Its Seal or Confirmation; I have said. The Commission for Magistracy is here confirmed under the broad Seal of Heaven.

I, i. e. I that am the Lord of Lords, and King of Kings, the mighty possessor of Heaven and Earth; I that am Commander in Chief of the whole world, and have power to appoint whom I please to be my Vicegerents, do call and constitute you to be my Deputy-Lieutenants on earth. I whose word is sufficient warrant for any Office, or Ordinance; I have said ye are Gods.

The Meaning of the words.

Have said. How God speaketh, is a point almost unspeakable. God speaketh or saith as well as man, but not after the same manner; he doth not form a voyce by such organs or instruments of speech. But when God speaketh, He doth either create a voyce in the air, as Matth. 3. 17. or declare and make known his mind, sometimes secretly and immediately to the spirits of the Prophets; so that phrase The word of the Lord came unto me, so frequently used in Scripture, is to be understood; sometimes publicly and mediately by the Prophets to the people.

So then, I have said, that is, I have in my Word manifested this to be my will; That ye should be Gods amongst men, Exod. 21. 28. I that speak, and none may (or who dareth) disannul it: I who said Let there be light, and there was light; I who appointed the Sun to rule the day, the Moon and the Stars to rule the night; I have said, Be ye Gods, and ye shall be Gods. I have appointed you in power and dignity to excel others, and to rule over them on earth, as the greater Luminaries do the lesser in the Heavens.

Ye are Gods. That is, in my place and stead amongst men. To receive honour from them both of reverence and obedience; To distribute justice amongst.

amongst them both zealously and impartially. To be terrours to evil doers, and encouragements to them that do well; To govern from love to my Name, according to the rule of my Law, for my honour and praise; as likewise the good and profit of the people.

The word God is taken diversly in Scripture,

1. Properly, and so it is given only to him who is Essentially and by Nature God. Who is an Infinite being of himself, and from whom all others have their being. And in this sense it is mentioned sometimes Generally without any Limitation, to a certain person, as Heb. 12. ult. John 4. 24. sometimes Singularly with a Determination to one person, as to the Father, John 3. 16. to the Son, Rom. 9. 5. 1 Tim. 3. 16. to the Holy Ghost, 1 Cor. 3. 16, 17.

2. Improperly, and so it is given to them, who by nature are not Gods. As,

1. To the Devil in regard of his unjust usurpation, and wicked mens corruption, 2 Cor. 4. 4. He is called, The God of this world: He usurperth the honour and Sovereignty of God, Matth. 4. 9. and the wicked world obeyeth him, as if he were a God, John 8. 44. The God he is, not of the world simply, but of this world, of this sinful world that lyeth in wickedness, 1 John 5. 19.

2. To Idols in regard of the false perswasion of degenerate man, 1 Cor. 8. 4, 5. There are Gods many, and Lords many; that is, in their conceits, who were Heathen (They worshipped stocks and stones, any thing yea almost all things) though an Idol be nothing in the judgement of a Christian; It is nothing saith the Apostle, i. e. formally, the thing signified is nothing, yet materially it is something, as made of wood, or brass, or the like.

3. To Magistrates, Exod. 4. 16. who have their Commission from God, Rom. 13. who do the work of God, 2 Cor. 13. Rom. 3. 4. who ought to do all for God, 2 Chron. 19. 6.

And

Celestes, Aerii, Terrestris, Manni dii. As many Gods as creatures almost amongst the Heathen.

And all of you are children of the most High. It was no wonder that they were called Gods: for here they are the children of the most High: Now children are called after their Fathers Name.

This term Son of God, or child of the most High is attributed

And ye all sons of the most High Ain v. leg.

1. To Christ, because of his Eternal Generation, Psl. 2. 7. He is the only begotten of the Father, John 3. 16.

2. To Angels, both Because of their practice; they serve God, not as slaves a Master; but as children a Father, chearfully, heartily, with filial alacrity and delight. And because of their priviledge; God useth them not as slaves, but sons. They are near him alwayes, beholding the face of their Father; Matth. 18. 10.

3. To men, and that in regard of the purity and holiness in them, they resemble God as a child his Father; or in regard of the grace and favour God bestoweth on them; in these respects all believers are the children of God: Or in regard of their power and greatness; they are priviledged to be higher then others in place, as sons are before and above servants. And they are like him in their Dignity and Authority; so Magistrates. The Chaldee paraphraseth, As the Angels of the high God; because Magistrates should be like Angels for wisdom, 2 Sam. 14. 24.

Ain v. in lo. 2. 28. 10. 1

The words being thus opened, will yeeld us this Doctrine.

Doctrine.

That the God of Heaven hath appointed Magistrates to be Gods on earth.

He is God by Nature, and he hath given them to be Gods by Name. The Deity was by Incarnation clothed with the Humane Nature; and Humanity is here by Gods designation clothed with the divine name, I will praise thee before the Gods, saith

Cc David,

The Dignity of Magistracy,

David, Psal. 83. 1. that is, The tune of my heart shall be high in singing thy praise, even before them that are by thy command highest in place.

The Sun in the higher world shineth most gloriously, yet he communicateth some of his light to the Moon, whereby she surpasseth (and is as Queen among) the glittering Stars: So God the true Sun is infinitely above all; he shineth eminently with his own native light and lustre; yet he bestoweth of his beauty and brightness on some men, whereby they excel and are above others in this lower world.

For the Explication of this truth, I shall only shew in what respects Magistrates are called Gods, and then proceed to Application.

Magistrates are in a two-fold respect called Gods.

1. In respect of their honourable dignity.
2. In respect of their answerable Duty.

It speaketh that their priviledge is high, and that their practices should be holy.

1. In respect of their Dignity, God speaketh the nature of Magistracy to be honourable by the names which he giveth to the Magistrate. Government is not a mean employment, but a great preferment. Magistracy is here by God himself invested with Majesty.

It is observable that God ascribeth to Magistrates the most honourable names among men. Great men, 2 Sam. 3. 38. Nobles, 2 Chron. 23. & 30. Princes, Psal. 83. 11. Kings, his Kings, Psal. 18. ult. Fathers, 1 Sam. 29. 11. Chief of the people, Judg. 20. 2. Heads over the people, Exod. 18. 25. Dignities, Glories, Jude v. 8. The Ancients of the people, Isai. 3. 12. not only because aged persons were ordinarily elected; for with the ancient is wisdom, and in length of dayes understanding, Job 12. 12. but also because aged persons are honourable persons.

Ceterum hic nomen sicut paulo post, & aliis locis pro judicibus sumitur, quibus specialem gloriae notam insculpsit Deus, Calv. in Psal. 82. 1.

Magnifica existimatio, Honor, Gloria. Eras.

Maxima debetur capiti, &c.

persons. Men are commanded to bow down before the hoary head, and reverence the Ancient, Levit. 19. 32.

Nay, God giveth Magistrates not only those names which are in most esteem amongst men; but the names of Angels.

Angels are the perfection, as it were, of the Creation, the top-stone of this glorious building. When the Spirit of God would speak a thing, or person to be excellent, it doth resemble them to Angels. My Lord is wise as an Angel of God, 2. Sam. 14. 20. And Acts 6. 15. They beheld his face as if it had been the face of an Angel. Farther the great happiness of holy ones in heaven is set forth by their likeness to Angels; They shall be as Angels, Matth. 22. & 30. Now what glorious persons then are Magistrates, that have the names of Angels given them; Angels are called Dominions, Principalities, Powers, Col. 1. 16. Ephes. 1. 21. So are Magistrates, Jude v. 8. Titus 3. 1. Be subject to Principalities and Powers; But the Text speaketh more of their dignity. Magistrates have not only the highest names of the most honourable visible creatures, Men; and of the most honourable invisible creatures, Angels; but of the Creatour, of God himself, the Fountain and Standard of all Dignity and Honour; I have said ye are Gods. When Jacob would manifest to Josephs children the extraordinary respect he had for their father, he doth it thus; My Name be named on them, and the Names of my Father Abraham and Isaac, Gen. 48. 16. It is a great honour to be called the servant of God. Paul gloried in this, Titus 1. 1. So did David, more in being a subject to God, then a King over men, Psal. 36. Title. It is a greater honour and favour to be called Gods son, Jeb. 1. 12. 1 Job. 3. 1. Is it a mean thing, saith David, to be the Kings Son in law? 1 Sam. 18. 23. Magistrates are children of the most High, they are sons to the King of Kings. But the greatest honour of all is to be called Gods; for God to say My name be named on them, This is the highest name that can be given; Here is a ne plus ultra. This is the highest Name which is above all names, and as the Diamond to the Ring, addeth both vertue and value to whatsoever it is affixed.

* It is ordinary in the Hebrew to adde the name of God to a thing to heighten the excellency of it. A man of God is as much as an extraordinary man, an excellent man. It is said of the Church compared to a Vine, She sent forth her branches as goodly Cedars, Psal. 80. 10. so we read it Cedars; and so in many other places, because all the creature excellencies are derived from him, and are but a drop, a beam, a print of that Glory and Majesty which is in him:

As because Gold is the most precious excellent metal, therefore we lay gold over other things; we guild penter, brass, yea silver it self. So because God is the most excellent name, it is laid to other things, that thereby their worth may be set forth: As the Sons of God, Job 1. 6. The City of God, Psal. 46. 4. The River of God, Psal. 65. 9. The Kingdom of God.*

Dii per analogiam tanquam Deum imitantes.
Theodor.

This is a godlike prerogative. God is clothed with Majesty and honour, Psal. 104. 1. The blessed and only Potentate, to whom all people must pay this tribute. In this the Gods on earth resemble him.

Now in their dignity Magistrates resemble God in these two or three particulars, and therefore are fitly called Gods.

First in receiving honour from others. Honour accompanyeth power as the shadow the body. There is naturally in man an awe and respect towards those that are Magistrates: They are the Fathers of their Countrey, and their subjects like children owe them both obedience and reverence. Divine worship is to be given only to God in heaven, but civil worship may be given to Gods on earth. David speaketh of himself being a King, His glory is great in thy salvation, Honour and Majesty hast thou put upon him, Psal. 21. 5.

Joseph when advanced to be a Ruler in Egypt, rideth in the second Chariot, and hath one crying befor him, Bow the knee. The most high God that giveth them Kingdoms, doth also give them Glory and and Majesty, and honour, Dan. 5. 28, 29. God indeed hath the greatest honour as the Supreme Governour and Law-giver, but Magistrates receive it upon his account, as they are his Representatives and Vicegerents. When I went out to the gate, saith Job 29. 7, 8. Job suis Rom. Job, (that is, to the place of administering justice, for that work was done in the gates, as Ruth 4. 1. Job 5. 4. Psal. 127. 5.) the young men saw me, and hid themselves, and the aged arose and stood up, the Princes refrained talking, and they laid their hands on their mouths, Job 29. 8, 9.

My son, saith Solomon, fear thou the Lord and the King, Prov. 24. 21. God is the proper object of fear; hence the Greeks call him fear; but the Gods because invested with his authority, and intrusted with the administration of his Kingdom upon earth, are also to be feared as Superiour to us, though inferior to God. Θεός quasi Δεός.

Secondly, their dignity appeareth (and in this they resemble God also) in giving Laws to others. Magistrates have power to enact laws for the encouraging of vertue, and discouraging of vice, for the preservation of peace among their people. Zanchy saith There are three offices of the Magistrate, whereof one is to ordain laws for the worship of God, and the welfare of men.

This is a Godlike privilege, Isa 33. 21. to make laws for men, to prescribe what creatures shall do; and what they shall forbear. Zanch. de Magistrat.

There is indeed one Supreme and absolute Law-giver, James 4. 12. whose will and word must be the rule of others laws. Besides in spirituals, none can give laws to bind the conscience but God, Isa. 33. 21. In that sense, The Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Law-giver; but in external policy the Laws of men are to be observed. And they have power to make such laws as are suitable unto; and convenient for the wealth and safety of their Dominions.

The end of Magistracy sheweth their legislative authority; for neither will piety be promoted, nor the publike good procured, or peace preserved without it. And questionless God would never have enjoyned Subjects to obey, if Magistrates had not power to command.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

That Commonwealth only can be safe where the people obey the Magistrate, and the Magistrate the Law. Solon.

Laws are the walls and Bulwarks of a Nation, which in a great part may secure it against invasions from abroad, and insurrections at home. The standing Militia which protecteth the lives of the people. The hedge which keeps men in from oppressing their neighbours. The deeds and evidences which give us a right and title to our estates. They are the nerves and sinews of the Body Politick, or as Physick to the natural body, to prevent diseases and purge out ill humours.

Man is by nature an untamed Heifer, loathing the yoke of subjection, prone to rage and rebel; so that he needeth all means imaginable to rule and restrain him. The wise Governour of all things hath therefore thought fit not only to give Christians a natural law and moral law from himself, but also positive laws from men, that this threefold cord which is not easily broken may bind him fast. And this surely speaketh Magistrates to be like God; for even the Heathen themselves would ascribe their laws to some one of their Gods. Zoroastres who gave laws to the Persians, ascribed them to Oromazen. Trismegistus among the Aegyptia ascribed his Laws to Mercurius; Lycurgus, who gave laws to the Lacedemonians, would make Apollo the Author of them. Solon and Draco among the Athenians, said that Minerva was their Law-giver. So almost in every Nation they who had the Legislative Power, ascribed the invention of their laws to their false gods. But the Word of God which is a perfect rule for all men, doth impower Magistrates to make laws (not according to their lusts, but) agreeable to his revealed will.

Thirdly,

Thirdly, The dignity of Magistracy (wherein they likewise are like to God) consisteth in their executing the Law. In punishing the nocent and acquitting the innocent. Execution is the life of the Law; the lustre and glory of the Prince, the security of the good people. A Law unexecuted is like a sword without an edge for no use or service. And a Magistrate that neglecteth his duty herein, is like a Winters Sun, glorious for Majesty, but yielding no warming or refreshing influences to them that are under him; or like the Kings head on a sign-post only for shew.

The God of heaven doth not cast away the perfect man, nor help the evil-doer, Job 8. 20. He be- holdeth the righteous with favour, he woundeth the heads of sinners, Psal. 68. 21. He cutteth off the workers of iniquity: He killeth and maketh alive, with him is the fountain of life, Psal. 39. 9. as waters flow from a Fountain, so doth life from God. And he can easily slay men, Job 4. 9. By the blast of God they perish. To save and kill is a God-like priviledge: The power of life and death is in the hands of these earthly Gods: they enliven with their smiles; their favour or the light of a Kings countenance is life; they kill with their frowns; The wrath of a King is the messenger of death, Prov. 16. 14, 15. Herein their dignity and civil God-ship appeareth that they can give (by reprieve or pardon) or take away a life which is forfeited to the Law. Casars speech was high (when he was opposed by Metellus in his taking away the mony out of the Romane Treasury) Let me alone, or I will kill thee presently; and then to qualifie his threat, and magnifie his strength, he told him, Young man, thou knowest it is harder for me to speak it, then to do it. But this is certain, Rulers are not for nothing called Powers, Tit. 3. 1. It is in their power (though not to Tyrannize at their pleasure, yet) to execute the Laws even to the death of the offender.

Three uses of the civil sword. 1. Ad vindictam. 2. Ad protectionem bonorum. 3. Ad executionem justitie. Willct. in Rom. 13.

Plut. in vit. Cæs.

2. Ma-

Magistratus dñi vocantur quia sunt vicarii dei in administrando jure, exe-querenda iustitia, iudicando bo-nos, puniendo malos. Pe-lan, Syntag lib. 7. cap. 19.

2. Magistrates are called Gods not only in regard of their dignity, but also in regard of their duty. They ought to resemble God in their execution of Justice amongst men; God administreth Justice impartially, and so should the Gods.

The Judge of all the earth doth right, and the Judges that are on the earth should do right. God doth judge the world in righteousness, and ministreth judgement to the poor in uprightness, Psal. 9. 8. And they who rule over men, must be just, ruling in the fear of God, 2 Sam. 23. 3.

Justice and Judgement are the habitation of Gods Throne, Psal. 89. 14. The holy Ghost alludeth to the Thrones of earthly Princes, which were underpropped with Pillars (as Solomons Throne with Lions, 1 Kings 19, 20.) that were both a support and an ornament to it. Now saith the Psalmist, Justice and Judgement are the Pillars upon which Gods Throne standeth, or (as Calvin expoundeth it) the Robe and Diadem, the Purple and Scepter, the Regalia with which Gods Throne is adorned. Thus Magistrates ought to make good their pattern, and to take heed what they do, because they judge not for man, but for the Lord who is with them in the Judgement, 2 Chron. 19. 6. Magistrates are therefore called Gods, because they should (as God doth) do impartial justice without respect of persons, protecting the godly, as being the Ministers of God for their good, Rom. 13. 4. and punishing the wicked which are malignant enemies to God and them.

Now the impartiality of the Gods (as of God) in executing justice appeareth in these three particulars.

First in not favouring any for their nearness: Magistrates must imitate God in this, who is no respecter of persons, but judgeth every man according to his works, 1 Pet. 1. 17. Though Coniah be to me, saith God

Propheta ad regum insignia vel pompas alludens, dicit iudicium & iustitiam esse sulturam solii ejus, ac si diceret loco sceptri, vel pur-pure vel diadematis, his in signibus ornari deum quò justus, & equus mundi ju-dex.

Calvin in loc.

Large Annot. in Exod.
22. 28.

God as the Signet on my right hand, yet I will pluck him thence, Jer. 22. 24. That is, though he were as near and dear to me as a Kings sealing-ring which is most carefully kept and tenderly preserved, worn commonly, yea continually on some finger, yet I would do justice in plucking him off and casting him from me. Nay when Gods own Son (who was the Son of his infinite love and choicest delight) became liable to the lash of the Law, as being a sinner by imputation, God would not spare him in the least, but made him bear the curse of the Law, Rom. 8. 32. Zalcucus the Law-giver having enacted that every person guilty of adultery should lose both his eyes, did yet when his own Son was found guilty of that fault, put out one of his own eyes and one of his Sons. But the great God was more just when his Son was a Surety for sinners, he caused him to pay the utmost farthing, he suffered the law to have its full stroak at him. O how just was God that rather then violate the least Tittle of his Law, would sign a warrant with his own hand and confirm the Commission with his own Seal for his dearest Sons execution!

Etiamsi fuisset Jeconiah mihi ch. v. s. s. m. quem semper in oculis ferrem. Jun. in loc.

Thus should Magistrates hear and determine without any respect to friends or relations, Prov. 24. 23. To have respect of persons is not good, yea it is very evil. Magistrates must hear the cause, not the person; and mind, not the man, but the matter which is brought before them.

Prosopolepsis dicitur, si quis paribus imparia, vel imparibus paria tribuat. Coc.

David was faulty (and he smarted sharply for it) in sparing Amnon guilty of Incest, and Absolom guilty of Murder; because they were his Sons. But Levi did nobly who said to his Father and to his Mother, I have not seen him, neither did he acknowledge his brethren, nor knew his own children, Deut. 33. 9.

Pompey aspiring to the Roman Empire, and perceiving that Cato was against him, sent his friend Plutarch. in Vit. Cat. Nic.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Minucius to Cato to demand his two Nieces; One for himself, the other for his Son. But when the Messenger had delivered his errand, Cato gave him this Answer; Go tell Pompey, Cato is not to be won by women; as long as Pompey shall deal uprightly, I shall be his friend, and in a greater degree than any marriage can ever make me. Surely this Moralist will condemn many Christian Rulers, of whom it is said, that the Sun might as soon be hindered from running his race as he from doing what was just and upright.

God will not upon any pretence whatsoever have his own person accepted, Job 13. 8. much less the persons of men.

Secondly, In not sparing or fearing any for their greatness. Rulers ought to be men of courage, Exod 18. 21. The fear of man bringeth a snare, Proy. 29. 25. and is often the cause why justice is perverted: Pilate feared Cesar, John 19. 12, 13. and therefore against his conscience condemned Christ. The great God of heaven feareth none, spareth none for their glory or greatness. He putteth the mighty out of their Seats, Luke 1. 52. He bindeth Kings in chains, and Princes in Fetters of Iron, Psal. 149. 8. The day of the Lord shall be upon all the Cedars of Lebanon that are high and lifted up, and upon all the Oaks of Bashan, and upon all the high Mountains, and upon every high Tower, and upon every fenced Wall, Isa. 2. 12, 13, 14. He is the Almighty, Allpowerfull God, and therefore cares not for any might or power of man.

Thus the Gods on earth should do justice on all, great as well as small, fearing none but the God of heaven, Dent. 1. 17. you shall not be afraid of the face of man, for the judgement is Gods. Papinianus is worthy of eternal memory, who chose rather to die than to justifie or excuse the fratricide of B. Ssianus the Emperour. Holy Job as he was eminent nent for fearing God, so likewise for not fearing men, Job 29. 17. I brake the jaw of the wicked and pulled the spoil out of his teeth. Great men oftentimes are like Lions, or ravenous Beasts, that prey on others without fear or pity. Now the care of this pious Magistrate was to secure his people against such oppressors.

When David kept his Fathers sheep, and there came a Lion and a Bear, and took a Lamb out of the flock, David rose after the Lion and smote him, and took the Lamb out of his mouth, 1 Sam. 17. 34. Every Magistrate is or should be a Shepherd. God saith of Cyrus, He is my Shepherd, Isa. 44. ult. The man after Gods own heart was called to feed his people Israel, Psal. 78. 70, 71. Homer calleth Agamemnon ποιμὴν λαῶν, the shepherd or the feeder of the people. And when Lions or Bears (men that are great and strong) come to devour their flock, they ought to protect or defend them. He is a base hireling that hides his head when the Wolf cometh in the night, though he endeavour to preserve his sheep from injury by the flies in the day. For one Wolf will do more mischief in a night than a thousand flies in a year. As the day of judgement will make no difference between great and small, rich and poor, noble and ignoble; for then the Kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief Captains and the mighty men will hide themselves in the dens, and in the rocks of the Mountains, and will say to the Mountains and rocks, Fall on us and hide us from the wrath of the Lamb, Rev. 6. 15, 16. so should not the day of executing justice in this world*.

* Of Trajan the Emperour it is said that he neither feared nor hated any man, but that he heard the causes of his subjects without prejudicate impiety, examined them without sinister ob-liquity, and judged them without unjust partiality.

The impartiality of God, and also of the Gods, consisteth in not taking gifts. God is no taker of gifts, 2 Chron. 19. 7. Riches prevail not in the day of wrath, Prov. 11. 4. Neither silver nor gold can deliver them from his indignation, Zeph. 1. 18.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Thus should Magistrates resemble his Majesty, not perverting justice either for having, or for hope of a reward. A bribe received or expected clogs or obscures the course of Justice. A golden pen must not write the discharge: when the hand of a Judge is greased with gold, it cannot hold the sword of justice, but will let it slip, at least strike very partially.

Thou shalt not wrest judgement, thou shalt not respect persons, neither take a gift; for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the righteous, Deut. 16. 19.

The Roman story telleth us of two persons that were Competitors for some place of preferment, and that a Senator being asked, for which of the two he would give his voice, answered, For neither, because saith he, One hath nothing, and the other hath never enough. He knew that poverty and covetousness are both unmeet qualifications for a Ruler. The former maketh Magistracy obnoxious to contempt and derision, and the latter prompteth the Magistrate on to injustice and oppression.

A Ruler that is a bribe-taker is a Thief in Robes, and is only differenced from those that are in rags, by this, that the height of his place doth increase his sin and aggravate his condemnation.

I come now from the Explication to the Application of the doctrine.

This truth will be usefull, First by way of Information. If the God of heaven hath appointed Magistrates to be Gods on earth: it informeth us that Magistracy is of divine Authority: Government is not an invention of some men, who desire to Lord it over others; but it is the Institution of God. I have said ye are Gods. The Schollars of Pythagoras counted his Ipse dixit to be sufficient. Surely then Gods saying it must be an establishing it to us. If where the word of a King is, there be power, Eccl. 8. 4.
then

Privati sues in compedibus atatem agunt, publici vero in auro & purpura visuntur. Cat.

Omnis potestas à summa potestate.

then questionless where the word of a God is, there is warrant enough for any Office. Now this is the Word of God which cometh to the Magistrate, as Christ saith, John 10. 35. authorizing him and appointing him to that Ordinance. The Magistrate is therefore called the Minister of God, Rom. 13. 4. As Justices are called the Kings Justices, because they act by Commission from him: so Magistrates are called the Lords Ministers, because they rule by authority derived from the Lord. Coin is carryed to the Mint, and there stamped with the Supercription and Image of the chief Magistrate, and then called his Coin, because currant by his authority.

Non de quolibet verbo Dei sed de speciali dominandi mandato. Calv.

Governours are not of the Devil, as Satanical spirits have affirmed, nor of men, as others have asserted; but of God, Rom. 13. 1.

As in the waters there be some greater, some smaller fish; and in the earth there be Mountains and Hills as well as Plains and Valleys; and in the Heavens there are Stars differing from each other in glory; so amongst men there are some greater then others in power, higher in place, and excelling them in authority and glory.

As the natural body is distinguished by God himself into comely and uncomely parts, 1 Cor. 12. 23, 24. so is the Political body into members Noble and Ignoble.

The Bees in their Common-wealth (as is reported) have a Commander in chief, a Master Bee. The Lyon claimeth a command and superiority among the Beasts of the field. The Angels in heaven have a chief, Michael the Archangel, Jude 9. 1 Thes. 4. 16. The School-men indeed being more bold then they ought, do divide the Angels into three Hierarchies, and each Hierarchie into three several orders. The first Hierarchie they say comprehendeth Cherubims, Seraphims, and Thrones: The second, Dominions, Principalities, and Powers. The third,

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Mights, Archangels, and Angels: As also they assert the reason of these several names. But the more modest and learned Expositors who joyn not in the aforesaid presumptuous division, do yet generally conclude an order, distinction, and preheminance amongst Angels, from Ephes. 1. 21. Col. 1. 16. Dan. 10. 13. Nay, there is a government amongst the very Devils; there is not only a Prince of Angels, Dan. 10. but Beelzebub a Prince amongst Devils, Matth. 12. 24. They that cause so much disorder amongst others, yet have some order among themselves. We read of the Devil and his Angels, Matth. 25. 41. There is a kind of government in Hell, though some would turn all out of the earth.

The Apostle Peter indeed calleth Magistracy an ordinance of man, 1 Pet. 2. 13. though Paul assureth us it is of God; The Powers that be are ordained of God, Rom. 13. 1. And the Magistrate is the Minister of God, vers. 4.

Magistracy is an ordinance of man in a fourfold respect.

1. Subjective. As man is the subject thereof, by them it is executed. Our Princes as well as our Prophets are men of like passions with us.

2. Objective. As man is the object thereof, about them it is exercised. It is for the punishment of bad men; and encouragement of good men, for the deciding differences between man and man.

3. Terminis, Finaliter. As man is the end thereof. He is the Minister of God for mans good.

But these things will not prove Magistracy to be a meer humane Ordinance; for in these three respects the Ministry as well as the Magistracy may be said to be an humane Ordinance; Man being both the subject, object, and end thereof; yet what sober man ever denied the ministry to be an Ordinance of God?

4. It is Ordinance of man in regard of the kind of it: Each Nation having a liberty to choose what form of Government they apprehend most commodious for them. Magistracy is Ordained by God, though this particular Magistrate, or this form of Government be appointed by man. The Genus of Magistracy is from God; yet the Species, whether Monarchy, Democracy, or Aristocracy may be at the choice of men.

Further, though the Magistrate should be of the Devil, a wicked ungodly person; yet the Magistracy is of God.

There is a difference between the Office or Power it self, and the manner of exercising it, and the means of attaining it: The first is alwayes of God, but not alwayes the second and third. The power of Nero was of God, (as the Holy Ghost speaketh fully, Rom. 13.) though he exercised it in a Devilish manner, oppressing and killing the good, encouraging and acquitting such as were evil. The power of our Richard the third was of God, though he attained it by ungodly and devilish means, the murdering his own Sovereign and Nephew.

There are four particulars which will clearly demonstrate the truth of this assertion, namely, That Magistracy is of Divine Authority.

First, Their Commission is from God. By me Ex de Διδ; βασιλῆς.
Kings Rule, saith God, Prov. 8. 15. Subordinate Hef.
 Magistrates may have their Commission from men; but Supreme Magistrates have their Commissions from God only.

The Powers that be, are ordained of God, Rom. 13. 1.
 not simply ordained of God as other things, saith a will et in locum.
 learned Interpreter; but specially by precept and command from God. There are other things of Cujus jussu homines, ejus God (saith he) as Famine, War, Sicknes, Poverty; jussu reges. Ireneus lib. 5.
 but they are not ordained by Precept. cap. 24.

Daniel telleth Nebuchadnezzar, that God had comcommissionated him to rule over men, Dan. 2. 37. 38. Thou O King art a King of Kings; for the God of Heaven hath given thee a Kingdom, power, and strength, and glory. And wheresoever the children of men as well, the beasts of the field, and the fowls of heaven hath he given into thy hand, and hath made thee Ruler over them all; thou art this head of Gold. These higher Powers are so clearly from the highest Power, that their Throne is called Gods Throne, 1 Chron. 29. 23. Then Solomon sate on the Throne of the Lord as King instead of David; their Scepter is called Gods Scepter, and their judgement Gods judgement; Deut. 1. 17. Ye shall not respect persons; for the judgement is Gods.

Besides, we find that several persons received their Regal Investiture from God himself; as Saul, David, Jehu, Cyrus, which last was by God named and ordained to the government of the Persian Monarchy above sixty years before he was born, Isai. 44. 28. Isai. 45. 1.

2. Their command to govern is from God; the several Precepts from God to men in high places, doth fully speak their power to be of God. Why should God command them to rule according to his laws, who have no authority to rule at all? Jer. 22. 2, 3. Hear the word of the Lord O King of Judah, execute judgement and righteousness, and deliver the spoiled out of the hand of the oppressed, &c. If the matter or substance of their rule were unlawful, surely God would not own it so far as to prescribe rules for the manner of executing it. Now God through the whole Scriptures scattereth many precepts for directions to Princes how they should govern, and what they should practice, Deut. 17.

3. Their protection is from God. As a King defendeth his inferiour officers in the execution of their offices; so the King of Kings defendeth Magistrates in the discharge of their trusts; God standeth eth in the Congregation among the Gods, Pſal. 82. 1. not only to obſerve whether they offer injuries to others, but alſo to take care, that they receive no injuries from others. God is a ſtronger guard to the Judge than any Sheriff. And were not he a wall of fire about ſome worthy zealous Juſtices, many beaſtly perſons (who have been curb'd by them, and hindered from leaping over the hedges of divine commands) would have trampled them under feet, if not torn them in pieces.

It is worthy our obſervation how exceedingly God manifetteh his power and zeal for the help of Magiſtrates againſt all oppoſition. Korah and his company conſpire againſt Mofes and Aaron; Magiſtracy and Miniſtery, Numb. 16. and would have brought in Anarchy. (Indeed both thoſe Ordinances have the ſame adverſaries. Thoſe that would level the Miniſtery, making Preachers Jeroboam-like, of the loweſt of the people, and filling the Pulpit as Noahs Ark, with creatures clean and unclean, will at laſt level the Magiſtracy too, and make the Throne as low and as common as the Pulpit.) But obſerve what God ſaith of theſe oppoſers of Magiſtracy and Miniſtery, and what God doth to them: for his ſaying; That they are gathered together againſt the Lord, verſ. 11. They wounded God through the ſides of Mofes and Aaron. They that murmur and conſpire againſt Gods Delegated ſervants, murmur and conſpire againſt God himſelf. And ſurely God will firſt or laſt be too hard for thoſe that thus harden themſelves againſt him: For ſee what he doth to them; The Earth opened her mouth and ſwallowed them up, and their houſes, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods; they and all that belonged to them went down alive into the pit, and the earth cloſed upon them, verſ. 32. 33. God hath ſtrange puniſhments for ſuch ſtrange principles and practices; He will work miraculoſly, but that he will make such as are against Magistrate and Minister exemplary.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Psa. 18. ult. Great deliverance giveth God to the King. The Supreme Magistrate is in great dangers; therefore God giveth him great deliverances; as he is liable to more harm then others, by reason of his place, so he may expect (if he be godly especially) more help then others, by reason of the divine promise; Be strong, and of a good courage, be not a afraid; for the the Lord thy God is with thee whither soever thou goest, Josh. 9. Josephus from the extraordinary escape of Titus, at the view of the walls of Jerusalem, observeth, Imperatorum pericula Deum curare, That God is the Magistrates guard.

De bello Judaic. lib. 62.

Every one hath in him the mind of a King. Calv. on 1 Pet 5. 5.

4. The subjection of their people to them is from God. Every man is by nature a Quaker, a Leveller, like a Colt unwilling to be bridled; like an untamed Heifer, which cannot indure the yoke of subjection. It is therefore through the wonderful working of God, that a few persons, or sometimes one man as head should rule such a monstrous body as the multitude. If he that ruleth the boisterous waves of the Sea, and shuteth them up with bars and doors, Psal. 65. 7. did not put forth the same Almighty power in quieting the spirits, and stilling the tumults of the people it could never be done. Well might David say, It is God that subdueth my people under me, Psal. 144. 12.

into slavery, subjecting them to me. Septuagint. leg.

The multitude is an unruly monster. It was a true saying of that brutish Emperour Tiberius, to one that applauded his felicity in attaining the power of so large an Empire; O said he, you know not what a Beast the Empire is, how unruly and unto-ward, how head-strong and hard to be tamed. The multitude is a Beast with many heads faith another: cut off one, nay many, yet there will millions remain still. Now that one should keep millions in awe, how could it be, if there were not a divine conficonstitution in an humane person. The Devil is such an enemy to mans peace and welfare ; and every mans nature so opposite to rule and restraint, that if there were not somewhat more then humane in Magistracy, one man would be a Beast, nay a Devil to another, and be no whit kept under by the higher Powers. But we see clearly God hath put such a Majesty on Princes, that their people are afraid of their fury ; reverence their persons, and submit to their authority. He that readeth the wonderful strength of the Horse, how his neck is cloathed with thunder ; how the glory of his nostrils is terrible ; how he paweth in the Valley, and goeth out to meet the armed men ; how he mocketh at fear, and is not affrighted, nor turneth back from the sword, Job 39. 19. to 26. He that considereth the power of the Elephant, how he moveth his tail like a Cedar ; how his bones are like strong pieces of brass, and like bars of Iron. &c. Job 40. 15. to 24. when he observeth how these strong fierce creatures are ridden and ruled by weak man, and turned about at his pleasure, will presently conclude the reason to be this, because God hath put the fear and dread of man upon every beast of the field, Gen. 6. 2. So truly he that beholdeth many millions of men subject to the word, to the command of one, when they have strength enough to overthrow thousands, must needs acknowledge that it is the Lords doing, and it ought to be marvelous in their eyes.

Sueton.

Secondly, If Magistrates be Gods, and that by the appointment of the living God ; (I have said ye Gods) It informeth us, That they are guilty of great impiety that contemn and disesteem Magistracy ; they vilifie those whom God doth dignifie, and fight against God, in endeavouring to pull down that order and that ordinance which he himself hath set up. Such men by denying rule and authority, seem to be beasts, and to put off all humanity. For

The second use by way of Information.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

places without some in power would be rather wildernesses then Cities, and the Inhabitants rather herds of Beasts then Societies of men.

There are two sorts of men guilty of this sin.

First, those that in their Principles deny Magistracy to be from God. There have in several ages been some, that because they themselves were subjects and inferiours, would therefore deny all Sovereignty and Superiority. The Donatists whom Augustine undertaketh, were of that opinion. And so were the Anabaptists and Libertines in Germany, who (armed the rude multitude against their Magistrates, and) were opposed by Luther. And truly in our dayes there are some who against the light both of Nature and Scripture, affirm Government to be a work of darkness. Though it be written in the fleshy tables of their hearts, and in the tables of stone by the finger of God; That Fathers and Mothers civil as well as natural must be honoured, yet they are so wicked and blind, that they will not see or read it. In the Apostles dayes there were ungodly men that turned the grace of God into lasciviousness, despisers of Dominions, Jude vers. 8. Such as aimed at Anarchy. (according to Calvins Comment) and the overthrow of all Authority; being proud they scorned rule, and being licentious, they were impatient of restraint.

First, Order is needful to them that are in a state of innocency. Angels who continue in their estate of integrity differ in point of Superiority; Michael the Archangel; Jude v. 4. Michael speaketh the name of his person, and Archangel the nature of his office. There are Thrones, Dominions, Principalities, Powers, different degrees among those Angelical Spirits. Surely if such order be conducible to the happiness of perfect Angels, it is the more desirable for the happiness of imperfect man. And if there be such order in heaven, it is no part of our bondage bondage to have some order on earth; and therefore the Grecians do upon good ground use the word ἡγεμονία to signifie Superiority, or Government: which in its proper and native acception, signifie, h. principium, to set forth the antiquity of government, which had a being as soon as the world had a beginning*.

Creation before Adams fall, and the rather may we thus judge, because it is a law of Nature, which was binding in mans estate of innocency; besides, Christ himself who knew no sin, yet minded this duty of subjection, Luke 2 91. - 1 Col. 16. 22. Matth. 22. 23.

* Politick Government was probably then instituted, when man was first created under the Old Covenant of works; for it is a natural blessing, and grounded upon the fifth Command of the Moral Law, which commenced upon mans first

2. Order and Superiority are needful to them that are in a state of Apostacy; the more wild man is, the more need he hath of a yoke; the more heady our Horses are, the more we curb them: Unruly persons for their own good as well as for others, require restraint.

The hearts of wicked men are like the Sea which cannot rest, but is ever casting up mire and dirt; Now what a deluge would the boisterous waves of their un sanctified wills and affections cause, if there were no banks of Magistracy to bound them and keep them in. If some men were not Gods to others, most men would be Devils to others.

Sin must be discouraged; evil doers must be punished; humane Society must be preserved; the good must be protected; our liberties and properties must be defended; justice must be executed; the poor must be relieved; wholesome laws must be maintained; and how can either of these be done without Magistrates: Many fear not sin; nor the God of Heaven; and if it were not for suffering from the Gods on earth, their lusts should be their law, and they would deprive the innocent of their liberties, estates, and lives; and turn the places where they live into Acheldema's fields of blood; nay make the earth worse in some respects than hell;

because it is a law of Nature, which was binding in mans estate of innocency; besides, Christ himself who knew no sin, yet minded this duty of subjection, Luke 2 91. - 1 Col. 16. 22. Matth. 22. 23.

Augustine thinketh that all civil subjection of one man to another came in by sin, though not all natural subjection of children to parents. De civit. Dei, lib. 19.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

for in hell there is no oppression, as no injustice; no guilty person freed, and no guiltless person punished; but had these men their wills, it should be so upon earth.

3. Again, Order or Magistracy is not only necessary to those that are in a state of nature, but to those also that are in a state of grace; Titus 3. 1, 2. Rom. 13. 1, 2. When they begin to be servants to God, they do not cease to be subjects to the Gods. Christianity doth not consume but confirm Magistracy: As a man I obey and honour the Magistrate for fear; as a Christian, for conscience sake: so that Religion addeth a stronger tie and obligation. The Scepter in Christs hand doth not strike the Crown of the Magistrates head: No, it maketh it sit the faster, especially where their person is crowned with grace, and the power improved for the glory of Christ. One Ordinance of God doth not weaken but strengthen another.

I shall inquire a little, and very briefly, into the reasons which some urge against Magistracy and Order.

1. Say some, We are the Lords Freemen, and therefore should not be servants of men, 1 Cor. 7. 23. Ye are bought with a price, be not the servants of men.

Answer.

That place indeed forbiddeth sinful subjection to men, but not civil subjection to men. I may serve a Prince, but I may not sin at his precept and command; If men command what God forbiddeth, I must disobey men to obey God. Or that Text may import, that I must give no man liberty to give my conscience laws; No, my absolute dependance for soul-direction must be only on Christ and his Word.

Those whom Christ makes free are free indeed, but it is from bondage to their own and others lusts, lusts, not from obedience to others righteous laws.

Objection 2.

Some tell us, They are just and need no law; for they are a law to themselves: Now laws say they, are for them that are wicked. 1 Tim. 1. 9. The law is not made for the righteous, but for the wicked.

Answer.

They that are so good that they need no laws for their correction, live among the wicked, and therefore need laws for their protection.

That forecited place in Timothy is meant of the Moral Law, of which the Apostle testifieth, that believers are free from its curse or malediction; but surely not from it as a rule for their conversations.

The hearts of the best are bad enough, and apt to wander, therefore they need all means, the hedge of mans laws as well as of Gods laws to keep them in. Laws are hedges both to fence them in from others violence, and to prevent their their wandering out.

Objection 3.

Paul forbiddeth going to law, 1 Cor. 6. 1, 2. therefore no use of a Magistrate.

Answer.

The Apostle doth not absolutely forbid going to law; Bnt 1. before Heathen Judges, when godly Christians might have decided their differences and ended their controversies. They that deny to refer their lighter causes to honest understanding persons, give occasion to others to suspect both their causes and Christianity, v. 1, 3, 4, 5. 2. Among brethren, the very name of brethren should allay heats and charm discords, v. 8. The nearer their relation (though spiritual) was, the dearer their affection.

fection should have been, and therefore the sinfuller their division. 3. About trivial and small matters. If Mahometans go to law for mean toys, they are punished. 4. With vindictive spirits: whereas a Christian should go to law with a meek, mild, Gospel spirit, without either hate or heat, as Tilters break their spears on each others brest, yet without wrath or intention of hurt. So then it is not simply unlawfull to go to law before Heathen, if right cannot be had elsewhere, and the matter be weighty, and we do it not out of spleen or malice, but with meekness and quietness of spirit.

Objection 4.

They tell us, God is their Keeper; therefore they need neither Law nor Magistrate for their defence.

Answer.

God is the good mans Keeper; but how? not immediately (in an ordinary way) but mediately. As trust in God doth not consist with trust in means, neither without use of means where God doth afford them: for then Christ might have taken the Devils Counsel, and have thrown himself down from the Pinnacle of the Temple when God had afforded him stairs for his safe going down. Saints are under the shadow of Gods wings principally. He is their chief Sun and Shield, Gen. 17. 1. but they are under the shadow of the Gods wings subordinately, they are the instrumentall shields of the earth, Psal. 47. 9.

God can in regard of his absolute power protect his people without the shields of the earth, against all the opposition from men: as he can defend immediately from all the fiery darts of the Devil without the shield of faith, or the sword of the spirit. He needeth not the agency either of Magistrates in civil things, nor Ministers in spiritual things but he hath ordained both. It is his pleasure that both should in subordination to him be used, and therefore neither can without sinning against him be neglected.

Objection 5.

Say they, we may not avenge our selves; we must not render evil for evil, but overcome evil with good; Rom. 13.

Answer.

Though a Christian must rather suffer then offer injuries; yet he may, nay must mind his own safety. He may not unjustly offend his Brother, but he may justly defend himself.

All private revenge is forbidden, but the Magistrate is Gods Minister; therefore as vengeance belongeth unto God, so the Magistrate may in Gods place take revenge, and one may implore his help, as he may commit his cause to God, so it be not done with a revengefull mind.

R. Willet in Rom. 13.

The meaning of the holy Scriptures is far different from the sense which the Apostate Julian put on them. When he had taken away their estates, he put them off with a mock, Your Master said, Blessed are the poor: and when he had sorely beaten them with his hands, he would wound them with his tongue saying, Your Master said If one beat you on one cheek turn to him the other. The Gospel certainly was never intended for a cross, but a comfort to a Christian, and though its principal aim be to further him spiritually, yet it never designed to hinder him corporally by any of those commands: Christ is more tender of his people, then to thrust them into the world like sheep among ravenous Wolves, and to deny them leave of calling to those civil shepherds to take care of them. God hath for that end appointed Magistrates to be nursing-Fathers, and nursing-

Magistratus necessarius ecclesie, quia à Deo ordinatus est ad defensionem Ecclesie. Polan. Syntag lib. 7. c. 19.

Mothers to the children of God, to be as tender of them, as provident for them, as helpfull to them as Parents to their children, as Nurfes to their Babes. They are fet up by God himself to be a wall upon which the weak Ivie of the Church may lean, and by which it may be supported.

Harding accused (though falsly) Luthey to have animated Munccr. the rebel-preacher in Tburin- gia.

Calvin in Rom.

Thus we see that piety is not opposite to authority; though that false surmise that Christians were enemies to the policy and government of Kingdoms, was the cause of several of the Persecutions in the Primitive times. And indeed the Devil and his agents suggest to Princes to much to alienate their affections from religious persons. But though some monstrous bodies have brought forth such an hideous birth, That Religion denyeth all Rule; yet you see how far the Gospel is from being the Father of such a Child, when it commandeth lawful obedience to Infidel Magistrates. It establisheth the first Table, and surely doth not abolish the second. And Calvin thinks that least believers should think themselves free from that yoaik, Paul wrote the Epistle to the Romans, to inform them of the contrary. For it is very strange to conjecture that that God which is the God of order in the Churches, should be a God of confusion in the Common-wealth. No, but the Original of this error is mans corrupt nature, which hateth inclosures and banks; and would have all common and level, that he might run to excess of riot without any rubs or hinderances. And thence it is that like waters stopt at a Bridge, he roareth and maketh such a noise. As the mad dog is enraged because of the chain that tieth him; and the unruly Horse foameth and fretteth, because of the Bridle that curbeth him: So these men mad upon lust, cannot endure to be chained by laws; these furious Horses would have the reins on their own necks.

Secondly, Those that in their practices contemn Magistracy, sin against this truth discovered in the Text:

Text; for they despise an Ordinance of God,
Rom. 13. 2.

Some sin in their words by uncivil disrespectfull language; The corruption of their hearts breaks out of their lips; These filthy dreamers defile the flesh, despise dominions, (Κυρίων) they opposed not so much the Officers as the Office, not so much the Magistrate as Magistracy,) speak evil of dignities, Jude ver. 8. they blaspheme glories. It is blasphemy against the second Table. Our wicked times are a wofull Comment on that Text. Those persons and places which are honoured by the Spirit of God with glorious Titles, are bespattered by them with dirty, disgracefull language. Because they could not by the power of their hands displace the Magistrate, therefore with the poison of their tongues they did disgrace Magistracy.

These men begin to speak evil of the Gods, and ordinarily end in speaking evil of God himself. As Aretine by libellous and contumelious speaking against Princes, came at length to disesteem God himself.

Observe how express the command of God is, Thou shalt not revile the Gods, nor speak evil of the Rulers of thy people, Exod. 22. 28. This text is quoted by Paul, Acts 23. 2, 3, 5 where he called the High Priest whited wall, and afterwards said, he wist not that he was the High Priest: which words are very much controverted by Expositors. Some think he spoke Ironically, because he saw nothing in him worthy of that office, and because the Priesthood was now determined in Christ, he did usurpe that Office which did not belong to him, and probably he was some Surrogate brought in (through the disorder of the times) by some sinister practices. Others (and that to me more likely) expound it thus, I wist not; I considered not, I heeded not, in my haste, in heat I took not sufficient notice, but termed him βλασφημῶν. Ἰσχυρῶς, idem valet quod βλασφημῶν τὴν φθῆν, alterius famam lædere maledicti.

So Deodat, in loc. Calvin.

Vide Joseph. Antiq. lib. 20. cap. 3. 5.

Jun. in Parall.

Seneca saith of Egypt that it was loquax & ingeniosa in contumeliam praesertorum provincia: in qua qui vitaverit culpam, non effugit infamiam.

Luther cried Henry the eighth mercy for his uncivil language, such as that Audi Domine Rex, exercebo te.

The mother of Artaxerxes in Plutarch was wont to say, that they who addressed themselves to Princes, should use silken words.

whited wall, which words I acknowledge might well have been spared. The opinion of Junius is that Paul did not know him to be the High Priest, and therefore pleadeth his ignorance as (at least) an extenuation of his offence. But whatever the sense of the words is, this is clear that such as revile Princes, disobey Gods precept. Thou shalt not revile the Gods, nor speak evil of the Rulers of thy people; that is thou shalt not speak evil of them by reproach or calumny, nor with any evil to them by imprecation or curses.

Nay, the Holy Ghost speaketh the persons guilty of this sin to be impudent audacious sinners, 2 Per. 2. 10. They are not afraid to speak evil of dignities; as if he had said, If they had feared either God or man, they would not have dared to commit this sin. They were bold sinners indeed that durst spit their venom in the faces of the Gods, and with the sword of their mouths adventure upon the mouth of the sword. O to what an height of unholiness are they arrived that bring railing accusations against the Gods, when the Arch-angel durst not bring one against the Devil! Jude ver. 9. But their tongues are set fire on hell, James 3. 6. therefore no wonder if they are set against heaven, Psal. 73. 9. Is it fit to say to a King Thou art wicked, and to Princes Ye are ungodly! Job 34. 18. The interrogation is a strong negation. Kings must be courted with soft and silken language. If Elias and Isaiah do otherwise, they being moved extraordinarily, are no copies for us to write after.

As some sin in their words by uncivil language, so others in their works, by their unseemly carriage towards the Magistrate. Surely the world is near its end, that there are so many dregs appearing, such brutish persons in it that have not only banished piety but humanity. They neither reverence the rulers nor honour the antient. How many are in their

their principles antiministerial, and in their practices antimagistratical. As Nazianzen observeth of the Arrians, they began in blasphemous language against the Deity of Christ, but ended in tumultuous carriage against the peace and tranquillity of the Common-wealth. They plead for a Christian liberty with their mouths, but the vote of their hearts carrieth it for an Antichristian licentiousness.

The time was when a Magistrate came by, the young men that saw him hid themselves (either for reverence of Jobs person, or lest they should fail in their respectfull behaviour towards him, or lest he should spie somewhat amiss in them) and the aged arose and stood up (in token of honour and to shew respect to him,) Job 29. 8. but now the tide is turned. We are fellow-creatures say some; and therefore we must be fellow-beasts, taking no notice of, nor shewing any respect to one more than another. But now saith Job, they that are younger than I, have me in derision, whose fathers I would have disdained to have set with the dogs of my flock, and now I am their Song, yea their by-word: they abhor me, they flee from me, they spit in my face, Job 30. 1, 9, 10. So low indeed are they whom God hath set on high, through the pride and prophaneness of mens hearts. One observeth of the Persians, that when they came into the presence of their Prince they drew their hands into their sleeves in token of reverence and loyalty. But how many Christians come short of heathen, and that which is saddest of all, under the pretence of religion? But such must know that by contemning such men they contemn God. They have not rejected thee, saith God to Samuel, but they have rejected me, 1 Sam. 8. 7. not so much thee who art but my Minister as my self, who being their Supreme Lord do rule by thee as my Deputy. As Magistracy is Gods Ordinance, by despising this order which is by divine appointment, they despise its author; as Magistrates are the resemblance of his glory, Gods, Glories, by contemning the picture they contemn the person; and they that thus dishonour God, shall be lightly esteemed by him. They that resist the Magistrate, shall receive to themselves damnation, Rom. 13. 2.

Xenoph. Hellen. lib. 11.

My second use will be by way of Exhortation; First to Inferiours; If the God of Heaven hath appointed Magistrates to be as Gods on earth, it exhorteth us to honour them. Honour the King, 1 Pet. 2. 17. saith the Holy Ghost. Honour to whom honour belongeth, Rom. 13. 7. There is honour due to our civil as well as to our natural Parents; so much is expressed in that standing Law of God the fifth Commandement, Exod. 20. Though they are to be honoured as Gods, yet not as the true God; civil respect is due to them, not divine. Yet some Roman Emperours out of intolerable pride, have affected to be called Gods, and commanded others to sacrifice to them. This civil honour is to be visible,

1. In giving reverence to their persons.
2. In yielding obedience to their righteous precepts.

First in reverencing their persons. Magistrates are honoured by God, and therefore may well be honoured by us.

Those who are dignified by God, must not be debased by men.

We ought to honour them in our hearts, by standing in aw of them, by esteeming them as they resemble God, Prov. 24. 21. and are in his place to be higher and worthier then others; Thou art worth ten thousand of us, say they to David, 2 Sam. 18. 3. The godly people counted King Josiah The breath of their nostrils, Lament. 4. 20. And the Holy Ghost brandeth them for sons of Belial that despised Saul in their hearts, though he were a wicked King, 1 Sam. 10. 27. In our carriage we must honour them by rising up to them, Joh 28. 9. by bow-

Magistrates are p. alres patricie.

Prohibiti sunt maledici, non jussi sunt sacrificiis honorari. Aug. in Exod.

Honor est agnitio dignitatis vel excellentie illius quae est in alio cum ejusdem debita testificatione. Agnitio simul dicitur & testificatio, quia neq. in externa observantia sola neq. in interna consistit, sed in utroq. Amel. Med.

ing the body to them, 2 Sam. 24. 20. by silence when they speak, Job 29. 9, 10.

Honour is an outward signification of that inward reverend opinion which we have of them for their dignity and greatness.

They are honoured in our speeches. The Patriarchs call Joseph their Lord, Gen. 42. 10. and themselves his servants, vers. 19. Paul calleth, Act. 26. 25. Most Noble Festus. Hester 5. 8. If I have found favour in the sight of the King, and if it please the King to grant my Petition, and to perform my request, saith holy Hester to the Heathen King.

It is reported of the great Grand-father of Fabius Maximus, that though he had been five times Consul, and had obtained many triumphs for divers honourable victories, yet when his own son was Consul, he willingly submitted himself to him, served under him as his Lieutenant, & followed on Horseback his son in his triumphing Chariot. But such Heathen will rise up in judgement against many Christians.

Secondly, your honouring them must appear by your yielding obedience to their lawful precepts. Millem obedire quam miracula facere. Luth.

In the Kingdom of Christ this is wonderful, saith Zanchy, That he willeth and commandeth all Princes and Potentates to be subject to his Kingdom, and yet he willeth and commandeth that his Kingdom be subject to Princes and Potentates, Tit. 3. 1. Put them in mind to be subject to Principalities and Powers, and to obey Magistrates. Subjection notes their acknowledgment of obedience to be due, and obedience notes the act it self of obeying, or the practice answerable to the fore-mentioned principle. By Principalities are meant those that have the Supreme power, as Kings or chief Magistrates. Powers signifie such as exercise delegated authority, and hold from those higher Powers as Presidents of Provinces, Lieutenants of Counties, Judges, Justices, Maiors, &c. Now put them in remembrance. Men are apt to be forgetful both both of obedience to God and the Gods; Naturally we are so proud and high, that we are unwilling to stoop to those that are higher; and therefore we had need to be put in mind of our duties, to submit our selves to every Ordinance of man for the Lords sake, whether to the King as Supreme, or unto Governours as unto them that sent by him, 1 Pet. 2. 14. Good Rulers we must obey, saith one, as God; bad, for God.

Magis obtemperandum est diis apud quos deuitius man-endum est quam hominibus quibuscum admodum breui tempore vivendum est. An-tigon. in Sphoc.

But take notice, I say, Magistrates must be obeyed in their lawful commands. If a King (saith our Civil Law) giveth laws out of his own Territories, he is not to be obeyed. And if Magistrates command what God forbiddeth, they give laws out of their own Dominions, and therefore saith the Divine law, they are not to be obeyed. God indeed is to be obeyed universally and unlimitedly, intuitu voluntatis, upon the bare sight of his will; but I must examine the laws of men by the laws of God, and if they are dissonant and disagreeing to Gods laws, I must be disobedient to their laws. No meer mans Ipse dixit is sufficient, Acts 6. 29. We ought to obey God rather then men. The men of Calicut say some, will do whatsoever their Emperours command, though it be to worship the Devil, as some write they do; but we must observe the order of commands, Fear God, is before Honour the King, 1 Pet. 2. 17. And again, My son, fear the Lord and the King, Prov. 24. 21. And Eccles. 8. 2. My son keep the Kings command, and that because of the Oath of God; which latter words, And that because of the oath of God, are not only a reason, but as is excellently observed, a limitation to the precedent Exhortation; They are a reason or enforcement: It is necessary to give obedience to Magistrates, not only out of fear towards them, because of their sword; but out of conscience towards God, because of his vows that are upon us, Rom. 13. 5.
and

*Vide Large Annotat. in
loc.*

and so it seems to relate to some Covenant and Oath of fidelity, which was taken by the people towards their Princes, 1 Chron. 11. 3. Isai. 19. 18. And surely Oaths to Magistrates are to be kept, though some slip Oaths as easily as the Monks do their collars; and like the man possessed with the Devil, break all those bonds asunder. God will have a time to make inquisition for perjury, when his roll of curses ten yards long, and five yards broad, shall rest in the house of him that forswearth himself, and destroy it, Zach. 5. 2.

But the words may be considered as a limitation; Keep the Kings command; but so, that thou do not violate thine Oath and obedience due to God. Thy fealty to the Gods must be such as will consist with thy fidelity to God; for we are bound to God and his service by Oath and Covenant, 1 Pet. 3. 21. Psal. 119. 106. And no subordinate obedience must make us forget our obedience to him who is Supreme. We must obey Rulers usq. ad aras, as far as Religion will suffer us, and no farther. My obedience to man must be regulated by a good conscience towards God, Dan. 3. 16, 17, 18. 1 Sam. 22. 17. Act. 5. 29. As a subordinate Officer is not to be obeyed when he useth his power against his Prince, which he received from his Prince, and should have improved for his Prince. So neither is a Prince to be obeyed when he useth his power against God, which he received from God; and should have improved for God. As we must give unto Caesar the things that are Caesars, so we must give unto God the things that are Gods, Matth. 22. 21, 22. One observeth that the Greek Article is twice repeated when he speaketh of God, more then when he speaketh of Caesar; to shew that our special care should be to give God his due. It was a noble speech of those Worthies mentioned, Dan. 3. 16, 17, 18. who were commanded by the King to worship the Image which Τὰ τῷ θεῷ τῶ θεῷ.

To pay to the King that tribute which is due to God only, is not tributum Caesaris sed servitium Dei; he boli, Chrysost.

The Dignity of Magistracy.

he had set up) O Nebuchadnezar we are not careful to answer thee in this matter. Our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O King. But if not, be it known unto thee O King, that we will not worship thy Gods, nor fall down to the golden Image which thou hast set up. And it was a gallant answer of the Prince of Condee, who being taken Prisoner by Charles the ninth of France, and put to his choice, Whether he would go to Mass, or be put to death, or suffer perpetual imprisonment? The former (said he) by Gods grace I will never do; and for the two latter let the King do with me what he pleaseth; God I hope, will turn all to the best.

We are also to honour Magistrates both by praying for them, and paying tribute to them; the former is our duty, and the latter is their due; I will, saith the Apostle, that prayers and supplications be made for all men, for Kings, and all in authority, 1 Tim. 2. 1, 2. The burden which lyeth on them is weighty, we had need therefore to beg of God to strengthen their backs, otherwise they can never bear it. There is a truth in that saying, Did men but know the weight of a Crown, they would not stoop to take it up. Pride indeed is so prevalent with many persons, that they will venture their lives to satisfy their ambition; these mens great care is to get the Sword, the Scepter, not how to use them for God and his people; but certainly they who mind a faithful discharge of their trusts, find the Magistrates Throne to be a place of little ease. They are shepherds, Isa. 44. 28. and we know the life of a shepherd is a laborious life, they endure the scorching heat of Summer, and the nipping cold of the Winter to keep their flocks safe. Cares and Fears about publike concernments molest them night and day, as weights hang on a clock,

and

Hist. G. II.

Moses was a pious patient man, yet he telleth us notwithstanding, all his strength of grace, Non possum portare, I am not able to bear all this people.

Numb. 11. 14.

and will not suffer them to sleep. If they watch to protect us, should not we watch unto prayer for them? The embleme of King Henry the seventh in all the windows of his house was still a Crown in a bush of thorns; surely to tell us that great places are not free from great cares; that no man knoweth the weight of a Scepter; but he that swayeth it.

B. Halls contemplation.

We are bound likewise to pay tribute to them as well as pray for them; Render to all their dues, tribute to Whom tribute belongeth, custom to whom custom, Rom. 13. 7.

Φίσεϕ capitatio, Poll money which men pay by the poll, or according to their estates; πάλϕ, vectigal, due for merchandize. Be. 21.

It is observable, The Holy Ghost calleth it their due. To pay tribute or custom is not an act of curtesie, but a duty which must be done out of conscience; God commandeth it from us in lieu of the Magistrates care of us; as v. 6. For this cause pay ye tribute (prestatis, non datis, you pay; not, you give) for they are Gods Ministers, &c. Your paying tribute and custom, is a sign of your subjection to them, and a thankful acknowledgement of your protection from them, and v. 5. For this cause ought you to be subject, not only for wrath, but for conscience sake. God taketh care for the maintenance of the Magistrate as well as of the Minister, and doth strictly enjoin us, that both they who watch for our souls, and they which watch for our bodies should have an honourable subsistence. Did such as are private, but seriously consider this word conscience (for conscience sake) they durst not as they do, cozen the publike. The same mighty Possessor of Heaven and Earth, who giveth me a right to the whole, giveth them a right to a part of my estate, and therefore to cozen them of their dues in tribute or custom, is to cozen and defile my conscience by the violation of Gods righteous command*.

Pompey first converted the capitation or head silver to the City of Rome. Par. in Rom.

* Tiberius did not approve that shepherd that slayed his sheep instead of clipping; Nor Tully him who cut the wings, so that they could never grow after. Magistrates are set for the good of the people; and therefore should be moderate in demanding their goods.

I shall in the next place lay down two or three thoughts, to enforce the duty of honouring Magistrates.

First, Consider the necessity of Magistracy; without Magistracy one man would be but bread for another; and the world which is like the Sea for storms and tempests, would also resemble it in this, that the Inhabitants of it would be as the fishes of the Sea, the great would devour the small. Men are like the fishes of the Sea (saith the Prophet) that have no ruler over them, Hab. 1. 14. No man could call any thing his own, were it not for these Gods. Did not they defend us by their power, every one would rob and wrong us at his pleasure. Our liberties, estates and lives would quickly be a prey to the covetousness and cruelty of vicious persons. Liberty and property are quite banish'd where authority is not established. Who can express the malice, and murders, the rapine and robberies, the mischiefs and miseries that raign where the Magistrate doth not raign. In those days there was no King in Israel, every man did that which was right (not in Gods; but) in his own eyes, Judg. 17. 6. Judg. 19. 11. And what evill is not good in his eye who hath the Devil for his guide and leader, and corrupt nature for his law and rules? When the gate of Magistracy is shut, the floodgates for all manner of enormities are open. When these that bear up the pillars of the house are removed, how soon will the building be ruined? When God intended the destruction of the Jewish Common-wealth, he took away their Sanedrim. And in the glass of our times it is too too visible what a sad deformed face things have; when Magistrates are overturned, Constantinople will witness to this truth, where upon the grand Signiors death, till his Successor be on his Throne, all things are in a confusion, and the Janizaries have the rule and Dominion. Some write that the Persian law commandeth, that upon the decease of their Kings, there should be a suspension of the Laws for certain (five) dayes that Subjects might know the necessity of Government, and learn to value it more by being bereft of the benefit of it for a time. Nay when God is exceedingly provoked by sin, how sharply doth he make men suffer by taking away their stay and their staff! The mighty man, the Judge, the Prophet and the Prudent, Isa. 3. 1, 2, 3, 4. The taking away the civil stay and staff, the Prince and the spiritual stay and staff, the Prophet, will quickly cause the fall, yea the utter downfall of the people. Men often murmur at the Magistrate, and tell us (many times falsely) He is a Tyrant, if he were gone all would be well; but when he is out of the way, do they not find many Tyrants for one? Every man would be an oppressor, were there no man to be a restrainer.

What would a Nation without government be but a desert of savage beasts? what would Towns be but dens of Thieves, and what would families be but stages of unclean birds? yea what would most men be, but like dogs trying all right and title by their teeth and strength?

Men naturally are more afraid of the noise of the Musket then of the Bullet; I mean of the frowns of the Rulers, then of the fire of Hell: and therefore were they once free from them, they would do that which would soon undo both themselves and others.

Now the necessity of Magistrates calleth for reverence and obedience to their authority. The more needfull things are, the more gratefull they should be. Things that are superfluous may be slighted, things that are only convenient may be the less valued: but things that are absolutely necessary must be highly esteemed. I tell thee, the Ministry is not more necessary to the well-being of the Church, then the Magistracy to the well-being of the State. You may as soon see a Tree thrive without a root, as a Common-wealth flourish without a Ruler. Magistrates are in Scripture called the heads of the people, Exod. 18. 25. because they are as necessary to the body Politick, to direct and govern it, as the head is to the body natural; therefore as the members yield respect and are subject unto the head (if the head do but ake, all the humours of the arm (as some observe) run to the head, and therefore the arms are thin and slender, because they want their proper nurture; yea if the head be in danger how do the other parts hazard themselves for its shelter? many an hand and arm hath been wounded, that the head might be saved) thus should subjects shew their respect to, and tenderness of their superiours, for if a member or some of the inferiour parts be cut off, the body may live; but if the head be taken off, if Governours be set aside, Actum est de republica, that Kingdom, that Common-wealth cannot stand long.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Secondly, Consider the severity of God against the contemners of Magistrates. There are several in the word of God that stand up like the Mast of a Ship cast away by Sands, to warn us that we steer not their course, least we be sunk also. Those who opposed the preservers of our civil lives, have not seldom been punished with violent deaths: Corah and his company, Abimelech, Athaliah, Adonijah, Absolom, Zimri, Joab, Sheba, with several others will confirm this truth. And humane as well as divine writings speak to the same purpose.

Speed Chron.

James the first King of Scots was murdered in Perth by Walter Earl of Athol, in hope to attain the Crown: for so had his Sorcerers prophesied, and crowned he was with a Crown of red hot Iron clapt upon his head, being one of the tortures wherewith he ended at once his wicked dayes and desires. Becket, Mortimer, Tyler, Warbeck, Sanders, Story, Campion, the Piercies, the Powder-Plotters, Rhodolphus Duke of Suevia, Richard the third of England, and many others have been marked with divine vengeance for contemning this divine Ordinance.

My Son, saith Solomon, fear thou the Lord and the King, and meddle not with them that are given to change. For their calamity shall arise suddenly, and who knoweth the ruine of them both? Prov. 21. 22. i. e. of them that fear not God, and of them that fear not the King. And Eccles. 10. 8, 9. He that diggeth a pit, shall fall into it, and who so breaketh an hedge, a Serpent shall bite him. Who so removeth stones, shall be hurt therewith; and he that cleaveth wood, shall be endangered thereby. These four proverbial expressions speak the danger of them that go about to supplant their Rulers. Whilest they are digging pits to catch others, the earth falleth on them, and murdereth themselves. When they are breaking up the old hedge of Government, Serpents and Adders which use to harbour in old walls and hedges will sting them. God will make men know that it is a dangerous thing to confound rule and subjection, and to break down the partition wall which he hath set up between Magistrates and people. When these sharp instruments which they run against wound them deep, they will believe that it is bad meddling with edged tools; and that there is a truth in those words of the Apostle, They that resist procure to themselves damnation; Rom. 13. 2. that is, both corporal punishment and, eternal torment, saith Peter Martyr.

If thou wouldst not therefore suffer with others, take heed of sinning with others. Depart, I pray you from the Tents of these wicked persons, (saith Moses to the Congregation upon the conspiracy of Corah, Dathan, &c. against their rulers) and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye be consumed in all their sins, Numb. 16. 26. They that join in common rebellions, must expect to be joynd in common destructions. Be not impatient of rule, as thou desirest to avoid

avoid that ruine, which Gods mouth doth threaten, and his hand will execute on such rebellious ones. Let those many examples (which are in Scripture and other Authors mentioned) of them that are hung on Gibbets as monuments of Gods fury, fright thee from their acts least thou partake of their ends. Believe it, no King can possibly be so tender of his own honour, as God is of his own Officers: Do not therefore shoot off thy guns of opposition against the Gods, lest they recoil and kill thy self. Reviling of natural parents was banishment by Plato's Law, death by Gods Law, Exod. 21. 17. Those then that revile civil parents, shall not alwayes go unpunished.

Thirdly, Consider, thy felicity and welfare doth under God depend much on the Gods. The Apostle enforceth this use by this very Argument. For he is the Minister of God for thy good, Rom. 13. If he labour to do thee good why shouldst thou imagine evil against him? To render evil for good is God-like, Mat. 5. ult. but to render evil for good, is devilish. Magistrates are shields, Psal. 47. 9. they defend their subjects from the darts and bullets with which the sons of violence would wound them.

Shepherds, Numb. 27. 17. to defend them from the devouring mowths of ravenous creatures. They are called the foundations of the earth, because they support the building from ruine, and sinking, Prov. 10. 25. Coverings, Ezek. 28. 16. which importeth that Engine, under which Souldiers used to be protected in assaulting the walls of an enemy against the stones and darts which were thrown down upon them. Guides, Prov. 6. 7. because they lead and direct the people. Angels, 2 Sam. 14. 15. in that they defend and protect the people. The Fathers and Mothers of the Country, Gen. 41. 43. Judges 5. 7. because they take care of, and provide for their people. Healers, Job 34. 17. because they cure their wounds, and make up their breaches.

They

Martial Policy, true Religion, and civil Justice, are the three Pillars which uphold all, saith Sr. Walter Rawleigh.

Βασιλεύς, quasi REXIS ἢ ΛΑΩ.

Αναξ ab ἄνος medela.

They deliver the poor that cryeth, and the fatherless, and him that hath none to help. They are eyes to the blind, and feet to the lame, Fathers to the poor, and helpers to the needy, Job 29. 11, 15. They are born not for themselves, but for the good of many, as Bucers Physitian told him. And they govern not seeking their own wealth, but the Commonwealth, as Elins Adrianus Emperour of Rome would say. They are as Trees whose leaves are fair, whose fruit much, and in them is meat for all; in their shadow the beasts of the field dwell, and in them the fowls of the heaven have their habitation, Dan. 4. 12. 21.

They are the keepers of our liberties, the preservers of our lives, the safety of our persons, the security of our possessions, the terrors of sinners, the defence of Saints, the Nerves and Sinews, yea the Vital spirits of the body Politick, without whom all things would run to ruine, and quickly fall to confusion. How much then do they for us, and how much then should we be subject to them! Surely as little as many value them, they will find much cause to celebrate the funerals of these civil Fathers with many tears. Our comforts as well as our consciences call upon us to be subject. To wish them harm that watch to be our helps, is horrid ingratitude. Cicero saith, he that killeth his Father committeth many sins in one, because he sinneth against many obligations. His Father begat him, nourished him, brought him up. Magistrates are the Fathers of their Country; he that resisteth them, or doth violence to them, committeth several sins in one, because he sinneth against so many engagements to subjection. We owe all the comforts we enjoy for this world, nay somewhat of them that relate to a better world under God, to the Magistrate. We could not sleep quietly in our beds one night; we could not eat one meal peaceably in the day without them; we could not call either children, or estates, or lives our own without them: we could not enjoy such liberties for our souls, such frequent communion of Saints without them. How great then is our obligation, and how great should our subjection be to them! These many cords of kindness should bind us to them. He was possessed with a Devil whom no cords would hold, Mark 5. 3. and surely they are little better that against the Law of God and this protecting love of the Gods will not learn to be loyall.

Non sibi sed multorum utilitati se esse natum.

Non mihi sed populo, significans quod quodammodo saepe auditur a se rem publicam gesturum, ut sciret rem populi esse, non suam.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Trees receive moisture from the earth, and within a while pay it back in those leaves that fall to the earth again: the Rivers receive their waters from the Ocean, and they acknowledge it in emptying themselves into it: Sheep that are fed by us acknowledge it in serving us with their flesh and fleeces. And shall man be more brutish then the beast? It shall end this exhortation with the words of the Holy Ghost a little varied; Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit your selves; for they watch for your bodies. (as Ministers for your soul) as they that must give an account, Heb. 13. 17.

My second Exhortation will be to the Gods. If the God of heaven have appointed you to be Gods on earth, then it may exhort you to walk as Gods, and to work as Gods amongst men.

First, Walk as Gods among men; your calling is high, and therefore your carriage should be holy. Every calling hath a peculiar comeliness belonging to it. A Courtier hath another manner of behaviour then a Countrey man, a Scholler then a Scullion, a Prince then a Peasant. The greater your priviledges are, the more gracious your practices should be. Remember whose livery you wear, whose image you bear, whose person you represent, whose place you stand in, and walk worthy of that calling whereunto you are called, Eph. 4. 1. Some would have us give no names to children, but such as should mind.

mind them of their duty. The spirit of God hath given you a divine name which should mind you of the divine nature. Since your compellations are according to God, surely your conversations should be according to the Gospel.

The several Titles given to you, call for sanctity and strictness from you.

The spirit of God calleth you Kings, 1 Sam. 8. 9. and Princes, Josh. 8. 33. Now is it seemly or suitable, to see Kings or Princes padding in the mire, or playing in the dirt with every beggars brat? Doth not every one expect that their Linen should be in print, their cloaths clean without the least spot of dirt? And is it comely or consonant to see Magistrates (honoured with a commission from heaven) wallowing in the mire of sin and pollution with every heir of hell? Do not all expect that as your places are god-like and honourable, so your practice should be godly and answerable, that your linen should be white, your garments undefiled, and your persons higher then others not only in place but piety?

When King Perus was taken prisoner, and demanded by the Conquerour how he would be used? he answered, Like a King: and being three times asked the same question, he as often returned the same answer. And if you ask me how you should demean your selves, I would answer Like Kings, Every one resembling the behaviour of a King. Prov. 31, 3, 4. It is not for Kings, O Lemuel, it is not for Kings to drink wine, nor Princes strong drink, least they drink and forget the Law. Give not thy strength unto women, nor thy wayes to that which destroyeth Kings. Drunkenness and Uncleaness are sinfull and unwarrantable in Subjects, but they are most sordid and abominable in a Sovereign. They are so much worse then others, by how much they ought to be better then others. A disease that surprizeth the head or heart, is more dangerous then those that infect the exterior members: A spot in silk is far worse then one in sackcloth. A Flie in a barrel of pitch doth not the harm which it doth in a box of Ointments.

Of Bonofus the Emperour it was said, He was born non ut vivat, sed ut bibat. And when being overcome by Probus, he hanged himself, it was commonly jested, That a tankard hung there, not a man.

When Scipio was offered an Harlot, he said, Vellem si non essem Imperator, I would if I were not a Général, an Emperour. Should such a man as I flie! said Nebemiah. So should a Ruler consider, Should such a man as I be unclean! I that punish such sin in others, should I commit it my self! Should such a man as I swear, be lascivious in my language, or unsavoury in my speeches! A divine sentence is in the mouth of a King, Prov. 16. 10. I whose words are Laws and Oracles, should speak as the Oracles of God, 1 Pet. 4. 11. Should such a man as I prophane the Sabboth, associate with sinners, be prayerless in my family, or venture upon any iniquity! It is an abomination for Kings to commit wickedness, Prov. 16. 12. Peter Martyr told Queen Elizabeth, that Princes were doubly bound to God, as Men, and as Princes or chief men. Their sins are sins against more obligations, and therefore are sins of more aggravations then others. A great man cannot commit a small sin; yet a great man is seldom a good man. Godliness in a Ruler is like a Diamond in a golden Ring, which shines radiantly; but there are few Jewels so set. Among all the Kings of Israel, not one godly man: Among the Kings of Judah very few. * Men in high places are apt to have their heads giddy, and thereby are in great danger of falling. Of one only Roman Emperour (Titus) it is said that he was the better for his honour; most are worse.

The Spirit of God calleth you the children of God, And all of you are children of the most High. Now how exactly, how circumspectly should the children of God walk! Much obedience may be expected

Idco deteriores sumus quia meliores esse debemus. Salv.

* Pope Urban wrote to a Prelate in his time scoffingly, Monacho fervido, Abbati calido, Episcopo tepido & Archiepiscopo frigido; still the higher in means, the worse in manners.

expected from servants, but more from sons, their preheminance is more, and therefore their obedience should be more. The fathers of the flesh look for much dutifulness from their children; but surely the Father of Spirits may look for more from his children. Phil. 2. 15. That ye may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God without rebuke in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world. Ye that are Gods sons, are appointed to blame others that do evill, and therefore it becometh you to be blameless your selves; Qui alterum accusat probri, &c. but blameless and harmless, the sons of God without rebuke. The sons of great men should be without riotousness or rebellion; but the sons of God should be without suspicion or rebuke; that is, walk so strictly, as that they should do nothing blame-worthy. If God be your Father, where is his honour? Mal. 1. 6. Do you honour him in your hearts by giving him your superlative love, and fear, and trust, and esteem? Do you honour him in your houses, by causing all within your charges to worship him according to his Word? Are your houses houses of holiness? praying, reading, singing, catechising houses? are they examples of Religion to your neighbours? Is holiness to the Lord written upon your selves, your children, your servants, your estates, and upon all that belong to you? Do you honour God in your lives by walking as he walked? Are ye followers of him as dear children? Ephes. 5. 1. Do you resemble him as children their Father? Are you holy as he was holy in all manner of conversation? Was your everlasting Father (when he walked in your flesh upon earth) ever guilty of cursing, or swearing, or lying? Did any rotten communication ever drivel out of his lips? Was he ever guilty of oppressing the poor, or despising the needy? of seeking himself, or of doing his own will?

The Dignity of Magistracy.

Did he ever neglect praying, and instructing his Family of the Apostles, or supplication by himself? Was not he at prayer early in the morning a great while before day, and was not he up at it all night? Was it not his meat and drink to do the will of his Father, and to finish his work? Did not he go about doing good, glorifying God upon Earth, and doing what was well pleasing in his sight? Surely ye that are the sons of God by nature and office, should resemble the Son of God by nature.

Euseb.

O Sirs, Think of it; ye that are the sons of God by deputation, should resemble this Son of God by generation. Be not as Eli's, and Samuel's, and David's children, a disgrace to your Father: But as Constantines sons resembled their Father in his good parts and practices, so be ye perfect as your Father in heaven is perfect, Mat. 5. ult. David's daughters were known to be his children by their garments, 2 Sam. 13. 18. Do you make it known to others that you are the children of God, by not defiling your garments; by keeping your selves unspotted from the world; by looking to your cloaths that they be not defiled, though ye walk in dirty streets; be as the children of God, without rebuke in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation.

Consider, the Devil is ever watching for your halting, and like some unkind servant, he blabs presently to the Father what a dirty pickle his children are in. Suppose he seeth the dirt of drunkenness, of uncleanness, of squeezing tenants, of prophaning the Sabbath, of scoffing at godliness, of irreligion and atheism in your houses, and immediately carries your cloaths to God, as the Patriarchs did Joseph's coat (For he accuseth men before God day and night, Revel. 12. 10.) Saying, Lord, is this thy sons coat? Know now whether it be thy sons coat or no. Gen. 37. 32. Do thy children use to carry themselves as my children! Surely these are
of

of their father the Devil. Can you imagine that God should own you? No certainly, (as the Pope disowned the Bishop, when the Emperour had sent the Buffe-coat in which he was taken prisoner, and deliverd him up to justice) he will not dishonour himself by owning you. Nay, how can you expect but that Jesus Christ, who sitteth by, and heareth the indictment against you (who useth to appear as an Advocate for others, when the Accuser of the Brethren pleadeth against them) should even second the Bill against you, and say to God, as Moses, Dent. 32. 5. They have corrupted themselves, their spot is not the spot of Gods children, they are perverse and crooked persons! Father, these are sins not of weakness, but wickedness; they are not infirmities, but enormities; they are not the spots of thy children. Those that cast thee out of their hearts, and let the flesh have the Supremacy there; that cast thee out of their houses, and let the world have the Superiority there; Those that make no conscience of thy day and their duties; whose whole care is to be honoured and enriched; whose heat and fervour is for credit and profit; and put thee off with a few fragments of time, and a few scraps of their estate, which they can spare from the world and flesh; those sin like wretches, like rebels; not like Saints, like sons; Their spots are not the spots of thy children.

There are spots which may be, and spots which cannot be the spots of Gods children. All sins are unfutable to, but some sins are inconsistent with sonship; yea the preheminance of Adoption doth absolutely deny the predominancy of any corruption.

When Antigonus was to go to a place that might probably prove a temptation to sin; he asked counsel of Menedemus what he should do; He bade him only remember he was a Kings son: So say I to you, that walk every day in the midst of many snares of temptations (and therefore should have the greater care and circumspection) Remember that ye are the sons of the King of Kings, and do nothing unworthy of the name by which he calleth you, or the place to which he hath called you.

It might have been a cutting word to the heart of Brutus, (whose hand was then stabbing Caesar) What thou my son Brutus! I could not have expected better from a slave; but little looked for this from a son. How think you, can the Lord take it, that you who are his children, should wound the Body of his Son with oaths and curses, his sacred laws by wickedness and wilful disobedience! I beseech you, be exceeding holy that ye may shew your selves to be children of the most High. In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the Devil; He that doth not righteousness, is not of God, 1 John 3. 10. If ye therefore call on the Father; who without respect of persons will judge every man according to his works, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear, 1 Pet. I. 17. forasmuch as ye know ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver or gold, from your vain conversations received by tradition from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a Lamb without spot and blemish; vers. 18, 19. It is written of Boleslaus, one of the Kings of Poland, that he still carryed about with him the picture of his Father, and when he was to do any great work, he would look on the picture, and pray that he might do nothing unworthy of such a Fathers name. So when you set about any business, desire and labour that you may do nothing (while on earth) unworthy your Father who is in heaven.

Nay further, the Holy Ghost calleth you Gods. How godly then should you be! how unfutable are the works of the Devil to them that have the name of God! God is light, and in him is no darknes at all; and should not the Gods shine brightly through the light of holiness, and abhor all deeds of darkness? The Gods of the Heathen were taxed with several crimes; Jupiter with uncleanness, Juno with passion, &c. Hence saith Austin, the Heathen took liberty to sin, because their Gods were represented to them as patterns or approvers of such actions: As Chara in Terence, Non ego facerem quæ Jupiter fecit? Should I be backward to what the God himself was forward? But the God of Heaven is far from such things; He is the holy One of Israel, holy in all his wayes, and righteous in all his works; His Nature is the pattern of holiness; his Law is the rule of holiness: Holiness is his Essence, his glory, himself, Psal. 89. 13. A God of truth without iniquity, just and right is he, Dent. 32. 4. There are many spots in our Moons; but not the least spot in this Sun of Righteousness. Now therefore you that have his Name, should get his Nature, and be pure as he is pure: The Name of God is an honour to you, O be not you a dishonour to it, James 2. 8. Do not, O do not blaspheme that worthy name by which ye are called. How holy should you be in your hearts; how watchful over your words; how wary in your works; how faithful in your families; how conscientious in all companies? for the most High hath said, Ye are Gods *.
of

Alexander having a souldier of his name that was a coward, bid him either learn to be valiant, or be no more called Alexander: So say I to you that have the Livery and Name of God, and do the drudgery of Satan; either learn to be holy, to be good, or be no more called Gods.

Sir, observe it, is it comely for a God to swear; for a God to wrong his neighbours; for a God to prophane Gods day; for a God to despise godliness, and godly men; for a God to keep company with Lactantius* telleth us that the very Heathen thought that their only way to honour their Gods was to be like them, to do as they did.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

those that are of their father the Devil; for a God to live without God in his affections, house, and conversation! Blush O guilty Justice, or Ruler, and be ashamed, and either amend thy life and nature, or disown this name of God.

I have sometime read of Luther, that he used to repel the darts of temptations with this shield; I am a Christian, I cannot do it: O would you but think when your hearts, or lives are swerving from God, I am called a God, and cannot, may not do the work of the Devil. I may not do any thing unworthy the name of God; it might be helpful to you against the assaults of Hell.

Nemo errat sui ipsi, sed de-mentiam. spargit in pro-ximos. Sen. Ep. 94.

Besides, you had the more need to walk in the way of Gods Commandments, because you have many following your steps: They that have many at their heels, had need to be holy, lest they cause the souls of others as well as their own to miscarry for ever. Sin (especially in great men) is like leaven which soureth the whole lump, 1 Cor. 5. 6.

The bodies of men do not sooner take infection then their souls. If the great trees fall, they usually brush and beat down smaller ones with them. When two or three men of renown, famous in the Congregation, begin a mutiny against God they shall not want company to joyn with them, Numb. 16. If the Princes of the people be guilty of Rebellion, how soon is the whole Congregation in the same transgression? Numb. 13. 28, 29. Numb. 14. inir. When a disease hath once taken the head, how often doth it thence diffuse it self into other parts of the body? When

The whole Army of soldiers will follow their Leader.

Charles the fifth went into Italy to be Crowned Emperour, being troubled with the Headach, he cut his hair short, the great Courtiers followed his example; so as long hair so much in fashion before, grew quite out of fashion in his time. Strabo. Alexander used to carry his head on one side, where-

Bisp. Exer.

upon

upon his Courtiers to imitate him did the like. Before Vespasians time the Romans were grown to great excess in cloaths and furniture for their houses; and though many laws were made against it, they could not be restrained: but when he came to the Crown, being a temperate and moderate Prince, all their former vanity grew out of use. So true is that saying of King Alphonsus, That as certain flowers move after the Sun, so the people follow the manners of their Princes: And certain it is, that the common sort, like a flock of sheep, which way the first goeth, all the rest follow. The actions of Rulers are often the rulers of the peoples actions. The vulgar are like soft wax, taking any and easie impression from the seals of great men. When men of quality swear, roar, deride Religion, dwell without God in their houses, &c. how quickly do their neighbours take after them, and justify their practices by such patterns, thinking they sin cum privilegio, if they sin cum Principe! But now, if a great man walk with God, condemn and reprove sin by his works as well as by words, (being as the chief Magistrate of Israel was, mighty in word and deed, Act. 7. 22.) if he pray with his family, keep the Lords day strictly, work out his salvation diligently, how prevalent will such an example be to the inferiour people! surely as when the Mountains overflow with water, the valleys are much the better; so when these Mountains (as Rulers are called, Micah 6. 7.) overflow with the water of grace, the plains will abound the more in fruit.

Think therefore how comfortable it will be for thee by thy holy life to direct others in the way to heaven; and how lamentable will it one day be to thee, shouldst thou lead others in the road to Hell? How deep wilt thou sink into hell, that shalt be pressed down under the weight of thy own and thine other other mens sins? I remember Luther. mentioneth this to be one of the Papists tenents; That if the Pope be so neglectful of his own and his Brethrens salvation; and so unprofitable and remiss in his place; that he carries a long with himself innumerable people to be eternally tormented, no mortal man ought to reprove him for this sin. But sure I am, the Immortal God will reprove both him and you for such crimes, when ye shall meet in the other world; where the weight of sin will be sufficiently felt, and the worth of the soul (which is destroyed by it) shall be fully known.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Further, It becometh you the rather to walk as Gods; because others do not only sin with you, but suffer for you. When King David numbred the people out of pride, how did God number the people to the Pestilence! 2 Sam. What bitter fruits doth God make Israel to feed on, Jer. 15. 2. Such as are for death to death, such as are for famine to famine, such as are for the sword to the sword! But if you would know the root from which those sower fruits spring, Because of Manasseh the King of Judah, for that which he did in Jerusalem, v. 4.

Whether, saith one, a Gangreen begin at the head or the heel, it will kill; but a Gangreen in the head will kill sooner then one in the heel; Even so will the sins of great ones overthrow a state sooner then the sins of small ones; therefore the advice of Sigismund the Emperour, when a motion was made for Reformation, was, Let us begin at the Minorities; saith one. No, rather saith he, Let us begin at the Majorities; for if the great ones be good, the meaner cannot easily be evill.

Secondly, It exhorteth you to work as Gods.

I shall branch this Use into three Particulars:

1. Execute Justice impartially.

2. Excell in shewing Mercy.

3. Promote Piety to the utmost of your power.

First,

First, Execute justice impartially. God is a God of Justice & judgement, Isa. 30. 18. The most just, Job 34. 17. Others may do justly, he cannot but do justly: Justice which is an accident in others (and therefore may be separated from them) is his very Essence; his Being. Be ye therefore like God. Let Justice run down like water; and Righteousness like a mighty stream. Wear the same garments which he doth; Isa. 59. 17. He putteth on Righteousness for a Breast-plate, and the Helmet of Salvation upon his head. Such garments did holy Job wear, I put on Righteousness, and it cloathed me, my Judgement was as a Robe and a Diadem; Job 29. 14. Kings and Princes wear Crowns and Diadems, Judges and other Officers wear Robes and other Ornaments. Now saith Job, others place much of their glory and state in their Robes, in their Purple vestments which strike a reverence in the Subj. & toward his Superior, adding in the estimation of men Majesty to the person, and solemnity to the action of the wearer: but I place my honour in Justice and Judgement; I think my self better cloathed with these real vertues, then others with their empty marks & ensigns of dignity.

I say, Execute Justice impartially, that is; without fear or favour; Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgement; then shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honour the person of the mighty, Lev. 19. 15. as if he had said, ye cannot deal righteously, if ye spare any, because he is poor, or because he is rich. It is a principle in Moral Policy, That an ill executor of the Laws is worse in a State then a great breaker of them. And the Egyptian Kings presented the Oath to their Judges, not to swerve from their consciences, though they received a command from themselves to the contrary: Neither fear of greatness (It is a mercy to have Judges, saith Cicero; modo audeant, que sentiunt) nor favour of nearness should make Magistrates deviate from the Rule.

It was a strange yet true saying, There was more justice in hell then in France; there the guilty are punished, be they never so great, they do not escape; but in France it is otherwise; may it not be said so of England?

The Dignity of Magistracy,

When Caricles the son in law of Phocion was accused for taking bribes, he desired his Father to defend his cause; but he answered him, I took thee for my son in law in all honest matters only. A Magistrate should be an heart without affection; an eye without lust; a mind without passion; or otherwise his hand will do unrighteous actions. He that goeth to the Seat of Judicature, must leave his affections (as Abram his servants when he went to the Mount) behind him. A Justice must like the earth, cherish and nourish the low Violet as well as the tall Cedar. The Gracians placed Justice betwixt Leo and Libra, thereby signifying, that there ought to be both magnanimity in executing, and indifferency in determining. But the impartiality of a Ruler is notably set out by the Throne of the house of David, which was placed in the gate of the City, towards the Sun rising, as some observe. In the gate, to tell us that all who went in and came out at the gate, might indifferently be heard, and have free access to the Judgement Seat; but towards the rising of the Sun, to shew that their judgement should be as clear from corruption, as the Sun is clear in his chiefest brightness.

Psal. 122. 5.

It would be an ornament unto, and tend to the settlement of Magistracy (for the Throne is established by righteousness, Prov. 16. 12.) if those two Verses which some say are written in letters of gold over the Tribunal in Zant, were practised by every Court of Justice.

Hic locus odit, amat, punit, conservat, honorat, Nequitiam, pacem, crimina, jura, bonos.

In the executing of Justice there are two things mainly to be minded.

1. That you be terrors to evil doers; this is expressed as one of your chief duties, Rom. 13. 3. If men

men be fearless in sinning, surely you should not be fearful in sentencing them for their sins. God hateth iniquity; He is of purer eyes then to behold it, the evill of sin never got a good look from God, and why should it from the Gods? Edward the Confessor was held a bad Prince, not by doing but enduring evil. God was angry with Eli, and telleth him that he would judge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knew, because his Sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not, 1 Sam. 3. 13. Eli was a Magistrate, and should have put forth his authority and punished those ungodly children, but because he did not, God punished both him and them. O it is dangerous to do the work of the Lord negligently. Sir, Do not you (or might you not upon inquiry) know of them that prophane Gods day, blaspheme his name, frequent Ale-houses and the like? do you restrain them? Do you fright such offenders with your frowns, and shew your love to their souls by executing Justice on them for their sins? If you do not, look to your self; for God hath Iron hands for Justices that have leaden heels, and will one day strike them home, for forswearing themselves to spare others. He will be a terror to thee, and make thee a terror to thy self who wilt not at his command be a terror to evil doers. Thou sinnest in others, whilst thou sufferest them to sin, and thou shalt one day suffer with them, Rev. 18. 4. Thou art afraid to offend thy Neighbours, I tell thee, God will make thee know twere better offending all the world, then one God. I beseech you, make it appear that you are Magistrates by being men of courage; be as bold in executing as others are in transgressing the law. Shall iniquity be brazen-faced, and authority hide it self? If the offender be in robes, be not afraid of him, but make him afraid of you. I have read that the Athenians Judges sat in Mars-street, to shew that Rulers should be

Dan. Hist.

Our old word Koning and by contraction King, comes of Cor, saith Beccanus, and comprehendeth 3. things, Possum, Scio, Audeo.

men.

men of valour; Cowards are more fit to be slaves than rulers. A Magistrate should be like Moses, in his own cause as meek as a Lamb, in Gods cause as stiff as an Oak, as bold as a Lion. All dare disparage him who dareth discourage none. How punctually doth Scripture tell you, that this ought to be your practice! Magistrates, saith Peter, are sent for the punishment of evil doers, 1 Pet. 2. 14. And Paul saith, If thou doest evil, be afraid, for he beareth not the sword in vain. For he is the Minister of God, an avenger to execute wrath on them that do evil, Rom. 13. 4. The sword which is carried before him, as an Ensign of his power, is not for shew or for fashion, but for the wounding disorderly persons. A wise King saith Solomon, Prov. 20. 26. Scattereth the wicked and bringeth the wheel over them, a kind of punishment then in use, and now in many places. Especially be severe to them that prophane the Sabbath, that Queen of dayes, that golden season of grace. Nehemiah would not spare the chief men that prophaned this chiefest of dayes, Nehem. 13. 17. This is one of the chief precepts which the Lord of Sabbath commandeth you, Exod. 20. Exod. 23. 12. Englands disturbing Gods rest, hath raised God to disturb Englands rest.

He that spareth the bad, hurteth the good. The Chirurgion must cut off incurable members, and the Physician of the State must purge out the peccant humours of the body Politick, least they infect and injure the whole. The execution of Justice is like a clap of thunder which striketh few, but frighteth many. Smite a scorner, and the simple will beware, Prov. 19. 25. Thus by not punishing the evil, both the good and bad are (though unjustly) punished; yet the greatest injury is to the Ruler, by the offenders impunity; for besides the guilt which he contracts on his soul; and thereby Gods eternal wrath, he is oftentimes punished in his body, and made made an example of Gods Justice to others. When the French King was perswaded by the Duke of Sully, to banish that generation of Vipers, the Jesuites, he would not, saying, Give me security then for my life. But he was shortly after stabbed to death by their instigation. God doth not seldom make them examples of his judgements, that will not make others examples of justice.

Pœna ad unum, timor ad omnes.

Henry the fourth.

Secondly, That you be Protectors of them that do well. The Holy Ghost telleth you that you should be for the praise of them that do well. Courts of Justice should be Cities of refuge to them that are unjustly and causlessly pursued; like Noahs Ark, to take in and give rest to those weary Doves; like the horns of the Altar, to which innocency should flie for protection. Mine eyes saith David, shall be upon the faithfull in the Land, Psal. 101. 6. Hide the godly especially under the shadow of your wings. Piety hath too much been bespattered with obloquy, and holiness suffered under the name of baseness. Mali esse coguntur ne viles habeantur; Men have been necessitated to be vicious, lest they should be accounted vile. Be you not only patterns, but Patrons of purity. Let the world know that greatness can own and countenance goodness. The Kings of Gerar were called Abimelech, which signifieth My Father, Gen. 30.2. noting that a King should be as careful and mindfull, as tender and chary of his Subjects (especially good ones) as Fathers of their children. Alas, if the Magistrates will not own them, what shall the godly do! The Devil raiseth all the the Train-bands of hell against them that march to heaven. The world loveth its own, but because they are not of the world, therefore the world hateth them; their neighbours malign them, and rage because they dare not run to the same excess of riot. The whole Parish if occasion be, will be gathered together against those that are pious, especially if they be zealous (for Gods glory) against others impieties. Now since God hath set you up for their shelter, surely you are concerned to secure them in times of danger. Sure I am that it is a privilege and honour to you, that you may be serviceable to the people of God. God carrieth them upon Eagles wings, Exod. 19. 4. as tenderly as the Eagle her young ones, of which some observe; she carrieth her prey between her Talons, but her young under her wings; and if a Fowler shoot at her, she will first have her own body shot through, before they shall be hurt. God is therefore called their shield, Gen. 17. 1. Now a shield is between the body and the weapon. Look therefore that you imitate God in this. Remember that men were not made for you, but you were made for them; God took David from the sheepfold to feed Jacob his people and Israel his inheritance, Psal. 78. 70, 71.

Salvian.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

It was said by Nazianzen of Athanasius, that he was Magnes & Adamas: an Adamant in his stout resolute carriage against vice, and a Load-stone to encourage and draw vertue to him. And the wise man telleth us, The Kings favour is towards a wise servant, but his wrath is towards him that causeth shame, Prov. 14. ult. As the wind hurteth not the reeds and corn which yield to it, but rooteth up the sturdy stubborn Oak which will not bow; so the Ruler should deal sharply with the obstinate, but gently with the mild and flexible.

Sueton.

Augustus Caesar in whose time Christ was born, was so tender of his people, that when he died they wept saying, Would he had never been born, or never died!

Secondly, As you should work like Gods amongst men in executing Justice impartially, so likewise in shewing mercy: God is the Father of mercies, 1 Cor. 1. 3. Rich in mercy, Ephes. 2. 4. He hath multitudes of tender mercies, Psal. 51. 1. He is abundant in mercy, mercy, 1 Pet. 1. 3. His mercy is free, Rom. 9. 15. Great, Psal. 57. 10. Matchless, Jer. 3. 1. Sure, Isa. 55. 1. Mercy as one observeth, is the chief of all Gods attributes, though in themselves they are all equal; but in regard of our necessities, as Oyl swims above all other liquors, as the Eagle is the chief of Birds, the Lion of Beasts, Gold of metals, so mercy is the chief of all Gods attributes. He hath a Mercy-seat, to note that he sitteth at ease when he is shewing mercy. Whereas judgement is his strange work, Isa. 28. 21. we read likewise that mercy pleaseth him, Mica. 7. 18. Thus the Gods should be mercifull men, your hearts should be full of mercy, and pittie to the sinner, when your hands are executing justice against the sin.

Mr. Calamy on Ezek. 36. 32. p. 30. before the Parliament.

The Bee doth not sting till provoked: God doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, Lam. 3. 33. There should be bowels of compassion in him that pronounceth sentence of condemnacion.

Ille dolet quoties cogitur esse ferox.

Augustus never pronounced a deadly sentence without deep sorrow.

Our Laws forbid Butchers to be Jurors, because it is supposed they will be hard-hearted. Among several qualifications which the Jews required in their Judges, these were two; 1. That they should be Fathers of children, hoping that their paternal affection would incline them to commiseration. 2. That they should not be Eunuches, for they conceived such very cruel. It is a bestial cruelty to delight in blood.

Godwin. Antiq.

The Laws of Draso are generally condemned, for they were written in blood, and the offender was sure to die of what nature soever his offence was. A. Gell.

Ferina rabies est sanguine & vulneribus gaudere. Senec. de cle. lib. 1. cap. 24.

Our English Deborah, Queen Elizabeth did not

Nero in the beginning of his Empire being requested to set his hand to a warrant for the execution of an offender, would say, utinam nescirem literas.

Siles.

Plu. in vit. Jul. Cas.

without cause exceedingly prize Seneca's first book of Clemency, because it treated of that which is so needfull to a Prince.

It is the Devils work to be Abaddon, a destroyer. It is Christs work to be Goel a Redeemer. Mercy and truth preserve the King, his Throne is established by mercy, Prov. 20. 28. Mercy sometime to them that sin through weakness, may be as profitable, as severity to them that sin through wilfulness.

It was certainly a cursed speech of that man or rather Monster, (whom the Italian Orator mentioneth) that being a Judge said, To hang many is my Jubile, and a great execution is my great recreation. The expression of the Roman Emperour is worthy of imitation, That he had rather save the life of one of his Subjects, then take away the lives of a thousand of his enemies. Life is a precious jewel, more worth then all this world. Skin for skin and all that a man hath will he give for his life, Job 1. It is not therefore to be taken away for every trifle. I do not now dispute the question, Whether any Theft may lawfully be punished with death, but I am sure, every Theft ought not. The Romans had their Axes and Rods carried before their Consuls, to shew that if the lesser punishments, as of the rods, would serve, the greater of the Axe should not be used. And they did justly lament the cruelty of those tribunals where the cheap prescription of lives made the Judgement-seat differ little from a Shambles.

3. Work as Gods among men in promoting piety to your power. The great design and work of God is to promote holiness in the world. This was his aim in his internal work or his decree, Ephes. 1. 4. This is the great end he drives at, in his external works. As in the work of redemption, Tit. 2. 14. Luke 1. 92. In bestowing his word. (The precepts in it are the perfect rule of godliness, Gal. 6. 16. the promises are pretious encouragements to godliness, nests, 2 Cor. 7. 1. the threatnings are like the Angel with a drawn sword in his hand to deter men from the way of ungodliness, Rom. 1, 18.) And his works of providence are to the same purpose. Afflictions are like the fire to consume the dross, and purifie the gold, Heb. 12. 6. Mercies are like the warm influences of the vernal Sun to draw forth the Sap of grace, and hasten mens growth in holiness.

Thus should the Gods promote godliness as the chief business which the most high God hath given them to do. Other things of what nature soever which come within the reach of their care, are questionless much inferiour to this. And this they should do, Partly by their patterns in being examples of godliness to their people; Their lives should be so exact that they should be able to say as Gideon, Judges 7. 17. Look on us and do likewise, or as Paul, Walk as ye have us for an example.

Partly by your precepts, your edicts and commands should be like those of Asa, 2 Chron. 14. 2. 4. Asa did that which was right in the sight of the Lord. He commanded Judah to seek the Lord God of their Fathers, and to do the Law and the Commandment. Mark, upright Asa did not leave men to choose their religions, nor to live as they listed, but he commanded them to obey Gods Law. He did not strictly enjoyn the payment of Taxes or Customs, and such civil things, and leave it as a matter of indifferency whether men would mind religion or no, but his Laws did enforce and confirm the Laws of God, as far as he was able.

Partly by countenancing, maintaining and providing able Ministers, 2 Chron. 19. 8. 1 Cor. 9. 13. for the Church, as also by taking care that they discharge their trusts faithfully, 2 Chron. 29. 3, 4, 5. 1 Chron. 16. It is observed of Julian the Apostate, that to root up Christianity he disgraced the Orthodox Ministry, took away Church maintenance and forbid

Prima Magistratus cura debet esse, religionem veram promovere, & impietatem prohibere. Amel. de consecr. lib. 5. cap. 25.

In hoc reges Deo serviunt in quantum reges. Aug.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

Christian Schools and places of learning; so Sozomen lib. 5. cap. 5. This very course is now cryed up, the Lord prevent it: The Prince indeed is not called to be a publike Preacher, but he hath a call to see that none abuse that calling to the hurt or pollution of his people.

Plato would not permit in his Common-wealth any such person as asserted God the Author of sin.

Christianus nulla re magis dignosci potest quam si Deo factas contumelias & blasphemias severissime ulciscatur, suas obliviscatur.
Genevra in ep. ad Car. 5.

Partly by suppressing and discountenancing them whose doctrines or lives hinder godliness. Suppressing evil is necessary for the promoting good. Holy Asa removed his Mother from being Queen upon this very account, 1 Kings 15. 12, 13. The toleration of any in such sins is an intolerable sin. And the jealous God will one day make Magistrates know; that they shall bear his anger for bearing such evil doers as blasphemers and Hereticks are. I speak not against a true Christian-liberty in things that are indifferent, or in things that are not fundamental; but I cannot but speak against this Antichristian licentiousness; which is (though under other terms) so much pleaded for; It may well make a dumb child speak when his Father is so deeply wounded in his Word, Honour, People, and Ordinances, as he is in our dayes. If State-reason compel men to suffer it; they must know that it will prove State-ruine. Shall it be treason and death to speak thus and thus against men that are mortal, weak Gods? and shall it not at all be penal to blaspheme the Almighty and Everliving God, in denying his Truths, which are more worth then the whole world? Surely Blasphemies, Idolatry and Heresies, sins against the first Table, are greater (as being more directly and immediately against God) then sins against the second Table, and therefore deserve punishments; vide 1 Kings 18. 18. Exod. 21. 17. Levit. 24. 10. to the 17. v. Job 31. 25, 26, 27. Dent. 13. per totum; though care should be first had, and means used for the informing and reforming such offenders.

Suffer

Suffer me (as Elihu said, Job 30. 2, 3.) a little, and I will shew you what I have to speak on Gods behalf; I will fetch my knowledge from Scripture, and will ascribe righteousness to my Maker. Because in our unholy, and therefore unhappy dayes, the very duty which I am urging the Magistrate to, is questioned as many other truths are; I shall speak a little to it. This Popish doctrine is now almost generally entertained; That Magistrates have nothing to do in matters of Religion (as some others Jesuitical tenents are now on foot.) Parsons the English Jesuite in his memorial for Reformation, adviseth that all the Colledges in the Universities with their Revenues, should (not be imployed as now they are, for the encouragement of godliness and learning but) be settled on six men, and also what ever Mannour or Parsonage belonged to the Church; that no mans conscience be pressed for matters in Religion: That there should be no fixed Ministers, only some Itinerary Preachers: This is the way saith he, for Popery to flourish in England, though he nameth more wayes. But that Magistrates ought to meddle in matters of Religion, and promote it to their power, may appear clearly to them that are not wilfully blind.

Princeps nihil statuat de religione, saith Mariana the Jesuite. Marian. cap. 10.

First, from the practices of godly Rulers; What Asa did, hath been already mentioned. Hezekiah was a Prince that did also promote Piety, 2 Chron. 29. 2, 3, 4, 5. 25. 30. & in 2 Chron. 30. & 5. which places are large (therefore not here recited) but full to our purpose, wherein Hezekiah commanded the Levites to sanctifie themselves, to praise the Lord with the words of David, and both Priests and People to keep the Passover.

So Josiah, 2 Chron. 34. 3. ult. And the King stood in his place, and made a Covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord, and to keep his Commandments. And (mark) he caused all that were present in Jerusalem and Benjamin to stand to it. And the Inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the Covenant of God. And Josiah took away all the abominations out of all the Countries that pertained to the children of Israel. (Observe) And made all that were present in Israel to serve, even to serve the Lord their God. And all his dayes they departed not from following the Lord. He made them to serve the Lord both by his precepts, and by the punish-

* It is observable that in the Kings and Chronicles, when Henry the sixth mentioneth the lives of the Kings of Israel, he doth in the first place take notice how they dealt in matters of Religion, whether they brake down the graven Images, or cut down the groves, or tooke away the high places, or the like.

ments he inflicted on them that would not. This text can never be answered. All the subtile evasions which Jesuitical heads have used to make it invalid, could never do it. For if as some affirm, it is not binding to us under the New, because it is delivered in the Old Testament, then Faith in Christ and Repentance, which are the sum and substance of the Old Testament are void also; and so they may rob us, if we will believe them, both of our Saviour and Salvation *

Nay an Heathen King enacted a law, that whosoever would not obey the Law of God, as well as the Law of the King, that judgement should be executed speedily upon him, whether it be unto death, or to banishment or confiscation of goods, or imprisonment, Ezra 7. 26. And for this Law holy Ezra blesteth God, v. 27. so Ezra 6. 11. Dan. 3. 29.

Besides these patterns in Scripture, we have the like in Ecclesiastical Writers. Constantine a godly Emperour, purged the Church of Idolatry, and established the worship of God by his own Imperial commands. Jovinian also and Theodosius, by their Royal Edicts set up and restored the true Religion, which Julian and Valens had put down and discountenanced.

Secondly, The precepts given by God to Rulers, speak this to be their duty. God commandeth him to write him a copy of the Law, Deut. 17. 18. For what end, but that he might keep it himself, as he is a man, and useb. lib. 2. de vit. Constantini, cap. 44.

beodoret. lib. 5. cap. 20.

and take care that others should not break it, as he is a Magistrate. It was an ancient Ceremony in Israel at the Kings Coronation, that when the Crown was set on his head, the Book of God should be given into his hand, 2 Kings 11. 12. to shew that God committed the care of Religion principally to him, that by his power and authority it might be established in his Dominions.

God commandeth Magistrates to be for the good of their subjects, Rom. 13. 4. For good, that is, for thy natural good in preserving thy life in safety; for thy civil good in securing thine estate; for thy spiritual good in establishing the true worship of God, as a keeper of the first Table; Nay, the way to promote the civil good of a people, is, by promoting their spiritual good. That Common-wealth will certainly stand longest, which hath not State-Policy, but State-Piety for its foundation. How many Nations have confirmed this truth, Ubi non est sanctitas, pietas, fides, instabile regnum est! A Nation without Religion, is like a City without walls, naked and open to all enemies; like a building without a foundation, which will quickly be overthrown. Religion to a people is as the Palladium to the Trojans, as the Ancile to the Romans which kept them safe. The want of this overthrew the great Monarchies of the world. What besides this, hath turned so Kingdoms into ruined heaps, and Cities into solitary Deserts? If a fruitful land be turned into barrenness, is it not for the iniquity of them that dwell therein? Psal. 107. 34. Tully observed, that the glory of Greece quickly decay'd when the people were given to evil opinions, and evil manners. Those Rulers that tolerate heretical persons, do but nourish a Snake in their bosoms, and cherish a worm that in time will eat out their own bowels.

Par. on Rom.

Cicero de legib.

Besides, God promiseth that Magistrates shall in the days of the Gospel be nursing Fathers & nursing Mothers to his Charch, Isai. 49. 23. which surely was never meant of procuring only their corporal, but chiefly of promoting their spiritual good.

Vide Zanch. de Magistrat.
Gerh. loc. com. Walkeum de eodem sub. Willet. in Rom.
13. controvers. 4.

O consider, is it not reasonable as well as religious, that you who rule by God, should rule for God? that that power which you have received from him, should be improved mostly for him? Remember your time is short, your opportunities are many, your work is great, and your account will be heavy; therefore work the work of him that sent you into the world. It was a saying of Becket, sometime Archbishop of Canterbury; when he was perswaded to deal moderately with the King, Clavum teneo & ad famulum me vocas, Do I sit at the stern, and would you have me sleep? Sirs, you steer the rudder of the State, you sit at the Helm of the Common-wealth; should you be sleepy or slothful? I beseech you to be doing for the furthering Piety, & the Lord will be with you.

Now that Magistrates may be enabled and incited to walk, and to work, as Gods among men; I shall deliver a few directions, and two or three motives, and then conclude.

First, If you would walk and work as Gods, then get divine principles. According to your principles, such will your practices be; water riseth no higher than its Fountain: If therefore you would walk as God, and work for God, you must both walk and work from God. If ever the hand of the dial point, and go right without, the wheels and poises must be right within. It is noted of true and sincere Saints, that acted for God in the Regal Office. That their hearts were perfect with the Lord, 1 King. 15. 14. Isai. 38. 3. This spiritual life in their souls made them warm and zealous for their Saviour. Caleb that followed the Lord fully, had another Spirit, a different principle from the ten carnal Princes, Numb. 14. 24. Mens actions will then be sacred, when their affections are sanctified. He that that followeth God he knoweth not why, will forsake God he knoweth not how. A Magistrate that is zealous for God only because the times favour such, may soon be brought to be as zealous against God. He that is not knit to his service with the heart-strings of love, spun out of a renewed nature, will easily be parted from his service. Such slavish spirits will serve God no longer then they can serve themselves of God. When Jehu's interest & Gods are conjoynd, as in rooting out the idolatry of Baal, how fiery is Jehu? how furiously doth he drive? He slayeth all the false Prophets, he breaketh down the Images of Baal, and the houle of Baal, and maketh it a draught-house, 2 King. 10. 25, 26, 27. But when Gods Interest and Jehus are divided, as in the Calves at Dan and Bethel, there Jehu must be excused; he will uphold them (as some do by that Monster of Toleration) out of State policy, expecting that they should uphold him, 2 King. 10. 27, 28. But what was the reason of this? Surely the want of this divine principle; the fire of Jehu's zeal was (not lighted at the Altar, for then it would have continued burning, but) kitchen fire kindled at a common hearth, and therefore would burn no longer then it had such gross matter as his own credit or profit to feed it, when this fuel was taken away, his fire went out; look in vers. 31. Jehu walked not in the law of the Lord with all his heart; his heart was not perfect, it was not cast into the fire of the Word, and new-moulded by the Spirit of God. The want of this foundation over-turned all that beautiful building which Jehu had set up.

It is a question in Politicks, Whether a wicked man may be a good Magistrate? It is I suppose possible for a wicked man when he is in authority to do some good; but I conceive he will hardly do the good he ought; or like Caleb, stand for God when the times are against God, when the people talked of stoning him; but like the King of Navarre, he will launch no further into the Ocean then he can be sure to get back safe. Such a man is like an Horse with a thorn in his foot, which may go fairly on in good wayes, but if he come to hard wayes, he will halt, and discover himself. He that hath not gone through the pangs of the new birth, and heartily taken God in Christ for his All, and thereby secured his eternal estate, will scarce hazard his name or estate, much less his limbs or life for God, as he must do that will be faithful unto the death: For with what heart can he look that danger in the face, which for ought he knoweth may kill both body and soul?

Or if he be very bold and venturous for God, yet being an evil man, he can never do good (by all his activeness as a Ruler) to his own soul. God may give him parts, and gifts, and courage, (as a Noble man giveth dainty fare to his Nurse) not out of love to him, but for his childrens sake. He may like a ship, be instrumental to land others at some happy Port whereon it never entereth it self; He may be very helpful to others temporal, nay and eternal salvation, and yet miss himself: Jehu by acting for God, got a lease of an earthly Kingdom for three or four lives, but he lost the heavenly one for ever. The most that I know, that a civil yet un sanctified Magistrate gets by his forwardness and heat for God, is only a cooler hell; though your names are divine, yet if ye be not partakers of the divine nature, ye are lost for ever. Now what advantage will it be to you, like Noahs Carpenters, to build an Ark for the saving of others, and to perish your selves!

Believe it Sirs, If ye would have good fruits in your lives, there must be this root of holiness, in your hearts; A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth good things. What water is in the Well, such will be in the bucket; and what ware is in the shop, such will be on the stall; therefore when God promiseth that men shall walk in his wayes, and keep his judgements, and do them; he promiseth also to put his Spirit, or a new spirit into them, which should enable them thereunto. Ezek. 11. 19. Ezek. 36. 26, 27. The flesh will serve to enable a man to walk after the flesh; but the Spirit of God alone can enable man to walk after the spirit. Natural light is not sufficient to mortifie natural lusts: It may cover for some time, but can never kill sin. Some men may be like the Lyons in Daniels den, chained up, or restrained, and yet have their ravenous dispositions, their old carnal hearts still. Civility though commendable, yet without inward sanctity, is not sufficient to prove one interested in a Saviour, or in a state of salvation. There is as much difference between a Moral man and a real Christian, as between a liveless picture and a living person: A Lion and a Lamb, a Raven and a Dove; darknes and light, death and life do not differ more then a sinner and a Saint, then a man only civilized and a sanctified Christian.

O Sirs, think of it seriously, the terms upon which salvation may be had, are the same to you and the meanest beggar, John 3. 3. If heaven be not in you by the indwelling of Gods Spirit renewing you in the Spirit of your mind, it is impossible that ever you should be in heaven. The tide of your natures, and the wind of your affections must be turned the clean contrary way to what they are by your birth, if ever you sail to the Haven of Heaven. Labour therefore as for life, for this principle of spiritual life; without which you cannot escape the second death.

Secondly, If ye would walk and work as Gods among men, then your rule must be divine as well as your principle. Every calling hath some rule to go by, in conformity to which, their excellency

The smoak of a great mans sacrifice smels never the sweeter before God, because he is perfumed with Musk; or cloathed in Silk.

The Dignity of Magistracy, consisteth. The Lawyer hath his Littleton and Coke; the Physitian hath his Galen and Hippocrates; the Philosopher hath his Aristotle; the Christian hath the Word of God, a sure and a perfect rule to walk by; Gal. 6. 16. And this Word of God is in a special manner commanded and committed to the Magistrate as his Directory; Josh. 1. 8. This Book of the Law shall not depart out of thy mouth, (saith God to the chief Governour of Israel) but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou maist observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success. And Deut. 17. 18, 19. The King that sitteth upon the Throne, shall write him a copy of the Law: And it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the dayes of his life, that he may learn to fear the Lord, and to keep all the words of this Law.

It is a Maxim of the Law of England, that the Law it self ought to be the rule by which all Judges must be regulated, all controversies tryed, and all cases decided. It is good to keep close to the laws of men (that are warrantable by Scripture) but it is best to keep close to the Word of God; There are the best precepts for justice, the best patterns of just men; nay, and of the Infinitely righteous God. You have the example of God himself, how just, how holy he is in all his doings, how he walketh, how he worketh. Cesars ambition was to imitate Alexander; Themistocles endeavoured to resemble Miltiades. Do you labour to be like God, to hate sin, to love holiness, to discourage the prophane, to countenance the pious, to be active and zealous both by your patterns and precepts for the glory of God.

In all your difficulties make the Word of God your Counsellor; in all your doubts let Scripture resolve you: You may look too much to the light within within you, which is imperfect and (1 Tit.) defiled (as Quakers make a Christ of it) but you can never look too much to this light without you, which is perfect and pure, without the least blemish or defect.

The Jews say, that if Printing had been found out in the time of Moses, yet was the King bound to write out two copies of the Law with his own hand; one to keep in the Treasury, and the other to carry about with him as his Vade Mecum. Alphonfus King of Arragon (as some say) read over the Bible fourteen times with Lyra's Notes upon it. And that renowned Maiden Queen Elizabeth, when she passed in triumphal state through the City of London, after her Coronation, when the Bible was presented to her at the little Conduit in Cheapside, she received it with both her hands, and kissing it, laid it to her breasts, saying, that it had ever been her cheifest delight, and should be the rule whereby she would frame her Government. This was the delight, the joy, the counsellor of that Magistrate that was after Gods own heart, Psal. 119. 70. 111, 24. And this made him wiser then his Teachers, then his Elders, Psal. 119. 97. to 100. And indeed this Book of Books only can make a wise and good Christian, Captain, Counsellor, and Ruler. Let therefore the ballance of the Sanctuary weigh all, the Oracles of God decide all, the rule of the Word square all, and then nothing will be amiss. Let the Bible be to you as the pillar of fire by night, and the cloud by day to the Israelites, directing you through the Wilderness of this world, till ye come to the true Canaan.

Theodosius the second, wrote the New-Testament out with his own hand.

Speed Chronic.

It was a memorable saying of King Edward the sixth, when he was crowned, and had three Swords put into his hands, (signifying his power over three Nations, England, France, and Ireland). Deest ad hoc unus gladius, viz. Sacrorum Bibliorum volumen;

Balde. de Script. Brit. cent. 2.

men; Ille liber gladius spiritus est, & gladius his omnibus longe anteferendus; There is one Sword wanting; namely the Sword of the Spirit, the Word of God, which excelleth them all.

Thirdly, let your end be divine as well as your rule, if ye would walk and work as Gods among men. The Moralists tell us that actions are much specified from their ends. If your actions are materially good, yet if finally evil, they are denominated wicked. If they are according to Gods Word for the matter, yet if ye make not Gods glory your end, they are evil. Therefore if ye would have the arrows of your actions to flie right, let your eyes take right aim at this mark. Do all for God. Quicquid agas, propter Deum agas, saith Luther. As ye are men, ye were created to serve him; as Magistrates, doubly bound to honour your great Master. Gods free grace is the fountain of your power, and therefore Gods glory must be the end. It is reported of Tamerlane, that warlike Scythian, that having overcome Bajazet the great Turk, he asked him, Whether he had ever given God thanks for making him so great an Emperour? The great Turk confessed ingenuously that he never thought of it; to whom Tamerlane replied, That it was no wonder so ungrateful a wretch was made a spectacle of misery; For you saith he, being blind of one eye, and lame of one leg, was there any worth in us, why God should set us over two great Empires of Turks and Tartars? So truly may you think; It was meer mercy which advanced you more then others, and therefore it is your duty to advance God more then others. If ye love your souls, take heed of self. O how many millions by seeking themselves have lost themselves! by seeking their own glory, pleasure, and profit for a time; have brought themselves to shame, pain, and loss to all eternity! O Beware

of

Actiones specificantur ab objecto, fine, & circumstantiis. Eustach.

Omnibus operationibus nostris, celestis intentio ad-jungi debet.

of this root of bitterness, Self. Do not like Demetrius, pretend to be zealous for the Goddess, when in truth it was for his gain. Or like watermen, row one way towards God and Christ, and Heaven, and look another way, towards the world, and the flesh; but give up thy self wholly to him; Lay out thy talents altogether for him; esteem it thy felicity and priviledge that thou hast more advantages then others, whereby thou mayst exceed others in serviceableness to thy Maker, Preserver, and Redeemer.

Let that Peerless Prince be thy pattern, even the Lord Jesus Christ; I seek not my own glory, John 8. 50. And when he came to die; Father, saith he, I have glorified thee on earth. I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do, John 17.

This was the Fathers end in your creation, Prov. 16. 4. Revel. 4. ult. The Sons end in your Redemption, Luke 1. 71. 1 Cor. 6. 20. The Spirits end in your Sanctification, Ephes. 2. 10. John 17. 10. Therefore let this be your end; Pray, and read, and hear, and watch over your own souls; walk inoffensively before God; work industriously for God, and do all that God may be glorified, 1 Cor. 10. 31.

We call not those Kings happy, saith Austin, who raign'd long, but those who have raign'd most for God; Qui potestatem suam divina Majestati famulam faciunt; That have made their authority serviceable to the divine Majesty. God can easily throw those Crowns from mens heads, which are not laid at his feet. And he will assuredly lay them low that do not set him high; for those that honour him, he will honour; but those that despise him, shall be lightly esteemed.

Aug. de civit. Dei lib. 3. cap. 24.

I come now to the Motives; to stir you up both to walk and work as Gods among men.

i. Consider, God beholdeth you this day; He taketh notice, and observeth how ye walk, and how ye work. All the wayes of man (Prov. 5. 21) are before the Lord, and he pondereth all his paths. Be your works what they will be, God seeth them, and he weigheth them in the balance of the Sanctuary, and that beam will discover it, if they be never so little too light.

He beholdeth not only your practices, but your principles; he knoweth what is the wind which causeth the Mill to go; he knoweth by what rule, and for what end, and from what principle ye act; all things are, γυμνά & τελεωχημένα, naked and open in the eyes of him with whom we have to do, Heb. 4. 13. The words are very Emphatical, and signifie thus much, That as the Lineaments and outside of the Body is very visible when it is naked and unclothed; and as the bowels and inside are discovered when the body is dissected and anatomized; So are both your outwards and inwards, your actions and affections manifest, naked and open to God.

Nay, he beholdeth what ye do in the dark; you may work so cunningly as to hide your designs and works from men, but not from God; there is no darknes, nor shadow of death where the workers of iniquity can hide themselves, Job 34. 22. This Sun knoweth no night, no darknes; where ever he is (and he is infinite and omnipresent) it is light, and day; therefore the eyes of Christ, Rev. 1. 14. are said to be as a flame of fire, implying his omniscience, and that he is able to disperse all darknes. For Philosophy and experience teach us, that those Creatures which have fiery eyes can see in the dark; and the reason is clear, because they do not see as we do (Recipiendo species ab objecto, sed extra-mittendo species) by receiving species from the Object, but by sending out species or rays, which do both inlighten the medium, the ayr, and apprehend the Object. Thus Christ seeth in the dark ye see: yea the darknes hideth not from him, but the night shineth as the

the day ; to him the darkness and the light are both alike, Psal. 139. 12.

Ponder then this omnipresence and omniscience of God, and walk before him, and be upright, Gen. 17. 1. The Moralist would have his Scholars to live always as in the eye of Cato : O do you live ever as in the eye of God. Beware what thou doest ; for God seeth thee : God standeth in the Congregation, he judgeth among the Gods, Psal. 82. 1. He judgeth among you, he is present with you ; not always in regard of approbation ; for your deeds may be evil ; but always in regard of observation.

This was Iehosaphats Argument to incite his Judges to care and caution, 2 Chron. 19. 6, 7. Take heed what ye do ; for ye judge not for man, but for the Lord, who is with you in the judgement. He is with you in the judgement ; With you to commend and praise you if ye do well ; to condemn and punish you if you do ill ; to observe and take notice whether ye do well or ill. As if Iehosaphat had said, I cannot ride circuit with you, nor be present with you in all your Councils, but the Lord a greater than I, can and doth, he is with you in the Judgements. Wherefore now let the fear of the Lord be upon you ; take heed, and do it ; for there is no iniquity with the Lord our God, nor respect of persons, nor taking of Gifts, ver. 7.

When the Ethiopian Judges were set in their seats of Judicature, certain empty Chairs were placed about them (some say twelve) into which they imagined the holy Angels came. And this they hoped would work in their Magistrates circumspection and fear of doing any thing unworthy the Angels eye-observation : I must tell you a greater than Angels is here, even the God of Angels ; therefore be wary and watchfull, take heed what ye do.

Among the Egyptians it is reported, When their Rulers were set, they caused the Image of a Divine Quintus Pius in 2 Chro.

19.

Diodor. Sicul. lib. 1.

Numen to be hung about his neck who sat next to the Judges. The Deity is ever near you, with you, among you: Let the consideration thereof quicken you to zeal and faithfulness in all your transactions.

This made David, the King of Israel, so upright and holy in his Conversation: I have kept thy precepts, for all my ways are before thee, Psal. 119.68. Observe his holy carriage, I have kept thy precepts; and its heavenly cause, for all my ways are before thee; or as in another place, I have set the Lord always before me, Psal. 16.8. As if he had spoken, I have not done what seemed good in my own eyes, I have not walked according to my own will, but my race hath been according to the Rule which thou hast prescribed me: I have kept thy precepts; for I considered thou wast an ear-witness to my words; therefore I did set a watch before my lips, that I might not offend with my tongue: that thou wast an eye-witness to my works; therefore I endeavoured that my feet might not decline thy paths: That thou wast an heart-witness to my thoughts; therefore I durst not let vain thoughts lodge within me; I have kept thy precepts, for all my ways are before, &c.

Surely, If Alexanders empty Chair, which his Captains when they met in Council, sate before them, did cause them to be kept in such good order: what behaviour should the presence of God cause among the Gods!

The Jews covered Christs face, and then they buffeted him: Men hide God from their eyes, and think to hide themselves from Gods eyes, and then make bold to provoke him.

Believe it Reader, God seeth thee what ever thou dost; he is present with thee wherever thou art, when thou art in thy Closet; in thy Family, among thy Neighbours, when thou art punishing Drunkards, or Swearers in the Parish where thou livest; when thou thou art sitting on the bench at the Sessions or Assize, he observeth in what manner thou actest, whether coldly and carelessly, as one indifferent about the discouraging of sin, though sin deal not so mildly with men when it turneth them into intolerable and eternal flames; or whether diligently and fervently as one fired with love to his Majesty, and zeal for his glory, and hatred of iniquity. He observeth from what principle thou actest, whether from nature or grace; and for what end thou actest, whether thy own or his glory; whether it be to please such a man, or the blessed God; whether to get thy self a name, or to make his name great.

Job hath a notable expression, I wish it were written on every Magistrates heart; He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, but with Kings are they on the throne, Job 36.7. He is totus oculus, all eye, he seeth you through and through; his eyes are with Kings on the throne, to observe what the King doth there, to see whether Justice and Judgement are the habitation of his throne; whether the Scepter of his Kingdom be a righteous Scepter; whether he be cloathed with grace as with a garment, and arrayed with purity as well as purple; to see whether the zeal of Gods house do eat him up, Psal 69.9. and he prefer the Spiritual before the Temporal good of his people; to see whether he will suffer them to be lawless in Religion, and allow out of hellish policy, that which is destructive to Piety, even a cursed Toleration.

Gods eye, Sirs, may well make you look well to your wa'king, to your hands and hearts: Are uncleanness, injustice, oppression, lukewarmness, atheism, bribery fit objects for Gods eye? It was ordered in the Law of Moses, that when any went forth of the Camp to ease Nature, they should dig an hole with a Paddle, and cover it; and the reason is given; For the Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy Camp;

The Dignity of Magistracy,

therefore shall it be holy, that he see no unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee, Deut. 23. 13, 14.

This Law noteth how the presence of God should keep us from polluting our selves; Sin is the soules excrement; Gods walking among us should work in us an hatred of such defilements.

Gods eye may make you work as gods among men. Cesars Souldiers were prodigal of their blood, when he beheld them: How bold should ye be in the discouraging the sturdiest, stateliest Offenders? How forward in the countenancing the poorest, pious Christian, considering that God beholdech you!

Epaminondas rejoiced much that he had done noble exploits, his Parents being alive to take notice of them. What noble acts soever are done for the promoting Godliness, for the stopping the mouth of wickedness by the children of the most High, are all known to the everliving Father, who recordeth them faithfully, and will reward them bountifully; be therefore exact in your walkings, and zealous in your working, since your labour shall not be in vain for the Lord, 1 Cor. 15. ult.

Secondly, Consider the day of your dissolutions is halting. While ye are creeping only in Gods way, or doing negligently Gods Work, death is posting with speed towards you. Consider the verse following the Text; though he hath said, Ye are Gods, and called you children of the most High, yet ye must die like men: Your honours, and your worships, your Majesties, and your Highnesse, must shortly lie in the dust; and be as low as the meanest. Diseases spare none for their fine Cloaths, high Places, or great Estates. And the Cannon of death doth as soon hit the great Commanders as the Common Souldier, it maketh no difference. Charles the great, Pompey the great, and Alexander the great, were all little in Deaths hands: Men in places of greatest power, are not persons priviledged from the Arrest of this surly Sergeant. Ye Ye that are Divine in name, have human mortal natures; and as ye are Shields of the earth, so ye are earthen Shields. What is said of the Duke of Parma's Sword, is true of Death; it maketh no difference between Robes and Rags, between Prince and Peasant: It is the way of all the Earth, Joss. 25. 14. The great Road in which all Travell; and the end of all the living, Job 30. 23. The great Inn to which all travell. There is no man, saith Solomon, that hath power of his Spirit, to retain it, neither hath he power in the day of death; there is no discharge in that war, Eccles. 8. 8.

It is storied of Alexander, that having heard of Paradise, he was very eager of seeking it out, and for that end came into the East part of the Earth, where an old man meeting some of his Souldiers, bad them tell Alexander that he sought Paradise in vain; For the way to Paradise was the way of Humility which he did not take: but saith he, Take this stone and carry it to Alexander, and tell him that from this stone he shall know what he is. Now the stone was a precious stone, and of such a quality, that whatsoever thing was weighed with it, that was still the heavier; only if it were covered with dust, then it was as light as straw; thereby signifying that though Alexander, and men in Authority out-weigh others in life, yet when they are covered with dust, when death cometh, they are as light as others; all their greatness cometh to nothing. O how little Earth containeth Great Men when they die, who will not be contented with much while they live!

Quint. Curt.

If then ye must die shortly, doth it not behove you to live strictly? If your time be little, should not your work be great for God and your souls? Whether thou wilt think of it, or no, death is approaching thee; the Sun doth not move faster in the Heavens; then thou art moving to the earth. The glass of thy Life for ought thou knowest is nigh its last sand.

land. Sure I am thou art now nearer thine unchangeable estate; then ever thou wert: and doth it not concern thee to walk exactly among men, and to work industriously for God! O how much wilt thou wish at an hour of death, that thou hadst walked humbly with God, and wrought hard for the Lord all the time of thy life!

'Tis observed among the Papists, that the Cardinals, who think their Cowle and other Religious Habits ill becoming them in their health, yet are very ambitious to die and be buried in them. And I have taken notice in several Churches, where are the Monuments of great persons, that their Effigies must be erected kneeling, with a Bible in their hands, holding their hands up to heaven, and looking very devoutly with their eyes up to the same place; when I have heard of some of them, how Prophane and Atheistical they were in their Lives; that they used the name of God often in swearing, but seldom in praying, and prized a Romance or a Play Book above, and read them oftner then the Bible. Truly thus it is, Piety that is trampled under feet by you now in your health and life (believe it) will be a pearl of great price with you in your sickness and death; then you will think the holiest man the happiest man; the Precisest Christian in the most blessed condition; then you would willingly change states with them which are now Objects of your scorn; then you will wish that you had denied your selves, crucified the flesh, glorified God, and walked after the Spirit; that you had spent that time in Praying and Reading, which you have spent in Carding or Dicing, or vain Recreations; that you had improved that wealth and strength in the Service of your Saviour, for the honour of God, and welfare of your soul, which have been laid about the World and your lusts. O Sirs; when this time cometh, you will have other thoughts of sin and holiness, then now ye have;

have ; Sin will not be so pleasant and lovely, nor holiness so mean and unworthy as now it is in your eyes.

Probably you can hear of death by the reports of others, and be little troubled ; ye can stand it out stiffly against such false fire, with We must all die, and Nothing so sure ; God knoweth who shall go next, and the like : all this while, the heart not with seriousness considering of it, so as to be preparing for it : The soul as much neglected, God as little regarded, and the affections as much inflaved to fleshly lusts as before. But when Death * climbs up to your own windows, and entereth into your Chamber and comely with its pale face to your bed side, and boldly arressterh you with a warrant from Heaven, assuring you by its symptoms on your body, that you must in good earnest into the other world, and there have all your walkings and workings interpreted and examined by the infinitely pure and righteous God, and your souls (according to your deeds) sentenced impartially, and sent immediately to Heaven or Hell ; then surely your apprehensions of a new Nature, and strict Conversation, will change, and you will wish with all your souls for a little of others oyl ; for your Lamps will go out. The stoutest unregenerate heart alive will droop at last, when God cometh to take away his soul, then his crest falls, and his plumes flag.

Now possibly thy Cup overfloweth, thou hast a large portion of the good things of this world, and they have so much of thy heart, that thou art little troubled about the things of the other world ; the Table of thy life now is richly spread with honours, pleasures, relations, possessions, and these have the largest share in thy heart ; in these thou solacest thy self, desiring no other Heaven : But what wilt thou do when Death shall come with a Volder, and take all away, even all thy treasure on earth ? then thou wilt wish thou couldst find a treasure in Heaven, that thou mightest die the death of the Righteous, and

As birds build in steeples, and are never troubled at the noise of Bells, being used to it ; nor ye at the sight of graves or coffins.

* That King of terrors and terror of Kings.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

have thy latter end like his : But oh Friend , thou shouldst then have lived their lives, and have had thy conversation like theirs : as the Crab in the Fable told the Serpent (who when she had received her death's wound for her crooked conditions, stretched out her self straight) At oportuit sic Vixisse; that she should have been straight in her life time. The way to make thy death comfortable, is to make thy life serviceable to God, and thy soul. He that would enjoy true rest when he dyeth, must labour faithfully and diligently whilst he liveth. It will be like a dagger at the heart in an hour of death to reflect upon the talents misemployed, and opportunities misimproved, which free grace afforded you for the honouring of God, and furthering of your own salvations. Sins of omission will wound deeper at a dying hour than most are aware of. God hath committed a great trust to you, and the day of your lives is the only time of discharging it; besides, ye know not how few hours ye may have to your day, whether it shall be a Winter or a Summer day; the shadows of the evening may suddenly stretch themselves upon you; and then it will be no longer day; therefore work the work of him that sent you into the world, while it is day, for the night cometh wherein no man can work, John 9.4. Is it not sad, that our common observation should be so much verified in the practices of great men, That Bells strike thick while they are rising, but stand still and give no found at all when they are at full pitch! That Magistrates should like the Sun, the higher in the Zodiac, move the slower!

The more noble creatures are, the more active they are; Men more active than Beasts; Angels than men. One I remember observeth, that God would not accept the first-born of an Ass, because it was a dull slothful creature. The Spirit of God (which is in all that are sanctified) is compared to fire, Acts 2. therefore they that would not grieve it, it, must not be slothful in business, but fiery, fervent. (seething hot, as the word signifieth) in spirit, serving the Lord, Rom. 12. 11. Hence it was that the Church of Ephesus got letters testimonial from Heaven, Revel. 2. 2. I know thy works and thy labour, how thou canst not bear them that are evil. And indeed the more good a Justice hath in himself, the less he will bear with evil in others.

Augustine hath a true saying, Qui non zelat, non amat, He that is not zealous for God, hath no true love to God. For though love be a passion, yet it delighteth to shew it self in acting for the party beloved.

When Calvin grew sickly, some friends dissuaded him from hard studying, but he gave them this answer, Vultisne Christum me invenire otiosum, would you have Christ when he comes (to me by death) to find me idle? So do ye think, that when sinners Jehu-like drive furiously, ye should not like Egyptians, go heavily, lest death find you idle? Observe what became of the idle servant, that hid his talent in a napkin, Matth. 25. 30. He was punished with an eternal long night, who would not work in his short day.

3. Consider the day of Judgement, God will then search and sentence you, discover and reward you according to your works. Ye that examine and try others, shall then be examined and tryed your selves, and ye that acquit or condemn others, shall then be acquitted or condemned your selves.

How should this thought move you to walk exactly, since your hearts shall be anatomized, and your lives manifested before God, Angels and men! Could ye but as Jerom., hear the sound of the last trump always in your ears, Arise ye dead, and come to judgement, surely ye would be holy Judges and Justices indeed. Peter maketh this argument a strong enforcement to holiness, 2 Per. 3. 10, 11.

The Dignity of Magistracy,

The day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night, in which the Heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also and the works therein shall be burnt up; seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godliness? Observe, the certainty of it, The day of the Lord will come; If it were doubtful, it would not be so dreadful; but it will come surely, though it come slowly, therefore men had need to be holy. Tertullian observed of all those that profest Christianity in his time, none lived so loosely as those that did not believe the certainty of the day of judgement; But observe 2. the suddenness of it, The day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; when men at midnight are securely sleeping, they dream not of, nor prepare for a thief. It is sometimes called a day, Matth. 25. 13. propter revelationem secretorum; things that are now dark and secret, shall be then as clear and apparent as at noon day; the fire of that day will make things legible which are written with the juyce of Lemons. In that Spring time both wholesome roots and poysonous will be discovered, which all the winter of this life were hid. The books of Gods Omniscience and mans Conscience, saith one, shall be then opened, and secret sins shall be then as legible as if it were written with the brightest star, or the most glittering Sun-beams upon a wall of Chrystal, Eccles. 12. ult. And it is said to be at night, propter improvisonem, &c. because of most mens unpreparedness for it. The destruction of this new world by fire will find men generally in the same careless, carnal, secure, sensual condition, as did the destruction of the old world by water, Luke 21. 35. as the snare on a sudden catcheth the bird, so will that day of the Lord seise on such beasts. Observe 3. the dreadfulnes of it, The Heavens shall pass away with a great noise, noise, and the Elements shall melt with fervent heat, and the earth and the works thereof shall be burnt up. Well may it be called the great and terrible day of the Lord, when the Judge will be a consuming fire, Heb. 12. 29. and shall come in flaming fire, 1 Thes. 1. 6, 7. try them by a fiery law, Deut. 33. 2. before a tribunal of fire, Ezek. 1. 27. plead with them in flames of fire, Isa. 60. 15. and condemn ungodly ones to eternal fire. O how dreadful is the voyce and noise of Fire! Fire in the night! how fearful and frightful then will such fires at the day of Judgement be! As often as I think of that day, my whole body trembleth, saith Hierom. Observe 4. the Apostles inference from it, What manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godliness! as if he had said, We had need to have grace in truth, that must undergo such a trial. We that must meet with so strict and dreadful an examination had need to be holy to admiration; What manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godliness?

Quoties diem illum considero, toto corpore contremisco Hierom.

Surely if any argument imaginable can perswade to purity, this terrible day can do it. The sound of the last Trump may well cause a retreat, and call us off from an eager pursuit of the flesh and world, Eccles. 11. 9. and it may also stir you up to purity, if ye would meet Christ at that day in peace. The Throne of Christ is a white Throne, Rev. 20. 11. and O with what trembling heart wilt thou O black sinner stand before this white Throne, 1 Pet. 4. 18. If the righteous be scarcely saved (not in regard of the uncertainty, but difficulty) where shall the sinner and ungodly appear? Surely the drunkards cup then will be Wormwood, not Wine; The sentence on the swearer then will be of cursing, not blessing; as he loved cursing now, so then will it come to him; the Adulterers pleasure now will then prove poyson; and the prayerless man now, will then pray hard, work in prayer for some ease, some end, if not a pardon,

The Dignity of Magistracy,

yet a reprieve, for one hour, at least one drop of water to cool his tongue; but he shall work at the Labour in vain, and be eternally denied.

Look therefore, and make sure of true holiness, of the power of godliness; for the fire of that day will discover whether you are dross or gold: look that the rule by which you walk be right, even the Word of God, for by that you shall be judged for your eternal life or death. John 12. 36.

Ah how exactly shouldst thou live; that must be tried for thine endless estate by so strict a law!

How diligently shouldst thou keep thy heart, knowing that God will judge the secrets of thy heart! Rom. 2. 16. How carefully shouldst thou keep the door of thy lips, considering that of every (not only swearing or cursing, but) idle word which thou shalt speak, thou shalt give an account at the day of Christ! Matth. 12. 35. How wary shouldst thou be in all thy deeds, believing that thou shalt appear at the Judgement Seat of Christ to give an account of every thing done in the body of flesh, whether it be good, or whether it be evil! 2 Cor. 5. 10. So think, so speak, so act, as one that must be judged for all at the great day of Christ.

This may likewise incite you to work as Gods amongst men, because at that day Christ will come, and his reward will be with him to give to every one according to his works, Rev. 22. 12. Your actions now are seed; if ye would reap liberally on that great harvest day, ye must sow liberally in this seed-time. Christ will then demand, how ye improved the many advantages, and opportunities which he put into your hands for the magnifying his Name, countenancing his people, propagating his Gospel, punishing his enemies, and discouraging the workers of iniquitie. He will ask you why at such a time, when you knew his Name was blasphemed, his Day was prophaned, his Ministers and Ordinances were trampled

led upon; you never stirred, or were zealous for their vindication; you thought it was good sleeping in a whole skin; you were loth to offend your neighbours, or you were unwilling to get the ill will of great ones, that under pretence of love to all the people of God, would have his blasphemous adversaries spared, nay encouraged. See whether that Jesuitical tenent, That Magistrates must only be second-table men, that they have nothing do in matters of Religion, will hold water at that day. O how exceedingly will such be ashamed of it then, who now own it in their principles and practices! possibly thou art one of that Heathen Gallio's Disciples, that would meddle in matters of wrong, but sit still in matters of Religion, Acts 18. 14, 17. Gallio cared for none of those things. I must tell thee, thou art like then to find Hell hot, for thy being so cold in the cause of the blessed and glorious God.

O think of that day, and let it move thee to a faithful zealous discharge of thy duty. Zalenus Locrensis in his proeme to his laws hath these words, Let this be often pressed upon men, that there are Gods, and that an account must be given to them of mens actions. Consider the day of the Lord is coming, and who may abide it! In a word, Hear the conclusion of the whole matter; Fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man: For God shall bring every work into judgement, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil, Eccles. 12. 13, 14.

Hoc inculcatum sit esse De-os, & venturum esse sum-mum & fatalem illum diem.

FINIS.

AN APOLOGIE FOR THE MINISTRY, and its Maintenance :

Wherein is set forth the Necessity,
Dignity, and Efficacy of a Gospel-Ministry;
against the Socinians, Swenckfieldians, Weigelians, Anabaptists, Enthusiasts, Familists, Seekers, Quakers,
Levellers, Libertines, and the rest of that Rout.

Here you have many Texts of Scripture explained, all the Cavils of the Adversaries (of any weight) refelled; the Equity of Tythes by many Arguments evinced, and the Iniquity of such as seek sacrilegiously to remove them is demonstrated, and the most material Cavils against them are succinctly, yet fully answered.

By Tho. Hall, B. D. and Pastor of Kingsnorton.

Jer. 3. 15. I will bring you to Sion, and I will give you Pastors according to my heart, which shall feed you with Knowledge and Understanding.

1 Cor. 9. 7. *Who goeth a Warfare at any time at his own Charges?
Who planteth a Vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit of it? Or who feedeth a flock and eateth not of the milk of the flock?*

L O N D O N ;

Printed by A. W. for Joseph Cranford at the Castle and Lyon in St. Paul's Church-yard. 1660.

ALL APPLICANTS

FOR THE MINISTRY.

MAINTENANCE

... of ...
... and ...
... of ...

...
...
...

...
...
...

...
...
...

To the Worshipfull, and his honoured Friend
RICHARD GREVIS of MOSELEY HALL, in the County of WORCESTER, Esq. the TRANSLATOR humbly wisheth the Multiplication of Grace, and the Continuation of Peace.

Worthy SIR:

I have emboldened my self to offer that unto the World, under Your Patronage, which, I believe, Your singular Modesty will almost decline, and fear, Your excellent Ingenuity will be ready to disown, when you finde it so unworthy of the benigne influences of your Eyes, much more of the Effluences of your Name, Virtue, and Authority, by which You are able to Patronize any thing that makes You its Sanctuary of Refuge. Neither Sir, have Principles of Policy onely perswaded me to inscribe Your famous Name, and entitle Your Worthy Self to this my imperfection: but indeed, a desire to Express and Testifie the Esteem I have of the One, and the Love and Honour which I deservedly have for the Other. If any man, in this nice Age, may be judged worthy to be the Object of a Dedication, it must be a Theophilus; and, if any other, I do verily believe, you are a Theophilus; if a sober, moderate, Contemplative, serious life, adorned with many publick and private Exercises of Religion, Expressions of a Gracious Soul; if constant

The EPISTLE

and

DEDICATORY.

and vigorous Endeavours to reconcile Differences amicably, and suppress Sin Authoritatively ; if an engaging, edifying, aweing presence, to Wife, Children, servants ; if a sweet, friendly, charitable owning of Gods People ; or a cordial, glad some Entertainment of his faithfull Ministers ; if any of these, if all these will denominate a man a Lover of God, Accept, I pray you, Sir, this poor Oblation ; and although I do not, cannot judg this little Impolite Treatise worthy your Countenance or Patronage, yet I beseech you, for the love of God, to stir up all your whole Soul, and improve your utmost interest to maintain and defend the Cause which therein I study to Patronize, which is not yet so much my Cause, as the Cause of all the Faithfull Ministers of Christ, and not so much theirs neither, as

The EPISTLE DEDICATORY.

Christ's. Go on I beseech You, and, whatever Troubles shall be upon the earth, whatever Divisions, Distractions, Dissettlements, Apostasies are, or may be in England, yet study to approve Your Self to be a Friend to God's Cause, whom you love; and Faithfull to the Interest of Jesus Christ, in whom you believe. And so doing, that You may be bless'd with dayes as prosperous as many, with a Crown as Glorious as Eternall, is, and shall be the hearty Prayer of

Sir,

Long-Whatton.

July 2. 1659.

Your Friend and Servant
in Christ Jesus,

Sam. Shaw.

T O T H E
Impartial READER.

Reader;

IT is not long since, that a faithfull Minister of Christ, my very loving Friend, presented the World with a Latine Treatise, vindicating and asserting the Necessity, dignity, and duty of a Gospel-Ministry; which when I had perused, and discovered (not onely by the testimony of the Epistles Commendatory, but by my own Judgment) in it a great Acuteness of Wit, a sweet Savour of a pious Disposition, pertinent and cogent Arguments, full and satisfactory Answers to all Objections militating against the Truth; holding Discourse with him concerning it, I was bold to intimate to him, how conveniently and usefully it might have been offered in a Tongue more known amongst us, for the Conviction and satisfaction of English Cavillers; Adding, That I thought, they, who had so much knowledge as to understand Latin, had also more Judgment than to need to be satisfied in that thing: Whereupon, the Reverend Authour concurring

TO the READER.

concurring with my Judgment (but giving me a good Account of his Style) was pleased, at first, to desire, and upon reluctancy to press me to do that, which I onely wish'd had been done: withall, trusting me with the Liberty of Paraphrasing and Enlarging, by his Letters, of June 11. and June 25. 1638. Which Task I have accordingly undertaken, being Influenced (I hope) by a desire to glorifie God, and have performed, being assisted by the strength of that God, whom I desire to glorifie. Besides what I have already express'd and intimated, I need give no further Account of my Enterprize, but the Apprehensions which I then had. I see dayly more and more justified of the proneness of our Apostatizing times to grow Antiministeriall. Pardon me, I pray thee, if, through my weakness, any of the Author's Ingenuity, elegancy or strength be lost, or the Truth suffer through my Inability to vindicate it. And I humbly beseech Almighty God, that these poor Endeavors may contribute some little towards thy satisfaction or Confirmation; towards the Edification and Provocation unto Duty, the maintaining the Maintenance and Honor, the encouraging the Faintings and Fears of the Faithfull Ministers of Jesus Christ.

A N
A P O L O G Y
FOR THE
M I N I S T R I E

And it's maintenance, &c.

CHAP. I.

Matt. 5. 13. Ye are the salt of the earth.

That will speak more for the commendation of any thing, than to say it's good, must say it's seasonable: For he that sought out acceptable words, hath as fitly told us, that A word fitly spoken, is like apples of gold in pictures of silver. Here's a golden sentence adorn'd with a silver season, by so much the more usefull, by how much the more suitable, having this addition to it's commodiouness, that it may be so fitly accommodated to our present times. And if we consider what hast the furious frenzyes of our age do make, intending the contempt, and (if it might be) the very extirpation of our Gospell-Ministers, sters, we may well compare it to the seasonable address of wise Abigail to resolute David. Or if you will, let it be called, as before, a golden apple, and so there's hopes it may retard the headlong halt of these cruell Atalanta's, that design the ruine of Christ's Embassadors. What better language do the devills drudges and emissaryes now adayes afford the Ministers of the Gospell, than, deceivers of the people, Baal's priests, the Locusts of the bottomlesse pit, limbs of Anti Christ, Thieves, Lyars, Seducers, Generation of vipers, ravenous wolves, whited walls, Hirelings, Babylonish Merchants, Hypocrites, Dumb dogs, Simon Magui's, unclean spirits, and whatever the malice of hell, or the madnesse of men can devise. And what better confutation of such calumnyes can we desire, than this one sentence of our Saviours, ye are (not the Disturbers of Kingdoms, the Betrayers of Kings, the Burdens of the Earth, the Disease of the Land, the Sweepings of the House, the Scumme of the Countrey, the Refuse of the Nation, the Dreggs of the World, the off-scouring of all things, as the devills glosse would carry it) but ye are the salt of the earth. A short sentence, but enough to confute those voluminous aspersions that are cast upon them: A compendious encouragement. What though the Devill be the accuser of the Brethren, what though our Brethren be our accusers for him; Yet who shall lay any thing to the charge, or what can the charge be that any can lay upon those whom Christ justifieth? Loe, here the sentence may lose it's order, and yet retain it's truth, wildomes Children are justified of her, ye are the salt of the earth.

Let us a little search the context, that we may find the meaning of the text. When our Saviour had in the very threshold of his Sermon, discoursed of the blessed ones of the world, in this second step that he makes, he fitly subjoyneth a discourse concerning the Ministers of the Gospell, whose qualifications he teacheth by three metaphoricall resemblances of salt, light, and a City upon an hill: Seeming to make this the one summary of his similitudes, that the Ministers of the Gospell must not only be Sayers but Doers, Preachers but Practicers, Talkers but Walkers, and must have not only the salt of doctrine, but the light of conversation also. But more particularly, by this similitude of salt, he sets out in lively colours, the necessity and efficacy of the Gospell Ministry. For as men season flesh with salt, so must the soules of men be seasoned by the Ministry of the the word, that neither the one, nor the other may be corrupted.

The text is a Categorical proposition, consisting of a subject, a predicate, and a Copulative. The subject is ye (i. e.) ye my disciples and all the preachers of the Gospell that shall succeed you. The Copulative is are, not shall be for the time to come, but at present ye are chosen and called so to be. The predicate is, the salt of the earth. (i. e.) It is your office to season men, who are altogether unfavoury unill they be seasoned with the salt of heavenly doctrines. As salt is the seasoner of meats, so the Ministers of the Gospell are called salt from their office; by way of resemblance, because they should by their edifying language and exemplary life season men, that they may be kept from the corruption of vices, and have the favoury relish of graces. And they are not onely Metaphorically called salt, or the most excellent salt, because they season as salt doth, but emphatically called the salt, or the most excellent salt, because they season so as no other salt can doe. Nay they are not onely salt, and the salt, but the salt of the earth, not the salt of one Town, or City, or Island only, but the salt of the earth, that is of the inhabitants of the earth, ye are the salt of the earth. And yet they are not properly salt neither, they are but the salters, or seasoners. But our Saviour doth here ascribe that which is proper to the doctrine of the Gospell, to them that preach it. Observe by the way, that our Saviour in calling them the salt of the earth, implicitly prefers them before the prophets, who were only the salt of Judea: But the Apostles and their successors are the salt of the earth, of the whole earth. Mat. 28. 19. Observe also that in calling them salt, he doth as it were make a secret promise of the power and efficacy of the Gospell-Ministry to season the world, and to keep men from putrifying in sinne. The sence of the whole is plainly this, ye my Apostles and all the Ministers of my ordinances, and pastors of my Church, in respect of the doctrine of the law and the Gospell which you shall preach, shall deliver men from the corruption, and filthinesse of sin, and shall render them acceptable and favoury to God, whom by nature they cannot please. Loe here the usefullnesse and necessity of a Gospell-Ministry? When our Saviour compares; it to salt, he commends it almost as highly, as if he had said it were incomparable; For their is nothing (according to the proverbe) more usefull and needfull, than the sun, and salt.

 Take this doctrinall conclusion for a foundation of the following discourse, that Doctr. The Ministers of the Gospel are the salt of the world.

This may easily be proved, First from the nature, properties, and manifold vertues of salt. Secondly from the titles that the spirit of God gives them in Scripture. Thirdly by arguments.

1. The First property of salt is to season tastelesse and unfavoury things. It is a soveraigne condiment and singularly usefull and necessary: And it may be called the condiment of condiments, not only because it excells them, but also because it helpes them, and contributes to their goodnesse. And it hath that to commend it which few of our spices have, even it's necessity. Spices are the superfluous ornament of meats, but salt their necessary condiment. It is so necessarily subservient to the seasoning of meats, and rendring them favoury, and gratefull to the palate, that it hath deserved and found the name of Natures balsome, and the Soul of bodyes; wherefore nature hath wisely mixt salt with all well compounded bodyes, to season, and preserve them from corruption; as may be exemplified in the salt urine of beasts, and the saltnesse of roots: and is so commonly received, that every Smatterer in Chymistry will tell you that Salt, Sulphur, and Mercury are ingredients in all mixt bodyes.

Thus the Ministry of the Gospel is the salt of the world, without which our condition is desperate and deplorable. Neither could I tell what answer to make, if one should aske me. How it comes to pass that men abound with errors in their heads, wickedness in their lives, and corruptions in their hearts, but this, They are not seasoned with this salt. Our whole nature without this is unfavoury, nauseous and indeed odious to God, as the Psalmist describes a pure (that is, an impure) nature. Pf. 14. 1, 2, 3. without this salt, what is the wisdom of the world but a world of folly; what are morall vertues, but corall vices, which rub the gums indeed, to make men appear well as to the teeth outward, but not changing or cleansing the inward heart and mind? Nay how can any oblation indeed please God that wants salt, Lev. 2. 13. Or any thing please a judicious palate that is unseasoned? Can that which is unfavoury be eaten without salt. Iob. 6. 6. As if he had had said, can any one be delighted with meat that has not been seasoned with salt? So, take away the Ministry of the word, and all worldly things are presently unfavoury, gladness is converted into sadnesse, or the best joyes are but royesat best, the purest gold is but dross, and they deserve no better Character than Iob's friends, Physitians of no value, Iob. 13. 4. Miserable and troublesome comforters, Iob. 16. 2. It is necessary therefore that men be seasoned with this heavenly salt, that they be not corrupted. For there is nothing better to preserve our hearts from corruption than the savory Ministry of the Gospell.

2. Another property of salt is Acrimony. Salt by it's acrimony, bites, eats, pierceth, pricketh. Flatnesse, faintnesse and want of sharpnesse is a defect in salt.

Thus the preaching of the law pierceth and pricketh the consciences of sinners, that they seek to the Gospell for a salve, Act. 2. 39. This makes men sound in the faith, therefore Paul commands Titus to corn the Cretians with this salt. Tit. 1. 13. Rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith. As Elisha by casting salt into the spring of the naughty waters, healed them, so our naughty and barren hearts being seasoned with the salt of Gods word and spirit, becomes pleasing and acceptable to God. Moreover as salt by its sharp heat, penetrates, attenuates, and worketh the whole lump, so there is nothing more piercing than the word of God, hewing like an axe, and slaying like a sword. Nos. 5. 6. He that would understand this property of Gods word, let him consult and examine the Apostles six Epithets. Heb. 4. 12. It is quick, powerfull, sharpe, piercing, dividing, discerning. It is of such a subtile and sharp nature, that it can divide, where the subtile wits of Metaphysicians can scarce make a mentall or notionall distinction, even between soul and spirit, and where the sharpest instruments of Chirurgions can hardly divide, even between the joynts and the marrow. And can discern that, which the most acute and quick-sighted judge, with the contributed discoveryes of never so many faithfull witnesses cannot discern, even the thoughts and intents of the heart.

3. Salt resisteth corruption, and by its acrimony consumeth whatever is vitious in the body; sucks out all putrid and excrementitious humours, with which the flesh is infected; consolidates the substantiall parts by uniting the native vertue, shutting up the pores and passages, and shutting out the injurious assaults of the extraneous ayre.

Thus the Ministers of Christ do the worke of salt by p'ucking up sin by the roots, which is that corrupt and noxious humor, which hath diffused its salt through the whole soule. This the salt of the Word expells by removing Errors, by walling the sinfull desires of the old man, and by hardning the new man against all injuries, and by fortifying it against all assaults.

This salt of the Word therefore with a constant, and carefull hand is to be sprinkled, by declaring the nature and aggravations of sin, to prick the heart, not to tickle the eares, and which may be entertained with the beating of the breasts, not the clapping of the hands. For I had rather that men gnash their teeth, and beat their heads, than nod with their heads under our Ministry. The teares of the congregation ought to be most in our eye, And their inarticulate groans do least speak forth our commendations. Hence the Holy Ghost every where in Scripture puts such a price upon salt because it signifyes that mortification, which so restraines the soft effemynacies and delicacies of the flesh, and all sweet carnall delights and tickling pleasures, and hinders the inordinate affections of the flesh from shewing themselves in the flesh. This grace doth that to the spirit which salt doth to flesh, which will not suffer it to putrifye, and dissolve into corruption and filthinesse, as it would doe, were it not consolidated and hardned therewith.

4. Salt begets an appetite to meat or drink, and is souefull in meats that we scarce know how to live without it. Bread requires a mixture of this to season it, and it also begets an appetite to drink.

Thus the preaching of Gods word doth beget an exceeding thirst after heavenly things. It may most truly be sayd of these waters of the Sanctuary, Quo plus sunt pota, plus sitiuntur, The more a man drinks of them, the more he shall thirst after them.

It cannot be sayd of this water, as our Saviour sayes of the grace of God. Ioh. 4. 14. He that drinketh of it shall never thirst more, but rather, he shall thirst the more: when Peters hearers had tasted some of this salt, see how they thirst after the water water of life, after salvation. Act. 2. 39. For so sayes the text, when they heard this, they sayd, Men and Brethren, what shall we doe?

5. Salt is the Symbol or Hieroglyphick of wisdome. Hence Salfi & wise men, and fools have names given them in Latine from salt; insulsi sa- as also all kind of jests, and wittinesses in speech, and festivity do les. derive their name from hence. In so much as to reach a man salt is interpreted by some people as an indignity, as much in effect as to call him a foole.

Thus the Ministers of the Gospell do correct the foolish manners of the world, and render them savory. Take away this condiment, and you take away all reall and true wisdome out of the world; If men reject the word of the Lord, what wisdome can there be expected in them. Ier. 8. 9. The word of our Saviour, who is the wisdome of the father, is enough to make us also wise unto Salvation.

6. Salt is an embleme of duration, perpetuity and incorruption. It is good Physick for natures consumptions, preserving fluid and wasting matter, and makes perishing and putrifying bodies long-liv'd. Hence an everlasting covenant is called a Covenant of salt, Numb. 18. 19. 2. Chr. 13. 5. And Lot's wife was converted into a pillar of salt, not only that she might be instead of a condiment to us, but a perpetuall Monument also of Gods judgments: so the Covenant preacht by the Apostles was truly a Covenant of salt, more durable than the pillars of the earth, or the poles of heaven, and happily hinting to us that every one of the faithfull is so confirmed in the Covenant of God by faith, that by the salt of afflictions they shall be preserved safe against all kind of temptations and assaults.

But this heavenly salt as farre excells that earthly salt, as eternity exceeds diurnity. That may preserve a long time, but this will preserve longer than time. Again that salt doth but preserve things from being corrupted, but this redeems them from their corruption.

7. Salt is a symbol and significant of friendship. It preserves the amity of the members one amongst another, and defends the harmony of the body from corruption; and is therefore called the soul of the body. For as the soule doth not suffer the structure to be dissolved, and fall in pieces, so salt doth keep inanimate bodies from corruption and putrefaction, and suffers them not to perish, but playing the soule, as it were, resisteth death. Hence Antiquity above all things required salt at the table, because it signified the perfection and perseverance of friendship. And therefore many of the Heathens (and even some of us who inherit their superstition) counted it ominous and unlucky, if at any time it happened that the salt were spilt upon the table; as though by this some breach of friendship were portended.

Thus the Ministry of the Gospell, although by chance and indirectly it occasion divisions and warres (as our Saviour brought not peace but a sword) yet directly, intentionally and of itself, it both creates and conserveth the amity, peace, and union of the faithfull, both with their God and amongst themselves. The Gospell is properly and deservedly styled, the Gospell of peace.

8. Salt is medicinall to the body. It is a medicament as well as a condiment. Therefore Physicians say that new-born infants should be sprinkled with salt or salted water, not only to scoure off all uncleannesse, but also to consolidate the members of the body, and to bind up and heal the wound of the navell. To which God himself alludes, Ezek. 16. 4. For salt doth certainly conferre a solidity and fainesse to naturall bodies.

Thus the heavenly salt is necessary for the spirituall new-born babes, 1 Pet. 2. 2. Without which we can neither be cleansed, nor cured, nor strengthened, as will appear hereafter.

9. Salt was an ingredient into every sacrifice, as appeares, Lev. 2. 13. Exr. 6. 9. 22. Ezek. 42. 24. Mar. 4. 49. Every sacrifice (that is every spirituall and acceptable sacrifice) shall be salted with fire and with salt (i. e.) with the fire of affliction, and the salt of wisdom, mortification and integrity of life and doctrine. For as meats seasoned with salt are most acceptable to the palate, so the spirituall sacrifices which are seasoned with this kind of salt, are most pleasing to God, God will have no honey, (i. e.) no carnall delights, wordly pleasures, or wordly men in his sacrifices. For in sacrifices a contrite spirit is required, and therefore honey is forbidden, Lev. 2. 11. But corroding ding and biting salt was there required and used in sacrifices by Salsa mo-

the very Heathens, the devill framing a piece of worship like la, & salsa that of Gods. fruges.

10. Salt is a communicative thing, and therefore is called good, Mar. 9. 50. Now as every good thing is communicative and diffusive of it self, so salt, not only escapes corruption it self, whilst it retaines it's naturall strength, but also preserves all other things uncorrupted, to which it communicates it self.

It keeps flesh from stinking, wine from fowring, renders meat savory, and many other wayes is excellently advantagious. So that it seems to be but adequately spoken by the proverb, Sole & sale nihil utilius.

Thus every disciple, and much more minister of Christ ought to be salt, not only themselves good, but communicating to others of their goodnesse. David will teach transgressors Gods wayes, Pf. 51. 13. And Abraham was a good man, of whom God was perswaded, that he would command his Children and his household after him to keep the way of the Lord, Gen. 18. 19. And as God is perswaded of Abraham that he would command his children, so Christ commands Peter to strengthen his brethren, Luk. 22. 32. Our Saviour himself sets a Coppy of this, Ioh. 5. 39. Come and see. And Philip imitates him in this communicativeness, crying out to Nathaniel as soon as he met him, with the Philosophers inquit we have found him. &c. v. 45. and will have him, also to come and see. v. 46. The Apottle would have his Colossians to know how they ought to answer every man, to this purpose he commends to them gracious speech, and he knowes not how to phrase that better, than by speech seasoned with salt, Coll. 4. 6. (i. e.) with grace and wisdom, communicating saving knowledg to the foolish, administering consolation to the afflicted, and giving wise and wholesome answers to all.

11. Salt makes green wounds smart.

Thus the Ministry of the word, requiring self-denyall, reproving sin, and applying the terrors of the Law to galled consciences, brings griefe and bitternesse to the flesh, and renders the preachers of it hatefull and terrible. Chrysostome "speakes gravely and appositely, Christ (sayth he) calls not "the Apostles teachers of Palesfine, but of the whole earth, neither doth he barely call them teachers, but terrible ones:

“And this is to be wondred at, that they that did not flatter
 “and dawbe, but wound and pierce and burn the consciences, “like salt, were yet therein desirable, and thereby beloved,
 in spite of the proverb, Truth brings forth hatred.

12. Salt is very fruitfull. Witnessse the fruitfullnesse of the salt sea, wherein (witnessse the Psalmist. Ps. 10. 25.) are innumerable creeping things, and both small and great beasts. Plutarch reports that mice breed more abundantly in Ships that carry salt. Leachery hath its name in Latine from salt, and lustfull Venus derives her pedigree from the salt sea. And certainly no land-creature is so fruitfull as all thole are that inhabit the Sea.

Thus nothing is more fruitfull than the sound and substantiall Ministry of the word of God, one Peter by one Sermon caught three thousand soules for Christ, Act. 2. 41. The multitude of believers is prophesied to the Gospel-times. Ps. 110. 3. From the womb of the morning thou hast the dew of thy youth. As much as if he had said, Children shall be born to Christ by the preaching of the Gospel, in as great a number, as the dew drops fall and disperse themselves farre and near, being as it were conceived in the womb of the early morning. Oh would to God that the thirsty vineyards of the Church were watered, and refreshed also with the evening dew of converts, in these last and worst times; or that three thousand Peters might with three thousand Sermons but beget three thousand sons or daughters to Iesus Christ.

13. Salt is of a nature both fiery and waterie. For it is sharp like fire, and frets and sharpens the fire into which it is cast; And if it be cast into water; it self is presently resolved into water.

Thus the Ministers of the Gospel are the salt of the earth. For by their fiery vertue they enflame the hearts of men, with love to, and zeal for God. And as salt melts and dissolves that it may the better preserve flesh from putrefaction, so is it the part of a good pastor, as it were, to wear and wast himself by labours and watchings, that so the people committed to his charge may be saved from the corruption of sin, such salt was the Apostle Paul, who denyed himself, kept himself under, cut himself short, spared not himself, but spent himself that he might gain soules to Christ. 2. Cor. 12. 15. I will very gladly spend all mine) and (my self) to be spent for your soules.

14. Salt is a thing very common. It is not only to be found upon upon the tables of the rich, but even with the poorest, where there is scarce a table to be found. Thus ought the Ministers of the Gospell to be so easy and common, that he that seeks them may easily find them, and so facile and amiable in their carriage, that no one may fly their presence, that desires to learn of them. And it is the Apollles mind that they be apt to teach. 2. Tim. 2. 24. and that in season and out of season, not being rendred idle, by regard had to private profit, pleasure or ease. Nay it ought to be reputed their greatest gain to gain souls to Christ; their greatest pleasure to see many take pleasure in godlinesse, and by their Ministry be made pleasant and acceptable to God; and their greatest ease to take pains in the vineyard of Christ, to bring them to a sight of their sins that are settled upon their lees and are at ease in Sion. Let us pray the Lord of the harvest therefore that his word may not creep but go, nay run, and be glorified in the hearts, words and works of men. 2. Thes. 3. 1. For a good thing, the more common it is, the better it is.

15. Salt is a sign of desolation and a curse to those things which it doth not season, as we may see. Zeph. 2. 9. And that which the Hebrew calls salmesse, that we translate barrenesse. Ps. 109. 34. It is the Spaniards custome to sprinkle the house of those that are convicted of high treason with salt; and the Jewes manner to sow a place with salt, when they intended to make it desolate and lay it waste, as Abimelech did. Indg. 9. 45. For although salt be very necessary for the seasoning of meats, and other uses, yet by reason of its fiery nature it destroyes, and exhales the radical moisture that is in rootes and herbs, and in hot Countreys, occasions barrenesse; For in cold Countreys it is instead of manure.

Thus the Gospell hardens the hearts that will not be seasoned by it, Is. 6. 9, 10. and is the favor of death unto death. 2. Cor. 2. 16. as to the godly it is a favor of life unto life. And no wonder, for it is very usuall in humane things; that the same thing being in it self good and profitable, proves good to some and hurtfull to others, and upon many has an operation besides its nature. The Sun it self by its beams helps some to see, and blinds the sight of others. And as salt, so the word of God, according to the diversity of the subject, becomes either usefull or hurtfull.

16. Salt is a Symbol of discretion and prudence. If it be moderately mixed with meats, it presents the palate with a pleasant relish, but to much of it renders it unfavoury.

Thus let the Ministers of the Gospel do all things with discretion and judgment, lest by too much and indiscreet affectation of bitter and harsh expressions and applications, and representing the graces like furies, they disaffect the auditors against the truth of the doctrine, and render it nauseous, and odious to them. Let them use such a moderate and convenient mixture of Law and Gospel, whereby the sharpness of the one may be lenified, and the lenity of the other may be sharpened, and both together may be edifying, and usefull; that the Gospel may not let men altogether sit still, nor the Law make them run out of their wits. For it is our design to season men, not to destroy them, to salt them not to subvert them. The proverb is well known, we must buy salt and oyle. Oyle signifyes lenity, salt acrimony. Therefore the sons of the Physicians mix oyle with salt, that it may not be too corrosive.

It may well become the Sons of the prophets to imitate these men, and to poure the oyle of gladnesse into the wounds which smart with the salt terrors of the Law. Let them so divide the word of truth, that weak consciences be not swallowed up of sadnesse by the immoderate austerity of the law, nor licentious hearts encouraged by the over-wide and unlimited charter of the Gospel.

Thus we have seen the propertyes of salt, and a prooffe of the doctrine by those propertyes. Let us now look into the titles which the sacred Scripture hath given to the Ministers of Christ, that in them also their Necessity, Dignity, Vtility, and Efficacy may further appear.

CHAP. II.

The titles of Dignity, Utility, Necessity, and Efficacy, which are given to the Ministers of Christ.

THe Holy Ghost hath set upon the heads of the Ministers of Christ many glorious inscriptions, and given them the attributes of many worthy names, and hath thought good to call them, The salt of the earth, the sun and light of the world, Men of God, prophets of God &c. as may appear in the following discovery.

1. They are called the salt of the earth; which expression we have already insited upon.

2. They are called the light of the world, Mat. 5. 14. Now what is either more profitable or more pleasant than light? Without it we cannot discern between things that differ, goe about our employments, or decline pits and precipices.

This calls for cleanness of doctrine, & cleanness of life, & exactly expresseth the soveraigne excellency of the Gospel-Ministry, & this light of the world far excels the light of this world. For the sun only profits them that see, but this light of the Gospel-Ministry enlightens them that see not, 2. The sun is oft obscured & curtain'd under clouds; But in the very midst of night, and amidst the thickest clouds and afflictions, there is clear daylight in the Church. 3. The sun of this world oft sets and leaves us in the dark, but this light of a Gospel-Ministry shall never cease, till that sun shall cease to be light, and that world cease to be. It is such a light, that if it were taken away, the whole world would be wholly over-spread with the grossness of darkness, the darkness of sin, and sinfull errors. Hence it is that God himself opposes darkness to divination. Mic. 3. 6. It's true, Christ Iesus the light of the world, and the sun of righteousness, properly, essentially, originally, perfectly, intensively, and extensively: But his Ministers are imperfect lights, as they partake and communicate of him, and depend upon him. They are the lights enlightned, and enlightning the world with the light of the Gospel, Ioh. 5. 35. Act. 26. 18. Rom. 2. 19. Although indeed all Christians are also lights in their measure, and ought to shine as lights in the world, as Children of the light; Phil. 2. 15. Yet this title is by way of Eminence due to the Ministers of Christ, because they ought in an especial manner to shine in life and doctrine; and also because God doth by their Ministry kindle the inward light, and illuminate the soul: How great then is the madnesse of, and how great a contradiction is it in the libertines of our age, who labour to extinguish the Ministry of the word, and in the mean time pretend and allow a new light.

3. They are called, Men of God, (i. e.) Men of God's own, and especiall sending, This title is frequently given to the prophets, as to Moses, Deut. 33. 1. to Samuell 1. Sam. 9. 6. as also to others. 1. Sam. 2. 27. 1. King. 13. 1. and indeed to all others, 2. Pet. 1. 21. Afterwards to the Ministers of the Gospell. 1. Tim. 6. 11. 2. Tim. 3. 17. Neither doth Paul call Timothy only a man of God, but also every Minister of Christ, by way of Eminence. For it is an Hebraisme, and signifyes holy men, or men familiar with God. And it is an emphaticall paraphrase. For as a man of Belial signifyes a very wicked man, and a man of blood, a very cruell and bloody man, So a man of God signifyes a Godly, and a godlike man.

4. They are called Prophets of God. which title is not only attributed to them that can foretell things to come, but also to any that are any way interpreters of the will of God. Mat. 10.

41. Where to receive a prophet, is to receive a Minister or preacher of the Gospell. For these discharge that sacred employment, which the prophets under the old Testament discharged, and do also interpret the writings of those prophets, 1. Cor. 14. 3. 1. Thef. 5. 20.

5. They are called priests of God, Which name although it properly belong to the Levites, yet is improperly applyed to spirituall priests, offering up spirituall sacrifices to God. In which sense all the faithfull are said to be priests to God. Rev. 1. 6. and a royall priesthood 1. Pet. 2. 9. And the Ministers of the Gospell are priests, in that by the preaching of the word they subject men to God. Paul was such a priest offering up the Gentiles. Rom. 15. 16. And such are all other preachers of the Gospell, in praying for the people, and consecrating themselves to God in a more peculiar manner.

6. They are called bearers of the vessels of the Lord, Is. 52. 11. in whose presence they stand. Deut. 10. 8. and whose substitutes they are, being appointed to preach, administer Sacraments, and to other sacred employments. Let these bearers of the vessels

vessels of the Lord, have their own vessels holy to the Lord, and handle holy things in a holy manner. For if the Ministers of the tabernacle must be clean in heart and hands, how much more cleanness is required at our hands both towards God and men, who carry not the vessels, but the word of the Lord.

7. They are called Stewards, or Dispensers of the Mysteries of God. 1. Cor. 4. 1. 2. Tit. 1. 7. that is, of Grace, Justification, Sanctification, and Salvation. Neither are they the stewards of Emperors, or Kings, but of the heavenly householder. Now the great commendation of a steward is his faithfulness. Luk. 12. 42. And the best expression of faithfulness is to design his Masters profit and credit, and not his own; and also to serve his Masters will, and not his own, in administering the affairs of the family. He accommodates his distributions to the capacity of the subject; gives milke to the babes, and strong meat to strong men; and also purgeth the family of all corrupt members. Hence it is that they have received the Keys from God, with which they open the gates of heaven to believers, and lock them against the unbelievers. Mat. 16. 19. Now the Lord who hath in effect call'd us stewards, effectually call us to be faithful.

8. They are called Workmen, or Reapers in the Lords harvest, and Vine-dressers, whom he sends into his vineyard, Mat. 9. 37. 20. 1. 1. Thes. 3. 2. 2. Tim. 2. 15. This phrase denotes not only the necessity of a Gospel Ministry, but the diligent laboriousness of the Ministers. Those that assert the easiness of a Ministers employment, will not (I believe) speak so much in favor of a Reapers work, and yet their employments run parallel in the Scripture dialect. Ministers are called Reapers; Now Reapers you know, are exposed to the heat of the Sunne, the violence of winds, showers and storms, which hardships do require a strong and hardy nature, not a man accustomed to idleness and pleasure. Ministers break themselves with labours, wear and waste themselves with watchings, and are therefore called labourers 1. Tim. 5. 17. such labourers as husbandmen, reapers, Souldyers, who weary themselves with working. For such is the force of the Greek phrase.

The employment of the Ministers of Christ is so laborious, that it attenuates and consumes the body, impaires the strength, hastens old hairs to young heads to the grave. Our Saviour
Christ

*Cura facit
canos.*

Christ at three and thirty years of age by his great paines in preaching the Gospell, incessant watchings and prayings, had brought upon himself the suspicion of fifty years of age, as many rationally conclude from the Jews words, Ioh. 8. 57. Thou art not yet fifty yeares old. And the Prophet Isaiab mourning under the treachery and perfidioulnesse of his Countrey men, being zealous for his Gods glory and their souls good, cryes out as a man consumptive with cares and sorrowes, My leannesse, My leannesse, Is. 24. 16.

9. They are labourers together, (not with Paul or with Peter but) with God, 1 Cor. 3. 9. So called, because God useth them for the begetting of faith, their paines and the promulgation of the Gospell tending to one and the same end, even the Salvation of souls: An honourable Character. And great is the dignity that God hath conferred on them, to adopt and adapt them to be helpers, without whose help he could as easily do his own work, if he pleased. God calls us to those pains, which he doth not need, and then honours us with those honours, and honourable titles which we do not deserve. This is a great Angelicall, nay divine dignity, in which we may find a consolation almost as great as the dignity, inferring, that if we miscarry not in our duty, God will be also our fellow-labourer, and help us by his labour. For what man will forsake, the plowmen, the Shepherds, the Stewards, which himself sets a work? And what good commander is there, but will encourage, vindicate, embolden, and reward his faithfull Souldiers in and for their faithfull service? And although Christ primarily and by way of Eminence be called Gods fellow, Zach. 13. 7. Yet scarcely the Ministers of the Gospell upon this account are so too.

10. They are called Gods. Moses that faithfull servant of God, and steward of his house, is called a God, even by God himself, Exod. 4. 16. Thou shalt be to Aaron instead of God, and again, Exod. 7. 1. See I have made thee a God to Pharaoh. He was indeed a man still by nature, but a God by office, and delegation from God, and also by the communication of divine power and wisdom to him. And if they be called Gods unto whom the word of God came, Ioh. 10. 35. Surely then the title is as due to the prophets of God, as any other, concerning whom it is so oft recorded, that the word of the Lord came unto them. All the Ministers of the Gospell are as much Gods, as it is possible for one to be that stands only in Gods stead, for of them it is that God saith, He that heareth you, heareth me, and he that despiseth you despiseth me, Luk, 20. 16.
the

11. They are called Watchmen. Is. 62. 6. Jer. 6. 17. Ezech. 3. 17. and 33. 7. Hos. 9. 8. Heb. 13. 17. So called, because they foresee the future dangers, and warn the people of them; as a watchman seeth the enemy comming a farr off,) and by the giving of a sign warneth the inhabitants. The Ministers of the Gospell watch over the souls of the people, that they be not led aside by errors, nor perish in their sins. And this they doe by preaching, praying, reprovng, and other exercises of their calling.

12. They are called Pastors, or Shepherds. Is. 63. 11. Jer. 3. 15. Ioh. 10. 2, 12. Now in a Shepheard there is required 1. Diligence and industry, to feed the flock, to reduce the straying, to heal the sick, to preserve the whole. 2. Courage to defend the sheep, and resist the wolves. 3. Faithfullnesse, to restore the sheep to their Master, confessing himself a servant, and not the Master of the flock. 4. Wisdome and discretion to know whether to use his voyce or his staffe. 5. Patience and hardinesse, to endure the winds, the storms, and tempests which he is expold to, as Jacob complains of himself. Gen. 31. 38, 39. 40. Thus the Ministers of Christ, do feed the Church, that flock of Christ, with the food of heavenly doctrine, keep them from the poysonous and rotting pastures of hereticks, and the wolves from them, and do also govern the sheep committed to them with the rod of discipline.

13. They are called builders of the Church. Eph. 4. 11, 12, 1. Cor. 3. 10. For by their doctrine the people of God are built up and do grow in faith and mutuall charity. The Church of God is a building, the Master builder or Architect is God, the inferiour workmen are his Ministers, whereof some lay the foundation, others build upon it, that so we may become as a temple fit for God to dwell in. The prophets of old were Gods masons, Hos. 6. 5. I have hewed them by the prophets. For as the Mason cutts, hews, and squares the stones, so by the means of the law do the Ministers of Christ, hew us, square, & prepare us, that we may be fit materialls for the building up of a spirituall house. Thus ought the Ministers of Christ like wise buildders prepare every particular house committed to their charge to be some part in this building, wherein let them use discretion according to the nature of their materials, breaking some stones in pieces before they can make good work of them, squaring and smoothing others by gentler instruments, cutting and hewing all by the law, and plaining and placing and compacting and building up by the Gospell, all that are so cut.

14. They are called Christs witnesses. Ioh. 15. 27. Act. 1. 3. Rev. 2. 13. 11. 3. 22. 16. Now they witness to Christ, both by their preaching, as by a verball, and their conversations, as by a practicall and reall testimony. For if every ordinary judge will look for faithfullnesse and veracity, exact and personall knowledg of the thing, and honesty and integrity of conversation, in every one of his currant witnesses, much more doth Christ require at the hands of his Ministers those extraordinary witnesses, that by life as well as language they do truly, freely, explicitly, ingenuously and constantly, own and witness to him and his truth; And that those qualifications of every sufficient witness, be by no means wanting in his witnesses to make them sufficient.

15. They are called Servants of Iesus Christ. Rom. 1. 1. Phil. 1. 1. Iam. 1. 1. Not servants of men, of princes, but of that God, who is above all men, of that Monarch, who is the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. Neither are they of Gods ordinary sort of servants, as all creatures are his servants by the right of creation. Ps. 119. 91. Or as all the Elect are his servants by the right of redemption, but his servants by vertue of their mission, commission and ambassage, after a more peculiar manner. They are the servants of Christ by way of Eminence, in that they doe him more Eminent service then others, and in so serving him doe govern his, which title yet doth enforce pains, as well as conferr honour, for a servant is all his Masters. For him he works, for him he wins, to him he lives and dyes: He doth all things for his Masters profit, and according to his Masters pleasure. So they owe to Christ what ever they have, or are, and therefore ought to lay out and expend whatever they have, or are, life, liberty, wit, wealth for his honour and glory, and esteem themselves great gainers, in being profitable to him:

16. They are called fathers: 2. Kin. 2. 12. 1. Cor. 4. 15. 1. Thef. 2. 11. and frequently elfewhere, becaufe they are ferviceable in the hand of God by means of the word of God, to beget fpirituall Children unto God. For although God be our father principally and properly, yet this hinders not, but that his Minifters may be our fpirituall fathers, organically and analogically, which title befpeaks love and reverence; which tributes God is pleafed to allow parents. Exod: 20. 12. And if they have been fruitfull in this relation, it will be their joy and Crown of rejoycing at the coming of Iefus Chrift. 1. Thef. 2. 19. Let us pray therefore, and let all that are already begotten by any of us to Chrift Iefus pray, that fince God hath honoured us with the title of fathers, he would alfo honour us with the relation of fons, that fo we may not be fathers without Children, And let us all defire to encrease the family of Chrift with Rachels importunity, (leaving out her impatience) Lord give us Children before we dye?

17. They are called Seers and the eyes of the body: 1. Sam. 9. 9. If. 30. 10. 1. Cor. 12. 17. They ufed to fay in Ifrael, Come let us go to the feer, for men prophesied by vifions and revelations. Ezechiel faw vifions of God. Ezech. 1. 1. being enlightened by the Spirit of God they faw things at a diftance. Hab. 1. 1. 2. 1. And hence they are called feers, for the prophets and paffors are that to the Church which the eyes are to the body: Let us pray therefore that God would enlighten our minds with the Pfalmit, Pf. 119. 18. Open thou our eyes that we may behold the wondrous things out of thy Law, that fo we may not be blind guides, and feers that fee nothing.

18. They are called Chriffs Souldyers, 2. Tim. 2. 3. 4. Now a fouldier has much to doe, and more to fuffer; their action is fighting, 1. Tim. 1. 18. Their fuffering is, not only the violence of their adverfaries, which they muft fustain, but they are expofed to hunger, and thirft, the heat of the day and the cold of the night, and many wearifome watchings. Hence the Apoftle calls his fellow-Minifters, fellow-Souldiers, Phil. 2. 25. Philem. 1. 2. For although every believer be a Souldier, Eph. 6. 12. 13. Yet amongst thofe, the Minifters obtain the firft place, as they that lead the troops, and receive the firft impreffions of the enemies fury. There are Souldiers that are no Minifters and could happily wish there were none) and there are Ministers that do not act like souldyers, But let them all know that they are called to a warfare, that there is a combat prepared for them, and that therefore they must either fight for Gods cause, or dye for the cause of not fighting.

19. They are called Guides of the Church. Act. 8. 31. Rom. 2. 19. Heb. 13. 7, 17, 24. because they lead others in the ways of Salvation. They are the examples of believers, whom all behold for imitation, and do conform themselves to, as to a living law. 1. Tim. 4. 12. Some one has alluded to the Apostles words in verse;

*Pastors are the glasse, the schoole, the book,
Where peoples eyes do learn, do read, do look.*

It is with an Emphasis, that the Apostle calls them so oft the guides or the leaders, in that 13. Chap. to the Hebrews: Because they either lead or ought to lead the people of God in the ways of God. For although it be proper to God onely to lead men, yet because he leads them by his word, he is pleased to communicate this honourable title to the preachers of this word.

20. They are called the Charriot of Israel and the horsemen thereof, as it is in an expresse acknowledgment, 2. Kin. 2. 12. and 13. 14. and by a faire consequence from 1. Sam. 7. 13, 14. As long as Samuel lived, the Philistines were subdued before Israel. And if Moses let God alone, the people will be consumed with his wrath, Exod. 32. 10. Gods Ministers are not only Souldiers and Captains, but they are all the army, they are the horsemen and the Charriots of the Church, they are for defence unto it. And if one Elijah carryed and protected the people, and defended them more by his zeal, and prayers, then thousands of Charriots and horsemen; what strength and might shall there be found in many Elijahs? These are the Churches walls, the bullwarks of the land, and the best fortifications for any City, They kill the enemyes of God with the sword of Gods word, whereby they sharply wound in reproving; and kill in threatening death: If furious Iehu should chance to let any escape, the sword of Elisha shall be sure to slay him, 1. Kin. 19. 17. And you may see Elijah sitting upon a hill, and slaying an hundred of Ahaziahs Souldyers to death, and burning them up with the words words of his mouth 2. Kin. 1. The same is the power of Gods witnesses, out of whose mouths fire doth proceed & devour their enemies. Rev. 11. 5. Let England then take heed of pulling down, nay so much as loosening these pillars, lest the whole structure of Church and state fall together with them.

21. They are called Bishops, A generall title, and given to all the Ministers of the Gospel, all whose it is to oversee the flock committed to their trust, and to have a diligent care of it. Act. 20. 28. And therefore, whom the Apostle calls Elders. Tit. 1. 5. these he calls also Bishops. v. 7. Neither doth this title conferre dignity only, it inferrs duty also. The office of a Bishop has employment as well as preferment in it. It is a work in the Apostles judgment. 1. Tim. 3. 1. He that desireth the office of a Bishop, desireth a good work.

22. They are called Teachers, this being the great businesse of Ministers to preach and teach the word of God. This title primarily belongs to Christ, who is the teacher of his people, But it is applyed secundarily to his Ministers, who are ushers to him the Head-master. Eph. 4. 11. 1. Tim. 2. 17.

23. They are called Clouds, (spirituall Clouds, watering, refreshing, fructifying the vineyard of the Lord with the former and the latter rain of ordinances. Is. 5. 6. Hence they are sayd to drop their doctrine upon men by a word fetcht from the Clouds. Deut. 32. 2. Ezech. 21. 2. Am. 7. 16. But Heretiques and deceivers, are empty bottles, waterlesse Clouds, tossed to and fro with the winds, Jude. 12. They make an ostentation and specious pretence of knowledg, when as indeed their sounds are but the sounds of empty bottles, and they are specious white Clouds, that seem to promise the earth a belly full of water, but when they should come to distill it, they are gone with a blast of wind, and so gull the thirsty expectations of the silly spectators.

24. They are called Nurses 1. Thef. 2. 7. For as a Nurse, dandles and husheth, and suckleth, and flattereth the little infant, so the Ministers of the Gospel should even hugg in their bosomes, speak pleasantly unto & feed with the sincere milk of the word, Christs new born-babes, accommodating their language, behaviour, and way of feeding to their infant state. And as a nurse with admirable patience doth digest the wranglings, lings, endure the frowardnesses of her nursing, not grudging it her own blood to feed upon; So a faithfull Minister should be patient in his pains, indefatigable in his diligence, and not count his life dear unto him, if by it the Church of Christ may be advantaged, nor think much at his own destruction, if by it his people may be edified.

καρπῶται. 25. They are called the Ministers of Christ. 1. Cor. 4. 1. Which word in the Greek bespeaks sorrow, and calls for pains, as the office of a rower doth require. They sit at the oares, where if the wind of Gods spirit do not exceedingly help, they will find intolerable pains, and if it do help, yet they must use an indefatigable diligence. And if they be the Ministers of God (administring faithfully the word and sacraments) they must be approved in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses, &c. 2. Cor. 6. 4. They are not prefer'd to a politicall and imperiall dignity, but an Ecclesiasticall Ministry, in which they may promise themselves whatever pains, the meanest of servants, in rowing, running or what else, do find, and more.

26. They are called Starrs, and that not wandring, but fixed. For Christ, who sits at the right hand of God holds them in his right hand, Rev. 1. 20. (1.) Starrs shine; so ought they by clearnesse of doctrine, and integrity of life to shine before others. (2.) Starrs shine in the night; so let a Minister of the Gospell shine more gloriously, and illustriously when the Church of Christ is beclouded with heresy, and benighted in persecutions. (3.) Starrs shine with a borrowed light; so the Ministers of Christ, receive their calling, gifts and doctrine from him the Sun of righteousness. Nay they excell either sun or starrs, for these shall be turned into darknesse, the sun shall be totally eclipsed, the starrs sink down into their sockets, and be put out at the dissolution of the world, but they shall shine for ever and ever. Dan. 12. 3. Oh that they were also as the starrs of heaven for number, the Lord of the harvest sending out plenty of labourers to reap his yet plentiful harvest; and more fixed in the firmament of our Church, then the stars in heaven, that sometimes tumble head-long?

27. They are called Angells of the Church. Rev. 1. 20. 14. 6. For 1. like Angells they are messengers sent by God to declare his will to men. 2. They ought to imitate an Angelicall, purity, purity, chastity, zeal and celerity, that they may be as Angells amongst men, Masters amongst boyes, and shepheards amongst sheep. So that this name also brings duty with it, as well as dignity. Many would be content to be Angells to dwell in heaven, but loath to be Angells to doe Gods errands upon earth; but he that would enjoy the honour, must first be employed in the office, and execute that office too with carefullnesse, cherefullnesse and speedinesse, as the Angells doe. Now if Timothy as being a man of God, must flee covetousnesse; how much rather ought he to doe it as being an Angell of God. And if the Angels of God by pride fell from the presence and glory of God, it concerns these Angels that yet they be humble as men. What matters now though the world call us blind guides; God counts us stars, and will set us in heaven, when the stars themselves shall be misplaced. What though they call us devills; it is honour enough that God counts us Angels. Let us doe the work of Angels, and God will not stick to own us and honour us as such, before all men and Angels.

28. They are called Presbiters and Elders, a name implying, not their age, but office and dignity, common to all the Ministers of Christ, so that it is no solecisme to say, the yongest of Christs faithfull Ministers is an Elder. For the name is indifferently given to them all. Act. 14. 23. 17. 1. Tim. 5. 17. Tit. 1. 5. 1. Pet. 5. 1. So called, because they ought to excell others in an elderly wisdom and discretion, shunning all youthfull vanities and levities, and behaving themselves with such a gravity and piety, as may beget a reverence for them amongst the people,

29. They are called Paranymphs or friends of the bride-groom. Ioh. 3. 29. 2. Cor. 11. 2. Because they bring the bride and espouse her to Christ: They invite men to the marriage of the Kings son, Mat. 22. 3. and to the great feast, Luk. 14. 17. Oh singular dignity, and sweet employments. As the bridegroom makes use of his most faithfull and approved friends for Paranymphs, to make up the match between him, and his beloved: So Christ Iesus makes use of the paines of his Ministers, to perswade poor sinners into a marriage with their maker. Now the work of these friends of the bridegroom is manifold. For first they make up the match, secondly, after marriage they instruct them in their conjugall duties, and teach them faithfullnesse, love,

love, and loyalty in that relation. And lastly, in case they backslide and forsake their Lord and Husband, they cause them to return again, and renew, their conjugall vows. And they that do these things are like the confident and approved friends of the bride-groom. Let us take heed therefore, that we play not the part of those unfaithfull trustees, who having been put into this office, and employed for the bridegroom, in the consummation of marriages, speak one word for him, and two for themselves; Let us wooe for Christ and not for our selves; his profit and credit, and not our own, for we are but the paranympths, he is the bride-groom, we are but the ambassadors, he the King.

30. They are called Legates, messengers, ambassadors for Christ, Hag. 1. 13. 2. Cor. 5. 20. Eph. 6. 20. to be Ambassador from any prince is an honour, from a renowned Monarch is more, but to be employed an Ambassador for Christ Iesus is of all other honours most honourable. And such ambassadors are Christs Ministers. And therefore, 1. as an Ambassador keeps himself within the limits of his commission, and observes how he is bounded by his Princes commands, so let the Ministers of Christ deliver their Masters mind freely, and yet truly, without detracting from, or adding any thing to the same. 2. As no Ambassadour assumes that province to himself, nor puts himself into commission. So let them expect their Masters mission before they fall a running; and 3. As Ambassadors are safe from any violence; so let these promise themselves the protection of their Master, and well they may, for they serve the best Master in the world, who not only sends them of his ambassage, but goes along with them also. And let England take heed of doing violence or offering abuse to these Ambassadors, for if David did revenge upon Hanun the base usage of his servants, and the Romans sackt Carthage, for offering violence to their Ambassadors, surely Christ, that interprets despites done to his Ministers, to be done to himself, will sharply and surely revenge the quarrell of his Ambassadors, and the dishonour done unto them.

31. They are called fishers of men. Mat. 4. 19. Mar. 1. 17. Luk. 5. 10. Because they do, as it were by the preaching of the word catch men, that wander up and down the wide world, as it were in a deep and vast Ocean. And under this Metaphor, a diligent diligent and unwearyed care and endeavour to gain many souls is enjoyned to them. For fishers many times catch at what they catch not, it may be, toyle all the night and catch nothing, therefore they had need of patience and constancy: they are exposed to tempests & ill weather, may have their lives allwayes in jeopardy by reason of the raging waves and unmercifull deeps, therefore had need of a great share of courage & hardinesse, to adventure upon the one, and endure the other. Oh that we had Peter's successe to catch many fishes, or at least Peter's indefatigableness, patiently to endure royling all the night.

32. They are called Husbandmen. 1. Cor. 3. 9. & therefore are called planters and waterers of Gods vineyard. 1. Cor. 3. 6. The primary and chief Husbandman is God, Ioh. 15. 1. The secondary or subordinate Husbandman is the Minister of God, God tills inwardly by his spirit, the Minister outwardly by his word & doctrine. And as the field is plowed and sowed to bring forth fruit to its owner, so is the Church plowed and sowed to bring forth fruit to God, whose it is, and whose they are that till it. See here the necessity of a Ministry, without bread no life, without corn no bread, without Husbandry no corn, without Husbandmen no Husbandry, why so without faith no Salvation, without hearing no faith, without preaching no hearing, and how can there be preaching without preachers?

33. They are compar'd to Oxen, 1. Cor. 9. 9. 1. Tim. 5. 18. under the name of an Oxe, the indefatigable labour of a Minister is typically and allegorically set forth. For the Oxe is a very laborious Creature, and very profitable by its labour, (Prov. 14. 4. Much increase is by the strength of the Oxe) and that not to it self but to its Master. So let the Ministers of Christ be laborious and industrious, and that for Christ, not for themselves. The Oxe is slow in work but sure: If a Minister be cast upon hard ground, amongst a dull and slow people of understanding, it matters not for much hast or acutenesse, Let him accommodate himself to their capacities, rather study to doe his work firmly then finely; Let him not think much to explain, presse and inculcate the same things again and again. And as the Oxe content with grasse, hay or straw is an Hieroglyphick of frugality, So let a Minister of Christ be sober and frugall, minding more his work then his meat. As an Oxe is a harmlesse and innocuous creature, by the verdict of the poet,

*What doth the Oxe deserve that hath no guile,
But harmlesse born alone to suffer toyle?*

So let a preacher be a single and sincere man, without fraud or malice, plain and upright, like Jacob, helpfull to all, hurtfull to none. As the Oxe is hardy and strong to work, Ps. 144. 14. So let a preacher of Gods word be valiant, fearing the face of no man, nor the frowns of no face. Doth any one curse him? Let him contemne the curse. For he cannot answer reproaches and raylings better, then by not answering them at all. And as the Oxe labours hardest in hardest weather, more in Winter then in Summer. So let Ministers approve themselves in afflictions, in necessityes, in distresses. 2. Cor. 6. 4. and stirre up themselves to the greatest diligence, when there is the worst weather in the Church. As the Oxe is profitable both in his life and death, so let every faithfull and able Minister of Christ, be serviceable to the Church of Christ, not only by his preachings but also writings. Again as the ground which the Oxe plows nor, brings forth briers and thorns, but that which is by him broken up and prepared, presents the Husbandman with a wellcome harvest: So the souls to whom the sound of the Gospell preached doth not come, that have no teaching priest, no ministeriall Oxe to break up the fallow ground, are overgrown with the weeds and rubbish of vices, but those over whose souls the plow of Gods word, held by the Ministers of Christ, doth passe, are fruitfull in graces and vertues. And lastly, as it is fit that the Oxe should feed of the harvest which he gets in, and ear of the corn which he treads forth; So is it fit that he that serveth at the Altar should live of the Altar, that he that preaches spirituall things should receive of their temporalls to whom he preaches; which piece of equity the Apostle proves by many arguments. 1. Cor. 9.

34. They are called Gods Trumpeters. Hos. 5. 8. and 8. 1. Because they must cry with a loud, shrill, and trumpet-like voyce to awaken the sleepy sinners. (1.) They blow the trumpet of the law against sinners, Zeph. 1. 14, 15, 16. Then the trumpet of the Gospell to the penitent ones, Is. 27. 13. (2.) As the trumpets of the Levites were of solid and massy silver, Numb. 10, 2. So the Ministers of Christ ought to preach the substantiall substantiall and simple word of God without any mixture of their own inventions, without drosse or corruption. (3.) They are Gods Trumpeters, in as much as they ought to proclaim an everlasting and irreconcilable combat against sin, and call out men to fight the devill and their own corruptions, therefore Wisdom's maydens do not whisper, the Ministers of Gods word do not speak coldly, but boldly. Prov. 9. 3. For a preacher is not made for a pipe to invite men to wantonnesse and feasting, but for a trumpet to call forth to warrs and fightings, to call men into the field against the black band of devills, and their own outragious lusts. And whilst one of these enemyes abide the field, the Minister must call on to fight, as the trumpet sounds, so long as the enemyes are in fight.

35. They are called the mouth of the Lord. Ier. 15. 19. If. 2. 3. Luk. 10. 16. Act. 10. 35. 1. Thes. 2. 13. Those that separate the pretious from the vile, discern between the good and the bad, and reprove sin freely, are as the Lords mouth, and those that preach the Gospell faithfully are as the lips of Christ, for he speaks in them. 2. Cor. 13. 3. These God ownes for his mouth, that is for his true and faithfull messengers, whilst they speak his words and not their own, in so much that he that heareth them, is interpreted as hearing God himself. And if they be the mouth of God, let their adversaryes desist their designes to silence them, for how is it possible that the mouth of God should be stopped?

36. They are called the Ministers of the New Covenant or Testament. 2. Cor. 3. 6. Ministers, not of the law as Moses was, but of the Gospell, not of the old, but of the new Covenant, not of the letter, but of the spirit, not of death, but of life, not of damnation, but of mercy, not in weaknesse, but power, and efficacy; because by them Christ enlightens the mind, purifies the heart, and regenerates the whole man.

37. They are called a sweet savour. 2 Cor. 2. 15. By which Metaphor, the Apostle commends and glorifies their sacred Ministry. For they are a sweet savour, in as much as they bring a sweet smell from Christ, and with it perfume the corrupt manners of the dunghill world. And this must needs be so, because on the contrary, false prophets are a noysome stink; but these preaching a holy doctrine, and proving it by an holy life, doe become a sweet smelling savour, and being so, their Ministry doth become an acceptable sacrifice to God, yea, even in them that perish. For although Israel be not gathered, yet shall they that desire to gather them, be glorious in the eyes of God.

II. 49. 5.

38. They are called the Churches Crown. Rev. 12. 1. The Church of Christ is to be seen there clothed with the sun, that is, with Christ the sun of righteousness, having the moon under her feet, that is, the tramples upon all worldly things as vain and worthlesse; For the moon signifyes things sublunarie. She has upon her head a Crown of twelve starrs, that is, she doth not tread under her feet the Apostolicall doctors, and doctrine, (as the manner of unmannerly England is at this day) but carryes them as her Crown and royall ornament upon her head. She is adorned with the doctrine of the twelve Apostles, upon which she is founded, Chap. 21. 14. with excellent Ministers, as with a diadem, Chap. 1. 20. For her glory is not a wordly Crown, but her Crown is the integrity of her teachers.

39. They are called the glory of Christ, 2 Cor. 8. 23, that is, by a Metonymye of the effect, such as promote and illustrate the glory of Christ. A title that comprehends all dignity in it. For how can a man be more glorious, then by being made the glory of Christ? Thus the grace and doctrine of the Gospell is called the glory of the Lord, II. 60. 1. Thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. So let us therefore preach, so let us live, that we may be a glory to Christ our Lord and Master, and not a shame, for ornament not for ignominye.

40. They are called Saviours, Rom. 11. 14. Obad. 21. v. 1 Tim. 4. 16. For so it seemeth good to the spirit of God, to honour them whose Ministry it makes use of, by ascribing its own work to their hands. And this lays a strong charge upon us, that we through ignorance or idlenes suffer not those souls to perish, whose Salvation God hath as it were entrusted into our hands. Neither is that cavill worth any thing, that it is God alone that converts and regenerates: For we do not deny it. God saves, and so do we. He saves absolutely and principally, we only subserviently and instrumentally, we endeavour the salvation of souls, Gods gives efficacy and successe to our endeavours. God and man goe together, to bring God and man together.

gether. That which God could do without us, he is yet pleased to do by us; and we working in his hand, are said to do that work which the hand does that acts us: we save men; and yet it is God that saves both them and us: And this now argues the greatest necessity of a Gospel-Ministry, that by it soules may be saved, and God glorified in their Salvation; which Argument might be of sufficient strength to establish such a Ministry, if those thousands, that might be called out for help, were all silenced.

Now to what end are all these Titles and Elogies, but to teach Ministers their Duty towards their people, and how to look upon themselves (as men created and devoted to labour and service) and to teach the people their debt of love, honour, and reverence to, and how to look (with an eye of esteem) upon their Ministers.

CHAP. III.

Arguments and Reasons evincing the Necessity, and efficacy of a Gospel-Ministry.

1. THE Necessity of the Sacred Ministry doth appear by God's command given, Mark, 16. 15. Preach the Gospel to every creature; that is, to all men: Man being the Master-piece of the Creation is exalted; the Creature, by way of Eminence, as by our Saviour here, so by the Apostle Paul, Col. 1. 23. The like not onely Commission, but command ye may finde, Matth. 28. 19. Act. 10. 42. where you have Christ expressly commanding to preach to the people. And the Apostle Paul, about to die, and so to leave his Office, gives this as his last Charge to Timothy (to the observance of which he strongly adjures him) that he preach the Word in every opportunity, and with all importunity, 2 Tim. 4. 1, 2. This task Christ impos'd, or rather, this honour Christ conferr'd upon Peter, and in him upon all his Ministers, that they should feed, and feed, and again feed his sheep, Iohn 21. 15, 16. It is not a humane Invention, but a Divine Institution, and therefore not arbitrary, but Necessary.

2. A Ministry is not onely necessary by a necessity of the Precept, but also by a necessity of the means; not onely as being ordained by God, but as being ordained for man, and his salvation: and it is so necessary in this regard, as that, it is called in ordinary Speech, the means, or the means of grace. This is the ordinary way, the King's high-way to heaven, Rom. 10. 14, 15. 1 Cor. 1. 21. Act. 11. 14. 1 Tim. 4. 16. By this the Spirit is received, Gal. 3. 2. Act. 10. 44. This is the arm of the Lord, and the power of God to salvation, Rom. 1. 16. This was the employment which our blessed Saviour was diligent in, Matth. 4. 17. and 11. 1. Luke 4. 18, 19. and therefore God sent Cornelius, not to an angel, but to Peter, who should tell him what he ought to do, Act. 10. 5, 6. and Paul, although extraordinarily called, yet for the honour of the Ministry, was sent to school to Ananias, Act. 9. 6, 10. and the Eunuch must have Phibip to preach to him, Act. 8. 19. Forso it seemed good to God, by men to reveal his Will to men: This treasure God hath committed to earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, 2 Cor. 4. 7. God hath ordained it to be the primary means of our Regeneration and Conversion unto God, Mal. 4. 5, 6. James 1. 18. 1 Pet. 1. 23. 1 Cor. 4. 15. And as the Word of God preach't is the seed whereof the Christian man is borne, so it is the food whereby the new born Christian is nourished. Hence it is compared to meat, Ierem. 3. 15. to shewers, and dew, Deut. 32. 2. Isa. 55. 10. to light, Act. 26. 18. Psal. 119. 105, to the face of God, Psal. 27. 4. and 105. 4. Now without meat no life, without shewers no increase, without light no comfort, without the face of God no joy: It is this Word of God that enlightens the eyes, Psal. 19. 8. cheareth the heart, Mic. 2. 7. raiseth up the drooping, Isa. 57. 19. comforts the sad, Isa. 40. 1, 2. enlivens the dead, Iohn. 5. 25. heateth the cold like fire, breaketh the obstinate, like a hammer, Ierem. 23. 29. and confers the spirit of Adoption, whereby we are sealed unto the day of Redemption. This is a sign of God's blessing, Exod. 20. 24. In whatsoever place the name of God is recorded, there he blesses the people, in hearing prayers, directing in doubts, and enriching them with all internall and external goods: Micah, although upon a false ground, had great confidence of this blessing, upon this account, Iudg. 17. 13. Now know I that the Lord will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my Priest. But truer, and diviner is that of the divine Musician,

Pfal. 65. 4. Blessed is the man whom thou choosest, and causest to approach unto thee, that he may dwell in thy courts: we shall be satisfied with the goodness of thy house, even of thy holy temple: to which truth our Saviour also gives his testimony, Luke 10. 23. Blessed are the eyes which see the things which ye see, and this seeing comprehends hearing, and so consequently, hearing has the blessing also, vers. 24.

They must necessarily, and most deservedly perish then, that neglect and reject this spiritual Food and Physick. Cursed be also those damnable Apostates that bring in Damnable Errors, whereby they drive the sheep of Christ from his Folds, and drive them into the mouthes of the Wolves, bewitching them with their Fancies and Dreams, and so at last dreaming them into hell: and cursed be the Presumption of those inspired Spirits, who despising the sacred Ministry of the more sacred word of God, pretend and profess Revelations, and Enthusiasms, as false as new, and as dangerous as either. These God suffers to fall into the temptations of pride, and into the snares of Sathan; having reserved the blackness of everlasting darknesse to be the Conclusion of their new Lights, 2 Pet. 2. 17. Jude. 13.

3. The Necessity and Efficacy of the Ministry appear's by the ends for which it was ordained; which being many, the Apostle comprises in few, but full phrases, Ephes. 4. 11. &c. 1. Christ ordained a Ministry for the Restauration of the Saints, for the setting of them, as of disjointed members in their proper places: There was a disjuncture made by the fall of our first parents, and hence it is that all of us have variously erred and gone astray: Therefore God to restore us, hath given variety of gifts to his Ministers, to knit us to Christ our head, and us all together, as fellow-members. And as for the Restauration of the Saints, so 2. For their Edification. He hath given us Teachers, that we may be built up in knowledg; Preachers of the Word, that by them we may be built up in our most holy Faith, which comes by hearing. 3. For the settling and establishing us in the Truth, that we may arrive at a staid manhood in Christianity, and not like children be tossed too and fro with every winde of Doctrine, nor be drawn aside by the sleight and cunning craftines of men, whereby they lye in wait to deceive. 4. For the conservation of the Unity and Harmony of the Church, in the Worship of God, that we may speak the truth in love.

4. Our Infirmities and Miseries do sufficiently speak a Necessity of a Ministry: We are all by nature sick of an Hereditary Disease, and do therefore need a favoury and saving Ministry, to keep us that we die not of this Sicknes, and to restore us again to perfect soundness. Nay, we are all by nature distanced from the mercy of God, are destitute of all innate strength, whereby to help our selves: Nay, we are not onely sick, and unable to restore our selves to health, but even dead in sin, Eph. 2. 1. and therefore be sure unable to restore our selves to life; and so we are obnoxious to the heaviest wrath of the Almighty God. And does not this sad condition call for A Ministry of Reconciliation?

5. The Necessity of a Ministry appears by the sad condition of them that are destitute of the preaching of the Word, as may be exemplified in the Jews sometime wanting it, and the Heathens at this day; without a teaching Priest, and without the true God, are put together, 2 Chron. 15. 3. And the Heathens that want this Ministry are without God in the world, without Christ, without hope, Eph. 2. 12. When Moses the Jews Minister was away but five or six weeks, the people presently become idolatrous, Exod. 32. 1. After Paul's departure, grievous Woolves are seen entering in amongst the people, Act. 20. 29. where there is no vision the people perish, saies Solomon, Prov. 29. 18. Where there is no Ministry of the Word, we may expect whatever evil is expressed or signified by the Hebrew word (פֶּשַׁע) which we translate (perish) 1. Denudation, or stripping off the true and saving knowledge of God, faith, love, with the whole Armour of God, as also of Divine safeguard, and protection.

2. Rebellion, viz. against God, and against men. 3. Cessation from the study of good learning, performance of good duties, and practice of good works. 4. Separation, not onely from God by Apostasie, but one from another, by cruel enmities, and carnal Errors, as sheep having no Shepherd, and (as when there was no King in Israel, so) if there should be no Preacher in Israel, every one would do what seemed good in his own eyes; Nay, I doubt not to say, if Israel were nothing else but Kings, yet, if there were no Preacher, they would do so.

We see some good fruits which God is pleased to hand over to us by the Ministry, some sad fruits of the want of it, and some Arguments, evincing the necessity and efficacy thereof: What remains, but that we maintain and stick to this Ministry; love, and reverence the Ministers, at least for their work sake.

CHAP. IV.

The Doctrine is applyed in an Vse of Information.

THE Corrolaryes issuing out of the bowells of this Doctrine, thus explicated and demonstrated, will serve for Information, Instruction, Consolation, Reprehension, Exhortation.

1. For Information. There is then a Ministry in the Church. To what purpose are all these Names, and honourable Titles, if there be no such Order, as Ministers, in the Church? Which Order is not of a moneths, a years, or an Ages standing, but must be contemporary with the world, even in its last Ages: There is, and shall be a Ministry in the world, so long as there shall be a world for it to be in; which we shall prove by Arguments; 1. Confirming the truth. 2. Infirming and confuting the Cavills of the Anabaptists.

1. It is plain, by those Evangelicall Prophecies and Promises, by which God hath made himself a debtor to his Church. He standeth engaged to his people, in all ages, as well as to those of the Primitive times, to give them Pastors according to his own heart, who shall feed them with knowledg and understanding, Isa. 30. 20. Jerem. 3. 15. and 23. 4. Ezech. 44. 23.

2. It is plain by the Promise of Christs presence, and help with the Ministry of his Word, to the end of the world; the enrollment of which Promise we may see Matth. 28. 20. Loe, I am with you (not a day, nor a year, but) always, even unto the end of the world. Although it may be shaken sore in this world, yet it shall not be pluckt up by the roots; although many may, and do gnash their teeth against it, yet shall they not be able to devour it; for Christ will build his Church, and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it, or its Ministry. Neither did our Saviour make this Promise only (though chiefly) to his Apostles, but to all his Ministers also in generall, that either in times past have been, to us who now are, and to them that shall be after us, even to the end of the world.

3. The Offices of Ministers, and the works of the Ministry, shall be perpetuall, Therefore shall the Ministry it self last also. The Preaching of the Word, and the Administration of the Sacraments are Offices of Ministers, and works of the Ministry; but these have a long-liv'd Charter, a promise of perpetuity, and an injunction that they be perpetuated. A Ministry was given, not for one age, but for all ages; not for the Edification of one man, but of the whole body of Christ, the Church, Eph.

4. 11, 12. The Administration of Sacraments must extend it self to the utmost times, and last age of the Church, Matth. 28: 19, 20. I Cor. 11. 26. Now whilest the Office continues, they must needs continue that execute it. Where there is any Religion, there must be some set apart to maintain it. Baal himself, if he be a God, must have his Priests. The same may be found in Scripture concerning the fictitious crew of all those devilish Deities, which the Philistines, Egyptians, Moabites; and Ammonites worshipped,

4. It is plain from the necessity of this Calling: Without faith no Salvation, John 12. 16. Without the preaching of the word no faith, Rom. 10. 17. Without Preachers no preaching, and without a Ministry there can be no Preachers; For, How shall they preach except they be sent? So then, without the ministry and Ministers no Salvation. So long as there shall be any to be saved, God will provide some, by whose hands he will save them:

5. Whilest there shall be a Church, there must be a ministry of the Church; But God will have a Church militant upon earth whilest sun and moon endure, Ier. 31. 36. Matth. 16. 18. Eph. 3. 21. It is necessary therefore, that as there ever hath been a ministry, because there ever hath been some Elect, so there should be a ministry for ever, because there shall ever be some Elect; whose Salvation shall be carryed on thereby; that it should be commensurable with the Churches necessities,

Whilest

Whilest God shall have upon earth a Church to be built; a Vineyard to be planted, a field to be tilled, a Flock to be fed, an harvest to be reaped, and soules to be saved; so long will he have builders, planters, tillers, shepherds, reapers, Saviours, and a Ministry for the accomplishing of these things; see Act. 18. 10, 11.

6. It appears, in that it is said to be the priviledg, and is represented as the Property of the New Jerusalem, to have no Temple in it, Rev. 21. 22. The Church Triumphant is the Church, and the onely Church, that needs no ministry, ministers, or ordinances; For God is all this to them; Instead of the word of God, they read in the God of that Word; instead of the representation of Christ in Sacraments, they have the enjoyment of him without the help of shadows or types. The immediate enjoyment of God in this life, without the means, is sure then a fancy onely befeeming the heady brains, or rather brainless heads of Anabaptists. It is the proper Priviledg of the Church Triumphant to serve God immediately, without Temple or Ordinances; Amongst them it is, that Prophets shall fail, 1 Cor. 13. 8. But in the Church militant they are to be highly esteemed, 1 Thes. 5. 20:

7. It appears by the care of the Apostles for the continuation of their Successors, and the perpetuation of a Ministry in the Church. Paul commands Titus to ordain Elders and Bishops in every city, describes the persons to be ordained, and prescribes rules for the ordaining of them; Tit. 1. 5, 6, 7, 8, &c. He commands, and cautions Timothy also about the same thing; and bids him keep the commands relating to this Ministry till the appearing of the Lord Jesus Christ; which Injunction is not onely laid upon Timothy in his own person, but upon all the Ministers of Christ that shall be in succession to the end of the world.

8. It appears by that honor, reverence, and submission, which, by vertue of the command, is due to the Successors of the Apostles, 1 Thes. 5. 12, 13. Phil. 2. 29. Heb. 13. 17: Which things, so long as they are due, must needs have, and prove Ministers of the Gospel to whom they shall be given. And if you take away them that are over you in the Lord, your Messengers, them that have the rule over you, and that watch for your soules, I pray you tell me, where will you bestow the high estimation and love, the reputation, obedience, and submission which the great Apostle commands to be given, in the fore-quoted Texts.

9. It appears by that constant provision that God has made for his Ministers, ordering them honourable stipends for their work, Gal. 6. 6. 1 Cor. 9. 13, 14. 1 Tim. 5. 17, 18. which provision is laid up in the store-house of the Gospel, not onely for the Apostles sake, but all theirs that are Ministers of Christ in succession. Now to what purpose should these commands of God remain in the Bible, if there should not be a remainder of Ministers still in the Church. God needed not to have provided meat for his Ministers, if he had been minded that men should have sewed up their mouths.

Away with the doting crew of Anabaptists then, that despising the Word of God, and Ministry of that Word, and Ministers of that Ministry, gape for the downfall of Revelations into their mouths, and stare after New Lights. Away with them to the Law and the Prophets. Why stand ye gazing up into heaven for new discoveries? to the Law, and to the Testimony; If they be not according to this Word, it is because your new Lights have no light in them, Isa. 8. 20. God hath ordained and established a publick Ministry, and forbids the consulting of Diviners, Observers of times, Enchanters, Charmers, Witches, Wizards, Necromancers, Deut. 18. 10, 11, 12. No, nor must mens own Fancies lead them, their own inventions be set up to give Oracles; But in all doubtfull matters, consult the Ministers of God, vers. 15. Is there no light in the Word of God? or, whether are your eyes out that ye cannot receive it? Is that nothing but a dead letter now, which in S. Pauls dayes was so quick and spirituall, Heb. 4. 12. Is there no God, but in the still voice of your spirituall conceivements and Revelations now adayes? Well, let's hear what your spirit has to say against our Christ, who has bidden Go, and teach and baptise.

CHAP. V.

The Cavills and Fallacies of the Anabaptists, Socinians, Swendfeldians, and Enthusiasts are blown away.

Obj. 1. THE first harbour of these Libertines Opinion in this thing is pretended to be in Ierem.; 1. 34. They shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord, for they shall all know me, from the least of them, even to the greatest of them, saith the Lord; Therefore such a thing as the Ministry of the Word is needless under the New Testament.

Ans. 1. Words are not properly Scripture, but the sense; neither does the Scripture properly consist in the leaves of words, but in the root of reason; the Word of God is not to be taken formally, as it is described by words and syllables, but materially, as it declares to us the minde and counsell of God; we must not stick in the bark, for that hath involved the Papists and Anabaptists in many Etrours.

2. If we must needs have so much regard to the letter of the Text, it rather takes away Private Instruction, then Publick Preaching; for God does not say, there shall be no publick Preachers, but They shall no more teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother. But neither can we discard private Instructions under the Gospell, if S. Paul be a Gospell-man, who preffeth this duty, Coloss. 3. 16. 1 Thes. 5: 11.

3. The Text is a Promise: Now Promises must not shoulder out, nor overthrow Precepts; neither must the means be taken away, because the primary cause is laid down and asserted, God feeds all, it does not follow therefore that tillage is unnecessary, or bread needless, for by these means God feeds us. No more does it follow, that because God teacheth, therefore the ministry of his word is unnecessary, for God teacheth by the ministry of his Word.

4. The genuine scope of the Text is to shew us, that God teacheth his Elect, not onely externally, by the ministry of his Word, but internally; by the ministry of his Holy Spirit. Neither does the Prophet speak absolutely, simply; and and inclusively; but comparatively, as the Holy Ghost frequently speaks. Things spoken negatively in Scripture, are oftentimes to be understood comparatively, and are not to be expounded so much by (not) as by (not so much,) which is plain in Hos. 6. 6. Psal. 50. 8. Psal. 51. 16. Iohn 6. 38. Iohn 7. 16. and many other places: So that the sum of the Prophets words will easily be, There shall be a fuller and clearer knowledge of God in the times of the New Testament, than there was in the times of the Old.

1. Because under the Old Testament Christ was obscurely shadowed out in Types; but under the New he is plainly preach'd, and shewn openly; insomuch, that a very boy, well catechised and instructed doth understand the Gospel concerning Christ, beter then many of the Priests of the Law did; which is the accomplishment of that Promise, Isa. 11. 9. The earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the Lord.
2. Because there are farre more that are blessed with the saving knowledge of God in the times of the New Testament, than were in the times of the Old, the Preaching of the Word not being restrained to one Nation now, as it was then, but common to all.
3. By reason of the more plentiful Effusions of the grace of God, there shall not need so much pains and trouble to instruct the Elect now, as formerly there needed. This is plain from vers. 33. where it is said, I will write my Law in their hearts, not in their lips, not in tables of stones, not on the fringes of their garments (as it was sometimes among the Jews) but in their hearts, by giving them pious affections, and inclinations for the Law of God. That of Calvin upon the place gives the substance of the Interpretation; God, who had more darkly represented himself under the Law, promiseth a more glorious discovery under the Gospel; in so much, that the knowledge of God shall be then, as it were, familiar, and common: But it is by an Hyperbole that he commendeth this grace, when he saies, that no one shall need any Master or Teacher; but every one shall be sufficiently instructed: Neither yet does he say exactly, that they shall not teach every one his neighbour, but they shall not teach every one his neighbour, saying, Know the Lord; i. e. there shall be such a measure of knowledge, that men shall be no longer Abecedarians: For this phrase (know the Lord) seems to point at the first beginning, and rudiments of Religion. The minde of the Prophet in this place (which we willingly yield) can be nothing but this, that God will send out a greater light, and greater measures of knowledg in the times of the Gospell, and will deale more freely and familiarly with his people then, than formerly.

5. If having given the naturall sense, & genuine scope of the text, we may use an answer ad hominem, I would fain know why the Anabaptists and Quakers, that stand up for this litterall meaning, and apply the promise to our days, can make themselves these new lights, and the heirs Of this promise, and yet goe about saying, know the Lord. Certainly if this be the meaning of the promise, these be the times of the accomplishment of it, and they the persons to whom it belongs, they contradict their interpretation, and even break the neck of the promise, in going from town to town, from street to street, from house to house, teaching men to repent, to turn to the Lord, to know the Lord, and a great deal more of this, and so take Gods work out of his hands, for they should be all taught of the Lord. And if they say, true men shall be taught of the Lord, but it shall be by the means of men, then why are not we as fit to teach as they? This now brings to my mind their

2. Obj. Which they build upon, Is. 54. 13. where God promiseth that all the faithfull shall be taught of the Lord. Therefore the Ministry of the word is needlesse.

Ans. 1. This rather raiseth up then razeth out the Ministry of the word, of which there shall be need in the New-Testament, no lesse then in the old. All know that Scripture is the best interpreter of Scripture, Now Christ teacheth us what it is to be taught of God. Job. 6. 45. God teacheth us two ways, by the outward preaching of his word and by the inward revelations of his spirits. God here promiseth that his elect shall be taught, not only by the teachers of the Church from without, but by the Holy Spirit from within. Christians in this text of the Prophet seem to be put in opposition to the Jews, whose teachings under the old Testament were more externall then internall. And it is here promised that the spirit of God shall be mightily efficacious by the Ministry of the word, and that it shall be more free and liberall in distributing its gifts and graces under the New Testament. So that these two kinds of teachings are rather united in this text than divided. To be taught of God is not to be taught of him immediately, but mediately by the preaching of the word, as appears from Luk. 10. 16. Act. 10. 33. But further if this text of the prophet be interpreted for the overthrow of the Ministry of the word, how will it agree with Ier. 3. 15. Mat. 28. 20. Rom. 10. 14.? And agree it must, unlesse you will have the spirit of truth to give himself the lye. Calvin speaks appositely. It is evident how miserably they dote, who abuse this text, for the overthrow of the ministry of the Word, so much used by, and usefull to the Church. They cannot be owned for the Children of the Church, that reject her education. And it is in vain to boast the revelations of the spirit; for the spirit teaches none, save those who submit themselves to the ministry of the Word. Account we them therefore the brats of the Devill, not the genuine begotten of God, who reject this holy ordinance of his own institution. For we see these two, (the Children of the Church) and (the taught of God) are so much the same, that they cannot be the taught of God, who will not be taught in the Church.

2. If we may make an answer ad hominem, It little becomes the Anabaptists to decry a Ministry, and forbid prophesying who otherwise bid all to do it, plead the cause of the gifted brethren so stiffly, and give them a licence for prophesying at their pleasure. No wonder if they would set Scripture together by the ears, and make contradictions in them, who themselves do contradict themselves, and whose latter opinions do fall out and quarrell with their former.

3. Obj. Is grounded upon 1. Ioh. 2. 20, 27. Ye have an unction from the holy one, and ye know all things; And ye need not that any man teach you. The Objection fram'd for the purpose of our Libertines and New lights, will be of this form, who ever hath the spirit of God, understandeth the Scriptures without a teacher. But we have this spirit of God. Therefore we understand them without any teacher.

Ans. 1. The Major proposition is false. For whom the spirit of God teacheth, it teacheth by teachers, Eph. 4. 11. and not immediately, as was made to appear before. This anointing teacheth you all things, that is, The spirit of God is efficacious and powerfull by the preaching of the word, to enlighten the minds of the faithfull in all things necessary to Salvation, These elect persons knew all things, and so St. Paul could do all all things he sayes, and yet I dare say there were many things, that they did not know, nor he could not doe: what shall we say then? Why not that these elect persons were so many Gods, which they must be, if they know all things. Ioh. 21. 17. Not that Paul was Omnipotent, nor that these were Omniscient; But Paul's Omnipotence, and their Omniscience must be limited. The one could do all things belonging to his calling, the other knew all things necessary to Salvation, at least in some good measure: they knew all things which might serve for the discovering of Anti-Christ, and the avoyding of his snares, which is there the subject of the Apostles discourse. Concerning these things, or concerning the fundamentalls of religion, ye need not that any man teach you; which words else are spoken comparatively not absolutely, and come to this meaning. The spirit of God teacheth you so plainly and powerfully, that no one needs to bestow much pains to perswade you concerning heavenly truths. The Major proposition being pull'd down, the Minor staggars, and the conclusion appears to be a mere delusion.

2. If they that have the spirit of God and the Holy anointing, know all things, and need not that any one teach them any thing, in the sense which our Enthusiasts would interpret it, I wonder that the Apostle Iohn could so farr forget himself, as to write an Epistle for the instruction, & edification of such Omniscient persons as these were. This sense of the text, which our libertines will stich to it, will not only render the Apostle contradictory to Christ Iesus his Master, Mat. 9. 38. to the Apostle Paul 1. Tim. 3. 1. and Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13. but to himself also. As though a man should goe and teach another, that he need not be taught. So that surely, ye knew all things, must needs be meant but of some things; and ye need not that any one teach you, must be limited to some things only, wherein they were so well versed.

4. Obj. God can save the Elect without any Ministry, therefore he will.

Ans. This doth not follow: An argument from Gods power to his will is not concluding. God could have saved Noah without an Arke, but he would not. He could have instructed the Jews without Levites, have propagated the Gospell without Apostles, but he would not. He could save us indeed without means, but it has pleased him to make use of means for the regenerating of us, and to prescribe those means to us. Rom. 10. 14. Where the Apostle in an elegant gradation, sheweth us by what means, and in what order to faith and Salvation, we are fitted for glory.

5. Obj. Although the Ministry be usefull for regeneration, yet it is uselesse to the regenerate.

Ans. Why do ye not say also that meat is necessary for Children, but superfluous, and hurtfull to men of age; for we are sure that the word of God is meat. The Apostle Paul appears to be of another mind, Eph. 4. 11. The Ministry of the word must continue (not for a year or an age, not till we be regenerate, not till we have got a little strength, but) till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledg of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullnesse of Christ. Not only till we be united to Christ by faith, but till all the elect come to a perfect knowledg in the beatificall vision, and to the full stature of Christ. There remain many scales yet to be stricken off from the most enlightned eyes in the world, and some cubits which may still be added to the highest stature in this world by the word of God. The word of God is not only the seed, of which the Christian babe is born, but the food also, by which the Christian man is fed, 1. Pet. 2. 2. and is not only the instrument of regeneration, but of edification also, Act. 20. 32. 1. Tim. 3. 16, 17. Therefore the Apostle would not have believers to forsake the assembling of themselves together, by way of Christian congregations to handle, and hear Gods word. Heb. 10. 25. The word of God preacht, that principle of regeneration, is also the principle of nutrition. Jeremiah was regenerate, yet he ate the word of the Lord, and it was to him the joy and rejoycing of his heart. Ier. 15. 16. David was regenerate, yet the word of God, was more sweet to his taste then the most clarified honey, more desirable to his eyes, then the most refined gold, Pl. 19. 11. Iob was regenerate, yet he hid, or rather hoarded up the Commandements of God, as the best treasure, in his heart, as the best treasury; Nay, he esteemed the words of Gods mouth more then his necessary food. Iob. 23. 12.

Nay, since the best saints upon earth are by nature slow, secure, apt to loosen themselves from God, and obnoxious to many many wandrings both in head, heart, and hand, (as is sadly exemplified in Sampson the strongest of men, David the most humbled of sinners, Solomon the wisest of Kings, Peter the boldest of believers) since blindness in part happenseven to the deit of Israel, and no man even was or will be upon earth, either so compleat in knowledg or grace, but that something will remain to be added to him, Phill. 3. 12. 2 Pet. 3. ult. we have daily and hourly need for, and use of the word of God, whereby our ignorance may be instructed, our faintings refresh'd our weakness strengthned, our dullness quickned, our wanderings reduced, our waverings resolved, and we built up in grace, and in the knowledg of our Lord and Saviour Iesus Christ.

C H A P. VI.

Many uses of instruction arising from the doctrine.

1. HENCE we may see the absolute necessity of a Gospel-Ministry. Take away this salt, and you have the world stinking in sin presently. The whole world not only falleth into, but lyeth in wickednesse, 1. Ioh. 5. 19. and there would lye and rot, to all eternity, were it not for this salt. Take away this Ministry, and ye take the sunne out of the firmament. For what is the world without the Ministry of Gods word, but the picture of hell; nay very hell upon earth, wherein will be no order, and eternall horror. That of the Constantinopolitans is almost more common then that it needs to be repeated, It were better that the sun did not shine, than that Chrysofome should not teach. Take away this Ministry, and you take away all the true knowledg of the true God, the hear of piety is extinguished, barbarisme entereth; and you shall presently reap a large harvest of the weeds of all error and prophanesse. There will be neither sovereign nor subject, Mistresse nor mayde, but all things will pretently be in a confusion, which very miseries our ancestors did sadly experience in the dark night of popery, to their great affliction. And not only they in their Papisticall, but also we in part see in our Atheisticall days, wherein the Ministry and Ministers of the Gospel being set at naught, he hath broke

Reggus
Comment
de statu Anglicæ.

loose, and a numberlesse crew of Locusis have sprung out of the bottomlesse pit, assuming to themselves the names of Arrians, Arminians, Socinians, Antinomians, Anabaptists, Familists, Aniscripturists, Antisabbatarians, Antitrinitarians, Libertines, Erastians, Levellers, Mortalists, Millenaryes, Enthusiasts, Separatists, Semiseparatists, Quakers and many more of the same brood, upon all which and the present erroneous state of our English Church, a stranger hath set a black mark. England (saith he) in four years, is become a Lerna and sink of all errors, and sectaries. No Countrey from the foundation of the world hath brought forth, and brought up, so many monstrous births as it hath done. Nay, in a word, take away the Ministry, and you take away faith in God, prayer to God, and Salvation given by him. Rom. 10. 15. 1 Tim. 4. 16. By this men are turned from darknesse to light, and from the power of Sathan to God. Jer. 23. 22. Luk. 1. 16, 17. By this Christ hath propagated his Church, overthrowed the Kingdom of Sathan, and the powers of darknesse, viz. paganism, idolatry, superstition, and ignorance, Luk. 10. 18, 19. This stops the blasphemous mouths, and cuts out the very tongues of that pestilent generation of Iesuites, and Romish agents: Therefore when God will hasten the downfall of Anti Christ, he will not doe it by a secular power, but by the spirit of his mouth, 2. Thes. 2. 8. that is, By the power of the Gospell preacht, by Ministers not Magistrates, by whom also he hath founded true religion, kept it upon its Legs, when it was founded, and restored it when it was fallen. To these he hath given (that which he hath denied to the greatest Monarchs of the world) the Keys of the Kingdom of heaven, Mat. 16. 19. Joh. 20. 23. So that what they bind on earth, is said to be bound in heaven, and what they loose, to be loosed also. Hence some one not amisse infers that a Minister rightly discharging his office, hath not only preheminance above all other private persons, but even Kings and Princes; to which Chrysostome gives his suffrage; That the very Angells of God in heaven in this may give place to the Angells of God, which are upon earth, who although they be themselves in heaven, yet have no Keys to open to others. Take away this Palladium i. e. come who will, and take away our place, and nation. Behold the disasters and disorders, and the omnifarious calamitousnesse of those times, wherein Israel was without the knowledg of the true

God, without a teaching priest, and without law, 2. Chron. 15. 3, 5. Take away this light, ye have nothing but stumbling. Ioh. 11. 10. Take away Pastours, and ye have men, like sheep wandering; Take away these guides, and ye have all ditches every where filled, with the carcasses of the blind, that are fallen there. Take away this light, and let us see what solid comfort, innumerable gold, uninterrupted prosperity, and friendly society will afford. Take away this Arke, and then shew me the glory of Israel. Ignorance and impiety goe together in the Gospell texture, Eph. 4. 18, and there is but a letter between Ignorants, and Covenant-breakers, Rom. 1. 31. If ye would find cruelty, search the dark places of the earth, for they are full of it. Acquisitus, acquisitus
 Ps. 74. 20. Come see and heare the wise man's whoremonger bewayling himself at last, Prov. 5. 13, 14. I have not obeyed the voyce of my teachers. Behold the root of bitterness, the fountain of his sin, Not inclined mine eare to them that instructed me. Hinc ille lachryma, her's the ground of the complaint. Wherefore the Lord promiseth faithfull pastors as a great blessing, and singular kindnesse, II. 30: 20, 21. The Lord will give you the bread of adversity, and the water of affliction. Behold the sore? But thy teachers shall not be removed into Corners any more, thine eyes shall see thy teachers. Behold the salve? Although we suffer hunger, and thirst, and adversity, for tryall and purgation, yet if God will be present with us in our teachers, who may strengthen the weak, cheare the sad, refresh the faint, and teach us the ways of the Lord, our hunger will be as good as plenty; our adversity will out-shine prosperity, and our thirst adwaged by the waters of the Sanctuary. And on the other hand, as hunger and thirst are blessings with the word, so is a famine of the word the greatest curse on this side hell, though in the midst of plenty and prosperity; so is it represented, Am. 8. 11. Is. 29. 9, 10. what is the body to the soul; no more comparable in value, then the cloaths are to the body. And so consequently what is the sustentation, and nourishment of the body, to that of the soul? Wheat is but chaffe to the bread of life; Wine is but water to the droppings of the Sanctuary. Honey is but Waxe, nay, very bitterness to the word of God; Ps. 19. 10. And so consequently what is a famine of bread, or of water, to a famine of the word of God, which is the most excellent food of the most excellent substance in this world, even our precious souls.

2. This acquaints us with our miserable condition, by nature. It gives us to understand, that we are altogether destitute of the salt of Mortification and Repentance. If we were sound, and could so preserve our selves, what needed we this salt: what unsavoury, filthy, stinking, corrupt carcales are men, till they be seasoned with this heavenly salt! Let us therefore bless God for this Seasoner, and that he hath caused us to be brought forth, and brought within the sound of the glorious Gospel: and pray with all earnestness, that, as God hath out of his mere goodness ordained a Ministry for us, that he would preserve it amongst us, as he hath set, it up, so that he would keep it standing, whilst the world itself shall stand.

3. This acquaints us with the dignity and efficacy of the sacred Ministry; of all that serve and minister to Christ, his Ambassadors are his chiefest servants, and choicest ministers. Their ministry is most excellent, because they minister to God, Heb. 5. 1. and that, not in the things pertaining to this life, but in the things that respect the Kingdome of God, and the everlasting Salvation of men: this ministry is called a thing not small, Numb. 16. 19. nay, it is called an honour, Heb. 5. 4. nay the Prophet puts a beauty with an admiration upon the very feet of the Gospell-ministers, Isa. 52. 7. How beautifull are the feet of them that bring good tidings of good, that publish salvation! how could the beauty of them be exprest more fully, than by such an elegant particle of admiration? and yet, if the beauty of their feet must have an admiration borrowed to exprest them, by what shall we exprest the beauty of their faces? Learn hence, what a glory us treasure the Gospell is, what a glorious Office the Preaching of it is, what glorious and honourable servants the preachers of it; they have been a delight to the very Kings of the earth, who, in token of honour and reverence, have called them fathers, 2 Kings 6. 21. nay, they have not onely spoken reverently of them, but also comfortably to them, 2 Chron. 30. 22. and 35. 2. wicked Saul himself could not but reverence holy Samuel, 1 Sam. 15 and graceless Herod could not but respect the gracious Baptist, Mark. 6. 20. the Apostle Paul was of so much worth to the Galatians, that they received him as an Angel of God, even as Christ Iesus (for his Ambassador he was) Gal. 4. 14. Behold Cornelius the Centurion turion falling down before Peter the Apostle, and worshipping him, Act. 10. 25. Oh stupendious humanity, and humility! a Roman Captain, a Gentleman Souldier stooping to a poor Apostle, and offering him honour, not onely more than could be expected, but than durst be accepted: Lo Alexander the grand Tenant of the Univerſe (whose ranging ſoul knew no confines, whose ſtately ſpirit ſcorn'd to own any Monarch) stooping before, and doing reverence unto Iaddus the Jewish High-priest, Iosephus. Antiquit. l. 11. c. 8. It is not much that Aquila and Priscilla should expose their lives to danger for Paul's sake, Rom. 16. 3, 4. but yet it spoke their great affection to, and estimation of him. Observe the reverend carriage of the noble Obadiab, Governour of the Kings household, towards Elijah a poor persecuted Prophet, 1 Kings 18. 7. He fell on his face, and said, Art thou that my Lord Elijah? and not only him did he reverence, but manifested his great affections towards an hundred of the Lords Prophets, even with the danger of his life, ver. 13. such was the honour sometimes thought due to the men of God. Ministers are gifts, not carnall and temporall, but spirituall: they are part of Christs purchase, and a singular fruit of his ascension, who went up into heaven, that they might come down upon the earth, Eph. 4. 10, 11. Surely the gift of the Sun and salt, are a mere nothing, if compared with this heavenly Largeſs. By this Ministry the glory of God is manifested, faith is begotten and nourished, charity kindled and enflamed: by this the Ignorant are instructed, the idle are provoked, the unconstant are fastened to the truth, as it were nailes, Eccles. 12. 11. the wicked are convinced, the weak are confirmed, the root of wickedness cast up, and the branches cut off. This Gospell-ministry, in the Apostles minde, farre out-goes the Ministry of the Law, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 8, 9. and Iohn Baptist (who himself was scarce a Gospell-preacher, had yet because of his more then ordinary nearness thereunto, his preheminnence, not onely of the silken Courtiers in our Saviours account, but of all the Prophets his predecessors, Matth. 11. 7, 8, 9, 10. And yet the meanest of the faithfull Ministers of Christ (in regard of the clearness of the Doctrine taught by him) is greater then he. The great excellency and dignity of the Sacred Ministry will easily appear, if we consider,

1. The Auhoar of it, not man, but God. The commendation of the Scriptures is, that they are Θεωγραφηται, 2 Tim. 3.16. The commendation of Believers is, that they are Εκκλησιαστικοι, Isa 54.13. The same authority commends the Ministry of the Word, Eph. 4. 11. απο το θεου, Christ gave some Apostles, &c. He puts his Ministers into Commission, Matth. 28. 19, 20. And Iesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given to me in heaven and in earth; Go ye therefore, and teach all Nations, baptizing them. And S. Paul magnifies his Ministry by this authority, 1 Cor. 1. 1. 2 Cor. 1. 1. and Gal 1. 1. Paul an Apostle, not of men, nor by man; but by Iesus Christ, and God the father, It is not mans' appointment, but an Ordinance of God; not a humane fiction, but a Divine Institution.

2. The Antiquity of it, which also commends the goodness of a good thing. The Ministry of the Church is no new Invention, but an ancient Ordination: for it had been even from the beginning, which the Churches of God have not wanted in any age, neither before, nor under, nor since the Law; Before the Law were the Patriarchs, who instructed their Families in the Worship of God, and propagated Religion to their Posterity: Under the Law God had his Priests, and Levites, and Prophets, who had their unctions, missions, and Commissions from him: And since the Law απο το θεου, Christ hath given Apostles, Pastors, Evangelists, Teachers.

3. The Ministers of it: the Patriarchs, the Prophets, Christ himself, and his Apostles. Isaiah was of the blood royal, and yet a Minister of this ministry: King Solomon commends himself to the Church of God under the name of Kobelet: and amongst other his Titles, seems to glory first, and most in that of The Preacher, Eccles. 1. 1. The words of the Preacher, and then it follows, the son of David, King in Ierusalem. Noah the Monarch of the whole world was a Preacher of righteousness, 2 Pet. 2. 5. Nay, Christ Iesus himself, God blessed for evermore, came to minister, Mark. 10. 45. and to be the Master-preacher of the Gospel, Heb. 1. 2. The Apostles and Teachers that have succeeded him, being set up by him (1 Cor. 12. 28.) are also honourable: For what greater honour can there be in Court, then to succeed in that place and employment, ment, in which the King's son himself deigned sometime to be.

4. The Object about which it is conversant: not the body, but the soul; not humane Laws, secular concernments, but spirituall things relating to the worship, service, and glory of God, and the salvation of soules. Physicians binde up bruised bodies, Lawyers patch up broken Estates, whilest Christ Ministers bind up broken hearts, and salve wounded consciences. If therefore the body be unworthier then the soul, the earth be content to be below the heavens; externalls give place to eternalls; parity of reason will prefer this sacred function before, and set it above all others.

5. The Supernaturall Effects thereof, such as the Conversion, Sanctification, and Salvation of man; In all which the dignity of the sacred Ministry does admirably appear, and in the dignity of the ministry doth also appear the dignity of the Ministers. Neither let any one say, they are servants, they are but Ministers, and therefore not to be honoured; for that derogates not a whit from their honour: If they be servants, they are the servants of the Church of God; if they be Ministers, they are Ministers of Christ, the Lord of heaven, earth, and hell, They are not the servants of Kings, but of the King of Kings, to whom the glorious Angells do gladly Minister; neither are they of the meanest of Christ's servants; put in some low place of service, but they serve him in the distribution of the most precious treasure, even Gospell-grace, 2. Cor. 4. 7. now to be the Treasurer of the Lord, is a greater honour then to be Lord-Treasurer. And if there be honour in the meanest Office performed for God, as hewing wood, and drawing water for the Sanctuary, and keeping the door of the house of God, Psal. 84. 10. surely the highest Offices cannot be dishonourable. All the things that render any service honourable, do concur to make this great employment truly honourable. 1. VVe serve an honourable Master, the Lord Ishovah, the Monarch of heaven and earth. 2. Our service is in it self excellent and honourable. 3. Our wages and reward is the highest of all others. viz. a Crown of glory; God does not onely honour his faithfull ministers that honour him, in this life; but he has reserved a more exceeding weight of glory for them against the time to come. Oh what admirable honour will be given of God at the last day day to his faithfull Ministers! Then shall stand forth before God, and his Angels, and all men; Andrew bringing with him his Achaians, whom by his ministry he gained to Christ; John with his Asians, Thomas with his Indians; Peter with his Jews; Paul with his Gentiles; and all the pious and painfull Ministers of Christ, with the children that God hath given them in their respective Ages and Generations, and these shall be their crown of glorying, in the presence of Iesus Christ at his coming, 1 Thes. 2.19.

What remains therefore, but that we give such honour to our Teachers, as is due to the Ambassadors and Ministers of the most high God, For although they be servants, yet are they his servants, whom to serve is to reign; Look not upon them as slaves, but as such servants, to whom honour, reverence, and obedience is due, even by the command of God 1 Tim. 5.17. Tit. 2.15. Heb. 13.17. 1 Cor. 16.15, 16. The Apostle Paul desires the Thessalonians, 1 Thes. 5.12, 13. not onely to know, but to acknowledg their Teachers, nay, to love them with a high strain of affection, even to an Hyperbole, to esteem them highly in love, which Translation yet comes short of the expression, ἡγάσαντες αὐτοὺς ὡς ἑαυτοὺς ἰσχυρῶς. Let us imitate the Galatians, whose very eyes were not so dear in their heads; as the Apostle Paul was in their eyes, Gal. 4.15.

But here a double Caution is needfull. 1. Let us take heed lest these Encomiums and commendations of the Ministry lay in us the grounds of pride; lest we be puffed up with the dignity of our Office. And to this purpose twill not be amiss to consider, that the operation and efficacy of our Ministry is not from our selves, but from God, 1st. 3. 12, 13. 1 Cor. 3. 5, 6, 7. We are onely Ministers, not Lords of mens faith, but Ministers by whom they believe; Our planting and watering avail nothing unless God give increase; The Preacher beats the ears, but God alone breaks the heart; The Preacher teacheth, but God gives knowledg; the Preacher perswades, but God inclines; John baptiseth with water, but Christ onely with the Holy Ghost, and with fire, Matth. 3. 11, 12. Let us take heed of dishonouring this honourable calling by unsuitable lives, lives led in drunkenness, idleness, ignorance, profaneness, heresie, pride, covetousness, uncleanness, sports and pastimes; let us take heed of being unfavoury talk, of speaking speaking silken words, and things to please mens fancies; and so proving rather honey then salt to the sinners, as they were Ezech. 13. 10, 11. They that are such, teach others the things which themselves contemn; They that reprove others, had themselves need to be irrevocable; For,

*Who can abide the traitrous Gracchi, when They make complaints against seditious men?
Shall Clodius condemn Adulterie;
Or Catiline Cethegus, worse then hee?*

Certainly he must needs strike faintly upon the Consciences of sinners, who has his own Conscience polluted with gross sinnes; and how shall he inveigh against the vices of others, who fears shame for his own? How shall he teach well that lives ill; or season others, who is himself altogether unfavoury? How can the covetous Minister press his people to heavenly mindedness; or, with what face can the drunken Doctor commend to another a sober course of life? Or, if he do, 'tis seldome with good success; A wicked man may indeed preach against wickedness, but will hardly preach it down, except he preach in deed; He that attempts to take a mote out of his brothers eyes, must either cast the beam out of his own first, or else he will certainly be entertained with the Proverb, Physician heal thy self. He is a Pharisaicall Teacher that saies, and does nothing, Mat. 23. 3. such take away all authority from their Preachings, plucking down with their life what they build with their language; For, who will obey, when the Preachers teach disobedience? Of all creatures upon earth degenerate men are the worst; of all men, wicked Christians; and of all Christians, wicked Ministers; They are the shame of the Clergy, the worst of Varlets, not Pastors but impostors, not Doctors but Seducers, not Dispensers but Dispersers, the increment and Instruments of Sathan, and the very picture of that wicked one; they are like the Statue of Mercury, that shew others the way, which themselves walk not; like bells that call men to hear the word and will of God, but themselves want ears; like spunges, that cleanse other things, but remain unclean themselves; like a muscally Instrument, that

Nicol. de Cleman.
giis, Epist.
75. p. 223.

creates delight to others, but it self is senseless of any; or like the Shipwrights that made an Ark to save Noah and his Family in, but themselves were drowned. No wonder (saies a learned Authour) if that polity be made a prey, and brought to naught; whose Watchmen are blinde, whose Preachers dumb, whose Champions lame, whose Physicians sick, whose Teachers untaught, and whose Guides are ignorant of the way. Hence springs the ruine of the Church, the corruption of manners, a sink of sinne, a deluge of Prophaneness, the steriving of Charity, the hazarding of Faith, the debasement of Religion, the poyson of pestilent Schisms, the contempt of the Ministry, and all Ecclesiasticall Orders, and Ordinances. Hence it is that the people are so wicked, for how should these choose but be whoredome in Ephraim, and defilement in Israel, when the Priests commit lewdness, Hos. 6. 9. 10. The actions of publick persons are influentiall; and this gave occasion to that witty conjecture of Charles the fifth, who guest at the state of a City, or Commonwealth, by three things, by considering their Pastor, their Pedagogue, their Pretor: The Church depends upon the Pastor, the School upon the Master, the Court upon the Pretor, who are the salt of their respective places; Such therefore as is the Preacher, is the Church; as is the Pedagogue, so are the children; as is the Pretor, so are the citizens. Good reason therefore why God requires holiness in those especially, that come thus nigh unto him, Lev. 10. 2, 3.

Neither does it mitigate to say, that these Ministers are learned, but rather aggravate. Learning dwells ill in an evill man: It is like wine in a poysoned cup, or a sword in a mad mans hand. Dexterity of wit, the liberall Arts, the knowledge of the Tongues, and humane Learning are indeed excellent gifts from God; but they are all miserably prophaned in such a man. A Religious dunce is better then he: And it comes to pass by the just Iudgment of God, that the devill works more powerfully in none, then in wicked and Apostate Ministers; insomuch that they are called Devills, Iohn 6. 70, 71. the worst name in the world: Such do not onely invite, but even compell, by their example: The examples of Ministers are cogent, Gal. 2. 14. Christ therefore threatens these unfavoury salts with sad Iudgment, Luke 14. 34, 35. which Iudgment judgment that we may the better understand, let us consider it in these following particulars.

1. Unfavoury salt hath this inconvenience, that its loss nature cannot be repayed. There is no further salt wherewith this unfavoury salt can be seasoned. The unhappinesse of it is therefore very unhappy. The best things in their corruption become the worst. The best nourishment becomes the worst excrement, the best wine is corrupted into the sharpest vinegar. Degenerate Ministers are hardly cured; for what remains with which they may be restored and seasoned? If the people be unfavoury, God hath given Ministers to season them: But if themselves be corrupt and unfavoury, what cure shall we find for them? These vines if they be fruitfull, are the best trees in Gods garden, and the worst, if barren. Ezech. 15.

2. Unfavoury salt is unprofitable. It is not fit for the earth, for it will not suffer it to be fruitfull, not for the dunghill, for it will not suffer it to fructify, So unprofitable are unfavoury Ministers; who are therefore deposed from their Ministry, and discarded by the Churches censure; other things in their corrupt state are good for something, as degenerate wine generates vinegar, and the excrement of nourishment, nourishes land. But intaruated salt is so unprofitable, as that it is also hurtfull; so hurtfull as that it makes the very dunghills themselves unprofitable. Such vile, unprofitable hurtfull creatures are Apostate Ministers and corrupt; to whom God therefore threatneth, rejection, deposition, and contempt. Hos. 4. 6. Mall. 2. 8, 9. Ezy. 2. 62.

3. Unfavoury salt is troden under foot of men, which is the height of ignominy and shame. So Ecebolus the apostate cryed out; tread upon me unfavoury salt. The just judgment of God causes their Ministry to be contemned, whose lives are contaminated. Thus the sacrifices of the Lord were abhorred, because of the vilenesse of the sacrificers. 1. Sam. 2. 17. Nay, as though the treadings under feet of men were not enough miserable, the proverb hath layd prophaned Ministers lower then the earth, which sayth, that Hell is paved with the helmets of princes, and the shavings of priests. Woe be to that Pastor, that is not true, but treacherous, not lively and diligent, but dull and sloathfull, who is rather the counterfeit of a Pastor than indeed such, who feeds not his people, but his purse, and his paunch; woe to these idol shepherds, the sword shall be upon their arme, and upon their right eye, their arm shall be clean dried up, and their right eye utterly darkned. Zach. 11. 17. God will weaken their strength, and infatuate their judgments. Such are the punishments of these wicked, unfavoury, unprofitable Ministers.

2. Another sort of unsavoury salt, and gifted Brethren (as they call themselves) though how barren of any good gift, all may see. These like the Partridges Chickens, run with the shells upon their heads. Thus the little ducklings fall a swimming as soon as they are well hatcht, and the Lyons whelps teare their own passage into the world: But such hasty births are lightly blind. There is an incurable itch of teaching, which possesses many wild heads in these days, who think they know that which indeed they are ignorant of, nay, are ignorant of their ignorance. In all other arts and sciences, men use first to learn and after to teach. But in divinity we have many that teach what they never learn'd, and become the Masters of fools, before they have been the Schollars of wise men. And hence it is that this waxen divinity of theirs receives any impression, and they themselves are metamorphosed into many shapes. These do not season souls, but poyson them, not editye, but destroy them, not communicate instruction, but convey infection. These are plants without sap, wells without water, starrs without light, bubbles broken with a blast, and waves of the sea, toming out their own shame, quorum prophetia non est veritas sed vanitas these prophets are fools, these spiritual men are mad. This liberty of prophesying, this root of manifold heresy is to be rooted out, as that which hath eaten as a Gangrene, and infected many. Oh that some Hercules will oppose himself to this many headed Monster? many complain of this evill, but few put to their hand for the reforming of it: So that it may justly be feared, that whilst the infectors are spared, more will be infected. The true shepherds are an abomination to these Egyptians. Egyptians? Nay they are worse then Egyptians: For the Egyptians tempered their clay with straw to make bricke of, But these have neither straw nor stubble, neither wit nor learning, nor any other materials to build with, but dawbe with untempered mortar. These like Iereboam, one of the worst men in the world, make priests of the meanest of the people. Nay, as Caligula made his horse Consul, so these make their asses preachers, who if they can do nothing else, yet like Balaams asse, can reprove the madnesse of the prophets. These are the men that give mouldy bread instead of Ambrosia, vinegar instead of Nectar, and poysons instead of preservatives they mixe tares with their wheat, and dregs with their wine, preach without pains, and are heard without profit. They dream dreams, and then tell them, they cause the people to erre by their lyes and by their lightnesse, when God sent them not, nor commanded them, therefore they doe not profit the people at all. Ier. 23. 32. Away ye unfavory crew of senselesse, saplesse, saltlesse dunces, Anabaptists, Collyers, Saltmarshes, Haggards. &c.

*In all this tribe, this crew, what will you call't;
There is not to be found one corn of salt.*

This brood of vipers have come forth in a numerous multitude, in this decrepit old age of the world, doting upon opinions, and under the pretext of piety, going about to overthrow, Scriptures. Sacraments, universityes, all order and ordinances, to confound heaven and hell, with more than a Gigantick confidence, and whorish impudence. Let the heavens tremble, and the earth be amazed, and both be ashamed, that this our Brittain should bring forth, and bring up such monsters. Are these the returns of so many incomes from above? Are these the fruits of so much patience and love? Do we thus require the Lord, a people foolish and unwise? There hath been a famous Church, and a renowned Ministry in these parts of the world. Nay, and there is still a Church and a Ministry, although it appear to be clouded, or rather can not appear, because it is clouded. But let us lift up our hearts, and eyes to Christ Iesus, whose Ministry it is, for although it be clouded, yet he will at length cause those clouds to vanish, although it lye in the dust for the present, yet he will not let it be choakt there. But to the purpose. They that are sensible of the weightinesse of the ministeriall calling, will not run upon their own heads, nay they will abide thrusting, Mat. 9. 37. Moses undertook the charge of Gods people with reluctance, and Jeremiah after many excuses, and so do they that know they are about a work of continuall pains, inevitable danger, and implacable hatred. And therefore we have Moses sent by God, Exod. 3. 10. Aaron separated.

separated that he should sanctify the most holy things. 1. Chr. 23. 13. The prophets called, the Apostles chosen. 1oh. 6. 70. In a word, all Ministers are sent. Rom. 10. 15. How shall they preach except they be sent? That is, they can not lawfully preach. For although it be evident that many doe preach that are not sent, yet by what right, by what authority, with what good conscience can they preach, except they be sent? No one can undertake and exercise the publick employment of the Ministry, except he can say with the Apostle, that he is made a Minister of the Gospel. Eph. 3. 7. he must stay for a call, lest that be charged upon us. Ier. 23. 21. I have not sent them, yet they ranne. Which is yet further plain from the practise of all in old, and New Testament times, who diligently expected and observed a mission or call to this sacred employment. No man of them took this honour to himself (that is, rightly, and safely) Heb. 5. 4. That of Luther therefore deserves golden letters, Sit still till God call; Nay, although thou wert wiser than Solomon or Daniel, yet if thou be not called, slye the office, as hell it self; and speak not a word. If God need thee, he will call thee; if he call thee not, thy knowledg will not burst thee &c. For God doth never prosper the labours of them, whom he never called to labour; For although they may preach things in themselves wholesome; yet they do not heal, things in themselves profitable, yet they do not profit the people. But on the contrary, great hath been the successe of those that have gone at Gods sending, and preacht at Gods bidding.

Away with the unfixed Anabaptists then, who determine any self-ordainer of what condition and calling soever, to the pulpit promiscuously without any prooffe of a lawfull call; and by this means have brought in a kind of barbarous disorder, and babylonish confusion into the Church of Christ: which confusion God abhors, as appears by his reiterated complaints. Ier. 14. 14. and 23. 21, 32. and 27. 15. Christ reproves the Angell of Thyatira for suffering Iezabel, who called her self a propheteffe, (but was none) to teach and to seduce many. Rev. 2. 20. God hath also punished such usurpers with exemplary judgments, witnesse, Uzzah. 1 Sam. 6. 6, 7: Uzziah the King. 2. Cbro. 26. 16, 17. Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, who, for offering to arrogate to themselves the priesthood, were swallowed up alive, into a grave made without hands. Numb. 16. 10, 32.

4. Inference follows. If there be a Ministry, then there must be Schools of learning, and Univerfities. If the end be allowed, the means

means conducing to that end must not be denied. It is now necessary, that they, that are intended for the sacred Ministry, be instructed and principled in the Schools, those Nurseries for the Church: As an Orchard, though it be excellently pruned, manur'd, and managed, and set with the choicest and fruitfulllest trees in the world, will decay, and at length come to nothing, except there be a Nursery of young plants, which may be placed and succeed, in the roome of the barren and dead trees: So the sacred Ministry cannot long endure safe and firme, except there be some formed, educated, instructed in the Schools, and fitted to succeed in the employment; For Ministeriall gifts are not now adayes inspired into men immediately and miraculously, but mediately gotten by reading, meditation, study, and diligent pains, as appears 1 Tim. 4. 13, 15. Hence it hath been the care of pious Princes, to found, endow, and maintain Schools and Universities, in which young Students might be seasoned with, and educated in piety and good Learning, who might afterwards be Champions to defend the truth, and put to flight Errors and Heresies. And therefore let it be the care of all who have power in their hands, strongly to defend, and diligently to preserve the Revenues, and Priviledges of Schools and Universities, that the glory of our Church may not fade, but be still more and more glorious, : unless you will be worse than the uncircumcised Philistines; who are observed to have spared the Colledge of the Prophets, Isa. 10. 5.

Away then with Familists, Anabaptists, VVeigelians, &c. who rail against Learning, and Learned men at this rate. They are unfit for the Ministry who are trained in Schools, and taught of men; There is no knowledge of Christ in Universities, They are the Nurseries of wickedness, the Plagues of the Common-wealth. Oh the Egyptian darkness that hath overspread the mindes of men! Oh Impudence, like that of Pope Paul the second! who condemned them all for Hereticks, not onely that were Students, but (whose hatred of Learning was so deadly) that he pronounced all them Hereticks, that either in earnest or in jest should name an University; who therefore commanded the Romans not to suffer their children to converse in Books, or to study for Learning, saying, it were enough, if they could write and read. These men are not more like this Paul the Pope, than he was unlike to Paul the Apostle, who himself was brought up at the feet of learned Gamaliel; and commends Reading, Study, and Meditation to his Son Timothy, as you saw before.

But if there be found the seeds of sinne in these Seminaries, let them be purged, and not spoyled; refined, and not consumed; made better, and not unmade. Let corruption be drained, abuses be taken away, and the use of them remain.

5. It appears hence, that that is a sound and savoury Ministry which bites and pierceth the consciences of the hearers. The Masse indeed is toothlesse, and cannot bite, but Salt is of a biting, and sharp nature. Nothing torments a sinner like the free and sincere Preaching of the Word, Hence it comes to pass, that the sincere and savoury Preachers do purchase to themselves all contempt, reproach and hatred; which gave occasion to Luther (who knew well enough what salt preaching was) to define preaching thus, It is a deriving of the hatred of the whole world upon ones self. Hence it was, that the world hated and persecuted Christ and his Disciples, because they testified of it, that the works thereof were evill, John 7. 7. and 15. 19. The Gospell, because of its sharpness, has alwayes been the scorn and derision of the stinking world, requiring the Mortification of the flesh, self-deniall, and other things unpleasent to corrupt nature. And although these sharp Corrosives, these bitter Pills do heal and purge, yet such is the tenderness and softness of the most, that they had rather rot in their sinnes, than to be sharply reprov'd, although that be for salvation. But this is an infallible Argument of a wicked man, and a heart full of putrifying sores, not to be able to abide the salt of sound Reproof, witness Ahab, 1 Kings 18. 14. Amaziah Amos 7. 10. and Felix, Acts 24. 25. No wonder then if they have filthy hearts, and stinking lives, who studiously put away from them this salt, withdraw themselves from this Ministry.

As for us, Brethren in the ministry, let us not faint, but go on with cheer and courage, thanking God that we are worthy to be hated of the world, for it is a good proof of our sincerity to be so entreated. And if this be to be vile, to season the corrupt world with the savoury Word of God, Oh that we might be yet more vile! let us love study, preach sound doctrine, which

which although it be sharp, yet its savoury, although it wound the conscience, yet it will heal, although it be bitter in the mouth yet in the Conclusion will prove sweeter than the honey and the honey-comb. Although the Ploughshare of the Gospell touch upon our very soules, yet let it be welcome, it by this means our spirituall weeds and thistles may be rooted out. Christs Spouse is a Dove, Cant. 5. 2. Now Doves love salt exceedingly. Oh then ye Christians, fly to the Congregations, where this Salt is to be had, as doves to the windows.

CHAP. VII.

More Corrolaries issuing from the Doctrine.

THe Third Use is for Consolation. It is clear, that Sathan does persecute the sound and sincere Ministers of the Gospell with all might and main, knowing them to be the main enemies of his kingdome, that seek by all means to destroy it, according to what was prophesied of them, Luke 10. 18. them therefore he assails with reproaches, persecution, perdition, fire, sword, banishment, hunger, thirst, and death it self. He encourageth his Agents against them, as the King of Syria did his Captains, 1 Kings 22. 31. Fight neither against great nor small, save onely against the King of Israel. For the King being conquered, the souldiers flie: the Shepherd being smitten, the sheep are scattered. Let not us dream of better usage from him and his than Christ and his disciples found from them. The Apostles were counted by the world, as the filth of the world, the off-scouring of all things, 1 Cor. 4. 12. men unworthy of the society of men, worthy to be exterminated the world, and to be troden under foot. Paul is counted a-babler Acts 17. 18. a pestilent fellow, nay, if we translate the word properly, the Plague it self, Act. 24. 5. a man unfit to live, Act. 22. 22. Christ himself was every where entertained with scoffs; beaten with whips, assaulted with stones, and at last put to an ignominious death. But let us quietly endure all these Afflictions, and patiently undergo all that men or devills can load us with, in hope of the glory that is to be revealed. Let wantons mock, let malice insult, let the world whet it's teeth at us, the devill smite his hands at us, Christ Iesus holdeth the starrs in his right hand, and will certainly maintain and preserve them. For he is not only the author, but also the Protector of the Ministry, and he hath promised safety to the persons, and successe to the pains of his Ministers. Ier. 15. 20. Luk. 21. 15. This is shadowed out by Christ's right hand. For the right hand denotes love, Hence Jacob calls his yongest sonne Benjamin or the son of his right hand. Gen. 35. 28. Because he was as dear to him as a mans right hand uses to be to him. It also denotés and promises protection and the greatest care, Pf. 17. 7. The Ministers of Christ are his embassadors. Now embassadors are inviolable by the law of all Nations, and injuries and indignities done to them use to find a sharp revenge. If David so severely revenged the injury offered to his Embassadors by the Ammonites, who shaved their beards, and cut their garments by the halves, with how much forer vengeance shall Christ repay the greater reproaches and indignities with which wicked men entreat his Ministers? VVho ever curseth Father or Mother shall dye the death. Lev. 20. 9. Christ's Ministers are spirituall fathers to regenerate men, as has been already proved, and spirituall Mothers, travailling in birth till Christ be formed in their people. Gal. 4. 19. Nay it is evident by palpable demonstrations, that God hath revenged the quarrell of his violated embassadors. He hath broken prelatieall powers, and hereticall Councells proclaiming warre against his Ministers. He hath reprov'd Kings for their sakes, saying, Do my prophets no harm. Pf. 105. 14, 15. He will smite thorough the loins of all that rise up against them, and hate them, that they rise not again. Deut. 33. 11. Witnesse Gods dealing with Pashur, who persecuted the prophet Jeremiah. Ier. 20. 3, 4. the Children that mockt the prophet Elisha, 2. Kin. 2. 23, 24. King Saul who had slain many of the Lord's prophets, himself was miserably slain at Mount Gilboa. Korah, Dathan, and Abiram pay'd dearly for their conspiracy against Moses and Aaron, Numb. 16. Ieroboam's hand which he stretched out against the man of God, dried up. 1. Kin. 13. 4. Asa imprisoned Hanani the Lord's seer, and he dyes of the gowte, notwithstanding all his Physicians. 2. Chro. 16. 10, 12. Ioash commanded his servants wants to stone Zechariah the son of Iehozada the priest, and for the blood of the same Zechariah. did his servants kill him upon his bed. 2. Chro: 24. Elymas withstood Paul, and he is struck blind upon it. Act. 13. We know the sad desolation of Ierusalem that had killed the prophets, and stoned God's Ministers; and what befell the whole body of the Iewish people who killed the Lord of life, and evill entreated his Apostles, any body can tell. It is done unto them according to the sentence which themselves past upon such offenders. Mat. 21. 41. Now if God spared not Ierusalem because of the injury done to his Ministers. (2 Chron. 36. 15, 16, 17.) How shall he spare the haters and despisers both of his Ministers and Ministry? Shall not the like causes produce the like effect? Is not God allwayes like himself? And if the man that refused to hearken unto the priest standing to minister before the Lord, was sentenced to dye by God's law; (Deut. 17. 12.) what more heavy doome shall they undergoe, that scorn, contemn, reproach the Ministers of Christ? When God would expresse a people given up to all wickednesse, he says of them that they are like to them that strive with the priest. Hos. 4. 4. you may read the greatnesse of the sinne, and the proportionablenesse of the judgment. Ier. 20. 11. 1 Thes. 2. 16. whosoever shall neglect or despise the sacred ministry, or the faithfull Ministers thereof, let him know that he despises Christ himself, who gives both the gift of the Ministry, and gifts to the Ministers, The contempt that is cast upon Christ's Ambassadors lights upon Christ himself. Luk. 10. 16. Is. 7. 13. Let no plots, devices, injuries, conspiracies, then weaken our courages, or dant our hearts: For Christ Iesus shall be with us, not a few days, but to the end of the world by his power and spirit. Mat. 28. 29. He whose name is Immanuel, will not, cannot be farre from us. The world shall sooner cease to be, than Christ cease to be with us. He will protect us in dangers, comfort us in temptations, help us in undertakings, direct us in doubts, and upon all occasions stand by us. Let us therefore be of good courage, discharg our calling, going on it cheerfully. What though we may tremble at the sense of our own infirmities; yet we may be bold and adventurous in the strength of Christ. He will not desert us in the work that is his own, but will either give fredome from suffering, or patience, courage, and constancy wherewithall to suffer.

suffer. Through the wonderfull providence of God, all things shall work together for good unto us. He can make to his messengers medicines out of this poyson, cause roses to spring up to them from amidst these prickles, and make figs to be the fruit of these thistles. Let hereticall men gnash their teeth, sharpen their swords, spit their venome at us; their end shall be to be destroyed. Let them associate themselves, they shall be broken in pieces; Let them gird themselves they shall be broken in pieces. Let them take Counsell, it shall be in vain. Let them speak the word, it shall not stand, because God is with us: If. 8. 9, 10. Let our adversariyes write whole volumes of satyres against us, and fill every page and line with some new scandall or reproachfull title; we will bind them as Crowns upon our heads. They do the best to me, (quoth Luther) who speak the worst of me: Luther feeds upon opprobries, The Ministers of Christ are in this, like Philip King of Macedon, who used to thank the Athenian Orators for rayling him into the better; for he was resolved that his upright conversation should confute, and give the lye to all their foul-mouthed declamations: They think with Seneca that no name is better, than an ill name well got.

In a word let us comfort our selves against the ingratitude of the shamelesse world, by the serious review of Gods gracious promises. Do wretched and godlesse men deprive and defraud us of temporall rewards? It is God who hath promised eternall ones. For the best wages of Christs Ministers are reserved in heaven for them, where they shall inherit an eminency (if not a singularity) of eternall glory and brightnesse. Dan. 12. 3. Mat. 5. 12. Mat. 24. 45, 46, 47. 1 Cor. 3. 8, 9. 1. Pet. 5. 4. This Crown the Apostle Paul still had in his eye. 1. Tim. 4. 8. Rom. 8. 18. Suffering for a time, triumphing to eternity: The work shall have an end, but so shall not the wages. The people shall receive each man a reward for his good works, but the pastor shall receive a reward for the good works of them all; For his own he shall receive a Crown, for each of theirs a coronet, as Chrysostome acutely notes.

Nay even in this life they shall be sure of some reward, as

1. Increase of their gifts. This augmentation is sure; they have Gods own expresse order for it, Mat. 13. 12. To him that bath shall more be given.

2. The feast of a good conscience, which in the saddest and ebbest condition of life accompanies a sincere faithful Minister of Christ, who eyes only the glory of God, and the Salvation of his hearers, Act. 23. 1. and Chap. 24. 16. 2. Cor. 1. 12. and Chap. 6. 10. when he shall be as a man sorrowing, yet herein he shall rejoyce; In a time of famine he shall have this table spread for him.

3. The concurrence of divine assistance. Whom God calls to this employment, then he will also protect and assist, and give in fresh supplies of new strength for the discharge of the same. Qui jubet etiam juvat. Is. 42. 6. I have called thee, I will hold thee by the hand, and keep thee. Thus will God shew himself a father, and a Protector to them. Nay, he will not only save them, but clothe them with Salvation. Pf. 132. 16.

A fourth corollary may be this. Let us then study to preserve mutuall peace and concord amongst our selves. God hath joyned salt and peace together, Mark. 9. 50. Have salt in your selves, and have peace, one with another. Now what things God hath joyned let no one part asunder. Because salt by its acrimony biteth, therefore our Saviour presently advises so wisely to temper it, that peace may be preserved inviolable. The love of our brother must correct the salt of correction, and the salt of justice must season the love of our brother. And so shall we be in'uperable, by being inseparable, and shall gain many to Christ: As lighted torches, if they be separated cause a smoake, but if they be united do increase the flame. All wisdom is folly and madnesse except it be seasoned with peace and charity. As sacrifices must be without honey, so neither doth any service or sacrifice please God that issues from an heart stuffed with anger, envy, animosity, and bitterness. Let us not forget that there are many Canaanites and Perizzites in the land that are offended at our differences, and from them seek occasion to oppresse and devoure us. Let us by mutuall and universall concord therefore grow in o one body, into one soule, thinking with our selves what an incongruous thing it is, that the messengers of peace should fall into mutuall jars; and how unseasonable it is at this time, when (the adversary is laying snares for us) our strength had more need be united by peace, than broken and enfeebled by divisions. There is a fitter object of our anger than one anothers throats. And he seems to be mad but too much, who promises himself a standing, in the downfall of the Church. It is an excellent commendation which is given to Myconius by a worthy Author. He lived with his colleagues two and twenty years together in an uninterrupted peace and concord. We have runne, (says Myconius himself) We have wrestled, we have wrought, we have fought, we have conquered most unanimously and undividedly. Oh that some such blessed fire of love, and peace were kindled in our frozen breasts. That the Character sometimes proper to the primitive Church might be common to us all. See how they love one another and are ready to-dye one for another. In those dayes says the Historian, Act. 4. 32. Believers, say the whole multitude of believers were of one heart and of one soul, there was a morall onenesse though not aphysicall one, for they did so agree in minds and manners, as if they had indeed had but one heart, and the same soul amongst them all: Oh happy age of the Church comparatively to ours wherein men and minds are of all equall number! Oh memorable wish of that famous preacher Dr. Stoughton! So that brotherly unity may be preserved, quoth he, Let me be low even in the dust, rather than exalted in a triumphant Chariot by a Cadméan conquest. Let others affect the great title of Pto-lomæus. I am more pleased with the pleasant name of Irenæus. This peaceable frame concerns all, but more especially the Ministers of Christ, who are sent to preach to, and to pray, for, not to prey upon others, to build up the Church of Christ, not to demolish it, to worke and not to wrangle. The harmony and joynt consent of the builders promotes the building, Neh. 4. 16. Solomons, temple was built without noyse, 1 King. 6, 7. which by a profitable type doth shadow out the peaceableness of the builders and quietness of Christ's Church, in which the noyse of contentions & schismes ought not to be heard. The builders of the Church of Christ should not be divided as Nehemiah's servants were, halfe to the worke and halfe to the warre, neither must these spirituall builders have swords girded upon their sides when they build as his builders had, Neh. 4. 18. If we will revenge our selves upon the bitterness and malice of base spirits, the best way of revenging is by forgetting, and the onely way to vex them is to be more zealous and fervent in the study, practise and pursuit of opposed Godlinesse: If we will contend with their murmuring and malice, let it be by faith and patience and meeknesse of spirit, as knowing it better to neglect them than to stand to confute them, to pass them by in silence than to take notice of them.

Mel.
Adam.

Neither do we want motives to this peaceableness. (1.) Our God is the God of peace, Rom. 15. 33. 2 Cor. 13. 11. (2.) Christ Iesus is the Prince of Peace, Isa. 9. 6. (3.) The sons of God are the sons of Peace, Luke 10. 6. (4.) The Gospel which we preach is the Gospel of peace, Eph. 6. 15. In a word, we are called unto peace, 1 Cor. 7. 15. Therefore follow peace, pursue it with the greatest vehemency, nay, although it flye from you, and men will not suffer themselves to be reconciled, yet pursue it with indefatigable pains, Psal. 34. 15. Heb. 12. 14. love Truth & Peace. Zach. 8. 19. for other wise, Truth is better with Discord, than a sinfull Concord: But if it be possible as much as in us lyes, let us follow peace with all men, Rom. 12. 18. For we are one body, we are governed by one Spirit, we have one hope, one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, Eph. 4. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. Moreover, this is just, honest, good, pleasant, as Sibelius out of Ps. 133. 1. Tom. 1. pag. 576. proves by many strong and favory Arguments.

CHAP. VIII.

Asserts and vindicates the Maintenance of Ministers.

Fifth use is for the reprehension and correction of Anabaptists, Levellers, &c. who deny those stipends to the Ministers of Christ, which are due by a right both divine and humane, by the Law both of heaven and earth; for, grant a Ministry, and you must needs grant stipends, by which it may be maintained. This is almost as clear as a Demonstration can make it. For, Who goeth to warre at his own charges? even the Law of Nature dictates this, that the workman is worthy of his wages. Hence Moses gave unto the Levites by divine appointment the Tenth, the first-Fruits, the best of the Sacrifices, the yearly pension of a shekel, the mony for the redemption of the first-born, the mony for vows, as appears Exod. 34. 26. Lev. 27. 3, &c. Numb. 18. In that universal famine in Agypt, when Ioseph the Kings Steward bought all the Land for Pharaoh, he bought not the Priests land, but allowed them Corn out of the Kings Granaries, Gen. 47. 22. Even Pharaoh himself, although an Idolater, had yet a singular care of the worship of his Gods, and maintained their Priests at his own proper cost and charges; And, if Pharaoh was so carefull for his Priests as to maintain them for the ruine and destruction of himself and his people, that he might not be thought to be wicked and ungratefull to his feigned Deities. What an ingratitude, what a sacrilege is it, that the true Ministers of the true God should be neglected by Princes and Powers, that call themselves Christians, whose pains they know to be of Gods approbation, and for their salvation. Hezekiah that Father of the Priests, did not only give a good part of his own substance to them, but commanded the people to maintain the Priests and Levites; that being freed from secular cares, they might wholly give themselves to the Law of the Lord, and lay out themselves in their sacred function, in the service of the Temple, 2 Chron. 31. 4, 12. &c.

It was not the least (was it not the greatest) of Alexander's Commendations, that he loved and honoured Learning and learned men; which made his times be so fruitfull of great wits, and witty Inventions. He so well knew how to esteem Learning, and to treat the learned, that it afterwards became a Proverb, If thou hadst lived in Alexander's time, he would have given thee a Cyprus or a Phœnice for every Verse. For as a good refined disposition of the ayre begets plenty of fruits, so the benign and ingenious disposition and constitution of Kings and Powers produces a great encrease of Arts and Ingenuities. But on the contrary, the envy, ignorance and baseness of Princes blasts the fruit, and makes the birth of the brain abortive. Therefore, we have Nehemiah, contending even with the Rulers, because they had denyed the Levites their tythes and salaries, Neh. 13. 10, 11, 12. and he accounts this contention a subject fit for divine Remembrance; ver. 14.

1. Then let all Christian Magistrates take care that the Ministers of the Church (who are ignorant of manual employments) be not driven to wrestle with want and hunger, and by this means be turned aside from the diligent execution of their weighty calling, to the care of providing necessities for nature. All know that the Ministry is a very weighty Calling, great enough for the shoulders of Angels, and such as may justly take up and challenge the whole man, neither can the Preachers of the Gospel (nor ought they) to exercise any manuell

Art, whereby to provide sufficient supplies or maintenance for themselves and theirs, who must either therefore live upon their people, or dye amongst them for want of a livelyhood.

2. Let them take heed they do not diminish, or suffer to be diminished, or withheld the gifts given to God by pious Ancestors. For God is the revenger of all such, who will send upon the unthankfull world a famine of his Word, for the famishing of his Messengers, but rather let them imitate Constantine the Great, who took care that the Clergy should receive liberall and honourable stipends, and confirm'd it by a Law, Euseb. de vita Constant. lib. 2. cap. 21. 36, 39. Sozomen, Hist. Eccl. l. 2. cap. 8. l. 2. cap. 4.

3. Let them take heed lest the Levellers do also levell the weal-publike, and convert it into private-wealth; for after the contempt of Moses, follows the inturrection of the people, Numb. 26. Nay for this, amongst other causes, do these men detry Ministers, because they are the pillars of the Magistracy.

But that I may handle these things the more exactly, I will discuss this position.

There are certain and fixed stipends due to the Ministers of Gods Word, by a divine right, from their people, that they may be freed from the secular cares and wordly incumbrances, and give up their whole selves to the work of the Ministry.

All the Churches of God are Patrons of this Truth, the Opponents and Adversaries are the Anabaptistical party, and other sectaries.

But that the thing may be the rather clear and evident, I will 1. Confirm the position by the Testimony of the sacred Scripture. 2. Evince the same by Arguments. 3. Briefly answer the wranglings, and break the Forces of the Truths Adversaries.

1. The Truth is confirmed by the mouth of Truth it self, even Christ Iesus, whose words are expres for it, Mat. 10. 10. Luke 10. 11. The Labourer (speaking unto them that were to labour in the word) is worthy of his hire. Christs Ministers shall not want maintenance, for the promise leans upon the justice of God, which will not deceive them. A true paraphrase of the word is this, that the people ought by right to maintain those that preach the Gospel to them. They ought by right to do it, which is plain by the word Worthy): it is just and equal that this should be. Our stipends are (wages), not alms. Woe to those Ministers that expect relief only from the peoples benevolence: such benevolence will in a short time prove malevolence; such a maintenance will not long be maintained, this something will soon become nothing, and such Ministers shall live no longer upon them than one might live upon hot waters. Therefore, the Apostle Paul calls their stipends a Debt, Ro. 15. 27. A Power to receive, 1 Cor. 9. 4, 6. The account of giving and receiving, Phil. 4. 15. All which phraes do speak clear beside the nature of an alms. For an alms (as Estim rightly observes) consists in pity, which springs from poverty as its object, without obliging the person upon whom it is bestowed to any work or duty: (save onely that by the law of nature, the Alms-receiver is bound to be thankfull to, and pray for the Alms-giver.) But what is given to the Ministers of Christ, is not properly given upon the account of their poverty, or if there be some respect had to their poverty, yet not purely and onely upon that account, but for their works-sake: No one will say that he has received an Alms, when he has received it with an obligation to a piece of service, especially to a service that deserves much more, to which Austin gives his suffrage: saying, It is his Power, not his poverty, when a Minister of the Gospel receives from his people: for, if we judge watchmen that watch by night for us and our estates worthy of wages; what do the watchmen of our souls then deserve? from what has been said, I thus argue;

Whatsoever things are due, may be honestly demanded, and ought to be honestly payed, But maintenance and wages are due to the Ministers of the Gospel. Therefore they are lawfully demanded by the Ministers, and ought by right to be paid by the people.

2. That which is due to labourers by the Law of nature, is to be payed. But a just recompence is due to labourers by the Law of nature, therefore it is to be paid.

Obj. But Ministers of the Gospel are not labourers, but loyterers and slow-bellies.

Answ. So say idle and ignorant Anabaptists. But I will confidently averre, that the labour of the mind far exceeds the work of the hands. For, although the Ministers of the word do not work with their hands; yet if they diligently and faithfully discharge their office, give diligence in reading, watching over, praying for, preaching to, admonishing, reprovng and comforting of their people, &c. it will be but an idle and unreasonable part to accuse any of them of idleness; Either let their advertaries confess them to be Labourers, or at once, accuse all Souldiers, Shepherds, Husbandmen of idleness; for such are they, as was before made to appear.

2. A second proof is easily fetcht from Gal. 6. 6. Let him that is taught in the word, communicate unto him that teacheth in $\mu\alpha\kappa\rho\tau\ \alpha\gamma\alpha\theta\alpha\iota\varsigma$, in all good things. That is, (1.) freely and liberally, not covetously and repiningly. (2.) Not in some onely, but in all temporall good things. For as the Teachers communicates to the Learners their spirituall good things, the knowledge of Christ, and all heavenly Treasure; so it is fit that the Learners communicate unto their Teachers temporall good things, all things ordained for the relief of the necessities of an animall life, which things carry no proportion in them to spirituall good things, although the blind world put a great price upon them, and stick not to preferre them before spirituall things. It is a sad complaint that Musculus takes up. Now that there are no Tribes, no Revenues, no stipends constituted by our ancestors, the people contribute to their Teachers so freely, that, whilst themselves either by covetousnesse contract all things unto, or by luxury consume all things upon themselves, the Minister of Christ has scarce dry bread, with which to satisfie the hunger of himself or his.

But here men begin to flinch. one pretends that he has a Family to maintain, another that he has nothing to spare: Others declaim against the Ministers: They are covetous, greedy, insatiable men; if they were right Gospel-Ministers, they should have nothing of their own, but should nakedly follow a naked Christ.

To all which the Apostle gives a sharp answer, Gal. 6. 7. Be not deceived, God is not mocked, &c. Many men be deceived (but in this you have to deal with God) who cannot be, will not be, is not deceived.

3. The Apostle judgeth them worthy of double honour, who rule well, especially they who labour in the Word and Doctrine, 1 Tim. 5. 17. He would have a liberall, honest and honourable allowance given to the Ministers of Christ, not onely for nourishment but ornament, not onely for necessary but for honour also. For the manner of the Scripture is by Double to mean manifold. Elisha in 2 King. 2.9. askt a double portion of the spirit of Eliah; that is, a very great and zealous spirit. So Rev 18.6. double unto her double according unto her works; That is, Let Babylon be punished after a fuller measure. Thus give unto them double honour, that is, honour them fully and freely? maintain them cheerfully, pay them stipends readily, and as it is meet, speak reverently and honourably of them; Hence it appears that the maintenance of Ministers ought to be sufficient, honourable, certain.

1. It ought to be sufficient to relieve their necessities. This is a sacrifice well pleasing to God, an odour of a sweet smell. Phil. 4. 18. I have received all things, and abound, I am full. That is, ye have not onely supplied my necessities, but have also made me to abound, not unto lust and luxury, but for necessity and use. Therefore the Holy Ghost expresses a stipend or a livelihood, by salt, because it is as necessary as salt. To have maintenance from the Kings Pallace in the Chaldee is express, by being salted with the salt of the pallace, Ezra 4.14. Even Christ himself received subsistence of the woman that followed him, Luke 8.8. and had a common-bag and moderate expences, Iohn 4.8. Ier. 12.6.

2. It ought to be an honourable stipend. Publick work ought to be fruitfull and gainfull to the workmen. Great rewards are great encouragements to a diligence as great as either. Nay, it is just and fit that every man should not onely live upon, but profit by his pains. Hence God commands that the best should be given for rythes, Numb. 18.29,30. this ought to be the rather,

1. That by hospitality, and bounty, and good works they may adorn their Office, 1 Tim. 3.2. Tit. 1.8. for if you take away a liberall stipend, liberality must needs fall; take away the fuel, you extinguish the fire, Prov. 26.20. where no wood is there the fire goeth out. Stipends decaying, charity must needs grow cold; What advantage can be gotten by mony that is already clipped, or what thavings can be expected of an Egg?

2. That they may live like the Embassadors of the great King, not like Neat-herds and Swine herds, that they may be more ready to give than to receive; For it is more blessed,

And consequently more honourable to give than to receive; Act. 20. 35. And yet alas in many places the Ministers of Christ have not the wages of a Gentlemans Horse-riders

3. That they may furnish themselves with books, Philosophicall, Historicall, Theologicall, Polemicall, Practicall, Criticall, &c. We must give diligence to reading, but how shall we read without books? Some have therefore determin'd 500*l.* some 600*l.* requisite for the purchase of a Library. Leffius speaks well and to the purpose. They (meaning Ministers) had need of a great deal of Learning, the procuring of which requires great charges; and as for other wayes of advantages, as Merchandize, and mechanicall Arts they are ignorant of them, neither doth it become them to deal therein.

*De justit.
& jure. li.
2. cap. 1.*

4. That they may cheerfully go through with the Lord's work, being freed from worldly cares and encumbrances. Not that they may be idle and luxurious, but that they may cheerfully, faithfully, and solely give up themselves to the Law of God, 2 Tim. 2. 4.

5. If the Leviticall Priests had an honourable stipend, then such ought the Ministers of the Gospel to have (for they are obnoxious to greater labours, and expences than the Tribe of Levi was). But the Antecedent is true, as shall be made to appear hereafter. Therefore ought Christian Magistrates to take care that there be a liberall and honourable allowance for the Ministers of Christ.

3. It ought to be a settled maintenance, a certain stipend; not the benevolence of the people, not a spontaneous arbitrary gift, not an alms; for honour and alms do not well agree to the same person. But let it be fixed certain, established, ratified and settled by the Laws of the Land; lest the Labans of this world change good Jacob's wages ten times or oftner. Our Brethren of London, commonly called (dissenting), did therefore take care that their stipends should be settled to them, to the value of 100 200, 300. per annum. Experience witnesses that the men of the world are hardly drawn or driven to pay the stipends and salaries due to Gods labourers; nay even those allowances, which by the bounty of pious Princes and Ancestors have been given to the Ministers of Christ, are hardly wrung out of the hand of these Hypocrites, notwithstanding the favour and assistance of the law. How much more deceitfully and unjustly should we be dealt with with, if the Law did not befriend us then. This stipend, we confels, is not the ultimate end which a Minister ought to propound to himself, yet it is a reward allowed by God to labourers, not to drones: and although these temporall things are not our chiefest good, yet they are concomitants thereof, they are encouragements and ornaments of Vertue, adding something to its splendor and glory, Ecc. 7. 11. Wisdom is good with an Inheritance. And hence it is that God promitteth these things as a reward of Piety, Deut. 28. 1, 2, 3, &c.

Deservedly then are the Anabaptists condemn'd, who deny settled stipends to the Ministers of the Gospel. This is a delusion and suggestion of the Devils, to defraud faithfull Ministers of their livelyhood, to the intent that the Church may be made destitute of such, & himself might delude, deceive, devour without controul. And such is the ingratitude, inhumanity and sordid covetousnesse of the world, that it is not very thoughtfull how to maintain the Ministers of the Gospel: and the Devil uses this stratagem to rob the Church of the Doctrine of the Gospel, by want and the fear of poverty to afright the most from undertaking such a task, as you may see, Neb. 13. 10, 11. The tythes are injuriously detained, and the house of God is presently forsaken. This wretched covetousness of the ingratetull world doth put a stop to many forward spirits: for we are men, and so are affected, encouraged or discouraged by the consideration of temporall things, as appears by the examples of zealous Elijah, and good Jeremiah, 1 King. 19. 4. Jer. 20. 9. Men know what a heavy affliction poverty is, Prov. 30. 8. Lam. 4. 9. We must therefore a little consider humane weaknesse, and encourage great and gracious ingenuities with generous rewards;

For who will follow vertuous studies, when Condigne rewards shall cease from vertuous men?

Do not the more noble and generous wits decline the function of the Ministry, seeing Ministers and their Widows and children (to the great shame of Christian Religion) frequently exposed to poverty and want? Hath not the poverty of Clergy-men begotten ignorance, and ignorance brought forth contempt? Do not poor means make poor Ministers? This Julian the Apostate knew well enough, therefore he enterpriz'd the extirpation irruption of Christian Religion, not by violence, but by spoiling the Clergy of all their Priviledges, stipends, immunities, and allowances, which they had from the publick: imitating the Stratagem of Souldiers, who, when they cannot prevail against a City or Garrison by down-right opposition, and violent storming, wearie it out with long and strait siege, and weaken it by extream hunger, even unto Resignation: Take away all allowances and maintenance, and you cut the very throat of Religion; For, who will learn Arts and Languages at his own cost? Who will teach them for nought? Who will betake himself to a naked and beggarly Ministry.

4. We argue from 1 Cor. 9. 6. to the 15. Lo a Text big with irrefragable invincible Arguments; For the Apostle foresaw, that the wicked world would be very fordid and niggardly in maintaining the Ministers of the Gospel, although profuse and prodigal in vain and idle expences. It is a just judgment of God, that they who will not give a bit of bread to the Ministers of Christ, the Messengers of Salvation, should be given up to throw away whole Kingdomes, and Provinces upon the Ministers of Satan, and the Messengers of death; as Luther speaks truly and roundly.

The Apostle proves, that he had right, and power to receive maintenance of the Church; to lead about a wife, who should also be maintained at a publick Charge, that posterity might know this to be lawfull, ver. 4. 5. 6. and, to shew what a clear right of his own he denied for the Corimbiens sake, that by this means he might win them to Christ, and promote their Salvation; He confirms this,

1. By an Argument drawn from three Similitudes, to wit, From the right of Souldiers, of Husbandmen, and of Shepherds. Who goeth a warfare at his own charges? &c. that is, as it is right and fit that Souldiers should live upon their pay, the Planter of a vineyard feed upon the fruit of his vines, and a Shepherd upon the milk of his flock; so is it fit, that the Ministers of the Gospel should live of the Gospel, of their own vine, that is, the Church; of the milk of their own flock, that is, of the goods of their own people. Let those Souldiers that decry Tythes, and the settled stipends of Ministers, consider their own case, and answer the great Apostles Argument, if they can, Who will go to war at his own charges? The Interrogation is a vehement Negation, No one will souldier it upon such terms. For indeed, it is an unjust, and unreasonable thing, that a Souldier should stand in jeopardy daily, fight for the common safety against the common enemy, and offer his very life as a sacrifice for the lives of the commonalty, and not be maintained at a common charge. He receiveth therefore wages from his General by a natural and civil right. And is it reasonable, or just, that the Ministers of Gods word should undergo the care of the Churches, the great burden of the Ministry, and yet live of their own? For their pains, and labours, and sufferings, and dangers exceed those of the Souldiery. These fight against flesh and blood, but they against the world, the flesh, and the devil, 2 Cor. 10. 4. 1 Tim. 1. 18. 2 Tim. 2, 3. This then is the Apostles Argument, Souldiers do not war at their own charges, The Ministers of the Gospel are Souldiers, Therefore ought not they to war at their own charges.

2. The Apostle, having put to flight the souldiers that declame and rayle against the settled and honourable maintenance of the Ministers of the Gospel, he comes to stop the murmuring mouths of Husbandmen, sowers, plowers, threshers, shepherds and men of that mold. Against these he argues thus: They that plant and dress a Vine, it is fit that they should tast of the grapes thereof, (as it is said) that Noah planted a Vineyard and drank of the wine of it; and Prov. 27. 18. Who seepeth the fig tree shall eat of the fruit thereof.) But the Ministers of Christ plant, and dress Christs Vineyard, therefore it is fit that they should live of the fruit thereof. So also it may be argued from Shepherds, feeding upon the milk of their flocks. As much as if the Apostle had said, look but unto humane equity and common customs of men, in things of farre lesser and lighter moment, and conclude how just it is that the Ministers of the Gospel should live of the Gospel.

3. The Apostle sets upon these sacrilegious persons with stronger Arguments, Arguments fetch'd from Divine Authority. For, although the cause which he pleads be a most just cause, yet he knew how subtil and crafty worldly wit is to reply, especially in a money-matter; therefore, by a Prolepsis, he meets an Objection, ver. 8. where he proves, that he doth not onely confirm his Position by humane Arguments and Examples, but but by the Law of God also; Say I these as a man? Do I fortifie my cause with humane reason and examples onely? Or, saith not the Law the same also? Yes, Deut. 25.4. Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox, when he treadeth out the corne. He uses an Argument from the less to the greater. If it were not lawfull to deny maintenance to an unreasonable creature, much less to a man; if not to an Oxe treading, then not to a Minister toyling. For Gods chief care in this Law was not for oxen; he look'd at a further end, even at us, who are typical oxen, toyling in the Lords field, treading in his barnes: Therefore convenient maintenance must not be denied us, lest we faint in the work.

4. He argues from the less to the greater again; From the example of Plowmen, and Threshers, ver. 10. If the Plower ploweth, and the Thresher thresheth in hope, to wit, of his wages, and that he shall partake of his crop, and of his thrething, then a Minister of the Gospell may expect a Salary, fruit of his labours, of which he and his may live comfortably. But the Antecedent is true (saies the Apostle) therefore the Consequent is true also.

5. The Apostle argues vers. 11. from natural right, and commutative Justice, which commands to give like for like, much more then, small things for great. Now, who doubts, but that spiritual things do much excell carnall, heavenly things excell earthly, eternal things excell fading, sitting, perishing, transitory vanities? For, by how much the soul excells the body, by so much does the Word, the food of this soul, outgoe corporal maintenance. Oh ingratefull wretch then, who ever grudges to administer to him carnal things, who preaches unto him the eternal Gospel, and is an instrument to convey unto him the fruits of the same Gospel preacht, to wit, Faith, Regeneration, and Life Eternal! Now these things (saith the Apostle) we have sowed; therefore it is meet we should reap, For,

Whosoever do sow unto us spiritual good things, to them we ought cheerfully to administer of our temporalls, Rom. 15. 27.

But the Ministers of the Gospell sow spiritual things;

Therefore ought we cheerfully to administer unto them of our temporalls.

6. The Apostle argues from Example, ver. 12. If the true

Apostles receive maintenance of you, why should not I and Barnabas, who have preached the Gospel to you as well as they. 2. If the false Apostles and Seducers, who devour you, receive things necessary, then, why may not we who propagate the Gospel of Christ? If stipends be given to the bad, why not much rather to the good?

7. He argues verse 13, from the Testimony of the Law, from the Example of the Levites under the Old Testament; and from the Ordination of God under the New. These things are not Antichristian devices (as the doing Anabaptists dream) but Divine Decrees and Ordinations, as will appear, if we frame an Argument thus.

If the Ministers of God under the Old Testament were maintained of the publick, then are they so to be maintained under the New; But Ministers under the Old Testament were maintained of the publick, Therefore ought the Ministers under the New to be so maintained.

The Antecedent appears, Numb. 18. 8. to 13. Deut. 12. 6. 14. 22. 18. 1. Lev. 2. 3. 10. 5. 13. 7. 7. 8. 9. 10. 14. 32. 10. 13. 27. 30. 31. Numb. 3. 48. 5. 9. 10. 35. 2. Exod. 29. 26. 22. 29. Josh. 13. 14. 21. 2. 2 Chron. 31. 4. Neh. 10. 32. to the end. 12. 44. 13. 5. &c. Ezek. 44. 30. 45. 4. Heb. 7. 5. 9. By all which places it evidently appears, that God did appoint, not a loose, and uncertain, and arbitrary, but a settled, standing, full, and honourable maintenance for his Ministers out of Tythes, Sacrifices, Oblations, First-fruits, oyl, wine, honey, fleeces of sheep, and such like. God also commanded to give unto the Levites 48 Cities, with their Suburbs, for them and their cattel. Therefore God is called their Inheritance, because he gave them his part, to wit, the Tithes, First-fruits, &c. Numb. 18. 24. In a word, a special care was to be had of them; For, God commanded that they should not forsake a Levite all his dayes, Deut. 12. 19. and 14. 27. They must not be forsaken, as to maintenance, protection, or encouragement; because they were the Lords servants, and Embassadors. All these things were assigned and established by God to the Priests and Levites. We then to those wretched fellowes, who envy the least conveniencies, or accommodations to faithfull Ministers, that would not give them a farthing (did not the Law constrain them) but rather defraud them of what is given them.

The Consequent appears by the Apostles own words . Even so hath the Lord ordained , that they that preach the Gospell should live of the Gospell. This then is his Argument,

That which Christ hath ordained is to be observed :

But Christ hath ordained that the Churches should give a full and honourable maintenance to their Ministers :

Therefore ought the Churches, &c.

Left any should object , that these are Mosaical rites , and nothing to the purpose , the Apostle brings Christs own Authority for this , That they that preach the Gospell should live of the Gospell, Luke 10. 7. The labourer is worthy of his hire. In which words our Saviour doth both authorize his Ministers to take , and oblige the Church to give Salaries. This thing is an universal right , belonging not to the Apostles onely , but to all the Ministers of the Gospell , in all places , at all times. They who preach the Gospell should live of the Gospell: They that wait at the Altar, are partakers with the Altar. The Proposition is indefinite, and that is as large as an universal one , should live, but how ?
 1. As men , not wanting any thing that is for necessity or honest delight. 2. As Believers , having a care of their Wives, children, and Families ; for, he that provideth not for his own, hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel, 1 Tim. 5. 8. 2 Cor. 12. 14. And 3. Let them live as the Embassadors of Christ , that they may by works of piety and charity adorne their calling.

Objection, Then they must have the First-fruits , Oblations, &c.

Ans. 1. That does not follow. For, although those Ceremonies be taken away by Christ , yet a way of maintaining the Worship of God in generall is not taken away ; the way of maintaining it being one and the same generically, though not specifically, and both in quantity, proportion, sufficiency, and certaintie : Otherwise the Apostles Argument could not hold water , who saies with an Emphasis ita &c. , even so, since the Ministers of the Gospell do succeed the Levitical Priests and Ministers , let them be maintained by some such like way ; let them that preach the Gospell, live of the Gospell, even so, that is , so liberally, so plentifully, so certainly as the Levitical Clergy ;

Clergy lived under the Law. For so hath God, not man, nay, God-man ordained, Even so hath the Lord ordained. The due maintenance then of the Ministry is not man's device, but Gods Decree; not a humane order, but a Divine Ordination, which whosoever denies, resisteth the Ordinance of God, and procureth condemnation to himself.

2. Those Lawes concerning First-fruits, Tithes and Offerings may be considered, either as to their substance, or as to their circumstances; as to their Substance, they belong also unto us; for the end of those Lawes was, that the people by those Offerings should testifie their thankfulness to God, to the advantage of the Church, the Ministry, the poor; to which things even the Law of nature doth bind. And if our Magistrates shall at this day enact Lawes for the maintenance of Ministers, we ought to obey them carefully and cheerfully, especially in those things which neither contradict the Moral Law, nor the Law of Nature. It followes therefore that as the Israelites were to communicate of their goods to the Levites, as unto them that administred their holy things; so ought Christians at this day freely to communicate of their substance to their Ministers: And the rather, because the Ministry of the Gospell is more glorious, laborious, costly, than the Ministry of the Law was. To say nothing (saies Bellarmine) of the dignity of the Gospell-Ministry, which is farre greater than that of Aaron's Ministry, the Christian Clergie is exposed to greater pains and cost than the Tribe of Levi was. It concerns now that Ministers be learned. and consequently, that they spend much of their estates upon their studies; who therefore ought, according to their condition, to be maintained honestly and freely by the goods of the Church.

5. We argue, ab utili, from the Profit of it. That which will certainly bring a blessing upon the doers of it, is to be done, But an honest and liberal maintaining of Ministers brings with it a Blessing, as you may read Deut. 14. 22, 23, 28, 29. 26. 12, 13, 14, 15. 2 Chron. 31, 10. Prov. 3. 9, 10. Mal. 3. 10, 11, 12. Temporall good things bestowed upon Gods Ministers are not cast away, but are as seed cast into the ground, which bringeth forth a plentiful crop: Tithes (say the Rabbines) are the wall of riches, because the payment of the Tenth part defended the other nine: Hence it was their familiar Proverb, Pay Tythes and be rich: Austine observes, that our Ancestours were were rich, and abounded with temporal blessings, because they gave tenth so faithfully to God. Be liberall to God and his Ministers, and you shall finde God more liberall to you; for he will not suffer his creatures to-out-doe him in liberality.

Again, That which takes away many occasions of sin is very profitable and necessary; But a convenient, settled, and and ratified Salary, cuts off many occasions of sin; Therefore a certain and settled Salary is necessary. The Major is an undeniable truth; The Minor may be proved in many particulars.

1. A certain and settled Salary takes away temptations to flattery; were a stated maintenance taken away from Ministers, a sad temptation to make marchandize of souls would follow upon it. Men will be inclinable to comply with those that they hope to get any thing by. The Itinerary Levite, in Judg. 17. who was fain to accept of what Micah would give him (which was but 25 s. a year) complied with him in his Idolatry, as you may read, vers. 11. And so consequently the Gospell would be preached with more boldness and freedom of speech. For, who almost would be so bold, as to tax the vices, or reprove the corrupt manners of those, from whom they received dayly gratuities? But where there is a settled and stated maintenance, there all sorts of men are freely and indifferently dealt withall.
2. By this means Ministers shall not need to be condemned for taking or having more than they will confess: which although no good men will deserve to be condemned of, yet malignant and corrupt men are apt to load them with such slanders.
3. Otherwise, what contribution might ministers expect from the wicked world, who being reprov'd, would rather suffer them to starve with hunger, then relieve them. They would be bad at works of arbitrary charity, who are so base at works of necessary justice; and they who will not suffer Ministers to enjoy their own maintenance quietly, will not easily give of their own to maintain them.
4. By this means pride and arrogancy is prevented, a sin very familiar to free Contributions; pride, not conscience, would soon principle men to Liberality.
5. By this means Ministers shall be freed from secular cares, and worldly encumbrances, and shall not be put to study for meat and drink, when they should be studying the Law of God.

6. We argue a damno, from the losse and danger which followes upon the contrary. That which is cursed by God, is to be avoided; But the defrauding of his Ministers is accursed of God, Therefore it is to be avoided. The major needs not to be proved, the minor is proved sufficiently by the Testimony of the Spirit of God, Mal. 3. 8, 9. Will a man rob God? But ye have robbed me in tithes and offerings. Therefore ye are cursed with a curse. A man robs God, when he withholds from Gods Ministers Tithes, and other things necessary for their maintenance; whereby it comes to pass, that they studying to avoid poverty, are forced to desert Gods service in publick Administrations. Therefore ye are cursed with a curse; that is, with Famine, poverty, and barrenness of the earth; For, It is a snare to the man who devoureth that which is holy, Prov. 20. 25. that is, it is a dangerous thing; for, a snare catcheth soon, holdeth sure, and destroyeth suddenly. Austine, Sermon. 219. de decimis speaks sharply, Thou hast lost nine parts, because thou wouldst not give the tenth; For this is the just proceeding of God, that thou, who wouldst not give a tenth part, shouldst thy self be reduced to a tenth part.

7. Crying finnes are to be avoided; But the Scripture reckons the defrauding of Gods Ministers amongst crying finnes, Deut. 24. 14, 15. Jerem. 22. 13. James 5. 4. This cry is the foulness and grievousness of the sinne, which can neither be concealed nor excused, but beats Gods ears continually, and provokes him to vengeance. School-men observe four Crying finnes in Scripture, which they comprehend in a Distich, thus,

The voyce of Blood-shed, and of Sodomy, Oppression, and Fraud, aloud do cry.

Now if the defrauding the Reaper that reaps down our corn, be so abominable a sinne to God; how much more abominable is the defrauding of his Ministers, who reap a crop of soules for God himself?

8. If we ought to maintain the Fathers of our flesh, from whom (organically) we have our naturall being; and that both by the Law of God; and of Nature; then much rather our Spirituall Fathers; from whom (instrumentally) we have our well-being. 1. Maintenance is due to the Fathers of our flesh from us, Gen. 45. 9, 10, 11. 2. Love, and that not onely whilest they live, but to be exprest to them even when they are dead, Gen. 25. 9. Gen. 50. 2. 3. Reverence, exprest by mouth, heart, and hand, Exod. 20. 12. 1 Tim. 5. 4. 4. Obedience, Ierem. 35. 18. Col. 3. 20. The consequence is clear from 1 Cor. 4. 15. Gal. 4. 19. Philem. ver. 19. 1 Thes. 5. 12, 13.

9. They that give diligence to Reading, Exhortation, and Doctrine, that minde these things, and give up themselves wholly to them, and ought not to engage their heads or hands in the cares of this world, must necessarily receive a stated Maintenance of the Church; but such is the duty of Gospell-ministers, Act. 6. 4. 1 Tim. 4. 13, 15, 16. 2 Tim. 2. 4. Therefore had their types the Levites no part in the division of Canaan, that they should not be engaged in Secular affairs, and worldly business, but might be wholly for the Lord, and for the Temple; but the Lord was their inheritance, that is, the Tithes and offerings due to God, of which the Levites did live, and were not solicitous concerning any other way of maintenance, which otherwise they would necessarily have been.

10. If Idolaters & Heathens have been even prodigal toward Baals Priests and seducers, then it doth not become Christians to be illiberal and covetous to the faithful Ministers of Christ. But so prodigal have they been, witness Iezabel, who maintaine above 800. Priests of Baal at her owne costs and charges, 1 Kings 18. 19. whilest an hundred of the Lords Prophets were hid in caves and onely relieved with bread and water v. 13. so prodigal were the Idolaters in the Prophet Isaiahs time, who lavished silver out of the bags for their Idols, Isaiah 46. 6. It grieved not Pharaoh to maintaine all the Egyptian Priests with his owne bread. In a generall famine he was so farre from making monee of the Priests lands in the first place, that he continued to them their inheritances, and gave them their diet severall years besides. The Heathens thought not much to offer the tenth of their spoyle to their Gods. And if the Papists with a prodigal liberality be willing to spend almost all upon their silly Priestlings, and greedy Iesuites, notorious deceivers; sure then the faithfull Ministers of Christ may justly expect an honest maintenance from their people. Ahab the King of Judah, who sought to reduce the Priests of the Lord unto want, is therefore branded with this mark, This is that King Abaz,

2 Chron. 28. 21, 22.

11. All Sacriledg is to be avoided, but to defraud the Ministers of Christ of their stipends is Sacriledg: Therefore &c. The major is plain of it self. The minor God himself proves, Mal. 3. 8. Ye have robbed me in Tythes and Offerings. God complains here that this injury and fraud was not so much done to men as to himself, Sacriledge is not a simple theft, but a stealing of sacred things, which is the highest degree of Theft: Now that is sacred which is given to holy uses, either by the exprels command of God, or by the voluntary devotion of men: whether it be given (saith learned Mr. Cartwright upon Prov, 20. 25,) for the and sake of Gods worship, for the maintaining of Schooles Vniversities, or for the reliefe of the poor, and if it be a wickednesse and a Inare after yowes to require again, that is to call back, or withhold any thing given or vowed to Gods use, Prov. 20. 25; then what notorious impiety shall they be guilty of, who having not given any thing themselves, shall yet go about to diminish and defraud us of the gifts of others: when as a mans last will or Testament is not changed or disposed of otherwise, than as the Testator did ordaine, Gal. 3. 15.

Let the Governours of the Common-wealth then take special heed, that they do not engross any Church-revenues to themselves, convert those things, or any of those things unto private uses, which are dedicated to sacred uses, and so devolve upon their heads the heavy doome of sacrilegious persons, robbers of God,

*For who can think that God will let such scape,
That do on sacred things commit a rape.*

The Eagle burning her nest and her young ones by a coal fetched with a piece of flesh from the Altar doth well prophesie and prefigure the ruine of those Harpes and Vultures, and their posterity, who make so bold with the Churches revenues: Or if such a doom be not prefigured by the Eagle, I am sure it is prayed for by the Psalmist, Ps. 83, 11, 12. make their Nobles like Oreb and like Zeb, yea all their Princes as Zebah and Zalmunna, who said, Let us take to our selves the houses.

houses of God in possession, &c. Nay and certainly the time will come when they shall not onely disgorge like dogs, what they have drunk downe like Oxen, but when it shall repent them that they have so much as touched the inheritance of the Lord. Such Levellers that sow Sacriledge shall reap a snare, Rollant Prov. 20. 25. They take away that which is devoted to God, and dicitur, and God himself will devote them to destruction. Such revenues will certainly prove as unhappy to their unjust detainers, as et sunt videtur, See A. Gellius Nuc. Attic. lib.3 cap.9. Cn. Scius his horse proved to him, afterwards to Dolabella, to Cassius, to Antonius, and to as many as had him, and will create sooner or later as many vexations, as the gold which Q. Capio found in Tholosane, a towne in France, in the Churches thereof, did create to all that did lay but a thievish hand upon it: Witnesse Belshazzar, Antiochus, Pompeius, Julianus, Claudius, Fulvius, Pyrrhus, &c. whose doom any one may read in Lactant. lib. 2. cap. 4.7. And no wonder, for Sacriledge is worse than Idolatry, for it argueth a contempt of all Deity. Rom. 2. 22. Thou that abhorrest Idols, committest thou Sacriledge? Thou that abhorrest false Gods, dost thou rob the true one, which is worse? In a word, such must needs pay dearly for their injustice, who detain that which is anothers; to which iniustice there is yet added a sacrilegious kind of malignity, because Tythes are due to God, not onely as an expression of thankfullnesse, but as a means to preterve, and to maintaine his sacred worship.

CHAP. IX.

The Anabaptists Objections are answered and their Arguments refelled.

Obj. They object and say, true, Tythes were commanded often in the old Testament, but this doth not bind us under the new, because there is no expresse command.

Ans. The same Argument will hold against the Lords day, against the Baptisme of Infants, against all Taxes and dues, because they are not expresse and by name commanded in the new Testament.

2 Those Tythes which were commanded under the old Testament, are continued still under the new, as to their spirituall and moral use; and that upon a threefold account. 1. Vpon the the account of piety, because they are given to God and his Service. 2. Vpon the account of thankfullness, For Tythes are a Sacrifice of praise to God for his mercies towards us, and for the good things which he bestows on us, Gen. 28. 22. 3. Vpon the account of commutative justice, for if we have sowed unto them our spirituall things, it is no great matter if we reap their carnal things. Now then although Tithes be not expressly and explicitly enjoyned in the new Testament, yet we are as expressly engaged to piety, thankfullnesse, and justice now as ever.

3. Neither doth Christ in the new Testament expressly abolish the payment of Tythes, when the Pharisees boasted of their care in paying even their smallest Tythes, he is so farre from reproving them for it, that he commends and doth countenance it, Luk. 11. 42. Mat. 23. 25. These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone. He gives no commission to neglect the payment of Tythes. Ye ought not to leave that undone.

Tythes therefore or fixed stipends are due to the Ministers of the Gospel by a trebble right: First by a divine moral right, not ceremoniall or judicial: For it is fit and just that a Minister, who feeds the peoples souls, should be fed by the people, that he that preaches the Gospel, should live of the Gospel. The old Law concerning the Sabbath and concerning Tythes, at least shews thus much (saith Grotius de jure belli lib. 1. cap. 1.) that Christians are bound to set apart no less than the seventh part of time, and to give no less than the tenth part of their increase to Gods Ministers. It shews at least thus much, that however they be maintained, whether out of Lands, Houses, Moneys, Tythes, &c. yet that they ought to be maintained honestly and liberally, not fordidly and sparingly. Estius speaks clearly and learnedly. That which the Law of God and Nature command in the generall, that doth the ecclesiasticall Law determine specifically, whilst it appointeth some certain stipend to be given by the people to their Ministers, as Tythes or the like. Tythes therefore are not precisely commanded in or absolutely necessary under the new Testament, neither are they unjust.

unjust, where they are established by the Magistracy, whose duty it is to take the most convenient way for maintaining the Ministry, as may best consist with the edification of the Church, and dignity of the sacred function. Secondly, They are due by a naturall right. Even the very Heathens gave the tenth part to their Gods, as the Greeians, the Carthaginians, the Romans, &c. who gave the Tythe of the spoyl to Jupiter. And if the Tythe of such things, how much rather the Tythes of more certain revenues. Thirdly, By the Law of nations, and by the positive Law of our nation, Tythes were given by Offa the Saxon king in the year 793. afterwards increased and confirmed by Ethelwolf in the year 855. who gave the tenth part of his owne revenues and of the kingdom to God: binding them with this prayer, VVhoever shall adde to this our gift, let allmighty God adde to his life many prosperous days, and if any one shall presume to change or diminish them, let him know that he must give an account before the tribunal of Christ. After him King Athelstone confirmed them in the year 930. In a word they have been confirmed, together with magna charta, thirty times by Parliament:

By all which it is plain, that the Preachers of the Gospel have a better title to their tythes than any Nobleman, Knight, or Gentleman to their proper Inheriunces. For 1. They were given by our Ancestors to God and his service, and therefore cannot be taken away without sacriledge; but the Estates of Noblemen may be taken from them without sacriledge. 2. God hath commanded that a sufficient, honourable, and fixed maintenance be given to his Ministers, as hath been already proved. But such a special command hath he not given concerning any other men. Therefore tythes and things which are so God's, are twice God's. 1. By a divine right primarily, 2. By a humane right secundarily, as being dedicated to him and his worship.

Obj. 2. But the people cry out and rayl, saying, Tythes are burdensome, they are Antichristian, Jewish &c.

Ans. 1. So do the people cry out of taxes, excize, customs &c. that they are burdens: therefore shall we say, Away with taxes, customs, excises. All things are common amongst friends?

2. It little matters what the many-headed multitude say, Seneca could say, argumentum pessimum esse turbam, that the common people were the worst argument in the world: Neither matters it how many they are, but how rational, how good. The multitude of sinners doth not patronize a sinner.

3. This is not the cry of the wisest, soundest and best of the people, they do not declaim against Tythes.

4. Neither are Tythes Jewish: For first, before the Law given by Moses, Abraham gave Tythes to Melchisedech of all that he had, Gen. 14. 20. Heb. 7. 2. Jacob also vowed to God the Tythe of all that he had, Gen. 28. 22. And secondly, they are not payed to the Ministers of Christ by a ceremonial right, but a moral right, and by a positive Law of the Nation, as was proved before. See Repper. de lege Mosis l. 4. c. 10.

5. Neither are they Antichristian as many vain men object, who whilst they are hearers, decry Tythes to save their money, but turning preachers take Tythes, dispute for them and contend for additions to be made to them. Tythes are not Antichristian, that are by the Law of nature, by the moral Law, by the positive Law of the nation, and not by any canonical or pontifical Law. How can they be popish, which were paid thousands of years before any such beast as a Pope did spring up?

6 If Tythes be unjust, burdensome, wicked things, then is God the authour of injustice, oppression, wickedness (which were blasphemy to conceive) for he gave the Tythes to his Levites under the Law by a special command for their subsistence. Neither doth the Gospel, as I said before, abrogate or abolish Tythes in general, but rather establish and confirm them specifically, as may appear, Mat. 23. 23. Luk. 11. 42. Gal. 6. 6. 1 Cor. 9. 13, 14. Heb. 7. 1. 5, 6, 8. And if the wise God thought this way the best to maintain his Ministers, who shall reprove him?

7. They are not burthen some impositions, because they were freely given to the Church by pious and well affected Princes, They are not the peoples burden, for they are none of theirs; Neither they nor their pro parents ever purchased them, and why should they repine to part with that which is none of theirs.

8. Let there be found out a more sufficient and certain and honourable maintenance, and who will contend for Tythes?

But

But since it appears to all wise men, that a more just and stated maintenance cannot be found out, why should the impopularity of wild and unreasonable men prevail? that this epidemicall disease may be cured, there seems to remain this and this only remedy. Let Tythes be got out of the hands of those that have engrossed them to private uses: I mean those Tythes which the Lawyers call impropriate, more truly improper, and indeed to many unprosperous; as the holy coal to the Eagles nest. Of such Harpyes Luther sadly complains, In these and many other Countreys there are a company of Harpyes, to wit Prefects and Questors, who have devoured the liberalities of Princes given for the maintenance of the Ministers of the Church, and such is their envy and malignity, that it can hardly be wrung out of their clutches. And indeed this is a hard taske, but it is a Princely, a Parliamentary undertaking: And I doubt not but all godly men will do all they can to bring to pass so gracious an enterprize. It commended the excellent and worthy spirits of some Londoners, that bought impropriate Tythes, and restored them to the Churches. Many know by whose fault this good work was hindered, and what became of them that hindered it.

Obj. 3. They argue from Mic. 3: 11. the Priests teach for hire, and the Prophets divine for money.

Ans. It is one thing to receive hire, and another to be an hireling; one thing to be hired to teach, another to teach for hire. The true Prophets received a reward of their pains, and that by Christs allowance, Mat. 10. 10. but the false Prophets whom God here reproveth, prophesied false things, and that for hire onely, and preached pleasing things onely; that they might have a more liberall reward. The Ministers of the Gospel do receive Salaries, not as a reward of their Ministry, but that they may provide the necessaries of life; and may persist in their sacred function.

4. Obj. Their great argument is fathered upon (for I cannot say gathered from) Mat. 10. 8, 9, 10. Freely ye have received, freely give. Provide neither Gold nor Silver, nor brasse in your purses &c.

Ans. The Anabaptists are deceived in this late figment of theirs. For Christ himself unties the knot, v. 10. The workman is worthy of his meat, and approved it by his own example, ample, taking something of the substance of his rich followers. Luke 8. 3. John 12. 6. and 13. 29. Neither did the Apostles ordinarily refuse Salaries from the Churches, 1 Cor. 9. 4. 5. 6. Phil. 4. 18.

2: Christ here speaketh concerning working of miracles, as appears v. 8. and he forbids his Apostles to sell their miraculous cures for money, because that gift was freely given them by God, & they ought therefore to use it freely. As Elisha refused the reward offered him by Naaman the Syrians 2 King 5. 15. 16. These words (ye have freely received) doth not so much respect the work of preaching, as the working of miracles, which is not so laborious as the other.

3. This command of Christ to his Apostles was onely temporary, a precept for the present time, not a moral commandment, neither can it or ought to be made a perpetual Law. It onely related to that first Embassy of theirs to the Jews, which was to be dispatched with all speed, and they were to avoid whatever would retard them in their journey. This is plain from our Saviours owne words, Luke 22. 35. where speaking of this first mission of theirs, and the charge he gave them then: He says; Before I sent you without purse, &c. but now he that hath a purse, let him take it &c. As much as to say, the former precept that I gave you is valid, Now I give you a new charge.

4. It is plain that the Apostles afterwards lived of the Gospel Acts 4. 5. chapt. The primitive Believers offered them all their goods, they sold lands and goods for the Apostles use,

Heu quantum distamus ab illis, but now we had rather take the Apostles lands and goods for our owne use, or at least are so farre from selling all for them, that we grudge miserably to give unto them a tenth part.

5. This precept, as to the substance of it doth still bind. It engageth us to have hearts free from covetousness, to be a pattern of holinesse, of the contempt of riches, and of noble and heavenly minds.

6. The Apostles were sent to heal all manner of diseases.

Now

Now our Saviour foreseeing that men would be ready to give any thing for Health, forbids them to make a private gain of the gift of healing, as Simon Magus thought to have made of the Gift of the Holy Ghost.

Obj. 5. The haters of the Ministry urge the unsuitable Example of Paul, Act. 18. 3. 20. 34. 2 Thes. 3. 8. Paul got his living by his own Hand-labour; Therefore ought all the Ministers of the Gospell also.

Ans. 1. It does not follow. A particular and singular Action does not make an universal rule. Neither does the Apostle here go about to take away from Christs Ministers that which elsewhere he doth allow them. Now he allows them a right to be maintained of the Publick, in many places, 1 Cor. 9. 14. Gal. 6. 6. 1 Tim. 5. 17. He approves of them that lived of the Gospell, 1 Corinth. 9. 5, 6. Nay himself received maintenance of other Churches, Phil. 4. 18. 2 Cor. 11. 8.

2. Suppose the Case be now as it was then, ceteris paribus, and we will also allow the Apostle Pauls example to be binding,

1. If the Preacher be furnish'd with Extraordinary Gifts, that he can perform his work without study and meditation; so could the Apostle.
2. If Ministers can live otherwise, and it be necessary by reason of the Churches poverty; in such a case of necessity the Minister ought to deny his right, that he prejudice not the Gospell, and be a burden to the Church, 1 Thes. 2. 9. 2 Thes. 3. 8, 9. But the case is not so now, neither respectve to the Ministers of the Church, nor respectve to the Church. For

1. Ministers have not that extraordinary and supernatural Gift.
2. The Church enjoys, through the bounty of pious Princes, and Progenitors, Church Revenues, dedicated to the maintenance of its Ministry, that they need not be burthensome to the Church. Moreover in the Apostles time there was a Community of Goods, which did abundantly make up the want of tythes. We must therefore distinguish of a Church: 1. There is a Church to be constituted, or in constituting, which, for the most part, is made up of poor and inferiour members, not headed by powerfull Princes, or rich Magistrates, in whose hand it might be to appoint settled stipends. Such was the estate of the Church in the Apostles time: and here we must decline our own right. Moreover, the Apostles preach'd to Heathens, who knew not the worth of the Gospell, nor the necessity of a Ministry.

Ministry. 2. There is a Church constituted, adorned with Magistrates, and Lawes, and endued with certain Revenues and Immunities appointed by those Magistrates for the Ministers: these Revenues are by Divine Right due to these Ministers: therefore Paul acknowledged, that he did receive things necessary of some Churches, as from the Church at Philippi, Phil. 4. 16. and others, 2 Cor. 11. 8. though he did not of the Church of Corinth, nor Theſſalonica. In a word, Stipends are different according to time and place; doubtless the richer Congregations both may and ought to maintain their Pastors more liberally than the poorer; neither is it equal, that the Stipends of all Ministers should be equal, because of their different Gifts, different Labors, different Families, and different quality of their people.

Object. 6. Many Ministers are rich, and are single men, therefore they ought to preach freely, and live of their own.

Ans. 1. That does not follow; For our Saviours Proposition is universal, Luke 10. 14. The Labourer is worthy of his hire, that is, Every Labourer, be he rich or poor, single or double, or what else. Melchizedeck was a rich King, and yet Abraham payes him tythes, Gen. 14. 20. Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corne, be he fat, or be he lean. Moreover, if a rich Minister receive nothing of his people, he will expose his poorer brethren to the envy and malice of their people: and not onely so, but be a means to starve his Successour; wherefore let him receive his due Stipend, and let him give to the poor, and convert much to publick uses. Our Saviour Christ could easily have maintained himself, and the family of his Apostles, after a miraculous way; his Godhead could easily have provided for his manhood; yet he received of those things which were brought him, Luk. 8. 3. to instruct us by his example. The Lord hath not ordained, that they that preach the Gospel should live of their own private Estates, that I know of; but he has ordained, that they should live of the Gospel, 1 Cor. 9. 14.

2. Would this be a good Argument, Many Souldiers are rich, therefore let them fight freely, spend and be spent, without expectation or acceptance of pay, and live of their own: The richer men grow, the less commonly they care for fighting, (lest they should lose their rich lives,) much less would they fight for nothing; For VVho goeth, saith the Apostle, to war, at his own charges.

CHAP. X.

A sixth Corollary from the Doctrine.

IN the last place then, let all Christs Ministers take heed they be not Unfavou'ry Salt. Christ hath put upon us the Name, oh that Christ would put into us, the Nature of Salt.

Now the right and conscientious manner of salting and feeding is tentold, Exemplarily, Ministerially, Diligently, Boldly, Lovingly, Zealously, Purely, Plainly, Fully, and Sincerely.

1. Let a Minister teach by example and life, let him learn to do before he teach others to learn; for the life of a Preacher hath in it the greatest Argument to Holiness of life, and will instruct better, and prevail more than a thousand elegant Sermons. Men are more drawn by Example than by Precepts; Wherefore let us shew ourselves examples of piety, and good works, and as patterns which they may follow. Timothy must be an example of believers in word and Conversation, in Charity, in spirit, in faith, and purity, 1 Tim. 4. 12. and so must Titus, Tit. 2. 7. and so must all the Ministers of the Gospel, 1 Pet. 5. 3. The tongue indeed teacheth, but the life commendeth; for the voice of the hand is more powerfull then that of the tongue, and gives efficacy to it; whilest we speak Oracles, let us live like Deities. The best way of moving the affections is one's self first to be moved. He that is first himself perswaded, shall better perswade others; and no one can prescribe so good Remedies, as he that by experience knowes what is hurtfull. It is the part of a faithfull Pastor to weep with himself, before he call for the tears of others, and to grieve more inwardly, than in an expression.

*He that would have my teares,
Must weep himself, or else i'te think he jeers,*

That voyce pierceth the heart of the Hearers most effectually, which the life of the Preacher commands; For, that Preacher loses his Authority, whose words are not interpreted by his works; Nay, as Austine well observes, A life unsuitable to the Doctrine is of a soul-killing, murtherous nature. VVhat a monstrous prodigious sight (saies Bernard to Eugenius) lib. 2. de Consider.) is a high degree, and a low spirit; a sacred Profession and an execrable practice; a laborious tongue, and a lazy hand; much leaves and no fruit, a grave countenance and a light carriage, great authority and no stability, to look like a man and speak like a child? against such the Apostle thunders, Rom. 2. 1, 21. Thou that teachest another, teachest thou not thy self, &c. Such derogate from the weight of their Doctrine, they destroy with their works what they build with their words, they dedicate their tongues to God, and devote their soules to the Devil. What is profound Science good for (saies Dr. Staughton in Fœlicit. ult. sacul), p. 91, 92, 93.) without a pure conscience; an Oratours tongue, without an Angels life; but to make up a Statue like unto Nebuchadrezzar's, whose golden head ended in earthen feet; as though it were for the present to be crowned, and shortly to be broken in pieces; or a toad with a jewel, perhaps in the head, but certainly poysonous all over the body; which is more hatefull for the one, than precious for the other? let Eloquence therefore sit in the lips, but let grace also give strength to Eloquence.

Let us therefore imitate our Master, who was mighty in deed and word, Luke 24. 19. who began first to do, and then to teach, Act. 1. 1. Himself was first meeke, and pure, and peaceable, and then he began to teach, Blessed are the poor in heart, the pure in heart, the peaceable, Matth. 5. As John the Baptist was all voice, so the all of a Minister ought to preach; his eating, drinking, travelling, entertaining, clothing, life, and language should all breathe out holiness; whatever he does or saies should instruct his flock. Ezra the servant of the Lord was indeed a Scribe instructed unto the kingdome of heaven, for he first prepared his heart to seek the Law of the Lord, and to do it, and then to teach in Israel statutes and judgements, Ezra 7. 10. Lo, the right way to attain to an excellent faculty of teaching. 1. Prepare not the head onely, but the heart also. 2. Seek with all care and diligence, viz. by hearing, reading, learning, meditating, praying. 3. What must be sought; not Civil Lawes, not humane Statutes, not scholastical niceties, but seek the Law of the Lord, converse in this, meditate of it, peruse it day and night. He that will be a good Preacher must labour to be a good Textuist; for Scripture is the best Interpreter of Scripture. 4. For what end? first, that we may do it, then that we may teach it. Let us labour to be as Glasses, in which the representations of all vertue and grace may appear; Yea, if we do and teach, we shall be called (that is, we shall be) great in the kingdom of heaven, Mat. 5. 19. Such an one was holy Basil, whose words were thunder, and his works lightening. He preaches (saies Nazianzen) with a lively voyce; who preacheth with life and voice, making good his Doctrine and his Life, the one by the other. One, and the same Apostle tells us, that Ministers should not onely ἐπιμαρτυρῶν, divide, and rightly distribute the word of truth, 2 Tim. 2. 15. but also ἐπισκευάζοντες, walk uprightly according to the truth of the Gospel, Gal. 2. 14. All our Nazarites should be purer than snow, whiter than milk, Lam. 4. 7. like unto Absalom, in a more spiritual beauty, in whom, from the crown of the head to the sole of his foot was no blemish, 1 Sam. 14. 25. For if those that had any blemish upon them were forbidden the Priests Office; under the Law, Lev. 21. 17. &c. how shall they, whose mouthes, hearts, hands, are full of sin and filthines, be admitted, or accepted under the Gospel? Wherefore let every Preacher teach by words, and works, by life and Language. It is an easie thing to speak, but a hard to performe; easie to teach in words, but preaching with the life, is the life of Preaching; for, words make not such an impressiō upon the soul, as works do; A fighting Captain encourages his souldiers more then a prating coward. The Apostle therefore will that Bishops be blameless, Tit. 1. 7. unrepoveable, without scandall, not without sinne, As were Samuel, Jeremiah, Daniel, Paul, Zachary, 1 Sam. 12. 3. Jerem. 15. 10. Dan. 6. 5. Act. 20. 2 3. Luke 1. 6. such were Bucer, Bradford, Latimer, Hooper, &c. such ought we to be, that evil men may be able to speak no evil of us without lying, Tit. 2. 8. For he may truly be said to be unblameable, not who is never blamed, but who is not blameworthy. Neither does the Apostle call for men devoid of all failings, such are not men but Angels, such are members of the Church Triumphant, not the Militant. Many men (as Austine well observes) live without complaint or scandall, but none without sin.

2. Let a Pastor feed his people ministerially, by voice and sound Doctrine. The bare Reading of the Scriptures seldom conduces much to Conversion; the word preached by an Applicatory Voice hath some kinde of secret energy in it, and being sent from the Minister, as from the mouth of God himself, into the ears of the Auditots, it carries a great authority with it, and fastens better upon their souls. It is requisite, that a Minister of the Gospel carry upon his breast both the Urim and the Thuumim, have both the light of Doctrine, and Integrity of life. The servant of the Lord should be apt to teach, 2 Tim. 2. 24. which aptitude denotes both a proueness and a fitness: he should have both a will to communicate, and a faculty of communicating that which he knowes: This (sayes even the Councell of Trent) is the primary office of a Bishop; therefore Paul, being now at the door of death, adjures Timothy to preach the Gospel in every opportunity; with all importunity, 2 Tim. 4. 13. 2. to instruct first himself, and then others, 1 Tim. 4. 13, &c. Take heed to thy self, that thou compose thy behaviour according to the holy rule, and to thy Doctrine, that thou reach others. Blinde Watchmen, and dumb dogs are the worst of creatures, Isa. 56. 10. If a dog, whose office it is to watch, to bark, to affright thieves, be dumb, either by nature, or by some disease, or through a birbe, he is altogether useles. A covetous, proud, idle, luxurious Minister, hath his mouth stopp'd by the guilt of that very sin which he ought to reprove in others; for, how shall he bark against covetousness, who is himself worldly-minded? The sound of Aarons bells must be heard, when he went into the holy Place to minister, upon pain of death, Exod. 28. 33, 34, 35. A sadder complaint could not be made, than what a pious and learned man of this Nation makes, That this Church has lain under these 2 sore plagues, formerly many Ministers that were not Preachers, and now, many Preachers that are not Ministers.

3. Let a Pastor feed his Flock diligently and industriously: From us, my Brethren, from us, does our mother the Church expect relief; let us endeavour to the utmost of our power to administer the help she expects, to remove scandals, to heal divisions, to confute Heresies, to beat down wickedness, and to demolish the strong holds of Sathan. Let us be instant in season, when any fair opportunity offers it self, and out of season, when inconveniencies and dangers do seem to flesh and blood to block up the way: Diligence, as it is very conducible to many other ends, (for it makes rich, Prov. 10. 4. it inbrings to Preferment, Prov. 22. 29.) so, more especially, is it necessary the Ministry, in the Government and management of souls, which is an Art beyond all other Arts, and requires the greatest accomplishments, exercitation, unction, discretion, &c. For some are brutish and unteachable, some weak,

weak, some dull, some perverse, and many ungratefull.

Let us therefore watch and be hardy: let him that undertakes this Ministerial task, at once furnish himself with an Heroick and invincible spirit, for he shall be sure not to want exercises enough of his valour; For, there are none whom Sathan oftner tempteth, sharper assaulteth; there are none that suffer more of sorer shocks and tempests, than the holy and faithfull Captains of the Church, whom God hath designed to prisons, not Pallaces, to hatred and reproach in the world, not to the pleasures and delights of the world; according to that, Rom. 8. 36. For thy sake we are killed all the day long; And (which may the rather quicken us unto diligence) behold the indefatigable industry of Sathan, and his agents. In this decrepit age of the world, in these last and perillous times, they are hurried on with a desperate rage, the Devils seem possessed with some worse spirit than themselves, they turn every stone, improve the very dregs of their malice, and the height of their might, if by any means, by secret perswasions, or hostile invasions, they may drag any soul to hell with themselves: What weeds of Heresie do they plant? what seeds of discord do they sowe? what stones of stumbling do they lay? They compass sea and land to gain one Profelyte. Let us learn diligence of that great Peripatetick, the Devill, who compasseth the earth to ensnare souls. Therefore saies I. timer, exhorting the Bishops to diligence, if they will not follow the example of the Saints, the Prophets, the Apostles, of Christ Jesus himself, yet let them be provoked by the diligence of the Devil, who spares no pains, but carefully visits, instructs, and inciteth his servants and disciples. Nay, the Sea it self is restless, the Heavens are turned about with an uninterrupted motion, and the Sun returns with its unwearied light, from the same to the same goals continually: And do senseless bodies perfect so many motions so constantly, and shall the great lights of the Church lurk within their sockets, rust with idleness and dulness? Idleness is hatefull to God in every Calling, but especially in the Ministry. Cursed be he that doth this work of the Lord negligently.

If thou be a Minister of Christ, hoc age, minde this thing onely, be intent upon it, diligent in it. The life of a Minister is not an idle life, a delicate easie life; we are appointed to work in the Lords Vineyard, Numb. 8. 24. and not to play. It
unbecomes

unbecomes the Ministers of Christ then to be Carders, dicers, hunters, Merchants, Souldiers, Husbandmen, &c. For, if it be unfit that they should leave the preaching of the Word to serve tables, Act. 6. 2. much more unfit is it for them to neglect that work, to employ themselves in things quite of a different nature. There is hire due, but it is to the Labourers; there are some worthy of double honour, but it is they that labour still: This office which we have, is not an easie, but a laborious Task, which alwayes hath been accompanied with more care than credit, whose sweat is greater than its crop. Know (saith Austine) that the name of a Bishop is not a name of worth so much as work, of dignity so much as duty; and that those are Bishops, who had rather convert their people then command them. And therefore our Ministry is called upon a work, not an honour, an employment not enjoyment, a labour not a loytering, 1 Tim. 3. 1. 2 Tim. 4. 5. Act. 15. 38. 1 Cor. 3. 13. Eph. 4. 12. Phil. 1. 22. 1 Thes. 5. 13. 2. Neither is it an easie, but a laborious painfull work, not trivis, an ordinary labour, but utinis, a working even unto wearinets, Iohn 4. 38. 1 Cor. 3. 8. 2 Cor. 10. 15. Gal. 4. 11. 1 Thes. 3. 5. and 5. 12. 1 Tim. 5. 17. 3. It is called επισημο, that is, such a labour as hath much difficulty in it, 2 Cor. 11. 27. 1 Thes. 2. 9. 2 Thes. 3. 8. 4. It is called σπουδης, a care, and vehement study, 2 Cor. 7. 12. 5. επισημο, a distracting care, 2 Cor. 11. 28. Phil. 2. 20. 1 Tim. 3. 5. 6. It is such a work as requires the whole man; therefore we are commanded to give up our selves wholly to these things, and to continue in them, 1 Tim. 4. 15, 16. that is, Let these things be thy study, thy care, thy employment, thy practice, thy whole business. Therefore we are commanded to wait on our Ministry, Rom. 12. 7. and to give our selves continually to it, Act. 6. 4. and to fulfill it, Col. 4. 17. And hence we are called Shepherds, Souldiers, Labourers, as I said before.

Neither are we without examples of this diligence. Moses was faithfull in all Gods House, Heb. 3. 2. He was faithfull in delivering to the people the Commands of God, and governing them according to the minde and will of God. Samuel ceased not to exhort the people, and to pray for them, 1 Sam. 12. 23. Christ himself was not sometimes but dayly in the Synagogue, teaching, and in the Temple, Mat. 26. 55. Luke 19. 47. It was his custome so to do, Luke 4. 16. He spent the day in preaching, and the night in prayer, Luke 21. 37. See the indefatigable diligence diligence of the Apostle Paul, 2 Cor. 11. 23. to the 30. He was unwearied in his doing, and invincible in his suffering: How many Cities and Countreys did he enlighten with the Gospel? Ierusalem, Illyricum, Damascus, Antioch, Arabia, Seleucia, Cyprus, Pamphylia, Pisidia, Lycaonia, Syria, Cilicia, Phrygia, Galatia, Mysia, Tross, Achaia, Epyrus, and many others. It is reported of Farellus, that, being hindred by no difficulties, threatenings, reproaches, frighted with no persecutions, he gained to Christ the Mompelgardenses, the Aquileuses, the Lonsannenses, the Genevites, the Novocomenses. That which is reported of Calvin is diligence almost to a miracle; that he preach'd yearly Two hundred Eighty and six Sermons, read an hundred eighty and six Lectures, besides a multitude of Epistles which he wrote concerning sundry points in Divinity. How often do we meet with χρησιμότης, yesterday and to day in Chrysostome: although yesterday I spoke to you of this thing, yet I will not forget it to day (said he) nor will I fail to preach the same to morrow, and henceforth. The Ancient Fathers gave themselves wholly to their study; the least part of their life was spent in sleep, little in eating and drinking, and none at all in idleness, Origen lost no time in his life from his studies. Let us therefore bring under our bodies by watching, fasting, praying, pains-taking, mortification of the flesh, sustaining all persecutions, abstaining from all carnal pleasures, incentives to sin: There is eminent danger in indulging the flesh, 1 Cor. 9. 29. The time is short, the work great, the reward greatest of all. Contemplate of the Crown. And that we may be the better enabled to carry on the work, let us love; for nothing is impossible to love, it runs, it flies, it overcomes all difficulties, Cant. 8. 6, 7. 2 Cor. 5. 14. Gen. 29. 20. The Peter that loves Christ will feed, feed, feed, Iohn 21. 15, 16. feed by preaching, feed by practising, feed by printing: Zachary, when he could not speak, wrote: the voice of the pen is louder than the voice of the tongue: By this we can speak to them that are at a distance; nay, by this, being dead we yet speak.

4. Let a Pastor feed his people boldly, and freely. Let us undertake, undergoe, and accomplish our Ministry, with a confidence full of courage, with a courage devoid of fear. Let us commit our ship to the windes; It is necessary to sail, not so to live, as Cesar said heroically. They that fear the hated, or reproaches of the world, will soon faint, and flage? There is therefore requisite a boldness, and confidence of Spirit to contemn the contempt of the world. It is a prime vertue in a Minister to contemn, and to be able to be contemned. As it becomes a Commander to dye standing, so it behoves a Minister of Christ to die suffering and doing, sustaining, and abstaining, preaching and praying, and chearfully to undergoe all that can be laid upon him for the love of Christ. This is indeed to endure hardship, 2 Tim. 2. 3. to sustain crosses, to entertain injuries, and to retain a heart hardened against all the affronts of an enraged world; Like Christ, who set his face as a flint, because the Lord was his helper, Isa. 50. 7. And therefore he stood unmoved in the greatest storms, unconquered by the greatest rage; like a rock, against which the roaring waves do dash themselves, and go into foam; or like an Adamant, which breaks in pieces the stones and hammers which would break it. Let others fear and fly, let us contend and continue even unto death. Take Bias for an example, who being circumvented by Iphicrates the Athenian Captain, answered his Souldiers that ask'd him what they should do, What should ye do, but consult your own safety; and for my part I will dye fighting. Christ Iesus seems to bespeak us as Alexander bespoke Alexander, either fight or change thy name: Either carry on thy Ministry couragiously, and fulfill it constantly, or cease to be a Minister. It is the chief busines of a Minister, by spiritual weapons to demolish the strong holds of Sathan; but this will not be done by flatteries, and pleasant ditties; but by this boldness, and freeness of speech, with which we reprehend sharply, all errors, heresies, reigning finnes, especially conscience-wasting finnes in all men, high and low, great and small, without any respect of persons: we must be like clear and spotless glasses, which flatter no one, but represents all persons and things faithfully, as they are.

*No difference must be put 'twixt man and man;
Whether a Trojan, or a Tyrian.*

Nathan reprov'd King David, Elijah King Ahab, Elisha King Iehoram, Hosea the King's house, Amos King Ieroboam, John Baptist King Herod, Paul the Governour Felix, Chrysostome Eudoxus, Ambrose Theodosius the Emperour, whom he also excommunicated cared for violence done to the Thessalonians. Let us therefore boldly and freely tax, princely, popular, plausible sinnes, and so shall we be the children of the Prophets. Let us not be overcome with fear, nor fear to be overcome, either by might, or malice; but with an honest kinde of impudence speak out the truth, knowing that we are the messengers of God, who will act, direct, protect us, Isa. 42. 6. 50. 7. Jer. 1. 8. 18, 19. Jer. 28. throughout, especially 7. 11. Ezek. 3. 8, 9. God will not forsake his, in these last and worst times, whom he knowes unable to subsist or persist without him; Therefore he bids them not to be afraid though briars and thorns be with them; nay, though they dwell amongst scorpions, yet not to be afraid, Ezek. 2. 6. Every coward in Gods cause is a murderer, according to that, Mat. 23. 31. and of all cowards they are the most notorious that have God for their Captain; For, what need they be afraid of briars or thorns, who have the good will of him that dwelt in the bush?

5. Let a Pastor feed his people lovingly. Let all things be sweetned with love, 1 Cor. 16. 14. Let prayers, Sermons, reproofs, exhortations, all flow from this Fountain, Let all things be done with charity. Let the fire of zeal be kept burning with no other fuel than the oyl of compassion, Jer. 13. 17. Luke 19. 41. Gal. 4. 19. Thus the good Samaritane pours wine and oyl into the wounds, wine to sear, and oyl to supple. If there be need of severity, let us play the good Chirurgions, who when they apply Corrosives to prevent death by the wound, administer Cordials to prevent fainting by the Corrosives; and cheer up the patient, telling him it is onely in a tendency to his health. No one is fit indeed to reprove, but he that loves the party to be reprov'd, that so the reproof may be in compassion, not in passion, for his restitution, and not his ruine. The Apostle Paul therefore will have our sharpness tempered with mildness, and lenity, 2 Tim. 4. 2. reprove rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering. not being enraged at the dulness and undutifulness of our Auditors; Let us not offend any by a proud severity, or a supercilious gravity, but by mildness, and a sweet composure of manners and behaviours strive to win them, engage them to us, and make them our own, so shall we be able to have an Influence upon them, prevail with them, and live profitably and comfortably amongst them. Love me (said Austine) and say what you will, and do what you will. As an Oratour should not onely be qualified with prudence, but with benevolence also, so a Preacher: For (as the Philosopher observes) it contributes much to the creditableness of the Orator, if the Auditours be perswaded that he stands well affected to them. The gravity of a Minister should not be such as may affright men from coming before him, but such as compose them to reverence, that do come. Let us feed the Flock of Christ, not imperiously, as Lords, much less, rigidly, as Tyrants; but gravely, and mildely, as Fathers, with a fatherly benevolence and affection, desiring rather to be loved then feared. To this purpose speaks Laurentius, upon 1 Pet. 5. 3. Let every Pastor govern the Church providently, and prudently, not straining his power to its utmost rigour, but exercising a spirit of Lenity; not alwayes, in all things, towards all, using his utmost power and authority, but sometimes denying something of his own right, as Paul often did, 1 Cor. 9. 12. 2 Cor. 3. 2. 2 Thes. 3. 9. In a word, let us imitate Basil; who, for patience and constancy was an Adamant; for meekness a Loadstone.

6. Let a Pastour feed his flock zealously, not carelessly and coldly. Let us cry aloud, and lift up our voyce like a Trumpet, because we speak to dead men and stones: Let us pray the father of Light to touch our tongues with a coal from the Altar, that our lips may breath out nothing but what is pure and heavenly; that we may be Lamps, burning in zeal, faith, and Love, and shining in words and works; that we may be coals to our selves, and lamps to our people; such was John; Ioh. 5. 35. Wherefore Christ gave not fleshy, but fiery tongues to the Primitive Preachers, that they might preach zealously with them, and enflame the hearts of their hearers, Act. 2. 3. Excellent is that commendation of Luther, Whatever Luther speaks or writes pierces into the hearts, and leaves a wonderfull sting in the consciences of the hearers. Let us look unto our Saviour, whom zeal for Gods glory eat up. Let us imitate Elijah, qui zelando zelavit, who was very zealous for the Lord, all fire for God, whom God therefore sent for in a Fiery Chariot. Let us imitate Elisha. Isaiah, Jeremiah, (Ier. 20. 9. Iohn Baptist, Paul, Gal. 2. 11. Who all being enflamed with the fire of Love did burne the cold hearts of their hearers, hearers with zealous Discourses. Let our hearts, our tongues, our hands be all of a fire, that we may bring men from sin unto God. Even immoderate zeal is better than coldness in Gods cause, for it is an error of love, and not a love of error. Let us neglect nothing through idleness, or cowardise, which may conduce to the Salvation of the soules of our people. In a word, let us imitate the holy Seraphims (who have their name from fire) who burning in zeal, are alwayes in readinesse to execute every command of God ; having with them six wings, with which we may speedily move upward, downward, forward, backward, on this hand, on that hand, as God calls. So zealous was the Angel who had the everlasting Gospel to preach, who did not creep, nor walk, nor run, but fly with a swift wing through the midst of Heavens. Rev. 14. 16. See Vvard's Coal from the Altar: p. 390.

7. The word of God is to be dispensed purely, without any sophistical or superstitious comments. Let nothing be said of God, without Gods authority. In all doubts we must have recourse to the Law, and the Testimony, Isa. 8. 20. Moses returning from the Mount brought commands, not his own, but Gods, Exod. 19. 7, 8. The Apostles Commission runs not for them to teach humane Traditions, private Fancies, but to teach all things that Christ Iesus had commanded them, Mat. 28. 20. that is, either by himself, or by his Prophets. Therefore the Apostles themselves father their Doctrines upon Christ, 1 Cor. 11. 23. I have received of the Lord that which also I have delivered unto you: so 1 Thes. 4. 2. Ye know what Commandements we gave you by the Lord Iesus; As much as if he had said, The Commandements which I gave you are not mine but Christs, he is the Law-giver, I am onely his Messenger. So also 1 Pet. 4. 11. If any man speak, let him speak as the Oracles of God; Let him be a Teacher well instructed in the Word of God, and produce Oracles, as it were, out of Gods mouth. God cannot abide unlawfull Mixtures, that men should play the huxters with his Word, or plow with the ox of his Word, and the Ass of humane traditions together. God will not have men set their thresholds by his, and their posts by his posts, Ezek. 43. 8. What is the chaffe to the wheat? What are false Prophecies to the truth of God? Ier. 23. 28. Mens inventions are like light and empty chaffe, that has no substance in it, nor give any spirituall nourishment, but Gods Word is nutritive, like the purest wheat. We are called to be dispensers of the Ministries of God, not broachers of our own groundless conceptions; propagators of the old way and Doctrine, not coiners of a new. If an Angel from heaven should preach any other Gospell, let him be accursed, Gal. 1. 8. Reject therefore all new and feigned worships, and worship God after a way that is Gods.

8. The word of God is to be dispensed plainly. He is the best Preacher, not who scratcheth the ears, but who pricketh and pierceth the heart. Therefore does Paul profess, that he had rather speak five words in a known and intelligible Language, than five thousand in a strange and unknown tongue, 1 Cor. 14. 19. Let us preach a crucified Christ in a crucified stile; not with the persuasive words of mans wisdom, but in the demonstration of the spirit and power: not Rhetorically; but Apostolically, not so much finely, as soundly, not so curiously as carefully, not so admirably as intelligibly. Let our speech be simple without figures, plain without mysteries, pure without mixture; not curious, painted, affected, unnecessarily adorned: and so shall they be as fiery darts piercing the inmost conscience, and strong hammers breaking the hardest rock.

9. The Word of God is to be dispensed fully. For, so runs the Dispensers Commission, Mat. 28. 20. all things whatsoever, &c. The least particle of Gods Word is not fraudulently to be detained, but the whole counsel of God, without addition or diminution is to be declared, Act. 20. 27. And then, if any soul dye, it shall fall by its own hand, and not by ours, and its blood charged upon its own head, not ours, when we shall faithfully have discharged our duty without fraud or fallacy, in preaching, exhorting, warning, threatening, and explaining all things needfull to salvation. Let us imitate the noble spirited Micajah, who professed freely 1 King. 22. 14. that he would not speak what the flattering Courtiers would dictate to him, but what the Lord should command him.

10. Let a Pastor feed his flock, and dispense Gods Word sincerely, not designing his own profit or credit, but Gods glory, Phil. 4. 17. so that Christs authority, renown, and honour may be exalted; let us rejoyce, though our own be eclipsed eclipsed, nay extinguished, Ioh. 3. 30. Ambition was the first mother of Heresie; Let us therefore truly and sincerely preach the way of the Lord, and study to promote his glory. For them that honour him he will honour.

Above all, thou man of God, flee covetousness. The love of money distracts the minde, makes it unfit for its sacred employment, and shoulders out Hospitality and Charity. We are Gods Souldiers, now no Souldier entangleth himself with the affairs of this life, 2 Tim. 2. 4. They are unworthy the name of Christs Ministers, who gaze after the private goods, more than they desire the publick good of the Church, that make a trade of their sacred function, undertaking it not to bring soules to eternall life, but to bring themselves a temporall livelyhood. Covetousness is abominable in all men, but especially in Ministers, such therefore are called greedy doggs, Isa 56. 11. that prepare warr against every one that putteth not into their mouthes, Mic. 3. 5. that pollute the name of God amongst the people, for handfulls of barley, and pieces of bread, for any light gain, Ezek. 13. 19. This in Bishops is called usurpation, filthy gain, because it is gotten filthily, unworthily, flatteringly, not without staining and sullyiog the Ministeriall dignity. This the Apostle condemns again and again, 1 Tim. 3. 3. Tit. 1. 7. 11. 1 Pet. 5. 3. Who can but condemn the preposterous care of a Livelyhood, which some Ministers stand guilty of, who bestow more thoughts about breeding and feeding their cattell, managing their land, and such heterogeneous business, than in their studies, or the Promotion of Salvation of the peoples soules: whom you may fitly call Feeders of cattell, than Feeders of Christians, whilest they converse more in their stables than in their studies, as though they still looked for Christ in a manger. Not that it is absolutely unlawfull for a Minister of the Gospell (so it may be without prejudice to his employment and study) to have some moderate care of his temporall concerns, (as about his cattell, and land, or the like.) but chiefly let him take heed to himself, and to his Doctrine, and not be anxious or solicitous inordinately concerning a temporall substance; For the Lord is our inheritance, if we be faithfull Vine-dressers, and reapers for him, he will be vineyards, fields, and harvests unto us; Christ will suffer his sent-ones to want nothing, Luke 22. 25.

Wo to those drones then, that do not feed, but feed upon the flock; These the Prophet strikes through with a sharp dart, Ezek. 34. 2, 3. For it is our duty to seek the peace more than the Fleece of our Flocks, 2 Cor. 12. 14. I seek not yours but you: We were ordained fishers of men, not of moneys. It ought therefore to be our care (as Aquinas hath taught us) to promote, and encrease spiritual good in our people, rather than to procure and gather temporal goods for our selves. Mr. Rollock, that famous Scottish light, profess, that of all his Stipends he had not hoarded one penny; for that these worldly things were never a care to him. Calvin, that choice man (not to be named without an honourable Preface) never studied to enrich himself; for all his goods (together with his Library, sold at the best rate) were hardly worth Three hundred Crowns.

See Motives to a faithfull discharge of the Ministeriall calling in Bowls past. Evangel. lib. 3. c. 9.

Lastly, To all these things we must add Prayer, for our selves and for our Flocks; For, besides diligent Reading, Prayer and Temptations are requisite (saith Luther) to make a good Divine. Whilst the hand turns over the Book, let the eye turn toward God; and never forget to importune his directing, assisting, emboldening, enlarging spirit, from whom all thy sufficiencies are: And thou wilt finde, that to have Prayed well, is to have Studied well.

T H E E N D.

